Coal Industry Must Be Stabilized

The coal-carrying roads, despite the serious handicaps caused by the shopmen's strike, are making systematic efforts to rush fuel from mines to market. This indicates an alertness on the part of the railroad managers which cannot but be encouraging to the great mass of citizens who are worrying over the winter's fuel supply. It answers quite satisfactorily the assertions of strike leaders that the railroads, because of inadequate equipment, would fail the public in the fuel crisis.

It must be kept in mind, however, that no matter how well the coal-carrying roads do in this emergency, they cannot haul to market in a few weeks the tonnage of coal which usually comes in to the metropolis during the summer months. To expect them to do this would be to expect an impossibility, entirely disregarding the vital fact that even if the railroads had not been crippled by the shopmen's strike the supply of fuel at the mines has been far below normal because of the miners' strike.

A serious shortage in the quantity of coal available to the public this winter must be expected. This is demonstrated by so competent an authority as Mr. Sydney A. Hale, Editor of The Coal Trade Journal, who points out that even with the railroads furnishing 100 per cent. service and the miners working at top speed from now on, it would be physically impossible to make up the loss of tonnage during the twenty-three weeks the mines have been idle. In proof, Mr. Hale points out that the average yearly shipments of anthracite during the seven years ended last December were 70,369,571 gross tons, and that in only two years of that period have shipments exceeded the average. In 1917 the total shipments were 77,133,305 tons, and in 1918 the total was 76,749,919 tons. Shipments last year dropped to 67,617,713 tons, and the figures for the seven years represent an average monthly shipment of 5,864,130 tons. The highest monthly shipment on record was in March, 1918, and totalled 7,726,717 tons. Mr. Hale notes that if this rate could be maintained without break for the rest of the current coal year, which he regards as highly improbable if not obviously impossible, the shipments for the year would total 48,511,446 tons, or 21,858,125 tons less than the average for the last seven years, and 19,106,267 tons behind the last calendar year. It is obvious, therefore, that the emergency can be met only through the exercise of the greatest care in the use of this year's supply of coal, and by resorting to fuel substitutes wherever possible. In this connection some excellent suggestions have been made by the New York Building Managers and Owners' Association.

The application of war-time methods to regulate the distribution and selling-price of coal gives promise of as square a deal to coal consumers as could be hoped for in the circumstances. At the same time, these are emergency measures adopted to meet an emergency which ought not to have arisen. The plight of the public, worried over an inadequate supply of coal and with higher prices for what will be available harassing them, will put the strongest kind of public sentiment back of efforts to get the coal business on a permanent sane basis. Secretary Hoover summed up the situation accurately when he declared in a New York address early this week:

"When the public can be made the victim of infinite loss and suffering by such disagreements as we have witnessed; when the whole Nation can once every two years or less be pushed to the edge of the precipice of want and commercial collapse; when our public utilities, hospitals, schools, and kitchens are dependent upon short rations of non-union coal; when the Federal Government is forced to interfere with business and transportation to secure even this movement to essential points; when we are brought to consideration of price fixing against extortion in peace time; when hundreds of thousands of workers not only in the industry but outside of it are thrown into skimping and starving; when the Nation is made to suffer the shame of Herrin and rampant crime that has followed in train of strikes—then some examination of our industrial sanity is called for."

Secretary Hoover declared that the two problems which must be solved are: first, the employer-employee relationship; and second, the economic reorganization of the coal industry. As Mr. Hoover pointed out, the present relationship of employer and employee in the industry comprises a periodical national danger, because with national organization and national disagreement it means national stoppage. In the end, as he so pertinently declares, the issues of the struggle are consciously or unconsciously imposed by pinching the welfare of 99 per cent. of the public who are not parties to the quarrel. Through subsequent prices the public pays the bill and the public, therefore, has a right to a voice in this whole business.

"Surely fair play can be obtained," Mr. Hoover believes, "for employer and employee in our civilization without warring on the public. But it is not sufficient to shirk the issue by saying that there must be fair play. We must discover the machinery by which fair play can be delivered to all sides. We must have continuity of production in this essential commodity under righteous conditions of employment if we are to maintain the welfare of the nation at all."

Efforts in Congress to bring about the reform called for by Secretary Hoover are making progress. Such an inquiry into the mining and distribution of the nation's coal supply as is proposed should be completed before next Spring and remedies found which will prevent in future the constant recurrence of the disagreements between miners and operators which cost the public so dearly.

Great Building Boom in the South

The national building boom of 1922, which has made the current year an historic period in the annals of the construction industry, is showing a greater ratio of increase in the Southern States than in any other section of the country. An exhaustive survey of the building situation in sixteen Southern States was recently undertaken by G. L. Miller & Co., Inc., of Atlanta, and it shows a remarkable development in the South from January 1 to July 1 of this year.

The vast natural resources of the South have been responsible for a rapid expansion of its industries during the past few years and along with the development of these resources there has been a concentrated building movement, involving structural operations of every type and use, establishing a high record which undoubtedly will stand for some time to come.

Southern building activity during the first six months of 1922 shows a gain of nearly forty-three per cent. as compared with the total for the corresponding period of last year, and, according to the volume of new construction now being planned or already under contract but not started, the current year will close with all previous annual records broken. Building permits issued in eighty-four cities of the South for the first six months of 1922 indicate a total expenditure for new construction amounting to $215,531,428, and this figure does not include the vast amount of rural and semi-rural construction activity for which definite statistics have not yet been tabulated.

The outstanding characteristic of the South's building boom of 1922 is the extremely high quality of its new structures. The South is now building for beauty and permanence and many cities which in the past have lacked much in the way of new and modern structures may hereafter be justly proud of their masterpieces of architecture and construction, many of which will compare favorably with the best in other parts of the country where the structural development has not been so recent.

The ambitious building program of the South has been made possible because this section has obtained a good share of the prosperity brought about by the recent national commercial and industrial revival and because the relatively high interest rates have attracted capital for purposes of development. The records of the past few months, great as they are by comparison with previous figures, are likely to be surpassed in the future if the South lives up to its promise of continued active progress in its commercial, industrial and social life.

Widening West 57th St. and Upper Madison Avenue

ANOTHER very important step in the development of the uptown business section is seen in the announcement by Manhattan Borough President Miller that the contracts for the widening and repaving of West Fifty-seventh street between Fifth and Eighth avenues, and Madison avenue between Sixtieth and Seventy-second streets have been awarded. The work on the construction of the sewer in Fifty-seventh street between Fifth and Sixth avenues has already been started.

This improvement, which will provide a sixty-foot roadway in Fifty-seventh street, is the result of several years of effort on the part of The Fifth Avenue Association, representing the property-owners and business men of Fifty-seventh street, and represents a development that indicates the future growth of Fifty-seventh street as one of the most exclusive shopping streets in the city. The upward growth of the high-class Fifth avenue shopping district, combined with the favorable geographical location of Fifty-seventh street, makes it the logical continuation of Fifth avenue business development, which is halted at Sixtieth street by residential restrictions.

Charles J. Oppenheim, Jr., President of Jay-Thorpe, Inc., one of Fifty-seventh street's leading merchants, in speaking of the effect this widening will have on the development of this important crosstown thoroughfare, said: "This development, brought about through The Fifth Avenue Association, conclusively proves that the belief of a few of us, who a few years ago pinned our faith on the future of Fifty-seventh street, is now vindicated. This widening, combined with the widening of upper Madison avenue and several other widening projects in the immediate neighborhood, will do much to hasten the time when Fifty-seventh street will be the undisputed center of a beautiful shopping and business district. Real estate values have already started to climb and building activity is increasing.

"The widening of this street, combined with the ordinance procured by our association, barring illuminated signs and regulating other signs, will increase the value of Fifty-seventh street as the most northerly location for high-class shops. This street has for years been one of Fifth avenue's main traffic outlets. For westbound automobile traffic it is practically a continuation of the avenue itself, for the shopping and business portion of Fifth avenue is halted at Sixtieth street by residential restrictions. The business interests of Fifty-seventh street, represented by the Fifty-seventh Street Committee of The Fifth Avenue Association, realized a few years ago that the present improvement was vitally necessary to the development of our street. The widening proceedings were thereafter energetically pushed and finally approved by the Board of Estimate last year upon the association's application. Technical and other difficulties thereafter presented themselves, but, due to the splendid efforts of Borough President Miller, this needed improvement will soon be an accomplished fact."

Saving Depositors Outnumber Families in United States

AN average of more than one savings account for every family in the United States is indicated in partial data for the country compiled by the Savings Bank Division of the American Bankers' Association, revealing over 26,600,000 savings depositors in the sources of data covered.

"Complete data are practically impossible to obtain under present statistical conditions in regards to savings. But even with all figures lacking for the thousands of State-chartered banks which accept savings in Illinois, Missouri and twenty-three other States and the District of Columbia, and with only the mutual savings banks out of all the State banks and trust companies in Indiana, Ohio and New Jersey included, the number of savings accounts reported by the Federal and State supervisors of banks reached a total of 26,637,831 on June 30, 1921, which is the only date for which the statistics are available.

"In addition, there are millions of savings depositors in the non-reporting States above mentioned, which include not only the South with the exception of the Virginias, but also the great States between the Mississippi and the Rockies, except Minnesota. Furthermore, there are perhaps three million owners of time certificates of deposit which are used in place of savings accounts in rural sections, also the half-million patrons of the postal savings system, five million members of building and loan associations, and other millions who invest the proceeds of their thrift with life insurance, real estate mortgage and standard industrial and other corporations."

Cost and Efficiency of Fuel Oil in New York Buildings

First Publication of Figures Covering Installation Charges and Savings Effected in Labor, Ash Removal and Fuel

WITH the certainty of a shortage this winter of anthracite which has always been the chief reliance for generating steam in large apartment houses and office buildings for heating purposes, the operation of elevators and manufacture of electricity for lights, owners and managers of a large number of buildings in Manhattan have become interested in the question of whether the installation of oil burning plants may not solve some of the problems of successful building management which have bothered them during the last few years. The use of fuel oil has not made much headway in New York City because of its nearness to the anthracite fields and the seeming reluctance of some of the oil producers to develop the fuel oil business in this section. But in cities more remote from the mines oil has come to be the main reliance for fuel purposes in large buildings, and used to a considerable degree in smaller structures and even in private houses. As far back as 1906 when the San Francisco earthquake and fire occurred there were 118 fuel oil installations in large buildings in the burnt district, and at the present time 70 per cent. of the fuel used on the Pacific Coast is oil. In the last ten years many New England cities, less fortunately situated than New York with relation to the source from which coal comes, have turned to fuel oil because of the advantages it had in the important matters of cost and efficiency over anthracite and bituminous. There are hundreds of oil-burning plants in operation in Boston, including one providing heat, light and power for the 35 large buildings in the Harvard College group, and scores of plants in Providence, including that at Brown University with its numerous buildings.

While it has been conceded by building managers here that oil could be used successfully on the Pacific Coast and in New England, where the price of anthracite averages several dollars per ton higher than it does in this city, skepticism has prevailed as to the advantages to be derived from the installation of oil burning plants in New York. For a long time even the city officials were strongly opposed to its use and it is only recently that regulations guarding the installation and use of oil have been promulgated by the Board of Standards and Appeals. But several occurrences in the last few years set some building managers to thinking there might be advantage in the use of fuel oil over anthracite and strikes and storms have frequently made it an exceedingly difficult and costly proposition to obtain steam coal and the problem of ash removal, always vexatious and expensive, has also been complicated by the same causes.

Two years ago, before it was possible to obtain a permit for the burning of oil in steam boilers, the installation of the first large fuel oil burning plant was begun in an office building. A year later another plant was installed in a large hotel. Since then a number of buildings have changed over from the coal to oil, and a score of plants are under way. Recognizing the great interest recently developed in the question whether the substitution of oil for coal was practical and also the relative cost of these fuels in actual operation in New York buildings, THE RECORD AND GUIDE has made an investigation of the subject for the benefit of building managers and owners who are so vitally interested. Fortunately the managers of the buildings first installing fuel oil have kept accurate records of the cost of installation, and comparative cost of operation burning coal and oil. These figures are now available. Before giving them, there is presented a statement made to THE RECORD AND GUIDE by Robert Adamson, President of the Petroleum Heat and Power Company, of 511 Fifth Avenue, setting forth the advantages claimed for the use of oil over anthracite for steam purposes. Mr. Adamson's Company has installed a large number of plants on the Pacific Coast and in New England, and has in operation or under construction plants in a score of buildings in this city.

"The development of the system which has successfully invaded the field in which formerly steam was almost exclusively generated by anthracite," said Mr. Adamson, "is largely the result of the vast supply of cheap Mexican fuel oil which has become available at a time when the price of coal has advanced and the uncertainties of obtaining a regular supply owing to strikes and transportation difficulties have multiplied simultaneously. Oil burning and automatic regulation equipment has been developed. Engineers know that one gallon of Mexican fuel oil weighing 8.10 pounds contains as much heating energy as 12 pounds of coal, and requires about half the space to store. It produces more intense heat and the operating conditions are more elastic. Here are some of the facts about oil compared with coal. One pound of fuel oil contains 18,500 B. T. U.'s to 12,000 B. T. U.'s in a pound of average furnace coal; there is a saving in storage space of about 50 per cent.; oil is mechanically fed into the boilers and leaves no ashes, doing away with stoking and ash removal; oil burners are more efficient because combustion is more perfect and temperature steadier; owing to automatic regulation of oil consumption to correspond with the load, there is great saving in fuel, which saving is also added to because it is possible to start and shut off fires without the loss occasioned by banking; by the elimination of ashes and coal piles, the boiler rooms are free from dust and soot and, finally, oil is handled with greater ease and less noise, dust and dirt, and obstruction to sidewalks.

"By burning oil instead of coal it is possible to secure more perfect combustion and to better regulate the consumption of fuel to correspond to the fluctuations of the steam load. These are the prime requirements of a well regulated boiler-room. They are accomplished by the automatic delivery of oil into the furnace in the exact quantity required to maintain the desired steam pressure or water temperature and by the automatic regulation of the admission of air in correct proportions to the amount of oil burned. It is manifestly impossible to adjust manual stoking of coal with the nicety of automatic regulation of oil and air.

"We have successfully installed oil burners in hot-water systems, vapor systems and high and low pressure steam plants in which it is required to maintain pressures varying from 50 to 5,000 H. P. Oil burners can be installed under boilers using coal by the removal of the grate bars, relining furnace walls with fire brick, laying suitable fire brick floor and providing proper dampers for admission of air and burners for oil. The complete plant includes storage tank, oil pumps, oil heaters, strainers and other fittings, and automatic regulation.

"Insurance rates are the same as when coal is burned if the installation is made in accordance with the regulations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, with which the municipal regulations are in accord. There is no difficulty about labor because any intelligent man can operate oil burning boilers. The change from coal to oil can be made without interruption of operation provided there is more than one boiler and where one boiler can be spared for installation.

"The first cost of fuel is lower than coal; heat loss up the stack is less; fewer boilers are required; fire can be started or shut off instantly; the supply of fuel oil is now assured because there are enough tankers to take care of the demand and the local storage plants are sufficiently large."

After obtaining from Mr. Adamson this outline of the theoretical advantages of fuel oil over coal, the practical results of the use of oil in two of the largest buildings in the city was obtained. It is an interesting fact that the first oil burning plant was installed in one of New York's tallest and best known office structures, the Singer Building, over two years ago. Major A. J. Bleecker, the manager, became interested in fuel oil and prepared estimates for its installation which were submitted to the owners. The cost was high but the estimated savings were considerable, and Major Bleecker was authorized to proceed with the installation. The Babcock & Wilcox mechanical burner was adopted, including pumps and heaters; the tanks were installed by their manufacturers and the piping and boiler changes were made by firms doing this class of work, all under the supervision of Major Bleecker. At the inception of the work, Major Bleecker went to the city officials for a permit and the blue prints for the new plant were gone over systematically. The authorities decided that a permit for the operation of the plant could not be given until it was completed and the only encouragement the Singer Company had was in the assurance that if the plant when finally inspected fulfilled the requirements of the Board of Standards and Appeals a permit would be granted. This provision made the job somewhat of a gamble, but Major Bleecker had convinced the company that the plan was practical and would effect large economies in the management of the building and he was told to go ahead. Owing to the fact that this was the first job of its kind in the city and because the municipal regulations were not always clear or clearly understood, the work took more time and cost more than would be the case if it were to be done over again at the present time.

"We had five Babcock & Wilcox coal burning boilers 15 years old in our building when we started this job," said Major Bleecker. Of these we transformed four into oil burners, leaving one for coal in reserve. The work was started on January 1, 1920, and it took us five months to make the changes, so that we have been operating with oil over two years. We had to feel our way, but we were entirely successful and the results fully justify the decision to make the change.

"It cost about $50,000 to convert the four boilers into oil burners, including storage tanks, oil pumps, oil heaters, fire-brick linings for furnaces, automatic regulators for oil and air, gauges, recording instruments, etc. We renewed a few tubes in the old boilers but this would have been done anyway. The old grates were, of course, removed and a new face built in each furnace in which are the air dampers, oil burners, etc.

"There is little saving in storage room because the municipal regulations require the storage tanks to be enclosed in a vault with space enough between the walls of the vault and the sides of the tank to hold about one-half the contents of the tank if there should be leakage. The thick walls of this vault, together with the space mentioned, about doubles the actual storage room required for a given amount of oil, which offsets the advantage oil has over coal in bulk.

"In 1921 we evaporated 160,000,000 pounds of steam. Figuring No. 2 buckwheat coal of 12,000 B. T. U. to the pound at $6.75 per ton and 14-gravity fuel oil of 18,000 B. T. U. at four cents a gallon, eight pounds to the gallon, the actual cost of fuel was .0337 cents for a pound of coal to one-half cent for a pound of oil. Because of better combustion and greater efficiency of oil as represented by the difference between the 12,000 B. T. U. of coal and the 18,000 B. T. U. of oil, we saved 34 per cent. in the cost of fuel necessary to produce the 160,000,000 pounds of steam evaporated in twelve months.

"In addition to this saving fuel cost, we dispensed with the services of four coal passers at $30 each per week for 52 weeks. The plant is now operated by one engineer, one fireman and one oiler in each watch of eight hours.

"Another very considerable saving was effected by the elimination of ash removal as will be understood by the following figures:

"In 1917, burning coal, we had to pay 5 or 6 cents per can for the removal of 47,518 cans of ashes; in 1918 the disposal of 49,012 cans cost from 8 to 12 cents per can; in 1919, we had 44,993 cans at 8 to 12 cents, and in 1920 we paid as high as 20 cents per can during the months before the oil plant was installed. In other words ash removal cost us about $225 per month in 1917, around $400 per month in 1918 and 1919, and up to $700 or $800 per month in 1920. With the use of fuel oil there has been a clean saving of this amount.

In 1921 the average cost of generating 1000 pounds of steam was 43 cents.

"The cost of upkeep of the plant in the two years it has been in operation, including relining of furnaces and renewals of boiler tubes, has not been higher than with coal. While the actual cost of installation of the fuel oil plant was $50,000, we could now do the same work for $35,000 to $40,000. In the first 21 months of operation, we actually saved enough money to more than pay the entire cost of changing from coal to fuel oil. In addition to this we have effected savings of thousands of dollars in cost of operation of other machinery which probably would not have been done if we had continued the use of coal. Finally, the actual saving is greater than we anticipated and we are thoroughly satisfied with the results."

The second plant to be installed in this city is the one at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, which was put in by the Petroleum Heat and Power Company. It has been in operation eleven months and Mr. Chester Graham, the engineer in charge, declares it has effected great savings from the day it started up.

"Speaking in round numbers," said Mr. Graham, "we have saved $400 per month in ash removal; $1200 per month in labor and $500 per month in fuel. We had seven Franklin boilers of which five were converted for fuel oil. We use four of these, having one oil burner and two coal burners in reserve. But we have never had to fall back on the coal burners.

"Formerly we employed four ashmen at $4 per day each; four coal passers at $4.25 per day each; four firemen at $5 per day each, and four water tenders at $5.50 per day each. Now the plant is run by two men on each watch of eight hours, six men instead of sixteen men under the old system.

"One of the most important features of oil burning is the constant steam pressure, which is automatically regulated. There is no opening of the doors in the fire box, which cools off the boilers, and the minute the pressure runs up the supply of fuel is reduced and a saving effected. We always know exactly what we are getting out of the plant and exactly what it is costing. There is also to be considered, especially in hotel and office buildings, the ease of operation, cleanliness and elimination of noise made in delivery of coal and collection of ashes.

"There is no more danger of accident in the use of oil than in the use of coal. Fuel oil is very thick in its natural state and is not so volatile as kerosene or gasoline. It has to be heated to flow freely enough for delivery into our storage tanks and is raised to a higher temperature before it is forced into the fire box. But this operation is so carried on there is no danger of gas production and ample vents are provided for the storage tanks.

"We have had no interruption in deliveries of fuel oil and anticipate none. Of course the variation in the price of coal makes a difference in the saving effected at any given time. The figures I have given you are based on a price of $8.75 for No. 1 buckwheat on April 1, 1921, and $7.65 on April 1, 1922. You can figure out for yourself what the additional saving would be on fuel at the present prices of coal.

"It cost us about $32,000 to $33,000 to transform our plant to use fuel oil. With a saving on fuel, labor and ash removal of say $2,100 per month on the average, we paid the cost of alteration in less than sixteen months. Our saving per year runs about $25,000, which is very satisfactory."

Some of the buildings in which fuel oil plants have been installed, or are being installed, are the Metropolitan Life Building, 903 Park Avenue, Wanamaker's, Vincent Building, Columbia University, Adolph Gobel, Inc., Hearn's, John F. Trommer, Inc., Ritz-Carlton, Rohe Brothers, Park Avenue Hotel, Fleischman's, Knickerbocker Building, People's Realty Building, Mount Sinai Hospital, National Printing & Engraving Co., American Lithograph Company, 43 Exchange Place, and others.

ACCORDING to the figures prepared from income tax reports, 30 per cent. of all income is derived from salaries and wages; 24 per cent. is from business operations and 23 per cent. from dividends.

The first three divisions—dividends, wages and salaries and business operations, make up 77 per cent. of the average American income.

Mortgage Money Now in Plentiful Supply at 5½ Per Cent.

Lending Institutions Give Reasons for Easier Rates But Believe Further Reductions Unlikely Except in Special Cases

IN view of the easier rates for money now prevailing in the mortgage market THE RECORD AND GUIDE has made inquiry among some of the principal lending institutions as to the supply of money, the reasons for the reduction in interest charges and the possibilities of the market for the immediate future. Responses to this request for information have been received from the following financial leaders:

JOHN J. PULLEYN, PRESIDENT OF THE EMIGRANT INDUSTRIAL SAVINGS BANK: "I am not aware of recent new sources of supply of mortgage money, so it cannot be said that enlarged supply has anything to do with the lending rate of five and five and one-half per cent. that has prevailed in some quarters recently. There is no extensive lending by insurance companies except by the Metropolitan and Prudential. The extension of the powers of the Lockwood Investigating Committee until the spring of 1923 has not, I take it, been conducive to the lending of money here by large institutions aside from savings banks. The extension of time has resulted in many appeals for loans from various other states to insurance companies here. The latter see in other states opportunities for investment that lack inquisitorial features and they are finding easily a fruitful field of investment. Even the Metropolitan and the Prudential are lending extensively on divers kinds of real estate in other states than New York. Of course, the Metropolitan is indulgent to this state, too.

"The main reason for the reduction of the interest rate is competition that has prevailed for some time past between savings banks and some other institutions for good mortgage loans. The institution of which I am the head is not trying any forcing process to make loans. It will always do business at the prevailing rates of interest. Deposits here up to the first of July and since show a healthy state of affairs and we have all the mortgage business we can handle and we are handling a good deal. We are lending money at five and one-half per cent in some instances and six per cent in others.

"That there is no vast amount of new mortgage money is proven by the fact that there are numerous large applications for loans going begging in this town. They are for sums ranging from $100,000 and upwards. The income tax still keeps hundreds of large individual lenders on mortgage of the past from coming back into the market. They are finding their field among tax exempt securities, as they have for a long time. It looks as if they will stand put where they are.

"Some very large loans are being made at five per cent per annum, but few if any medium sized and small loans are being made at that rate. I do not look for any immediate marked increase in the volume of mortgage money. Consequently I do not anticipate any general five per cent rate. Competition is the only thing that has brought it down to five and one-half per cent in some cases. This rate is apt to be with us in some instances for some time to come.

"I cannot refrain from pointing out at this time that the attitude of savings banks two years ago toward loans on new buildings, based on excessive values then prevailing, is being justified by time. Many one- and two-family houses and multi-family houses have not been selling at the prices sought for them, especially outside of Manhattan as regards the latter. It is well that the banks in discussion acted conservatively then. The Bronx, it strikes me, has all the apartment houses it needs for awhile. There seems to be plenty of one- and two-family houses in Queens. The Hunts Point section of the Bronx especially has plenty of houses."

WILLIAM A. WHITE & SONS: "The cause of the reduced rate for mortgage money is that many financial institutions during the war and subsequently bought choice securities considerably below par, especially Liberty Bonds. These have all appreciated greatly, with the result that they were sold at good profit. Many banks and insurance companies that held such securities have for some time had more money than they know what to do with comfortably and the result is that the real estate mortgage field is being turned to more strongly for investment. With money more abundant there is competition among big holders to place it well. This year is the best mortgage money year since 1912. And the signs are that mortgage money will be easier than it was for a good while to come. High class general securities have gone up so high that the temptation to buy them is not so strong as it was when they were lower. We do not look for any lower rate than five per cent as a general thing. Here and there a few large loans may be made at four and one-half per cent. Another outstanding fact is that savings bank deposits are healthy and those institutions are in a steady receptive mood toward mortgage loans."

RANDALL SALISBURY, OF THE TITLE GUARANTEE & TRUST COMPANY: "The mortgage market now is most certainly lenient to the borrower. The high price of good securities has driven considerable money made in recent years into the mortgage market. There is much money at five and one-half per cent per annum. I even expect to see the rate fall from six per cent in Brooklyn, which borough has not been so quick to yield to the lower rate. There would be more general building done and therefore much more money loaned if labor problems were solved. That is the untoward situation now. If money was put out on general construction maybe the mortgage rate would drop further. Anyway, the mortgage situation has greatly improved. It is the best mortgage market in a long time."

EDWARD P. BLAKE, OF LAWRENCE, BLAKE & JEWELL: "During the summer the mortgage market has perceptibly broadened and we now feel that the owners of real estate in New York City can be assured of a reasonably large volume of money for their operations during the fall and winter.

"As usual in a market of this type the lenders vary in their requirements. Some of them feel that six per cent interest is a fair return, while many will accept loans at five and one-half per cent, and a few of them have taken loans from us at five per cent. The general consensus of opinion seems to us to be that the average rate is five and one-half per cent, and this rate will probably prevail for some time. I believe that a few choice loans may be obtained at five per cent interest on centrally located business properties in either the financial or the Fifth avenue retail shopping districts in Manhattan. The hope of a lower rate is not justified by the facts. The income tax situation still keeps large individual lenders and estates away from mortgage investments. The lenders that take loans and sell them guaranteed will probably not undertake to sell mortgages guaranteed to net less than five per cent. Practically all of the loans in the boroughs of Queens, Richmond and Brooklyn are at six per cent and many of those in the Bronx have been made at that rate. Recently a number of Bronx loans have been made at five and one-half per cent where the property is located on the main avenues. The holders of many important properties facing the question of the extension of their maturing mortgages are keenly anxious to know whether to renew their loans for the next five years at current rates or to hold off action in the hope of a four and one-half per cent market within the next few months.

"In a time of such changing conditions as we are now going through, prophecy is dangerous and no one can tell what the rate will be after January 1."

CHARLES F. NOYES: "Mortgage money is being more freely offered today than since 1914. Rates have, generally speaking, come down from six per cent to five and one-half per cent, and even at this lower rate the bond and mortgage

Propose Plan to Conserve Winter's Coal Supply

Building Managers and Owners Association and Real Estate Board Make Suggestions for Systematic Savings in Office and Apartment Buildings

THE Fuel Committee of the Building Managers and Owners' Association and the Committees on Apartments and Tenements and Office and Commercial Buildings of the Real Estate Board of New York on August 21 held a joint meeting at which the subject of the conservation of coal was discussed. The committee prepared a draft of regulations which was approved and forwarded to the State Fuel Commission in the form of a suggestion as to the most effective way in which to conserve the coal supply. The suggested regulations follow:

OFFICE BUILDINGS

No heat, light, power or elevator service shall be furnished from 7 P. M. to 6 A. M., or on Sundays or on legal or State holidays.

No live steam is to be used for hot water heating from May 1 to October 1, except for the purpose of cleaning the building.

Cut down elevator service at least 25 per cent. from maximum during business hours.

Cut down all electric lighting in offices, hallways, etc., at least 25 per cent. from maximum.

No heat shall be furnished from May 1 to October 1.

LOFTS AND MERCANTILE BUILDINGS

In stores, lofts and mercantile buildings, no live steam for heating or for commercial purposes shall be used between the hours of 6:30 P. M. and 6:30 A. M.

No live steam shall be used for heating or commercial purposes on Sundays or holidays.

No heat shall be furnished from May 1 to October 1.

Cut down the use of commercial steam by shutting off the valves to apparatus that is not in use.

Throw off all belts of machinery not in use.

APARTMENTS AND DWELLINGS

Discontinue all use of live steam for vacuum cleaners, laundry driers and tubs.

All outside lighting to be discontinued except lights necessary for public safety.

Temperature of hot water at tank shall not exceed 150 degrees Fahrenheit.

Cut down all electric lighting in apparatus and hallways, etc., at least 25 per cent. from maximum.

Cut off the supply of heat at source between the hours of 10 P. M. and 6 A. M.

No heat shall be furnished from May 1 to October 1, and then only if outside temperature is below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

Radiators near open windows must be shut off.

GENERAL

Do not have the temperature in any space above 68 degrees Fahrenheit.

Shut off all lights in sunlit areas and in show windows during daylight hours.

The above recommendations concerning heating to apply to all classes of buildings when the thermometer is 10 degrees above zero outside. When the temperature is lower, sufficient heat may be provided for the protection of pipes.

The committee also suggested that the strictest measures of economy be instituted by all users of coal, and to this end it made the following recommendations:

FUEL CONSERVATION IN POWER PLANT

Weigh the coal and record the amount of coal used on each watch or shift.

Measure the feed water and see that same is properly heated.

Make provision for the correct supply of air to the fuel and see that the draft is properly controlled.

Keep boiler surface clean on the inside and outside and see that the boiler is regularly blown out.

Keep the grates in good repair and see that the settings and breechings and access doors are kept free from air leakage and that the boiler surface, which wastes heat, be covered with proper insulation.

That the surfaces of the steam piping, the drums and feed water heaters are properly covered with insulated material to prevent any loss of radiation.

Stop all steam leaks and keep the steam traps in good repair to prevent steam blowing through.

Utilize exhaust steam wherever possible to the exclusion of direct steam from the boilers.

Trap all clean returns back to your feed water tank.

Place some competent man in your plant to be detailed for the work of fuel conservation in both the boiler and the engine room.

STEAM GRADES OF ANTHRACITE IN HEATING FURNACES

No. 1 buckwheat, and even small sizes of anthracite coal, can be burned in the ordinary furnace with shaking and dumping grates, if a bed of ashes is allowed to accumulate under the coal, providing there is sufficient draft.

The average furnace, for at least 60 per cent. of the time, operates below its capacity and during such times steam sizes of coal will supply the necessary amount of heat.

The smaller sizes of anthracite can be used at night to bank fires, and on warm days, thus saving the larger sizes for use in severe cold weather.

At night, after fire is shaken down and some of the larger coal put on, the fire can be banked for the night by shoveling on a top dressing of No. 1 buckwheat.

In the morning, the furnace should be shaken down as usual and fired with some of the large coal.

In mild weather, after the fire has begun to burn well, it can be checked or banked by using a quantity of buckwheat as a top dressing.

The two sizes of coal should never be mixed, but kept in separate bins. The buckwheat should be used only as a top dressing.

MIXTURE OF STEAM GRADES OF ANTHRACITE WITH SEMI-BITUMINOUS IN STEAM PLANTS

If the furnace equipment is designed for pea coal or larger sizes of anthracite, steam sizes of anthracite may be used by mixing a small amount of semi-bituminous coal with No. 1 buckwheat or smaller to act as a binder to hold the fire on the grates, and also to increase the calorific value. The amount necessary to bind the fuel varies from 5 to 10 per cent. This mixture can be burned without smoke. Smaller sizes of anthracite may require as much as 20 per cent. of semi-bituminous.

It is often advisable, when untrained firemen are handling these mixtures, to have a small pile of semi-bituminous on the boiler room floor where the men can get it to fill holes or thin spots that may develop in the fire.

Proper mixing is most essential. It may be done either by delivering in wheelbarrow alternate and predetermined portions of the two kinds of coal, and then mixing by not less than two turn-overs with a shovel before dumping in front of the furnace; or on a larger scale by a similar delivery of carload lots to the coal tipple.

Administrator Woodin announced the following appointments as district fuel administrators: Alfred E. Cluett, Troy; Clarence B. Kilmer, Saratoga Springs; Samuel J. Koerbel, Binghamton, and Arthur W. Lawrence of Bronxville for the Ninth District.

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

A $3,500,000 Deal Led the Trading, While Large Mercantile and Other Sales Reflected a Revival of General Activity

THE real estate market, this week, showed a tendency to recover from summer lethargy. The sales of more than ordinary character comprised mostly good mercantile buildings, many of them being north of Fourteenth street. The premier sale, however, was that of the new 19-story hotel in course of construction on the former site of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament at the southeast corner of Broadway and Seventy-first street. An Atlantic City hotel owner was the buyer. The price was about $3,500,000. The strong mercantile sales were an 11-story loft building in West Seventeenth street; a 12-story loft building in East Thirty-second street, and some smaller mercantile buildings on the West Side, as well as some good sized business taxpayers in the upper reaches of the city. Several dwelling properties on Lexington avenue were bought for the purpose of remodelling them into apartments and stores. Lexington avenue properties, like Third avenue holdings, form a steadily growing real estate asset. These avenues are feeling the impulse of the Lexington avenue rapid transit route, one about as much as the other. Second avenue, also, was an important factor in the market. South of Fourteenth street, a Broadway loft building found a new owner, while an Avenue C corner was bought by a well known bank for a branch of its business. The Dairymen's League bought a well-known East Side milk station, and a lower Sixth avenue parcel was sold.

Apartment houses in various parts of uptown changed hands, notably the West Point apartment house on a Riverside Drive corner, a large one on a Fort Washington avenue corner and another on an Audubon avenue corner. All kinds of tenement properties throughout the city were in brisk demand. Sales of dwellings formed an interesting feature also. There was a diversity of dealing in the Bronx. Jacob Ruppert sold a large unimproved corner plot there for improvement with a business building, while various other unimproved and improved parcels found new owners. Brooklyn is at this time witnessing wide dealing in all kinds of properties and large vacant plots there are being bought for improvement.

A transaction of interest was that of the sale of the lease of the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-sixth street by a well known florist to a mercantile firm. The florist retains some space under the original lease for his uses which, in the light of the sale of the bulk of the lease, gives him practically free rent for the rest of the term. Some Columbia University leaseholds in the Fifth avenue district passed to new hands.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 51, as against 48 last week and 78 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 15 as compared with 17 last week and 27 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 36, as compared with 31 last week and 51 a year ago.

From the Bronx 32 sales at private contract were reported, as against 27 last week and 36 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 370.

West Point Apartments Bought

Negotiations are under way for the sale of the 6-story elevator apartment house southeast corner of Riverside dr and 135th st, known as the West Point, to a newly formed company, represented by C. S. M. First, attorney. The brokers in the deal are O. D. & H. V. Dike.

The West Point, which covers a plot with a drive frontage of 179.11x24.4x149.11x119.4x irregular, is being sold by the 575 Riverside Drive Co., which acquired it in September, 1920, from the Point View Corporation.

$3,500,000 Sale on the Plans

Slawson & Hobbs sold the new 19-story hotel being erected at the southeast corner of Broadway and 71st St., on plot 112 feet on Broadway by 172 feet on 71st St., with a rear line on the east of 100 feet, and on the south of 121 feet.

The seller is the George Dose Engineering Co., Inc., and the buyer is the Alamac Hotel Co., Allah Latz, president, and Harry Latz, secretary, who operates the large and exclusive hotels known as the Alamac at Atlantic City, N. J., and the Alamac-in-the-Mountains, at Lake Hopatcong, N. J.

The house will be the last word in hotel construction, being designed by Maynicke & Franke, architects, and containing many new and novel features, large rooms, ample closets, liberal bathrooms, etc. The building has a facade of face brick, trimmed with limestone on a granite base, the design of which will be made to harmonize with the surrounding high class buildings, and will be of the latest type of absolute fireproof construction. It will contain approximately 540 guest rooms, arranged in suites of one and two rooms and bath, which arrangement will have the flexibility of readily combining many of these suites into larger units. Six elevators will provide rapid service to all floors. The Broadway front will be devoted entirely to stores on the ground floor. There will be ample facilities for a large lobby, adequate lounge rooms, restaurants and kitchen on the ground floor and basement, and a roof garden on the top floor. It will be ready for occupancy July 1, 1923.

The land was bought by the builders from the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, who owned it for nearly 40 years, and who bought it from the late E. S. Higgins, carpet manufacturer. Theodore W. Schimpf, of Atlantic City, N. J., represented the buyer as attorney, and Albert Edward Maves, of New York, represented the seller in a like capacity.

Bank Buys Ave. C Corner

Real Estate Management Co. sold for the J. J. McComb estate the 3-story and basement stone business building northeast corner Av C and 7th st on a plot 48.9x35.3 to the Public National Bank. The building will be altered early next spring and used by the bank as a branch office.

Acker, Merrill Sell Building

Leopold & Herbert Weil sold for the Acker, Merrill and Condit Co. 132-136 West 43d st, to the M. Goldstein Corporation. The selling company leased this property in 1921 to the St. Regis Restaurant Co. for 21 years, and the lessees rebuilt the structure into an 8-story office building, 62.6x100.5. The property was held for $500,000 and was sold for very close to that price. The sale is recorded.

Sons of Revolution Sell

Julius Tishman & Sons, Inc., purchased from the Sons of the Revolution 146 and 148 West 55th st, and from Watland Co., Inc., 150 and 152 West 55th st, making a total plotage of 100x100, upon which site they will erect a 9-story apartment house, containing 54 apartments of 3 and 4 rooms and bath, to be ready for occupancy about June 1, 1923.

Plans are now being prepared by Schwartz & Gross, architects, and it is estimated that the total cost involved in the improvements is $1,000,000.

Operator Resells to Investor

Maurice Westheim resold for the Markham Realty Corporation, Clarence W. BUILDING SECTION

Southern States at Peak of Historic Building Boom

Exhaustive Survey by G. L. Miller & Co., Inc., Shows Sixteen States Nearly 43 Per Cent. Ahead of Last Year's Construction Totals

NATIONAL construction records for 1922 indicate that the current year will pass into history as the greatest building period the United States has ever experienced. From all parts of the country the reports of the first six months have shown new high records established for activity in the construction field and, according to the number of plans being prepared for new projects, there is every likelihood that the latter half of the year will compare favorably with that portion which is now history.

The South, when its construction statistics for this year are compared with the figures for previous years, is showing a rate of progress in building and engineering construction considerably in advance of the improvement in any other section of the country. For many years past the major portion of the construction of the United States has been confined to the Central Atlantic and Mid-Western States, and even today these districts are still the most active when value and volume of construction are being considered. The Southern States as a group, however, have achieved a high position during the past year for their ratio of increase as compared with other districts.

According to a survey of building in sixteen Southern States during the first half of 1922, recently completed by G. L. Miller & Co., Inc., of Atlanta, the total value of contracts awarded and permits issued amounted to nearly $250,000,000. This large total indicates a gain of nearly 43 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1921. By the end of this year it is anticipated the total for construction will reach nearly half a billion dollars. The survey shows that in eighty-four cities of sixteen Southern States where comparative building figures are available $215,531,428 of new construction was commenced during the first half of this year, representing a gain of $64,563,723 over the total for the corresponding period of the previous year.

A close study of the statistics tabulated by G. L. Miller & Co. shows that the great bulk of the structures now being erected in the South are of the most modern type. There are sky-scraper office buildings, as high as thirty-one stories; large hotels and apartments, many of which cost from $500,000 to $3,000,000 and which are models of comfort and contain every modern convenience; public buildings befitting progressive communities, and schools which are both beautiful and spacious and complete in their equipment. In addition, the construction program of 1922 includes churches, theatres and other community structures, all of which are permanent in character and indicative of exceptional progress in the mode of living and business enterprise in that section of the country.

The basis of this survey was very broad and included every source of digested information which could be obtained, and, in addition, the Chambers of Commerce of the larger cities and towns have contributed much valuable statistical data.

One of the outstanding facts shown by this survey is that those states which in the past have been least developed are now at the forefront of building progress. Florida, which forty years ago was scarcely less than a continuous stretch of swamps and barren acres, shows the way with an expenditure of $52.72 for each person living in the state. It is also interesting to note that while Florida leads the others in per capita building, it shows practically no increase over the previous January to June period, which indicates that the unusual building program has been in effect for some time past.

While practically all Southern industry has been favored during the first half of this year, the progress in those which depend largely upon construction has been particularly noteworthy. The steel plants of the Birmingham district have improved steadily. Where five furnaces were in operation on July 1, 1921, there are now twenty-three in blast. Plants are making additions rapidly. Millions of dollars are being expended in increasing the facilities for steel making.

The cement industry of the Tennessee valley and further south has been operating at maximum capacity to keep pace with the activity in building and road construction. Important additions to cement manufacturing facilities are being made as rapidly as possible. A million-dollar plant is now being erected on the outskirts of Chattanooga; the Lehigh Portland Cement Company has projected a plant near Birmingham at a cost of $3,000,000, while another company has a million-dollar operation under advisement.

The building boom also has brought the lumber industry of the gulf section back to prosperity and all plants are turning out lumber at the full capacity of their men and machines.

The record of building development in the larger cities of the South presents an unusually interesting comment on the growth and progress of Southern municipalities at the present time. Practically every center is providing new and larger accommodations for its commercial and industrial life and the number of new homes and apartments attests a rapidly-expanding population.

Baltimore, while being one of the few cities to show a decrease from its 1921 record, confidently expects to exceed last year's figures by December 31. During the first half of the current year several large industrial plants were erected and a number of apartment-house projects of the highest type, three hospitals, two schools, an office building, a theatre and a number of important miscellaneous structures made up the building program. The value of contracts begun or completed during the period totaled $21,915,000, while the new projects reported planning amounted to $33,220,000. Among the latter are two office buildings, two modern hotels and several other important structures.

Washington has experienced the greatest building year in the history of the National Capital. Public buildings have had a large share in the new development, but it is significant that the major part of the building has been of a private nature. The Hotel President, costing about $1,500,000, was started, and during the next few weeks ground will be broken for the Ritz Hotel, which will cost approximately $6,000,000 and which has been planned on a scale of magnificence never before approached.

Richmond is also experiencing a building year of unusual activity. The permits for the first six months are almost as large as for the entire year 1921. The two outstanding contracts, each representing a million-dollar investment, are an office building for the Richmond Trust Company and a department store for Miller & Rhodes. The Richmond building includes modern apartment-house projects, numerous handsome private residences, schools, churches, theatres, etc.

The city of Norfolk is only a step behind Richmond and from all accounts the remainder of the year will surpass the record of the first six months. The active construction includes a modern twelve-story office and banking building for the National Bank of Commerce, a handsome edifice for the Third Christian Church, several large apartments and numerous shops, warehouses and other industrial and commercial buildings.

Atlanta, while maintaining a monthly record in excess of a million dollars for each of the first six months, has not had any unusually large individual projects, but this city has had an unprecedented amount of home building. The permits for the half-year totalled $8,618,673 as compared with $5,425,022 for the same period one year ago. The permits issued in Savannah for the first half of this year amounted to $1,437,400 as compared with $795,090 for the corresponding half of 1921.

Birmingham permits for 1922 amounted to a total of $3,765,655, a slight gain over last year, but a large number of industrial projects are scheduled for the remainder of this year which will undoubtedly establish a new high record for that city.

The construction totals for both Jacksonville and St. Petersburg are approximately the same for this year as for the first half of 1921, but the totals for last year were relatively much higher in Florida than they were in any of the other Southern states.

The construction totals for the first half of this year show that building in Louisville is nearly three times more active than it was one year ago. The 1922 total provides for construction valued at $9,323,770, as compared with $3,824,050 for last year. New Orleans records show a gain of about $1,300,000 in 1922, and it is estimated that the total for the entire year will be approximately $3,000,000 ahead of last year.

Money for these improvements has been available without great difficulty, and that is given as the most potent reason for the widespread development of the past year. While the rates on money for private development have attracted Northern capital strongly, it has been found that the South is absorbing a great proportion of its own public improvement bonds. During the first six months of 1922 nearly $185,000,000 of such bonds were issued by sixteen Southern States. Road paving and bridge bonds were first in value, with a total of $71,166,150 for 277 issues.

In commenting on the building boom the South has experienced this year, Mr. G. L. Miller, president of G. L. Miller & Co., Inc., says:

"The South is forging ahead. It is awake to its opportunities. It now realizes its vast potential resources—resources that are incalculable in variety and extent. What is most significant of all, it has greatly increased capital with which to develop them and a faith in the future that is rapidly attracting more capital and more development."

companies are making loans and reselling on a five per cent basis. Some of our big banks are offering five per cent money where the security is particularly appealing.

"The year 1921 was one of easy money for mortgages. While a six per cent rate was generally maintained, yet there was never a time in recent years when there was more money for real estate, and this applied not only to housing properties but also to commercial buildings. Since January 1, 1922, $230,646,443 has been loaned on mortgage, as against $173,948,147 for the same period in 1921, and mortgagees holding $136,645,673 in loans have extended them during this period, as against extensions aggregating $119,222,623 a year ago. In other words, approximately $74,000,000 more money has been placed on real estate during the first eight months of this year than during the first eight months of 1921.

"The mortgage broker who today makes representations that he has an unlimited amount of money to loan on mortgage at from five to six per cent interest is, generally speaking, by the record. Every office maintaining a mortgage department can make this representation, because we all have money in abundance for desirable applications and it is easier today to place a loan running from one million to three million dollars on well-selected New York City real estate than it ordinarily is to obtain even small amounts. In view of the business situation, the large amount of money on hand in all banks and trust companies, and the continued lowering of interest rates, we cannot help but expect that money will command a rate of interest not exceeding five and one-half per cent during the next six months, and after the first of the year we think the rate will be as low as five per cent for prime New York City mortgages. Our opinion in regard to five per cent money is emphasized by the fact that for the first time in many years prime municipal and state bonds are being sold considerably less than on a four per cent basis and in many cases on a basis as low as 3.75 per cent."

WILLIAM M. GREVE, VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE PRUDENCE-BONDS CORPORATION: "The Prudence-Bonds Corporation is in receipt of many communications from prominent bankers and other financiers congratulating the company on its reading of 'the signs of the times' and commending our initiative in the prompt readjustment of the interest rate to five and one-half per cent on our guaranteed first mortgage bonds. While some first mortgage bonds are still made at higher rate, they are not such as the Prudence Company will guarantee. One trust company with several branches purchased outright $1,000,000 of Prudence-Bonds to be redistributed among its own customers.

"As I have always maintained, labor, industry, real estate and money are governed by the universal law of supply and demand. This law cannot be changed by artificial means. Neither labor strikes nor collective bargaining can add one iota to the essential value of labor. If the labor of this country were monopolized by 5,000,000 men, organized into unions, and there were 5,000,000 non-union men idle, the essential value of the labor employed would be but one-half what it would be if all were employed.

"Interference by legislation, or by mob force, with the natural workings of the law of supply and demand only brings about unnatural conditions for which a penalty must be paid sooner or later. This, I think, has been amply demonstrated in the Government war-embargo on housing construction and in rent legislation, resulting in a one-sided building production—too much of a kind for the well-to-do and not enough of a kind for the poorer classes—presenting an anomalous condition of rent-strained tenants all along the line and of impending losses to apartment house owners as 'To Let' signs are rapidly multiplying.

"It is the same with money. When money becomes idle, it becomes plentiful; also cheap. But it only becomes idle and plentiful and cheap when production is checked or stopped, and there is no 'full-steam-ahead' demand for it in a quickened and expanding business progression. Had things, the world over, been allowed to readjust themselves in a natural way after the war there would now be no need to pick out bolts and monkey-wrenches hurled into the machinery. But with the manifold crises in Europe—the deadlock in Russia, the near-insolvency of Germany, the decadence of Austria, the civil war in Ireland, and the condition of affairs in our own country, with a paralyzed and comatose Congress, a great coal strike, and now the railroad workers' strike—all consuming wealth in idleness, destroying commodity rather than producing it—it was inevitable that money, which is only needed for activity and progression, should also become more and more inactive, and hence more plentiful and cheap.

"It did not need a prophet to see how things were going. Anyone with a fair business training and grasp and three grains of common sense would know when to get in under cover. So we figured that the margin of absolute safety for any guaranteed first mortgage bond, based upon most conservatively appraised realty, could not exceed five and one-half per cent."

Local Building Industry Anticipates Busy Autumn Season

Figures on Recent Contract Commitments, Tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company, Show Large Volume of New Construction Ready to Start

CONSTRUCTION activity in the local territory is holding up well despite the serious material shortages and the approach of the autumn. What slight drop in the volume of building activity is noticeable is seasonal in character and for the most part represents a decline in residential work. According to figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, continues to stand out prominently as one of the busiest districts in the country when construction is considered. During the thirty-sixth week of this year architects and engineers reported work on plans for 449 new building and engineering projects in this territory which will require an outlay of approximately $13,907,500. The contracts awarded during the same period numbered 316 and were representative of a total commitment of about $15,635,900.

For the first time in a number of weeks the contract commitments have been greater than the total of newly proposed building operations. Figures for New York City show that during the week of September 2 to 8, inclusive, architects reported work on plans for 212 new projects at an estimated total cost of $5,703,000, but the contracts awarded during the week, while only numbering 104, represent an expenditure of $9,009,400.

The newly reported construction of the week involved the following groups: 33 business buildings such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $806,000; 1 educational building, $75,000; 3 factories and industrial plants, $48,000; 1 public building, $5,000; 8 public works and public utilities, $740,500; 5 religious and memorial buildings, $646,000; 159 residential operations, including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $3,367,500, and 2 social and recreational projects, $25,000.

Among the 104 projects for which contracts were awarded during the week of September 2 to 8, inclusive, were 18 business buildings of various types, $2,772,500; 3 educational projects, $590,000; 2 hospitals and institutions, $130,000; 2 industrial buildings, $40,000; 1 public building, $140,000; 8 public works and public utilities, $844,800; 2 religious and memorial projects, $300,000; 67 residential operations, including multi-family structures and one- and two-family houses, $4,172,100, and 1 social and recreational structure, $20,000.

Standard Zoning Law

A standard law for the assistance of those responsible for the framing of State zoning enabling acts has just been issued by the Department of Commerce. Zoning ordinances for the regulation of use, height and area of buildings are being adopted by cities in almost every State in the Union, and in some States where there is no specific authority for zoning these ordinances may be set aside by the courts. An enabling act is advisable in all cases.

The Department of Commerce model for an enabling act under which municipalities can adopt zoning regulations is a twenty-page mimeographed document, with footnotes covering every question which might arise in the wording of various sections and provisions. It is not a federal law but a suggested form for State zoning enabling acts.

The publication may be obtained free of charge from the Division of Building and Housing, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

Noted Inventor Honored at Dinner

Thomas A. Edison was the guest of honor at a dinner given at the Hotel Commodore, Monday evening, September 10, in commemoration of the fortieth anniversary of the beginning of central station service for electric lighting. Forty years ago Mr. Edison and his associates threw in the switch in the little power house at 257 Pearl street which lighted the new electric lamps in the business places of less than sixty customers. Since that day, when the power house began business with a capacity of 3,447 16-candle-power lamps, the New York Edison Company has grown to a capacity of 21,500,000 50-watt lamps and 215,000 separate customers.

John W. Lieb, vice-president of the New York Edison Company, another of Mr. Edison's early associates, was at the speakers' table and related the early struggles of the little band of inventors of which Mr. Edison was the guiding head.

The six hundred guests were thrilled when Nicholas F. Brady, toastmaster, had the lights of the ballroom turned off and two electroliers, wired by Mr. Edison himself more than forty years ago, were lighted. The lamps, which represented the first successful incandescent light the world ever saw, gave a soft, yellow glow, but made a clear illumination. Then the current was turned into a 100,000 candle power lamp destined for use in motion picture studios. It gave a light equal to sunlight, which always has been the best light for photography.

Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen and Acting Mayor, presented Mr. Edison with a key symbolizing the freedom of the city and placed in a casket of hammered iron and red velvet. He then opened the speaking program. Mr. Edison's answer being read by his nephew, Charles Edison.

Mr. Edison's message follows:

"Mr. President Hulbert, I thank you sincerely for your courteous presentation of the freedom of the city, and will you kindly convey to his Honor, Mayor Hylan, and to the honorable Board of Aldermen of the city of New York, my deep felt appreciation of the distinguished honor conferred on me, of which I am very proud.

"This commemorative celebration has a deep personal significance to me, for the Pearl street station was the greatest adventure of my life. It was akin to venturing on an uncharted sea. No precedents were available. I felt the sense of a great responsibility, for unknown things must happen on turning a mighty power loose under the streets and in the buildings of lower New York. However, I kept my own counsel.

"Thanks to the faithful cooperation of my unflinching companions, the Pearl street station was carried promptly to the point of successful operation. The later development of the industry is a matter of history.

"As I look around this assemblage, my thoughts run backward to those days, although Father Time had laid his silvery fingers upon us the memory of our early struggles at Pearl street affords a pleasant retrospect. It is natural as I sit tonight surrounded by so many of my old friends and fellow workers, there should be mingled with my joy something of sadness as I think of the men whose companionship we no longer share.

"If there be some addition through my work to the resources of human welfare, that benefit has accrued largely through my good fortune in being favored with the devotion of associates willing to throw their all into the melting pot. I have never ceased being grateful to the Edison men whose friendship I have enjoyed ever since the morning fifty-three years ago when I landed here from the Boston boat.

"To the wider circle of friends I must express the fullest appreciation of the encouragement that has enabled me to perfect various inventions, and is notably embodied in the splendid public utilities bearing my name, of which the New York Edison Company is typical. I would think more highly, perhaps, of the little I have done if I did not feel it to be only a promise of what lies before. There is still much to be done in the promotion of human happiness and comfort."

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

PREDICTIONS of continued activity in the construction field throughout the Metropolitan district are being borne out by the number and value of the new projects which have been placed under contract during the past week or so. Although the approach of autumn has brought a market decline in speculative construction, particularly of apartment house and small dwelling projects, the increase in the number of high class commercial projects, theatres, schools, etc., more than offsets any loss to the industry through the drop in speculative residential construction. As a matter of fact, the local building situation is in a better position at present, considering the value and character of the work now active or in immediate prospect, than it has been at any time this year. There is a vast amount of high-class construction on the Metropolitan district program for the next few months and the industry is in anticipation of continued activity throughout the remainder of the year.

Favorable reports from the coal fields and from railroad transportation interests have greatly improved the outlook for the local building material markets. Dealers in masons' materials report good orders and interesting inquiries and in practically all lines more business is being offered than manufacturers and dealers are able to handle under the prevailing conditions. Prices have been fairly steady during the week. Hudson River common brick prices have eased off slightly, but the levels for other basic materials are holding firmly and there is a marked tendency toward higher quotations on certain commodities.

Common Brick—Compared with a week ago the demand for Hudson River brick is somewhat improved and both manufacturers anticipate an active market during the remainder of the season. The sales of brick in the wholesale market were in excess of the arrivals and considerable new inquiry is developing. Prices are easy at $18 a thousand to dealers, but manufacturers are not inclined to shade their quotations below this figure because of the prevailing high production costs. Some brick is being offered at $15 to $16.50 a thousand, but it is not first grade material.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, September 14, 1922. Condition of market: Demand slightly improved; prices practically unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $18 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 39; sales, 42. Distribution: Manhattan, 15; Bronx, 4; Brooklyn, 16; New Jersey points, 3; Astoria, 1; Yonkers, 1; Tarrytown, 1. Remaining unsold in the New York wholesale market on September 14, 20.

Structural Steel—Improvement in the fuel supply has generally increased the output of the steel mills, and as a result the market for fabricated material for buildings is somewhat easier than it was a week ago. During the past week or so a number of important tonnage orders were booked and several interesting operations are shortly to be released for bids. Deliveries are still uncertain, and as a general thing none of the fabricating mills are willing to accept business for delivery under two months. Prices are very firm, and while the opinion is general that steel prices will not advance any further, there is little likelihood of a recession in prices for some time to come.

Reinforcing Bars—During the past week or so there has been a decided increase of interest in reinforcing bars. Several large inquiries have been reported and some tonnage has been placed. The general improvement in the outlook for industrial and commercial construction is believed to be responsible for the stronger market, and if the steel situation shortly returns to normalcy there is likely to be an excellent demand for concrete reinforcing material throughout the remainder of the year and probably all of next year. At present the supply is somewhat restricted and prices are very firm and deliveries extended.

Lumber—There has been no change of consequence in the local lumber market during the past week. Demand is strong and prices are very firm, with here and there a slight increase, particularly in the more popular lines. While lumber interests are complaining of the car shortage, which is preventing the shipment of lumber products from mill points, the local stocks are adequate for all current requirements.

Cast Iron Pipe—Manufacturers are well satisfied with the outlook for the future, and, with the increased supply of coal and the prospects of early improvement in the transportation situation, the difficulties of the producers are being eliminated. Demand is excellent and more business is being offered than the foundries can accommodate. Although new municipal business is somewhat scarce at present, there is a good volume of business coming from private sources. Prices are steady and unchanged, but are expected to advance slightly on account of the higher prices on pig iron. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton, in carload lots; 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Electrical Supplies—The local market for these materials is in excellent shape, with demand increasing steadily and prices steady. The outlook for the autumn months is considered very satisfactory, and the general impression of the industry is that business will be favorable for many months to come. The demand for flexible armored conductor has been exceptionally heavy, and manufacturers are reporting their plants running at full capacity. Local jobbers state that their stocks are getting low and prices are slightly higher than they were.

Roofing Slate—According to a statement by the National Slate Association, some difficulty has recently been experienced by the producers of roofing slate through the embargo placed on slate in transit, under the priority orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission, but fortunately it has been lifted in time to permit delivery of the slate on the job without delaying or holding up construction. With the possibility of congestion due to the effort to catch up with the coal supply, prospective purchasers of roofing slate should anticipate their demand for the coming months in order to be certain of receiving this material on time.

Window Glass—Dealers in both plate and window glass have been very active during the past few weeks, and although the season is getting late there is apparently no falling off in the demand. During the past week or so local stocks have not been as complete as they should be, but there is sufficient glass available for all new building requirements.

Nails—Demand for nails is increasing to some extent, but it is largely due to the recent shortage and the desire of local dealers to complete their stocks. The coal situation has slowed down production and transportation difficulties have delayed deliveries, but there is promise of a general improvement in the nail situation before long. Prices are very strong and subject to immediate advances. New York quotations are as follows: $3.35 to $3.50 base per keg for wire nails, and $3.90 base per keg for cut nails.

EDITORIAL

Sanity Before Sentiment

If Grover Cleveland, instead of Warren G. Harding, were present occupant of the White House, the nation would have expected from the President just such a vigorous and convincing message as President Harding sent to Congress on Tuesday vetoing the bonus bill. It makes no difference whether a person favors or opposes a bonus to the World War Veterans—the advocates, as well as the opponents, of the pending bonus plan must admit the logic of President Harding's position and the inexorable facts upon which he bases his veto.

Entirely regardless of the merits or demerits of the bonus proposition itself, no satisfactory answer can be made to the President's position that the finances of the Government make this a most inopportune time for the undertaking. It will be difficult for any bonus advocate to make convincing answer to President Harding when he declares:

"The passing problem of the Government is that of diminishing our burdens rather than adding thereto. It is the problem of the world. War inflations and war expenditures have unbalanced budgets and added to indebtedness until the whole world is staggering under the load. We have been driving in every direction to curtail our expenditures and establish economies without impairing the essentials of governmental activities. It has been a difficult and unpopular task. It is vastly more applauded to expend than to deny. After nearly a year and a quarter of insistence and persuasion with a concerted drive to reduce Government expenditure in every quarter possible, it would wipe out everything thus far accomplished to add now this proposed burden, and it would rend the commitment to economy and saving so essential to our future welfare.

"The financial problems of the Government are too little heeded until we are face to face with a great emergency. The diminishing income of the Government, due to the receding tides of business and attending incomes, has been overlooked momentarily, but cannot be long ignored. The latest budget figures for the current fiscal year show an estimated deficit of more than $650,000,000 and a further deficit for the year succeeding, even after counting upon all interest collections on foreign indebtedness which the Government is likely to receive.

"To add to our pledges to pay, except as necessity compels, must seem no less than governmental folly. Inevitably it means increased taxation, which Congress was unwilling to levy for the purposes of this bill, and will turn us from the course toward economy so essential to promote the activities which contribute to common welfare."

This war-wrecked world cannot recover, none of the nations—not even the United States—can recover, unless every effort is made to curtail public expenditures at the present time. To pursue any other policy can only result in bringing the United States dangerously near to the verge of bankruptcy which already threatens to engulf more than one of the foreign nations.

It is the part of real statesmanship in this crisis not to be swayed by sentiment, and it is evident that President

Harding's action on the bonus has the approval of thinking men in all parts of the country, regardless of politics.

Coal Conservation Imperative

Those officials who are working to adjust the distribution of coal supplies to household demands and the needs of commerce have had sufficient time since they have taken up this arduous task to acquaint themselves with the several factors entering into the problem. It is noticeable that as time progresses and they become more familiar with their duties and responsibilities there is rather an increased intensity of warning than a diminution of pessimism in their utterances to the public.

State Fuel Administrator Woodin has issued orders that no more than a two weeks' supply of anthracite in domestic sizes shall be delivered to any one consumer, and has outlined regulations for distribution and penalties for infraction of these rules. No prices at mines or at tidewater have been fixed, and dealers are predicting a scramble for the short supplies likely to arrive at terminals here. Conferences are being held at Washington between Secretary Hoover and the representatives of various commercial associations and of the railways, with other governmental chiefs in attendance, for the purpose of organizing voluntary campaigns to induce consumers of anthracite and bituminous coal to reduce their demands to a minimum. Coal administrators along the Atlantic Seaboard are meeting rail operatives in the attempt to work out a just plan for the protection of industries in the New England States and in New York and New Jersey. The miners are returning to work more slowly than was anticipated, and coal loadings have not yet reached the average figures for the five last years. Railroads are still hampered by a diminished but steadily-increasing shop force, and by a shortage of cars and engines for hauling coal. Some passenger trains on the coal roads have been cut off and the engines and crews turned over temporarily to the freight departments.

All these facts are symptoms of a disruption of the coal industry that betokens serious business ahead unless consumers generally fall in with the official recommendations for handling the situation and give the administrator and his aides hearty support. There are one or two encouraging signs—the announcement of Administrator Woodin that he believes there will be ample supplies of bituminous coal, being the one that promises most, and the increased supplies of British anthracite coming over-seas adding to the reassurance.

What effect the shortage of anthracite in this city will have on the rental situation is an interesting question. With coal high in price and the drastic laws requiring certain degrees of heat for prescribed hours enforced, landlords cannot be expected to grant concessions in rentals. The fuel shortage may offset in large measure the effect of the extensive building operations since the Tax Exemption Law went into effect. It is for this reason, as well as to bring about reassurance on the part of the public generally, that there should be speedy decision by officials as to what regulation of price can be ordered and enforced. A reasonable advance over last year's prices may be tolerated, but if the shortage is to be the occasion of wild bidding for supplies and profiteering on the part of holders the public may be expected to and will put the coal business on a basis which will prevent periodical recurrences of similar crises.

The greatest preventive of future disorders in the mine fields would be the insistence on the part of the public, expressed through governmental authorities, that the cost of the strike shall not be paid by the public in an increased price at the mine of $1.00 per ton, as is now proposed. The miners, in striking, suffered losses in wages which they can only make up by increased hours of labor. The operators should make up their losses by increasing their output, not by increasing the price on a reduced output. The public must stand its loss in suspension of business, in impairment of efficiency and health through poorly-heated lodgings and business quarters, and in other ways. Even if the miners and operators eventually make up their losses the public never can.

Many Organizations Endorse Mayor Hylan's Subway Plans

THE first public hearing on Mayor Hylan's program for extensions of the subway system was held by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Friday, Sept. 15. The room was crowded when the Mayor opened the proceedings and asked for criticisms of his plan and suggestions for improving on it.

Mayer C. Goldman, counsel for the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, suggested that the plan provide six tracks instead of four on the proposed Amsterdam Avenue subway between Seventy-second and 162d Streets, and four tracks instead of three from 162d Street to the city line.

Reginald Pelham Bolton, of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, suggested that the plan offered favorable opportunity for ultimate tunnel connection with New Jersey.

Isaac Menlein, of the Washington Heights Chamber of Commerce, favored the six-track subway suggestion and the plan in general. Charles H. Fuller, of the Harlem Board of Commerce, asked for priority in construction of the proposed Triborough bridge.

Dr. Michael C. O'Brien, chairman of the Transportation Committee of the Harlem Board of Commerce, and J. Conrad Schneider, of the Washington Heights Chamber of Commerce, Benjamin Franklin, of the Harlem Board of Trade, and William J. Donovan, of the Hamilton Grange Community Council, spoke in favor of the plan.

Thomas F. Burke of the Minqua Club, the Democratic organization of the Twenty-third Assembly District, said that wealthy residents whom he characterized as the "big four," including a "Mr. Delafield," had blocked the transit development of the Riverdale section.

"Is that the man who was appointed to the Governor's Charter Revision Commission?" asked the Mayor.

Mr. Hulbert said that it was, and the Mayor said he wished this noted on the record.

Former Congressman James V. Ganly and Charles V. Halley, Jr., former Deputy Public Service Commissioner, objected to the continuation of the high rates charged by the New York Central and New Haven Railroads from Bronx stations to Grand Central, which were put into effect during the war. Mr. Halley said there was no reason why the Transit Commission should not hold a hearing and put the fares down.

Andrew Cokeley, from the Bronx, invited the Mayor to visit the East Bronx with a view to establishing bus lines.

"What I wish the people of the city would do is this: Regardless of party affiliations, I wish they would write to their candidates for Senator and Assemblyman and ask them how they stand on legislation favoring the right of the people to own and operate buses," said Mayor Hylan.

Edward Polak, Register of Bronx County, advocated the Mayor's plan as a business proposition which would put into the city treasury the profits that would otherwise go to private interests. "The old subway has paid for itself thousands of times over," he said. "Why will the people of the city insist that we turn over the greatest social wealth of the country to private interests when they ought to take it and put it in the treasury to pay the expense of Government and not tax capital and labor."

"I don't think the people insist on it being turned over,"

said the Mayor. "It is the subsidized press that is on the payroll of the interests and speaking as the mouthpiece of those interests that are exploiting the people. When the people thoroughly get onto the newspapers that mouth the ideas of these interests then we will begin to get a government, as Abraham Lincoln said, I think it is, of, by and for the people."

Mrs. Harry C. Arthur, chairman of the Bronx Transit Committee, said that organization was behind the Mayor's plan.

"I only wish McAneny was here to hear that," said the Mayor.

"Do you think the people ought to take over these old surface junk lines and pay $350,000,000?" the Mayor continued.

"Absolutely and unequivocally no," replied Mrs. Arthur.

The only objections to the Mayor's proposals were voiced by Irwin Kurtz, of the Central Republican Club, 19th Assembly District. Mr. Kurtz asked the Board to "cut out the conversation and give us subways."

Mr. Kurtz asserted that the Transit Commission was the sole body authorized by law to initiate rapid transit routes and that the Mayor and the other members of the Board of Estimate in discussing a transit plan had no more legal authority than any other group of citizens at a mass meeting.

President Hulbert read part of the resolutions adopted by the Central Republican Club, declaring against the municipal operation of transit facilities. Mr. Kurtz asked that he read the rest of the resolutions, which called upon the Mayor and the Board to stop playing politics with the transit situation.

"We want subways and I agree with everything that the Washington Heights and Harlem gentlemen have said," Mr. Kurtz continued: "but you can not get subways with injunctions and you can not get them by holding political mass meetings. Comply with the law and you will get subways."

The hearing on lines south of 125th Street in Manhattan was held last Wednesday and the Board of Estimate room was again filled with those friendly to the Mayor's plan.

The only suggestion offered by speakers was that the construction of the First Avenue line should be placed in Group 1, advocates pointing out that the transit facilities of residents along the line were extremely bad.

Dr. Henry W. Berg of the Greater New York Taxpayers' Association described the inadequacy of existing facilities on the east side below Fourteenth Street, where, he said, 600,000 people were left without means of getting conveniently from one point to another.

Alexander I. Rorke, former Assistant District Attorney, representing the Amsterdam Democratic Club, suggested that the southern extension of the Amsterdam Avenue-Tenth Avenue line should be put in Group 1 instead of Group 2. He praised the Mayor's plan and attitude for a five-cent fare.

Among the organizations represented by spokesmen at the meeting were the Murray Hill Taxpayers' Association, Miami Club, Horatio Seymour Club, Downtown League, Forty-second Street Property Owners and Merchants' Association and the Real Estate Owners' Association of the Nineteenth Ward.

The next hearing will be on Tuesday afternoon, when the Brooklyn phase of the plan will be discussed. Other hearings will be held later, each section of the city being taken up in turn.

REAL ESTATE SECTION

High and Medium Priced Apartment Rentals Holding Firm

Fall "Moving Day" Finds Most Tenants Willing to Stay Where They Are, the Building of Small-Suite Houses Not Having Effected Lower Prices

WITH the renting season for leases dated October 1 in full swing after a period of unusual activity in the building of apartments and one- and two-family houses the attention of those interested in real estate is centered on the question of whether prices for residential space is likely to be maintained at present levels or, if not, whether advances or declines are in order. The views of a number of leaders in the real estate field, representative of the different classes of housing as measured by the price per room, giving a very accurate resume of the rental situation, as it exists today, have been obtained by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, as follows:

SHAW, ROCKWELL & SANFORD:—"There will be no reduction in rentals during the rental period about to set in, unless perchance there might be a slight reduction on some of the new apartments in certain sections of the Bronx. Some of them are vacant, largely for the reason that there are more small suites of two and three rooms than there are suites of four to six rooms. All of the new buildings in the Bronx were built during an era of high building material and labor costs. Speculative builders, under the circumstances, doubted the wisdom of putting up many buildings of five to seven room suites, such as were built in Harlem and elsewhere in Manhattan long previous to the war. They feared they might not be able to rent many of them at the prevailing rate of $20 to $25 a room per month. So they erected buildings mostly containing suites of two to four rooms. Houses throughout the eastern part of the Bronx are well rented with practically no vacancies. This section has drawn on old parts of Manhattan for tenants and the regions they deserted have been immediately filled with newcomers. Probably it has been wise to refrain from building many houses containing large suites. The vacancies in the Bronx are caused by having too many small suites. There is no question about filling these if rents are shaved somewhat and the tendency is now in that direction.

"So far as apartments for the medium and middle class of persons in Manhattan are concerned there will be no reductions. Competition is too keen for apartments to warrant reductions. Most of those having apartments here are satisfied to remain in them for another year. Most leases on such apartments run for a year only. The question in all parts of Manhattan is not how to fill apartments but how to turn applicants for them away.

"The shortage of apartments in Harlem has caused a strong demand for old high stoop three-story dwellings and there are not enough of them. Most of the apartments in Harlem and the Upper West Side are larger than the new ones built in the Bronx. The demand this side of the Harlem River is somewhat different in character than in the Bronx for that reason. Any kind of an apartment in Upper Manhattan rents easily nowadays. There is no marked tendency for rentals to go higher, but they are holding firm for the reason that the demand exceeds the supply and for the reason that there are more middle class persons than there are of the upper class. It is an economic question pure and simple."

F. S. BANCROFT, VICE-PRESIDENT OF PEASE & ELLIMAN, INC.:—"The idea which is prevalent in some quarters and which was reflected in a newspaper article recently that there will soon be a panic in rentals of apartments throughout this city is erroneous. Rentals are firm and will hold firm generally so far as Manhattan is concerned. The reason is not hard to find. There has been comparatively little apartment house construction on Manhattan Island since before the war. Those that have been built are primarily high-priced apartments. It is safe to say that it is now difficult to obtain an apartment at $2,500 a year in this borough. With the cost of mechanical labor high, material prices high and a minimum of building being done, how can apartment houses for the medium class of people be built in Manhattan? The shortage of this kind of living space has been so prolonged as to make a premium on what there is. When by any chance there is a vacancy someone is willing to pay a little more rent than the vacating tenant in order to make sure of it. I cannot tell you where all prospective tenants are going. They must go somewhere. I only know that there is no recession of rentals for the reasons I have stated.

"This is a better autumn for the landlords of the better class of apartments than was the same period a year ago. Then there were a few vacancies caused by rental increases. Somehow or other vacancies in these buildings are almost nil and many fine new apartments have been leased on the plans. There are no new medium-priced apartments in Manhattan and there are no immediate prospects of them. Competition for the old ones is keen and few tenants are vacating. How can there be a panic in rentals?"

J. CLARENCE DAVIES:—"There is a tendency in some parts of the Bronx for apartment rentals to drop from the basis of $20 to $25 a room per month to a slightly lower basis. This is because there are too many small apartments and not enough new large ones. In addition more of the three- and four-room suites are in course of completion and will be in the market before the first of the year. This is tending to pull prices down somewhat. They will not be sufficient in number, however, to flood the market with apartments. Even though this is a period of shortage of living space there are bound to be some vacancies in new apartment houses for a short time after completion. But they will be absorbed before a great while. New inhabitants are coming into the Bronx from other parts of the city, especially from Manhattan, where no apartment houses for the middle class are being built. Rents of new Bronx apartments for this element of the population are bound to be higher than in the past on account of the high cost of building material and of labor. Everything that enters into construction is comparatively abnormal in price. The public has a habit of visualizing old rental conditions, which is futile. The past is no criterion to go by. There is no prospect of the return of low rentals because there is no prospect of a return of normal building costs. There must be one in order to get the other. It would not surprise me if the slight recession of Bronx rentals today is offset by a big demand for apartments next spring. Manhattan is not meeting the demand of the average man for living space."

SCHINDLER & LIEBLER:—"There are practically no vacancies of apartments in the eastern part of Harlem nor in Yorkville. There are many old types of apartment houses there. When a tenant vacates an apartment it is immediately snapped up by a new tenant at few dollars higher rental than the previous tenant paid. There has been comparatively little controversy between landlord and tenant in Yorkville. Many

Administrator Perfects Organization to Handle Coal

Appoints Deputy for Each County and Limits Deliveries of Domestic Sizes to Two Weeks' Supply to Each Consumer

WILLIAM H. WOODIN, State Fuel Administrator, has issued a basic order regulating the distribution of domestic sizes of anthracite, as follows:

1. By virtue of the power vested in me under Legislative Act 1, of the extraordinary session of Aug. 28, 1922, it is directed that no dealer or distributor within the confines of New York State shall deliver greater quantity than two weeks' supply of the domestic sizes of anthracite coal, known as grate, egg, stove, chestnut and pea, inclusive, for any one household or other consumer of such sizes. Nor shall he deliver said two weeks' supply, or any part thereof, where there is already on the premises, in the cellar, or within the possessions of the consumer a quantity equal to or in excess of two weeks' supply, meaning thereby twice the average weekly consumption from present date to April 1, 1923. This order, under all the penalties of the act, will be strictly enforced, until modified.

2. If the distributor is not in possession of the facts necessary to enable him to carry out the foregoing, it is then a further part of the order that he can require the consumer to furnish him with

(a) A statement of his actual requirements to April 1, 1923.

(b) Size and tonnage of coal which he now has on hand.

(c) That no order is on file with any other source of supply.

Should the consumer make a false statement to the distributor he will be held liable under the provisions of this act.

Appointment of deputy coal administrators for the five counties in the greater city and for Nassau and Suffolk counties was announced by Arthur M. Learoyd, Deputy Fuel Administrator for the first and second administrative districts, which comprise the first and second judicial districts. George J. Eltz of the Coal Merchants' Association of Manhattan, 90 West street, was appointed administrator for Manhattan.

Alexander J. Fraiser of 220 East 138th street, a partner in the Stevens Fuel Company, was appointed administrator of The Bronx. Samuel Drummond, president of the Brooklyn Coal Exchange, will control the coal situation in Brooklyn, while W. Edward Ganon of the Summers Supply Company, Richmond terrace, was appointed administrator for Richmond Borough. Edward Schmidt, president of the Long Island Retail Coal Dealers' Association, was appointed administrator for Nassau and Suffolk counties. The administrators for other counties have not been announced as yet.

Recognizing that office buildings and their operation are essential to the welfare of business in America, the Department of Commerce, in an amendment to the priority coal orders, has placed coal for heating of buildings in the preferred classification.

The amendment to Service Order No. 23 of the Department of Commerce is the result of a campaign conducted by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers to secure adequate coal supplies.

Earle Shultz, manager of the Commonwealth Edison Building, and president of the National Association of Building Owners & Managers, in recent letters to Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce, pointed out the dangers to American business if office buildings were not given a preferred classification. Secretary Hoover wrote him:

"The best method of procedure to obtain priority of coal for the heating of office buildings is to get in touch with the individual State Fuel Commissions as the Federal Fuel Commission does not consider individual cases or classes, its chief function being to advise and regulate for the entire country, leaving to the State Commissions the distribution of coal in accordance with its general edict and recommendation."

In the first announcement of anthracite retail prices since the coal strike, Burns Brothers in a circular letter Wednesday quoted prices effective at present at $13.25 a ton plus labor charges where necessary in Manhattan and the Bronx, and $13.50 a ton delivered in the bin for Brooklyn and Long Island City. This coal can be obtained at present only in moderate amounts. How long the price will stand as announced it is impossible to say, the circular said.

Prices of the various grades of coal were quoted as follows:

"We have gone over the matter carefully and find that, based on company coal, we are able to make prices at present as follows for delivery in Brooklyn and Long Island City from our Astoria yard:

"Broken, egg, stove, nut, $13.50 delivered in the bin; pea, $11.25 delivered in the bin; No. 1 buck, $8.30 per ton without labor; No. 2 buck, $7.30 per ton without labor; No. 3 buck, $6.30 per ton without labor.

"We are able to make prices at present as follows for delivery in Manhattan and the Bronx: Broken, $13 a ton; egg, $13.25; stove, $13.25; chestnut, $13.25; pea, $10.75; buck, $8.20; rice, $7.20; barley, $6.20. Plus any labor needed for storing and trimming."

tenement houses are owned by old and rich estates and their managers are conservative and do not care to go to court and fight with tenants. They make slight increases in rents which are satisfactory to both landlord and tenant. The difference between old and new construction is illustrated by the fact that in Yorkville old cold-water, unheated apartments are renting, in their entirety, at from $25 to $65 a month and heated and hot water supply apartments are renting at the rate of $10 to $12 a room a month, whereas modern buildings in the Bronx containing similar apartments are renting at from $20 to $25 a room per month. The difference, of course, is in the cost of the buildings and a few more modern conveniences. In the Bronx houses containing small suites are in the vast majority, while in Yorkville and Harlem large and medium-sized apartments prevail. The result is that these sections have met the demand for families with numerous children better than has the Bronx or even Washington Heights. While small suites in the Bronx are the more numerous, they are built with larger rooms than in the past. In other words, the demand is for as much room as possible in a small apartment. Large families today cannot occupy the average new apartment anywhere. These families are sticking to the older sections where apartments are larger and where they can get more for their money. There is no tendency for rentals in the old parts of Harlem and Yorkville to come down, as they did not go up to any marked extent in recent years."

HENRY G. LEIST:—"There is little if any change in the rental situation. There is not likely to be any in medium-priced apartments for the reason that there are so few available that a seeker after one is willing to pay a slight bonus to get it, thus keeping the rental standard high. The law of supply and demand is being aptly demonstrated in the housing situation, and has been right along. Instead of the clamor of two years ago among tenants about rentals a new temperamental state has developed among them. As they have observed no new apartment houses for the masses going up in Manhattan, and as they have found competition for wholesome living space, they have become reconciled to the situation and have acceded to reasonable rental increases. There will be very little moving this fall, especially among large families. They will hold fast to what they have, feeling that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. Where will they go for apartments of from five to seven rooms at comparatively reasonable rentals except to the older sections where such suites abound? There is no considerable number of new large suites being built in any borough of the city. The fact is the building situation is such that there can be no return to the rental standards that prevailed before the war as it is not in the nature of things to impel such a return."

Mr. Cushman Analyzes Science of Building Management

Opens Season's Discussion of Realty Topics at Dinner Given by Club Composed of Attendants at Y. M. C. A. Real Estate Class Lectures

FORMER members of the real estate class at the West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A., who have formed a club, held a dinner at the West 57th street building on last Tuesday night, September 19. W. A. Wyckoff, of Pease & Elliman, presided and there was a large attendance. J. Clydesdale Cushman, President of Cushman & Wakefield, Inc., and Vice-President of the Building Managers & Owners Association of New York, spoke on building management as a science, pointing out the necessary qualifications for becoming a building manager and the service which he should render to building owners. Mr. Cushman said:—

"Until the universities include in their curricula special courses of study on the scientific art of building management, which it is hoped will before long be accomplished, recruits must be drawn from all walks of life, and must pass the examinations of the 'College of Hard Knocks.' In this connection, the West Side Y. M. C. A. is doing a praiseworthy work, and is a long step ahead of the colleges, for it has already accomplished excellent results, while the colleges are not yet alive to the fact that a new profession has sprung up within the last decade, in which instruction is denied to aspiring young men of today.

"Most men in the profession of building management have been drawn into it through force of circumstances, or accident, and have been previously engaged in other pursuits, such men before entering the profession as a rule possessing certain very necessary qualifications, temperamental, and otherwise, which peculiarly fit them to one, or more, of the many departments which make building management one of the most fascinating and highly specialized professions in America today—for it is strictly an American profession. Once a man embarks, however, in building management, he usually sticks to it in some capacity, or another, the rest of his business life.

"The most successful building managers are those who have taken up the profession at the average age of those of you who are here tonight, or comparatively early in life, but who, for the sake of greater versatility, have had a few years of previous business training in other lines. This condition is largely attributable to the fact that the profession of building manager is, as I have remarked, comparatively young, and ascension from the ranks of building operating departments has only recently commenced. It is an exception for a man who has reached middle age to enter the profession, for he cannot stand the strain to which a building manager is constantly subjected, nor would an older man be content to go through the rigid and usually unremunerative years that are necessary to qualify one with the ground knowledge which develops into that all important factor, experience, requisite before one can aspire to the responsibilities of a full fledged building manager, on whose shoulders rest the destiny of probably several millions of dollars' worth of buildings in which are housed several thousands of human souls.

"For the purpose of explaining in greater detail just what I consider are the most important elements that form the foundation upon which may depend the success of any young man in the capacity of building manager, let me assume that one of you, in this class tonight, has concluded to take a position which will eventually lead up to your undertaking the duties of a building manager. Let me assume again that you by chance, come to me for advice, and that you should ask me this question: 'What are the necessary qualifications with which I must be endowed in order to become a building manager?' My answer to you would be, that you must be honest. You must have a good disposition, and that undefinable thing known as good judgment. You must possess diplomacy, and should have had a good general education. You must possess executive ability, and initiative. You must possess a good understanding of human nature, and be able to handle any kind of an emergency with firmness, and calmness. You must possess a fondness for hard, unremitting and oftentimes, unremunerative work, and a desire for the acquirement of a better and broader understanding of the many ramifications connected with running a building for profit.

"After your talk with me, we will assume that you have not become too discouraged to present yourself to your employer. You tell him you understand that he is considering the selection of a man to manage his buildings, or if it be an agency business, his management department. If he is a wise employer, he will probably lead you on, and ask you a few pointed questions in a manner designed to induce you to tell something about yourself, your ability, and experience. Whilst he is in a receptive mood, you should be able to tell him that you have acquired some knowledge of mechanical engineering, architecture, building construction, electricity, plumbing, steam-fitting, carpentry, painting and plastering, and all other building trades. You must have an understanding of real property law, and the rights of landlord and tenant. You must have a knowledge of insurance, and banking. You must be a salesman, and have a knowledge of credits. You must be a purchasing agent and have a knowledge of building materials, merchandise, and discounts. In common with all employers of labor, you must possess that in handling employees, and be sufficiently broad-minded to see the other man's point of view. You must possess a cheerful and equable disposition in receiving and disposing of all manner of complaints. You must remain unruffled in spite of an infinite number of harassing details. Above all, you as a diplomat, and serving in the capacity of intermediary between tenant and owner, must deal fairly with, and sense, and serve the desires of, both.

"It is not my purpose to tell you what you should, or should not, do, but rather to convey to you an impression, that you may have a better understanding, of what the average owner of buildings requires of a building manager, or what you should be required to do in such a capacity every business day of your life.

"Again we will assume that you were successful in landing your job as manager of the management department of a large real estate office. If, temporarily overwhelmed for the moment with your success, it is reasonable to suppose that you might, when calmer moments overtake you ask, 'What services then must I, as a specialist called building manager render to a building owner, who will pay me to manage his properties?' If I chanced to overhear you I would say that as a building manager, you are paid not so much for what you do, but for the mistakes you do not make. You must render to owners, and in the case of new buildings, to architects, engineers and builders as well, advice on planning, and on arranging details of elevators, and interior layouts. You must render advice, based on practical experience, regarding the proper equipment and materials, which will become a part of the building to be later maintained by you. You will be required to supervise the operation of renting plans, and booklets. Establish the renting schedules, and prepare the advertising and publicity matter in order to put the owner's building 'on the map.' You will, of course, manage the renting; and as a credit manager investigate rigidly the responsibility and desirability of all applicants for space. The success or failure of the building under your charge in which large capital is invested will depend, in no small measure, on the care and judgment which you must exercise in the selection of your tenants. In this respect, credit foresight on your part as a building manager differs from credit judgment as applied to merchandise, for in the first instance, the tenant's character must be considered as well as his ability to pay during the period, as long often times as twenty-one years, and in the latter instance a customer for merchandise is

Recuperation from Summer Dullness Was Evident Throughout Length and Breadth of the City, While Large Leases Were a Feature

THIS week was marked by the greatest activity of the real estate market since early summer. Operators who had been away for many weeks, returned and made good purchases and a sprinkling of investors appeared through the dealing in all kinds of real estate. Heavy sales formed the climax of the week whereas the early part of it was featured with a sparse number of substantial sales.

Crowning the week's activity was the sale by Max N. Natanson to Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the 16-story office, loft and store building at the northeast corner of Fourth avenue and 29th street, at the reported sum of $1,500,000. The buyer gave in part payment seven parcels of real estate scattered through the East and West sides primarily. Another sale of marked interest was that to Ludwig, Bauman & Company of a large warehouse in West 125th street extending through to 124th street. This firm during the last two years has been investing substantially in Manhattan real estate. It would seem that the furniture business is good in spite of shortage of living space. Another feature transaction in mercantile property was the sale of the southeast corner of William and Ann streets to an ancient nearby business firm that has been in the neighborhood since 1847. Some former dwellings in the Fifth avenue region changed hands for business purposes, among them the last private dwelling on 48th street, between Fifth and Madison avenues. Several smaller business parcels in various parts of town were bought.

Dealing in apartment houses on Washington Heights was fairly heavy. A block front apartment house, known as the Paul Jones, went into the hands of out-of-town investors at about $375,000. A group of Heights-Harlem apartment houses found new owners. The Pinkney estate sold to the Reid Ice Cream Company a vacant tract fronting on 141st and 142d street, near Fifth avenue, for improvement with a building for its business purposes. Michael Paterno bought the northeast corner of Park avenue and 89th street, holding a group of old buildings, as the site for a large new apartment house. Adjoining owners bought a group of Columbus avenue flats, while a row of apartment houses with stores in Amsterdam avenue passed to new ownership. Lexington avenue corners also found buyers.

Among the private dwellings that were bought for business uses was that of Henry W. Taft at 36 West 48th street, which the owner had long occupied. Business was surrounding him so rapidly that the block has lost its attractiveness for residential purposes. It illustrates the constant drawing power of the Fifth avenue section for trade. Numerous fine dwellings elsewhere in the city were bought for occupancy. Frederick Brown bought a small office building in West 39th street, just east of Sixth avenue. A trust company bought the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 40th street.

Large leases were effected in various parts of the city, some of them as sites for new buildings.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 88, as against 51 last week and 85 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 18 as compared with 15 last week and 19 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 70 as compared with 36 last week and 66 a year ago.

From the Bronx 58 sales at private contract were reported, as against 32 last week and 53 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 402.

Bronx Parkway Opens

Bronx Parkway was formally opened on September 16 when the string across the driveway was cut by Joseph P. Hennessey, Bronx Park Commissioner. The ceremony was held at Williamsbridge.

The driveway provides for an unbroken highway from 159th st to Kensico Dam. The work was begun in 1907. It was interrupted by the World War.

Figures show that 75 per cent. of the expense was borne by the City of New York and 25 per cent by Westchester county. Along the road are 20 bridges. The road at certain points fringes both sides of Bronx River. The parkway reservation is 200 feet wide in some places and 1,200 in others. The average width is 600 feet. The driveway proper is 40 feet in width. The parkway reservation was created to eliminate sewerage leading into the Bronx river and to connect the New York city park system with the city watershed lands at Kensico Dam.

Realty for Tunnel Purposes

The State Attorney General, in behalf of the New York Bridge and Tunnel Commission, has filed in the Registrar's office notices of appropriation and affidavit of service involving 27 parcels of real estate to be taken over for the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River to Jersey City.

The properties affected by the filings are: 296 Hudson st; 450 Canal st; 446 and 448 Canal st; 8 and 10 Vestry st; 428, 430 and 458 Canal st; 288 Hudson st; 41, 45 and 47 Dominick st; 290 Hudson st; 470, 454 and 440 to 444 and 466 and 468 Canal st; 204 and 206 Hudson st; 452 and 462 Canal st; 298 Hudson st; 460 Canal st; 456 and 440 to 444 Canal st; 4 Vestry st; 432 Canal st; 6 Vestry st; and 434 Canal st; land under water between Piers New 34 and 35 and part of Marginal st, near foot of Canal st.

Buyers of Co-operative Apartments

east corner of 69th st and Lexington av to E. E. Moore, Mrs. George W. Young, R. Davis Halliwell and David V. Sutton.

William Street Corner Sold

Charles F. Noyes Co. sold for the Broadway-John Street Corporation, Elias A. Cohen, president, to Louis Annin Ames, head of the firm of Annin & Co., flag and bunting dealers, the 4-story brick mercantile building 152-154 William st, southwest corner of Ann st, on a plot 40x51.3x40.8x51.9. By this purchase Mr. Ames completes his ownership of the entire block on the east side of William st, from Fulton to Ann sts, where the firm of Annin & Co. is located.

This is the third purchase in the block by Annin & Co. The original purchase, 144 William st, was in 1897 for $100,000. This was then one of the few sales of downtown real estate at the rate of $100 per square foot, and attracted considerable attention. In 1907 they acquired 146-48-50 William st. The property just sold to Annin & Co. has been sold three times by the Charles F. Noyes Co. Within ten years the rentals have increased from $4,800 per annum to about $17,000 per annum, and this increase emphasizes the strong increment of property values on William st in the vicinity of Fulton st. One reason why the combined plot and purchase has attracted attention is because of the fact that only at this point the Broadway-Seventh Avenue Subway has stations on the east side of a thoroughfare. Subway stations are at both ends of the plot, one at Fulton st and one at Ann st, the latter station going through the building. The combined plot now owned by Annin & Co. contains 6,000 square feet with 220 feet of street frontage, and it is stated that there is no other block front downtown of 6,000 feet with street frontages of 220 feet. The property just purchased is valued at $185,000 and the Annin holdings at this point are valued at approximately $900,000. No announcement as regards plans for the property has been made, but it is believed that it is not unlikely that a modern office building will be erected on the combined plottage at the expiration of present leases.

Ruppert Buys Fourth Ave. Corner

Col. Jacob Ruppert bought, through C. E. Deppeler from Max N. Natanson, 432 Fourth av, northwest corner of 29th st, a 16-sty loft, office and store building, on a plot 107x80. The building rents for about $153,000 and was held at $1,500,000. Col. Ruppert, besides paying to Mr. Natanson a large amount of cash, gave him, in exchange, a number of free and clear properties, among them the following: 888 Eighth av, southeast corner of 53rd st, a 5-sty flat, on lot 20x80, renting for $5,900; 600 East 83rd st, southeast corner of East End av (Av B), a flat, on lot 26x81, renting for $2,800; 1717 First av, southwest corner of 89th st, a 5-sty flat, on lot 25.8x77, renting for $3,400; 1433 Av A, northwest corner of 76th st, a 4-sty flat, on lot 25x75, renting for $2,800; 632 Tenth av, southeast corner of 45th st, a 5-sty flat, on lot 25x75, renting for $4,000; 300 West 141st st, southwest corner of Eighth av, a 5-sty flat, on lot 25x100, renting for $4,900; northwest corner of Third av and 137th st, a vacant lot 22x102x30.

An interesting sidelight on the transaction is that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. had a mortgage for $600,000 on the property, but thought so well of it that it recently increased its loan to $725,000.

BUILDING SECTION

A. F. of L. Bars Jurisdictional Strikes in Building Trades

Drastic Action Taken by Executive Council of National Labor Organization Will Reform a Serious Menace to Progress of Construction Industry

THE Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, which met at Atlantic City last week in an effort to settle the long-standing dispute between the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the sheet metal workers over a matter of jurisdiction, adopted a resolution designed to prevent all inter-union strikes in future.

During the past few years the jurisdictional strikes in the building trades, which have held up active construction to the value of many millions of dollars throughout the United States because of difference of opinion between unions as to which should do certain work, have been one of the most costly as well as the most unnecessary of the labor troubles. Realizing the adverse effect of these jurisdictional strikes on the entire building industry, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor has taken a step, which although drastic in character and scope, will do much to further the future elimination of serious labor difficulties on construction projects.

Although the text of the resolution adopted by the Executive Council, which will prevent future building trade strikes over matters of jurisdiction, has not been divulged and will not be publicly announced until after it has been communicated to the building trades department of the Federation, it is stated that the resolution is one of the most drastic on record and serves notice on the various building trades unions as well as all others that strikes of one union against another are entirely at variance with the policy and spirit of the American trade union movement, and will not in future be condoned by the American Federation of Labor.

Prominent labor leaders and others interested in the welfare of the construction industry have expressed considerable surprise at the severity of the action of the Executive Council of the Federation, but when it is considered that the jurisdictional strikes have developed into such a serious problem that drastic action was essential, the trade opinion is unanimously in support of the resolution as adopted.

According to reports received by the Council it was shown that construction work in Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis and New York had frequently been interrupted by disputes between unions as to which should or should not do certain work. This matter was recently brought officially to the attention of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in a hearing on the dispute between the Sheet Metal Workers' Union and the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners which resulted from the refusal of the carpenters to abide by the decisions of the National Board of Jurisdictional Awards, a body specially organized to arbitrate jurisdictional questions and prevent inter-union difficulties.

As a result of the refusal of the Carpenters' Union to obey the decision of the Board of Jurisdictional Awards which awarded the work of installing metal trimmings and doors in buildings, the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L., in Denver, in 1921, censured the Carpenters' Union, which retaliated by withdrawing from the national organization. In many sections of the United States carpenters' unions have subsequently withdrawn from the central building trades' organizations and have adopted a policy of non-co-operation.

The Executive Council of the national labor body also decided at its recent meeting to call a national conference of the building trades' unions in Washington or Indianapolis as soon as possible in an effort to adjust the jurisdictional dispute between the sheet metal workers and the carpenters' union, which already has tied up millions of dollars' worth of construction in various parts of the country.

The proposed conference to adjust the question of jurisdiction will be held just as soon as William Hutcheson, president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners returns from Europe, probably during the latter part of October or early in November.

At the recent meeting of the Board of Jurisdictional Awards in Washington, which, in conjunction with the presidents of the various international unions of the building trades, sought a solution of the controversy over the metal trim and door award, it was finally decided to try to come to an understanding with the recalcitrant unions, before using drastic methods. As Cleveland is the center for most of the jurisdictional troubles of a severe nature, the joint meeting of the presidents of the unions and the members of the board will convene there on September 26 to attempt to bring the situation to a sensible settlement and restore complete harmony between these two unions.

John Donlin, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, attended the Atlantic City conference and presented the case to the Council in the hope that body would act as mediator and bring peace to the two unions. Frank Duffy, secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and a vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, presented the claims of the carpenters before the Council.

In his address to the Council Mr. Donlin stated that the bricklayers and other trade unions are fully satisfied with the award of the Board and are united in many cities in upholding the metal workers on jobs where the carpenters attempt to install metal doors and trim. Failing in this, they are withdrawing their men from all jobs where the carpenters refuse to agree to the decision of the National Board of Jurisdictional Awards.

Addressing the Council, Mr. Donlin urged that in behalf of peace in the building industry, the carpenters be disciplined by the American Federation of Labor and that all pressure be brought to bear in compelling them to obey the decisions of the jurisdictional board.

The disposition on the part of the carpenters to refuse to abide by the ruling of the Board of Jurisdictional Awards has aroused the opposition of the Bricklayers' Union, which recently started a movement among the building trades' unions urging them to refuse to work on any building construction where the carpenters attempt to do work awarded to the sheet metal workers. Since the withdrawal of the carpenters from the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, President Samuel Gompers has attempted repeatedly to settle this difficulty, but has so far failed. At the recent convention of the Federation in Cincinnati he was rebuked for injecting himself into the controversy.

Building progress in the Metropolitan district has been seriously hampered in the past by jurisdictional strikes and local contractors are unanimous in commending the action of the Executive Council.

expected to pay within one to three months, the element of character not being involved, at all.

"As a sales manager, you will be required to fill your building. You will assist your attorney in the preparation and printing of lease forms. You must draw with accuracy and exactness all leases; with your acquired legal knowledge prepare special clauses to fit unusual existing conditions, and for the better protection of the owner's interests, whom you represent, make special provisions covering future possible contingencies.

"You must organize a complete operating organization, and must keep it running smoothly and without friction. As the best means of obtaining the desired results, you should engage as your lieutenants, experienced, competent and dependable superintendents. In a supervisory capacity you will be obliged to engage and direct the help. You will supervise the preparation of pay-rolls, and the paying of the help. You will, of course, bill tenants for rent, electricity, and other miscellaneous charges, such as tenant's alterations, and collect such accounts. When occasion requires you will have to institute dispossess proceedings against non-paying tenants, and, as witness for the owner as plaintiff, testify in court proceedings in landlord and tenant actions.

"You will place all insurance for your owners, with the view of procuring the utmost protection against fire, provide proper protection against liability of accidents, workman's compensation, boiler, plate glass, and other kinds of insurance, at the lowest possible rates.

"As a building manager, you will have to maintain the buildings under your charge, and must see that they are kept in a cleanly condition, and good repair. You will supervise the operation of your building's high, or low pressure boiler plants, the elevators, and their intricate machinery, around which all buildings are evolved. On the proper, or improper operation of an elevator system alone, may depend the success or failure of a tall building, from a renting standpoint; and if improperly handled may prove a costly experience. You will have charge of, and direct the making of all repairs, and tenant's changes, and make structural alterations. You will assume the role of general contractor, as a means of reducing operation expenses, to a minimum.

"You will organize the bookkeeping systems, and originate card and record systems, for the proper administration of the buildings under your charge. You must supervise the bookkeeping and must keep accurate accounts. In your capacity of purchasing agent, you must buy judiciously all materials and building supplies from pins to boilers, and pay the bills. Here again, you must keep the operating expenses down, through exercising your knowledge of values. You will be forever engaged in producing a maximum income at a minimum of expense, commensurate with the character of the building you manage, and of course, you must render to the owner of your building each month a complete, accurate, and comprehensive statement of collections and disbursements.

"You will do well to keep in touch with civic affairs, state legislative matters, and local city codes, and ordinances, and departmental rulings. You must attend hearings of property bills which aim to curb the constitutional rights of property owners. You must watch city taxes and assessments, and, for all practical purposes, assume the roll of owner, that the owner's interests may best be served and safeguarded.

"Your best aid towards such an end will be a membership, and the active part you probably will, or should take, in local and national associations of building owners and managers, and of real estate boards. As a building manager you must be 'a jack of all trades,' and must be at the beck and call of hundreds of people for as many reasons, both day and night. You must always subordinate your own time and convenience to the special exigencies of the occasion, and the work at hand. If you have a well organized office you may get home at night for a late dinner, and may see your family on Sunday, if business does not interfere. All of which recalls a passage in 'The Redskins,' by James Fennimore Cooper, which in reference to the real estate conditions existing in New York in 1837, reads, 'In America it requires almost as much vigilance to take care of property as it does industry to acquire it.' It is readily seen that if vigilance was required in the management of property in those days of two and three-story structures, there must be a multiplicity of perplexing problems which beset the modern building manager who is called upon to operate simultaneously hundreds of buildings, ranging from five to fifty stories in height. The largest office buildings of today contain as much as 25 acres of floor space, provide business quarters for upwards of 10,000 people under one roof, and the modern type of city dwellings rear twenty stories in the air, cover as much as two city blocks, and house as many as 150 families within their walls."

Brokers and Salesmen Must Have Licenses October 1

THE Real Estate Board calls attention to the penalties for non-compliance with the law enacted last April requiring the licensing of real estate brokers and salesmen on and after Oct. 1, 1922. After this date no person, corporation or co-partnership shall engage in realty transactions in a city having a population of one million or more without first procuring a license; nor bring an action in any State court for the recovery of commissions in realty transactions, including negotiating loans, unless such license was in force on the date when the alleged cause of action arose. Violation of the law is a misdemeanor and the penalty for violation of the provision of the law relating to commissions is a fine of not less than the amount of the commission nor more than four times this sum.

Questions submitted to the Tax Department by the Real Estate Board, with the answers, follow:—

QUESTION—A trust company, besides doing the ordinary business of such a corporation, performs certain acts for its clients which bring it under the provisions of Chapter 672 of the Laws of 1922.

It has a subsidiary corporation which acts entirely for the parent corporation, attending to its real estate business, such acts bringing it under the provisions of Chapter 672, Laws of 1922.

ANSWER—A trust company which does the ordinary business of such a corporation, and also performs certain acts for its clients which bring it under the provisions of Chapter 672 of the Laws of 1922, is required under the act to secure a broker's license. The subsidiary corporation, although acting entirely for the parent corporation, which also performs any of those acts included in Sec. 440 defining a real estate broker is considered a separate person and is also required to secure a broker's license. Employees of either corporation, performing any acts which would constitute them as being real estate salesmen should properly apply for salesmen's licenses.

QUESTION—In question 14 it was asked "whether a bookkeeper who sometimes collects rents over the counter, a stenographer who may be called upon to give information about sales, rents, etc., and inside clerks who occasionally or incidentally may have to perform any of the above mentioned duties, should be licensed as salesmen. The answer was:

Should inside clerks perform any of those acts included in the definition of what constitutes a Real Estate Salesman, they should properly apply for a license. I do not think we should make any distinction as between those who work outside and those who work inside.

This seems to have created the impression that bookkeepers, cashiers and stenographers, as such, are to be licensed as brokers. This seems to be entirely outside of the intent of the law, and we are asked for a specific answer as to whether bookkeepers, cashiers and stenographers who do nothing whatever but the clerical work implied in their duties should be licensed.

ANSWER—Bookkeepers, cashiers and stenographers employed in the office of a licensed real estate broker and doing only the clerical work as required to be done, and who do not perform any of those acts as specified in the definition of what constitutes a real estate salesman, are not required to secure a salesman's license.

The Real Estate Board has issued approximately the following application blanks for licenses to date:

	Members	Non-Members	Total
Brokers' blanks.....	500	1300	1800
Salesmen's blanks.....	1300	650	1950

The Board has forwarded applications to the Tax Department, on behalf of members, for 300 brokers and 450 salesmen, the total fees being $8,000.

Autumn Prospects Bright for Local Building Trades

Weekly Construction Statistics of F. W. Dodge Company Warrant Prediction of Marked Activity During Coming Months

BUILDING in the Metropolitan district continues at an active pace and from all accounts the coming autumn and winter months will witness more construction in progress than has been noticable for many years past. Reports from the offices of local architects and engineers indicate a splendid outlook for construction interests and the marked improvement in the railroad freight situation, which has increased the supplies of basic building materials, has removed one of the most serious retardants to continued activity in the building field.

Construction statistics for the thirty-ninth week of 1922, as tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, show that in New York State and in New Jersey, north of Trenton, 504 new building and engineering operations were announced at a total estimated cost of $17,200,100. During the same week in this territory 412 contracts were awarded which represent a total outlay of more than $13,161,800.

Although the construction figures for New York City show a slight decline for the week of September 9 to 15 included when the totals are compared with those of previous weeks, the amount of active construction in this city is sufficient to keep the industry well engaged. New work reported last week involved 234 new structures being planned at an estimated total cost of $9,403,500, and 111 contracts awarded at a total value of $5,467,700.

The list of new projects being planned for New York City includes 34 business projects such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $1,726,000; 6 educational buildings, $153,000; 1 hospital, $5,000; 5 industrial buildings, $74,000; 2 public buildings, $95,000; 7 public works and public utilities, $3,616,000; 5 religious and memorial structures, $146,000; 172 residential prospects including apartments, flats and tenements, and one- and two-family dwellings, $3,535,500; and 2 social and recreational buildings, $53,000.

Among the 111 contracts awarded in New York City during the thirty-seventh week of this year were 18 commercial projects of various types, $1,466,000; 3 educational projects, $1,617,600; 3 industrial buildings, $60,500; 1 public building, $79,000; 3 public works and public utilities, $214,600; 2 churches, $36,000; 82 residential operations, $1,944,000, and 1 theatre, $50,000.

British Land American Architects

European architects are reported to be showing unusually marked interest in the exhibition of American architecture at the tenth International Congress of Architects at Brussels. The exhibition was organized last year by the American Institute of Architects as a special section at the Spring Salon in Paris. At the close of the salon the exhibition was loaned to the Royal Institute of British Architects and hung in London. The exhibit has been so well received that requests have been received to have it shown in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Liverpool, Birmingham, Manchester and Newcastle, and other cities.

"The effect and the results of the exhibition were far beyond all expectations," wrote the secretary of the Royal Institute of British Architects. "It was an absolute revelation to the press and to the general public, as well as to the profession. It brought home to them in the most conclusive way that the accounts that British visitors to America had brought back with them fell short of the truth, and that, in sober truth, the achievements of American architects in the last thirty years were without parallel in our times."

Watson Elevator Company, Inc., Is Busy

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

DECIDED improvement in the local building material supply situation, brought about by settlement of the railroad difficulties, has been reflected during the past week in the increased interest in construction. Several large Metropolitan operations have been reported as being planned, and some interesting work has recently been placed under contract. The outlook for an exceptionally busy autumn building season is bright and as labor is being released from speculative work there is less comment upon the scarcity of mechanics for commercial and industrial projects.

The scarcity of certain essential basic building materials, which a few weeks ago was the chief source of worry to the contractors, is not nearly so acute at present, and as the railroad freight situation improves there will be consequent relief to the builders who have been waiting for delayed deliveries. The demand for building materials and supplies is very keen, and from all accounts will continue so for some time to come. Prices are very firm.

Common Brick—Business in the New York wholesale market for Hudson River common brick was fairly active during the past week. Demand continues strong and it is the general trade impression that the recent easing off of prices has stimulated buying to some extent. Reported sales during the past week were slightly in excess of the brick arrivals and as a consequence there is less brick being held over from week to week. At the present time common brick prices in the wholesale market range from $15 to $18 a thousand, and although there have been rumors of offerings under the lower figure they were for off-quality brick. There is nothing of special interest reported from the manufacturing district. The season is rapidly approaching when brickmakers must suspend operations in the open yards for the winter, but there is a vast amount of brick in the kilns ready for burning as soon as fuel becomes available and obtainable at a reasonable price.

Summary—Transactions in the North River common brick market for the week ending Thursday, September 21, 1922. Condition of market: Demand strong; prices slightly easier. Quotations: Hudson River, $15 to $18 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 35; sales, 41. Distribution: Manhattan, 8; Bronx, 5; Brooklyn, 17; New Jersey points, 7; Astoria, 2; Flushing, 2. Remaining unsold in the New York wholesale market, 14.

Lumber—Current reports from both wholesale and retail branches of the local lumber business indicate an excellent demand and a very favorable outlook for the remainder of the year. The high rate of building activity in the Metropolitan district has created an extremely busy retail market and the large movement of lumber through the retail channels is reflected in the active demand in the wholesale markets for replenishing stocks. The wholesale market, however, has been handicapped to some extent because of delayed shipments from manufacturing centers, due to the railroad freight situation and the embargoes on certain lines. Prices on practically all lumber items are very firm and there is a decided inclination toward higher levels in those lines which are in particular demand for building purposes.

Structural Steel—There has been a decline in the demand for fabricated steel during the past week, but it is likely that the market will recover shortly. It is the general feeling that the lack of interest is due to the high prices and the extended deliveries. There is a vast amount of new construction in early prospect, but quite some proposed construction is being held in abeyance in the hope of easier prices and better deliveries. The monthly report from the Department of Commerce shows a slight increase in structural steel sales for the month of August. According to this report, the sales of fabricated material in August showed an increase over the low figure reached in July. August sales amounted to 65.2 per cent. of shop capacity, as compared with 62 per cent. in July and 72 per cent. in June. Reports have been received from 125 firms for each of the five months, April to August, inclusive. These 125 firms report a total shop capacity of 208,245 tons per month. The actual sales for the past five months were: April, 181,947 tons; May, 165,272 tons; June, 149,907 tons; July, 129,160 tons, and August 135,843 tons.

Reinforcing Bars—The demand for concrete reinforcing bars shows some improvement, and as there is every prospect for increased industrial construction during the next few months manufacturers look favorably upon the future. Prices are very firm at present.

Electrical Supplies—Business in this line is improving speedily and there has been a slight increase in demand since the railroad freight situation changed for the better. The autumn building program is heavy, and the requirements from this industry are expected to amount to very substantial orders. There has also been a decided improvement in the demand for materials and devices for repairs and replacements, which is a reflection of the brighter outlook for greater industrial activity in this locality. It has been reported that the larger sizes of conduit are running low, with prices stronger and further increases likely in the near future. Flexible armored conductor stocks are also lower than desirable, with prices correspondingly stiff. Prices on appliances are firm.

Cast Iron Pipe—Manufacturers of cast iron pipe report that they are booked up to capacity for the remainder of the year, and according to the present rate of new inquiry the first quarter of 1923 will be exceptionally busy for the producers. Although new municipal business is scarce, there is a large volume of business being placed by private sources. Deliveries on the small sizes are still extended, with from three to four months about the best to be done by some of the Eastern producers. Prices are very firm, with New York quotations as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton, in carload lots, f. o. b., 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Linseed Oil—Slightly improved demand has firmed up the market for linseed oil to some extent, but dealers are of the opinion that it will be some time before the market gets back to a really firm basis. The demand is far below what it should be, but recent inquiries denote better prospects for the future. Prices are steady and unchanged.

Nails—The demand for nails is very active and likely to hold while building maintains its current rate of progress. Due to the fuel scarcity and the railroad freight delays, local stocks are dangerously low and consequently prices are advancing. New York quotations on wire nails are $3.35 to $3.50 base, per keg, and cut nails $4 base per keg.

Window Glass—Buying continues active and as long as the building industry continues its prevailing rate of progress the demand for glass will hold strong. Stocks are not quite as complete as they might be, but all requirements are being met. Prices are very firm.

BLACKMAR'S ASBESTOS LIQUID ROOFING

Standard Leak-proof Roof Covering of the World. Not a roof paint. It is a new roof. One application will make old leaky roofs just like new at a cost of about 14¢ sq. ft. Prepared in containers ready for use. WE CHALLENGE any manufacturer to a comparison of materials by analysis, test of durability and process of manufacturing. There is not a better Asbestos Liquid or Plastic Cement Roofing at any price. Not affected by the coldest winter weather or the hottest blazing sun; resilient, elastic, expands and contracts with the surface on which it is applied. Will never crack. Air, rain or moisture cannot penetrate the material, absolutely impervious to water, nonporous, permitting no passage of moisture in any degree into or through the material.

Fall Rental Conditions

Surveys of the housing situation on the eve of the fall moving day disclose much more healthy conditions in realty circles than have existed for several years. Until landlords and tenants come together in the semi-annual contest over apartments and rentals thereof within the city limits the actual state of the leasing end of the real estate business cannot be very accurately gauged. But now that October 1 is at hand, both brokers and others conversant with what is going on throughout the various sections of the city with respect to the demand, the supply and the price of living quarters for the rich, the poor, and the great middle classes, are in a position to know just how far New York has gone in providing for the actual needs of its citizens. That there had been a large amount of building was conceded, but how far this had overcome the shortage, and whether all classes of tenants would be relieved, was problematical.

Information obtained by THE RECORD AND GUIDE from various sources indicates pretty clearly that there is no considerable number of vacancies in housing of any description. Undoubtedly not all of the highest-priced apartments have tenants and there is more than a suggestion that rentals of the most expensive suites are being shaved and may be further reduced after the renting season is over for this time of year. The only other vacancies are reported in the upper sections of the city, where apparently two- and three-room apartment building was slightly over done. In Manhattan these small apartments are all filled. Of moderate-priced quarters in any part of the city there is no excess, and there still is crying need for the kind of flat renting below $20 per room.

What is evident is that the very considerable building movement of the last eight months hardly more than kept pace with the normal growth of the city and that in the medium, lower-priced flats and apartments there has not yet been effected any extensive relief from the congested conditions of two years ago. The fact that prices are not rising indicates that the building program was sufficiently large to prevent a recurrence of the upward movement so marked a year or two ago. That rentals are being firmly held and vacancies comparatively few indicate the stabilizing of the leasing situation. With landlords and tenants accepting present conditions as more or less inevitable, there is less friction between them, which augurs well for both.

Publicity for Coal Profiteering

While the national and state authorities are doing what they can to reassure coal consumers, it is recognized on all sides that the anthracite situation is sufficiently serious to cause no little concern. The authorities believe, however, that the winter can be passed without suffering if all the anthracite users show proper regard for the general interest in meeting the situation.

It is evident that State Fuel Administrator Woodin fears many citizens may be reluctant as to advise him as to the operations of coal profiteers. It certainly is reassuring to learn from him that there is no reason why anyone should have to pay much more for coal this year than last. His statement is borne out by the announcement of the principal coal dealers in the metropolis that the rates for the present will compare very favorably with those of last March. As to prices, however, the State Fuel Administrator urges consumers who feel they are over-charged to furnish him in writing the facts in any case where a dealer exacts profiteering prices. That is the only way, as Mr. Woodin points out, by which the state authorities can get the information they will require in order to proceed against any dealers who may seek to take unfair advantage of their customers. Mr. Woodin declares that persons furnishing his office with such information need have no fear of reprisals, and he believes he is in a position to protect them against such developments.

In this connection the World makes a pertinent suggestion, namely, that if Mr. Woodin is looking for a method of curbing profiteers without going into the coal business for the State he will find nothing better than daily published lists of dealers whose prices are excessive. The World believes there is not a newspaper in this city or in the state that would not aid in maintaining fair prices by printing such lists, and that there are few householders who would not consult these lists before purchasing their coal.

If developments in the next few weeks are such as to make necessary a public drive against profiteering, this suggestion undoubtedly would prove well worth adopting. It is true, as the World pertinently declares, that profiteering can stand nearly anything but publicity.

Curbing Jurisdictional Strikes

The drastic resolution to prevent jurisdictional strikes adopted by the Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor at its recent Atlantic City conference will undoubtedly exert a salutary effect upon the building industry in every part of the United States. This resolution, which is to be acted upon in the near future by the national labor organization, has for its prime objective the elimination of strikes in the building trades over questions of jurisdiction.

For many years past jurisdictional strikes, in which two or more trade unions disagreed over which trade should or should not do certain work on construction projects, have been a serious retardant to building progress. A large amount of valuable time has been wasted pending the settlement of these strikes and the financial loss to both the industry and the striking workmen has been very great. In the majority of instances there has been little necessity for these strikes because they have been over questions that could have been settled promptly by the arbitration machinery provided for exactly such emergencies.

The Executive Committee of the Federation has recognized for some time the evils which were resulting from these strikes and although the resolution forwarded to the Federation for early action was a direct outgrowth of the refusal of the Carpenters' Union to abide by a decision of the National Board of Jurisdictional Awards in the difficulty between the carpenters and the sheet-metal workers as to which trade was to place metal doors and trim in buildings, definite measures to prevent future jurisdictional troubles have been contemplated for some time.

Auction Sales of Lorillard Estate and University Heights Lots

THE New York Public Library, as the co-owner of the Lorillard Spencer Estate in the Pelham Bay Park-Long Island Sound section of the East Bronx, will share with the heirs of the Lorillard Spencer Estate in the proceeds of the sale of the property at absolute public action, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, on Columbus Day, Thursday, October 12, and the following days: Friday, October 13, and Saturday, October 14, at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., daily, on the premises.

For the purpose of this big auction sale, the Lorillard Spencer Estate has been divided into 1,200, 25 x 100 foot lots, fronting on Long Island Sound, the Eastern Boulevard, Middletown Road and other prominent avenues, and located directly opposite the Pelham Bay Park, the $1,000,000 Isaac L. Rice Stadium and Playfield, and the Huntington Estate, and directly north of the highly restricted Westchester Country Club. The lots are unrestricted, as to the character and cost of the residences to be erected thereon, except with regard to the protective zoning regulations of the City of New York, which safeguard the property against undesirable improvements in the future.

The Lorillard Spencer Estate waterfront and Pelham Bay Park lots are located only a few short blocks south of the Pelham Bay Park terminal station on the Lexington Avenue subway, and also a few blocks from the Buhre Avenue and Middletown Road stations on the same rapid transit line, at a five-cent fare to all parts of the City of New York. A bus line runs on Eastern Boulevard, past the property to be sold, from West Farms to City Island.

The highly protected and unique location of this property, on and overlooking Long Island Sound, facing Pelham Bay Park, adjoining the Westchester Country Club, and close to three subway stations, offers to the home-seekers of New York one of the rarest of rare opportunities to buy one or more standard size city lots on or near the waterfront and to build thereon, under the munificent tax-exemption law, a more or less costly permanent home, a summer cottage or an inexpensive bungalow.

Between the Lorillard Spencer Estate and East Tremont Avenue, the gateway to the famous Throg's Neck section, where approximately 1,000 homes have been erected in the last two years, is located the highly improved and popular Lohbauer Park residential colony, which property was sold at public auction by Mr. Day more than a decade ago.

With the exception of the Westchester Country Club prop-

The Executive Committee's resolution, severe as it may seem to some, is an important step in the right direction. There can be no permanent peace in the building industry if the decisions of committees and boards specially organized to handle and settle certain matters are utterly disregarded. The prime function of the American Federation of Labor is to supervise and direct the affairs of organized labor in the United States and when its appointed agents for settling differences are ignored and the rulings of duly authorized boards are flouted the only possible recourse of the Federation is to take such measures as will promptly bring the recalcitrant unions back into line and make them powerless to delay the industry's progress and the prestige of the parent organization.

erty, which is to be cut up into large size, highly restricted residence building lots, and sold, the Lorillard Spencer Estate is practically the last large property in the Pelham Bay Park and Long Island Sound section of the East Bronx remaining to be sold at public auction. The only other property of note is the Huntington Estate, which lies just north of the Lorillard Spencer Estate and east of Pelham Bay Park, with a considerable frontage along Eastchester Bay overlooking Long Island Sound.

The late Lorillard Spencer, 1st, acquired this property for use as a country seat, about 75 years ago. The 1,756 acres constituting the area of Pelham Bay Park, with about 20 miles of water frontage, were acquired by the City of New York in the year 1888, about 40 years ago, 35 years after Lorillard Spencer, 1st, had the foresight to purchase the present Lorillard Spencer Estate, which at that time was located in Westchester County, although now a part of the Bronx.

Pelham Bay Park is one of the largest, if not the largest, waterfront playground in the world, and this great public park, on a site directly opposite the Lorillard Spencer Estate, on Middletown Road, is the location of the $1,000,000 Stadium and Playground erected by Mrs. Isaac L. Rice as a monument to the memory of her late husband.

The subdivision of the Lorillard Spencer Estate among hundreds of New York City home-seekers will create a new and most desirable residential colony in the five-cent fare zone of the City of New York, and outside of the fire limits, where the erection of frame constructed dwellings and bungalows is permitted.

In the University Heights-West Bronx section of New York, where the recent sale, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, of the Montgomery Estate, for $441,000, established new ranges of value, the same auctioneer will sell by absolute receiver's auction sale, on Tuesday, October 17, at 12 o'clock noon, in the Real Estate Exchange, No. 14 Vesey St., New York City, the 63 lots comprising the entire block bounded by Featherbed Lane, West 172d St., Shakespeare and Nelson Aves. The property is to be sold for the Atlantic Dock Company, in liquidation.

These lots are in the center of the immense apartment building activity that, for the last three or four years, has completely transformed the University Ave. and Jerome Ave. sections of University Heights in the West Bronx. The 170th St. and Belmont St. stations on the Jerome Ave. subway are near.

Tentative Assessments to Be Made Public Next Monday

ON next Monday, October 2, the Board of Taxes and Assessments will make public the tentative real and personal property assessment rolls. Taxpayers will have until November 15 to file protests provided they believe the value assessed against their property is unjust. Unless such protests are filed within the time and in the form prescribed by law taxpayers will have no recourse to the right of certiorari proceedings. The publishing of the assessment rolls will be followed on October 10 by the presentation of the tentative budget. The proposed budget must be filed by the Board of Estimate with its secretary on or before October 20, after which date no new item may be inserted. The budget must be finally adopted and certified and filed with the city clerk by December 25.

REAL ESTATE SECTION

Few Vacancies Oct. 1, Except in High Class Apartments

Buildings With Small Suites Not Fully Rented in Upper Sections of City, But Shortage of Low Cost Quarters Continues

THE outstanding feature this year of the autumn moving which has been going on all this week, is great concentration of moving from one place to another within Manhattan, instead of out of it. Last year at this time there was a great movement of tenants from the central borough to the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, as well as to suburban areas. This year the trend is for tenants of all classes to move into cheaper apartments than they have been occupying. The scale of reduction is from $1,000 to $1,500 a year each on rental on the part of tenants all along the line on apartments that range in rent from $3,500 to $7,500 a year each. Most of the vacancies are in the higher-priced apartment buildings, for the reason that the tenants in that class of buildings are the ones who started the reducing process by removing to lower-priced quarters. The fact that they prefer to pay the rents demanded for apartments considerably lower in price is causing a maintenance of rental standards in the latter buildings. There are few if any apartments in Manhattan available at from $2,500 to $4,000 a year. And there are practically none vacant at figures lower.

The movement of families is a sort of chain movement. As soon as an old tenant moves out the new tenant is there with his load of furniture to move in. Frequently the moving schedule of the van owners is upset by some tenants not moving on the day or hour set by them. This results in confusion and delay for many other moving tenants.

All of the new apartment houses in Brooklyn and Queens and the Bronx are being filled by tenants within those boroughs primarily. The new buildings have simply met the demand for living space that was so long acute there. Rents in these boroughs have not been reduced to any marked degree, except in certain parts of the Bronx, where there is a super-abundance of new small suites. Manhattan could stand an increase in the number of small apartments at this time, but it is not having a sufficient increase of them. General cost of construction, along with the fact that higher rents obtain in Manhattan anyway, has much to do with the shortage of reasonable-priced suites here.

It is impossible to get apartments in Manhattan renting at from $15 to $20 a room a month when modern and old apartments in Brooklyn and Queens are in many instances bringing more than those figures. The only apartments here that rent at anywhere near those sums are in the older parts of Yorkville, Harlem and the lower West Side; and they are all occupied.

One need only look into the average storage warehouse in this town to learn the reason for high rentals for all kinds of apartments. Spaces in the ground floors of storage buildings that are usually utilized for the receiving and discharge of furniture are now occupied as permanent storage space. Warehouses simply are not large enough to hold all that it is sought to put into them. Thousands of families who cannot obtain apartments within their means are storing their furniture and either boarding in apartment hotels of all kinds and descriptions or living in boarding houses. Numerous well-known storage firms have within the last year built large annexes to their buildings or have built large new branches in other parts of town where there is excessive demand for storage space. Other new warehouses are in course of construction. It is one line of business that is doing splendidly. Many families that have in the past occupied apartments of from five to seven rooms are conserving their rent by moving into suites of three and four rooms.

The higher-priced apartments are usually taken on leases ranging in length from one to three years, primarily the latter term. As those on which leases expire this autumn are given up the tenants in many cases are storing either all or part of their furniture, according to what the particular tenant has decided to do as regards a cheaper apartment or none at all. It is believed that rentals on the high-priced apartments will be shaved considerably after October 1, but that remains to be seen. Certainly the boarding-house business is thriving.

On all sides it is argued that prevailing high rentals for all kinds of apartments is a logical outcome of the situation. Construction costs are high, taxes are high, building laws are exacting in their demands for safety against fire and as regards cubic space for air and light, and cost of maintenance is high. Added to this there is no over-supply of buildings. The situation seems to prove what was apparent a year or more ago, that it would take from two to three years at least for the apartment-house supply to catch up with the heavy demand for living space. When that happens generally there may be a fall in rentals, but not before. There are many new buildings in a state of near-completion but which are not ready for this autumn's rental demand. Probably spring will arrive before they are available. Will they be sufficient in number to cause a fall in rentals, considering their high cost? It seems inevitable that the tenant must pay the penalty of high cost of construction the same as the consumer of any other commodity is paying for high cost and general shortage.

The movement of families to the suburban areas is not confined to any particular period of the year. Vans are busy at odd seasons moving them to the suburban counties of New Jersey, to Westchester County, to Nassau and to Suffolk. Most of the exodus to those points is by persons who have bought houses there and at prices higher than prevailed before the war. The shortage of houses for rent in all suburban areas is as acute as the shortage of apartments is within the city and the rentals are as high as ever in the past. The increases range from 60 to 100 per cent.

Discussing the situation, Charles F. Morris, president of the Van Owners' Association and himself the head of a large warehouse corporation, said: "There never before was such a concentration of moving within Manhattan as there is this autumn. The shortage of apartments within the financial reach of the average man is great and the result has been a great increase in the demand for storage space. All warehouses are full to the limit. The movement of families in the other boroughs is confined primarily to those boroughs. There is no pronounced interborough feature this year. Our work brings us into contact with all classes and conditions of persons. For the life of me I do not see where the man of small means is going to live on a rental within his means in any borough of the city. The storage business shows that there is no immediate or remote likelihood of rentals coming down to any appreciable extent. It looks as if all of New York is destined to be a city of very small families or no families. The doubling up process of metropolitan living is more apparent to we warehousemen than it is to the general run of the population. The living problem is making a storage problem."

Building Managers Show How to Avoid Soft Coal Hazards

Dangers of Spontaneous Combustion and Flue Fires Can Be Lessened by Proper Storage and Removal of Soot in Chimneys

IN view of the shortage of anthracite and the necessity for the substitution of bituminous coal by many consumers who are unaccustomed to its use the Fire Prevention Committee of the Building Managers' Association has issued a statement calling attention to the fire hazards in the use and storage of soft coal, as follows:—

"Large quantities of soft coal are being stored by mercantile establishments and industries because of the fear of a fuel shortage during the winter. The danger of spontaneous combustion in this causes a serious fire hazard, and unusual care should be exercised by the owners of such properties. The hazard can be reduced by proper selection of the grades and sizes of soft coal, and the exercise of proper precautions in its handling and storage. Where large quantities of soft coal are stored in the open it should be in separate piles, so that a fire starting will not spread through the entire supply, and the affected pile can be extinguished or moved. Where the coal is stored in basements the Fuel Administration suggests the following precautions:

Coal the size of a walnut or larger is well adapted for storing. Mine run, slack or screenings, on account of fine coal and dust, are not suited for storage in a basement.

Never place coal near a hot pipe, against a hot furnace or any other hot surface.

Do not mix ashes with the coal, as there may be live coals in the ashes.

If coal must be wet down, wet only the portion that is to be used immediately.

It is very important that pieces of waste, oily rags, sticks, paper and other rubbish should not be mixed, or allowed to come in contact with the coal.

Special attention should be paid to the proper cleaning of flues and chimneys regularly.

"Large numbers of shingle roof and defective flue fires are being reported, due to the increasing use of soft coal. The accumulation of soot on heating surfaces reduces the value of the fuel and starts fires. The Federal Fuel Administration Board suggests the following plan for removal of soot:

"The fire is put into good condition with a substantial body of hot fuel. Common salt, thoroughly dried, is then thrown or sprinkled on to the incandescent fuel bed in a quantity depending entirely on the size of the furnace. In the case of a house heating furnace, one pound at a time is ample, in the case of a large power plant boiler four or five scoops fully may be required. The dampers are kept open so as to maintain the furnace temperature and the salt is allowed to remain until the fumes have entirely disappeared.

"Immediately upon charging the salt, the furnace becomes filled with dense white fumes which may require as much as half an hour to entirely disappear. If results are not secured on the first application, it should be repeated as many times as necessary. Once the heating surface is thoroughly cleaned a small application every few days is usually sufficient to keep it so.

"Everyone using soft coal is urged by the administration to use this remarkably simple and cheap process for getting rid of the soot, cleaning and heating surfaces of boilers, thus saving large amounts of coal, preventing fires from chimneys and generally conserving all along the line of heating and the production of power."

William H. Woodin, State Fuel Administrator, has issued a warning to dealers in and consumers of coal that ignorance of General Order No. 1 will not prevent their vigorous prosecution for infractions of the order prohibiting the sale of more than two weeks' supply to one customer. Mr. Woodin declared this order is still in force and that the penalty for the first offence, which constitutes a misdemeanor, is a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year or both.

A second offence constitutes a felony and the penalty is more severe. Mr. Woodin believes prices for coal can be kept at a small advance over last year's figures. Hard coal continues to arrive in New York in large quantities.

A new high mark for coal car loadings last week was reported by the Association of Railway Executives in the following statement:

"The total for the week was 212,110 cars. This exceeded the preceding week by 10,968 cars. On the basis of this loading coal production during the past week approximated 11,500,000 tons, of which about 9,750,000 was bituminous and 1,750,000 tons was anthracite coal. Total production for the week before was approximately 10,633,000 tons for both kinds of coal.

"Bituminous coal loading last week, according to complete reports, totaled 177,207 cars, 1,881 cars over the week before. The remaining 34,903 cars were loaded with anthracite, an increase of 15,087 cars over the preceding week.

"Loading of anthracite coal on Saturday amounted to 5,588 cars, 142 under the day before, but 137 cars above the daily average for September one year ago."

President Harding has appointed C. E. Spens as Federal Fuel Distributor. He has named two committees to assist the Government in efforts to speed up transportation of coal and to conserve available supplies.

One committee is composed of railroad men, headed by President Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, to handle the transportation problem. The other committee comprises business men headed by S. M. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The United Real Estate Owners' Association, through its president, Stewart Browne, announces that it is prepared to furnish its members with five tons of coke at $15 per ton delivered and with ten tons American smokeless semi-anthracite coal at $12.75 per ton delivered.

Monthly Meeting of the New York Society of Architects

THE regular monthly business meetings of the New York Society of Architects have been resumed after the usual summer recess. The first meeting, which inaugurates the new season's work for this organization, was held at the United Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street, Tuesday evening, September 19. There was a large attendance especially in view of the fact that many members of the Society are still out of town. One of the most gratifying features of the meeting was the large attendance of new members and their interest in the proceedings.

After the usual routine business of the evening was disposed of George Meisner, Louis R. Uffner and Eugene Schoen were elected to membership in the Society.

Following an extended discussion a resolution was unanimously adopted that the New York Society of Architects make application to the Board of Appeals to adopt a uniform method of procedure for all Superintendents of Buildings in approving the plans which are submitted to their bureaus by architects and others, independently of any action in the granting of building permits. This resolution was passed as expressing the Society's sense of the confusion existing in the various branches of the Building Department, arising in part from the newly adopted requirements of the Compensation Law.

Another Palatial Apartment Hotel In Terminal Zone

George A. Fuller Company Has Contract to Construct Project According to Plans and Specifications of Schultze & Weaver

PLANS are being prepared in the offices of Schultze & Weaver, 17 East Forty-ninth street, for another palatial apartment hotel to be erected on Park avenue, in the Grand Central Terminal Zone. This structure will be located at 299 Park avenue and will embody a number of novel features in its plans. This apartment hotel will be erected over the tracks of the New York Central Railroad, on the east side of Park avenue, and will take in the entire block front between Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets.

The size of the plot to be improved is 200x150 feet and in order to insure perpetual light and air a new street will be built along the rear or eastern boundary connecting Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets. The building will have its principal entrance on Park avenue, near Forty-eighth street, and the central portion of the Park avenue facade will be occupied by a restaurant, intended to be used by the public as well as the tenants of the building.

A ballroom, with its own private entrance, foyer and subsidiary rooms, will be on the east side and this suite has been designed to take care of the need of a small ballroom to accommodate parties of between 250 and 300 people, which has existed in New York ever since the demolition of the Sherry Building, corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street.

There will be six private dining rooms on the mezzanine floor and the kitchen will be located directly between the ballroom and the restaurant. The latter will be in charge of one of New York's famous restaurant managers and will be operated primarily for the benefit of the tenants of the building.

NEW APARTMENT HOTEL BEING ERRECTED ON PARK AVENUE

Suites in this apartment hotel will range in size from one to six rooms with maid's rooms in the larger units. There will be single rooms on each floor which will be retained for rental purposes by the company, so that tenants desiring to have guests may avail themselves of these additional rooms for a limited period without incurring the expense of renting when they do not require them.

Meals will be served in the apartments from the kitchen below with no extra charge and it is intended the rental shall cover such items as maid, valet and lighting service.

The building will be erected under a general contract by the George A. Fuller Company and Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have been appointed renting agents.

Street Improvement in the Roadway at Columbus Circle

THE rapid growth of traffic at Columbus Circle has compelled the widening of the roadway at the north side of the circle and Broadway by taking away eight feet at the turn. After nearly two years' effort on the part of the Columbus Circle League it was finally arranged that the work be done by the Interboro Company and the Bureau of Highways. Changes in the subway structure were necessary before changing the curb line. The work is now under way and when completed the roadway will have a radius of forty feet at this point.

It is claimed that this is the most congested corner in New York and the change there will allow vehicular traffic to move easily and more rapidly. David Robinson, Chairman of the League, stated that continued efforts will be made for an underground passageway from the subway station to the sidewalks at this point.

The continuation of the widening of Madison avenue north of Sixtieth street is another recent example of the high-class development of Madison avenue, which was widened between Forty-sixth and Sixtieth streets last year. Madison avenue already has commenced to feel a tremendous building boom and business development. The improvement has been so marked there is little question but that before another year this avenue will be further widened as far as Eighty-sixth street, making a through traffic street and increasing business development and property values.

A Day of Reckoning In Mortgage Securities

"The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small." Applied to mortgage investments, this inexorable principle means that any mortgage business conducted on an unsound basis will sooner or later come to grief. An unusually active market for securities has recently brought to New York a large number of companies exploiting the mortgage field upon a new basis. The rapidity with which these companies are selling their real estate mortgage bonds, tempting the public by high rates of interest, reminds observers of conditions thirty years ago, when a similar group of mortgage companies came into existence, issuing real estate mortgage bonds by the million to a hungry public. Practically all of these early mortgage companies failed, and it would appear that any mortgage company organized from the selling end and not from the lending end is fore-ordained to fail. To be on safe and permanent ground, a mortgage company should be organized by lenders of care, skill and experience; and managed with full information as to fluctuating real estate values and with a willingness, year after year, to refuse the large fees which accompany excessive loans. In such case, the mortgage company should last hundreds of years, as have the mortgage companies in Europe. On the other hand, if a mortgage company is organized by expert selling men with excessive expenses for advertising, salesmen, office and overhead charges, a pressure to get large commissions ensues, under which mortgages even up to 100% of the cost of the property are accepted. Experience shows that such companies last only during the intervals—long or short—between real estate depressions. If it is argued that these modern companies cannot fail as the earlier companies did, because they guarantee nothing, the answer is that when their issues of real estate mortgage bonds begin to be foreclosed with losses to investors, they can sell no more bonds and will cease business.

How can an investor know whether a mortgage company is organized from the lending end or from the selling end? First—by noting whether the mortgage company will put all of its own resources as a guarantee, back of the mortgage investments it sells; and, second—by the rate of interest which these mortgage investments bear. For example, in the present market, guaranteed mortgages are selling to net 5%. If the real estate mortgage bonds bear $6\frac{1}{2}\%$, 7% or $7\frac{1}{2}\%$ and are unguaranteed, the investor may be quite confident that the company he is dealing with is organized from the selling end. The fact that an issue of bonds, for example, on an office building is written at $6\frac{1}{2}\%$ for ten years or more—whereas office buildings in New York over a period of years earn on an average less than 4% net per annum—does not mean that the investor will receive $6\frac{1}{2}\%$ during the life of these bonds, but does mean that when the present high rents fall, his interest rate will also fall. The stream cannot rise higher than its source, and as these bonds are not guaranteed there is no source from which a higher return can be paid to the investor than the building yields in net rentals. In plain words, this means that the bond issue will be scaled down in amount or in rate, to the normal interest yield. If by chance the investor is so unfortunate as to have purchased a bond on a building erected on leased land, he is in even a worse position, in that he may suffer a total loss. The inexperienced investor does not realize that the ground rent, capitalized at the current rate of interest, constitutes a heavy first mortgage, ahead of his leasehold bonds, so that his first mortgage real estate bonds on a building on leased ground are in effect second mortgage bonds, but are in reality inferior to them, since second mortgage bond holders may protect themselves by buying up the first mortgage, whereas leasehold bond holders have no right to purchase the land, but must continue to pay the ground rent for a long term of years, whether earned or not. The most favorable feature of the recent issues of real estate mortgage bonds is the requirement for annual reductions of principal. It is true that if rentals and values always continued to increase, an issue of real estate mortgage bonds, even up to 100% of the value of the property, might "lift itself by its boot straps" and ultimately by instalment reductions of the principal become a sound investment, but in this plan, the economic factors are not taken into account. At recurrent intervals come business panics, crises and depressions, failures of business houses, unemployment, severe drops in rents and scaling down of real estate values. It is during these periods that holders of excessive real estate bond issues will face loss. A few examples to illustrate recent actual transactions may be worth while:

A store and office building being erected—		Issue	$6,000,000
Land cost, about	$1,750,000
Building cost, estimated	3,250,000
Estimated taxes, financing, etc.	1,000,000	Total	6,000,000
A business building erected—		Issue	$1,650,000
Land cost, about	$ 380,000
Building cost, estimated	1,270,000	Total	1,650,000
An apartment hotel erected—		Issue	$1,100,000
Land cost, about	$ 425,000
Building cost, estimated	675,000	Total	1,100,000
A store and office building on leased ground—		Issue	$3,000,000
Land leased at $115,000 net per year
Building cost, estimated			$3,000,000

Few investors realize that the ground rent of $115,000 which precedes their claim for interest is equivalent at 5% to the existence of a mortgage of $2,300,000 ahead of their claim of $3,000,000.

To sum up—the old fashioned mortgage lenders view with apprehension the large sales of excessive issues of real estate mortgage bonds, bearing high rates of interest. These old fashioned lenders have done business with caution and success over a long term of years and their experience has taught them that 100% mortgage loans at high rates of interest spell loss to the investors who purchase them.

Hylan's Subway Plans Commended by Brooklyn Speakers

Criticism of Injunction Proceedings Which Stopped Operation of Bus Lines Crops Out at Hearing Before Board of Estimate

THE series of hearings before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Mayor Hylan's plans for the extension of the subways was continued last Tuesday, when the Brooklyn lines were taken up. Representatives of many civic and political organizations crowded the room in City Hall where the hearing took place. Several of the speakers referred to the inconveniences to the public caused by the granting by the courts of injunctions preventing the operation of buses. James A. McQuade, of the Fifteenth Assembly District Democratic Club, brought up the question of bus lines.

"When the bus lines were running," said Mr. McQuade, "we had service, but with the Brooklyn City and the B. R. T. or whatever their names are—

"Aren't those bus lines running now?" asked the Mayor.

"No. They have been taken off through that injunction or for some other reason."

Mr. McQuade said that when the buses were in operation the, "cars are falling over each other and there are more cars than people," but that when the buses were stopped, "cars became conspicuous by their absence."

Robert W. Higbie, of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, said that his constituents were in sympathy with the actions of the Board of Estimate and of every other body which will hasten the subway extension. Mayor Hylan informed Mr. Higbie that the Hylan plan contemplated the recapture of lines in 1925 and 1926 as provided by the dual subway contracts, and to that Mr. Higbie replied:

"I can only say, and I have not the slightest disposition to argue with your Honor the Mayor that this is 1922 and not 1925."

When Mr. Higbie made reference to the crosstown line proposed by the Transit Commission Mayor Hylan informed him there would be a hearing on the crosstown line on October 2.

Miss Estelle Corcoran, of Greenpoint, appealed for more transit lines if for no other reason than to save the women from insults at the hands of hoodlums in the subways.

The Mayor announced that he was working out a plan to meet the situation "if the Legislature elected this fall will not give us authority to issue $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 in bonds to purchase and operate buses." He asserted that the Board of Estimate had come to the conclusion that no matter how many subways were put into operation the service would always be inadequate "so long as the transit corporations practically control our State Transit Commission."

George T. McQuade, of the Coastwise Lumber Supply Co., said there were between 150,000 and 200,000 men and women employed in the Red Hook section who were without adequate transportation to and from business. He handed in a list of sixty plants in which these people are employed.

Herbert L. Carpenter, representing the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, read a statement prepared by former Comptroller Herman A. Metz, as chairman of the Chamber's Transit Committee, endorsing the construction of the crosstown railroad as outlined by the Transit Commission, and calling attention to the "small differences in principle which are the basis of the political controversy now going on between the City Administration and the Transit Commission." The statement asked for more co-operation between the Board of Estimate and the Transit Commission.

Walter R. Hart, of the Brownsville Business Men's League, said that the use of a new school house was limited because of inadequate transit facilities.

Alderman Peter J. McGuinness, of Greenpoint, was another speaker who favored the Mayor's plans. Others endorsing the plans wholly or in part were S. A. Rudd and Isaac Frank, Senator Jeremiah Toomey, former Senator Charles A. Russell, John J. Keene of the Prospect Hills Citizens' League; J. J. McCue of the Hylan Park Civic Association, and F. Cornelius Wanamaker, representing the Flatbush Chamber of Commerce.

The next hearing will be on October 2, when the crosstown line and other lines in Queens will be taken up.

Following this hearing there will be opportunity for citizens to discuss the merits of other sections of the plans proposed by the Mayor for extending and improving the subway system in other parts of the city at an estimated cost of $600,000,000.

Merchants' Association Opposes War Memorial in Central Park

THE Board of Directors of the Merchants' Association has adopted a resolution opposing the location of a permanent war memorial in Central Park. The action of this board was based upon the recommendation of its Committee on City Plan, of which Charles R. Lamb is chairman. The matter of a permanent memorial in the park was referred to the Committee on City Plan while it was still pending before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Committee reported on July 15. This report, as approved by the Board of Directors of the Association, is as follows.

"The Mayor's Committee on Permanent War Memorial, under date of June 22, 1922, submitted to the Mayor a plan for the erection on the site of the lower reservoir in Central Park of a Memorial Arch. It is proposed by that Committee to have the dedication of the Arch of Freedom as a central motive of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the greater City of New York to be held in May, 1923. Other features of the proposed war memorial recommended by the Mayor's Committee include a swimming and wading pool and other play ground facilities.

"In conformity with the request of the Mayor's Committee on Permanent War Memorial, the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has recommended an appropriation of $600,000 for the purposes specified. A resolution carrying such an appropriation is pending before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and will be acted upon at the meeting on Wednesday, July 19, 1922. Under the terms of that resolution, one-half of the appropriation, or $300,000, is to be expended on the proposed Memorial Arch and the remaining $300,000 expended on the recreational features mentioned by the Mayor's Committee. The resolution specifically provides that the proposed Memorial Arch shall be located on the site of the lower reservoir, thus limiting the expenditure of this money within Central Park.

"It is understood that the work incident to the erection of the Memorial Arch is to be undertaken at once, but that no expenditure will be made or action taken with respect to the recreational features until after plans have been prepared, presented to and approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment after a public hearing thereon, and that such hearing will probably not be held until next fall.

"After fully considering the Memorial Arch feature of the above mentioned proposals, your Committee on City Plan is unanimously of the opinion that the lower reservoir site in Central Park is not a proper location for this proposed Memorial Arch; that there are other more appropriate sites which should be considered before final action is taken; and that any appropriation made for this purpose should not be limited to expenditure within Central Park.

"Your Committee on City Plan, therefore, recommends that the Association disapprove the resolution pending before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, so far as it definitely fixes the site of the proposed Memorial Arch and limits the expenditure of the appropriation therefor within Central Park."

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Large Loft Buildings and Apartment Houses Were the Outstanding Features of a Week That Had a Big Volume of Business

THE week demonstrated that the flood tide of real estate dealing, due as cold weather approaches, is returning. The market was distinguished not so much for numerous large sales as it was for a steady flow of diversified dealing that shows keen public interest in real estate as a valuable asset. The investment feature was as strong as the speculative and some well situated parcels turned over by speculators passed into the hands of investors. In sorting the market over there gleams out of the aggregate some large elevator apartment houses on the upper West side, a good sized Madison avenue corner suitable as a site for a new large building, a site for a mercantile building on the West side and large loft buildings near Fifth avenue. A sale that recalled the transition of the city in recent years was that of the old five-story building at Union Square and 15th street that was for many years occupied and owned by Tiffany & Company. It passed to Frederick Brown, the fee of the property being a Van Beuren leasehold. The building was remodeled into a loft building for wholesale firms a few years ago. The Yorkville Bank bought a parcel adjoining its home at Third avenue and 85th street, which it will use as the site for an annex to its building.

A noticeable feature of the market was the large number of dwellings that changed hands in all parts of the city. Among them was the costly dwelling at 4 East 65th street formerly occupied by Alfred Wagstaff, Jr. Other choice dwellings in the Fifth avenue, Madison avenue and upper West side districts found new owners as did a few in Harlem and on Washington Heights. Here and there a dwelling was bought for the purpose of remodeling it into studios, apartments and stores. The tendency now is to remodel dwellings into mercantile and store buildings mostly.

Max Natanson has succeeded in reselling practically all of the various parcels he took from Col. Jacob Ruppert recently in payment for the large loft building at Fourth avenue and 29th street that he sold to Mr. Ruppert. The resales proved the absorbing capacity of the market at this time as the parcels in discussion were of varied character and in both the East and West sides of town. It is only two weeks since Mr. Natanson acquired them.

Dealing in Bronx real estate is becoming heavier with each week of the autumn. The demand is varied, ranging from vacant plots for improvement to apartment houses.

Distinctive among leases was the sub-leasing for 63 years, of the northwest corner of Broadway and 34th street to the Fain Knitting Mills by Loft, Inc.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 77, as against 88 last week and 85 a year ago. The number of sales south of 59th st was 35 as compared with 18 last week and 17 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 42 as compared with 70 last week and 46 a year ago.

From the Bronx 37 sales at private contract were reported, as against 58 last week and 39 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 426.

G. L. Miller & Co. Open New York Office

G. L. Miller & Co., investment bankers of Atlanta, Ga., have opened an office at 30 East 42d st., this city. The office will be the national headquarters for the distribution of Miller bonds. The firm for a number of years past has been creating these bonds secured by first mortgages on apartment structures, hotels, warehouses and other income-earning buildings in the leading Southern cities. Through years of hard work and persistent effort Miller & Co. have made these bonds a nationally known investment, thereby bringing millions of dollars into the South annually for the construction of necessary buildings.

The following statement was made by the firm: "The fact that we have moved our principal bond selling organization to New York means that we will be better able than ever before to finance Southern building construction and to furnish high-grade investments to people in the South and throughout the country. We shall continue to create Southern bond issues and will aim at all times to lead as underwriters of the best Southern first mortgage bonds.

"Our New York office is a natural result of steady growth and the leadership which we have attained throughout the South by years of uniring effort. Our firm has already become a national investment institution, with owners of Miller bonds living in every state and in more than 20 foreign countries.

"The possession of an office in New York, the financial center of the country, will give us the facilities which a national financial institution must possess if its growth and usefulness are to be unhampered. In addition to first class Southern mortgage bonds we shall underwrite desirable issues secured by income earning buildings located in cities in all parts of the country.

"Our Atlanta office, as well as those of other Southern cities, will be maintained in the future as in the past."

New Post for Alfred E. Marling

Ely & Co., Inc., was on September 29 elected chairman of the Members' Council of the Merchants' Association by the board of directors of that body. He succeeds William C. Breed, of Breed, Abbott & Morgan, who had been the head of the Members' Council since its organization. Pressure of professional work caused Mr. Breed's resignation from the chairmanship.

The council includes the entire membership of the Association, organized as a body for the purpose of holding monthly luncheon meetings for the discussion of subjects of public interest. Mr. Marling has been a director of the Merchants' Association since 1920, and before that time he served upon several of its active committees. He was chairman of the Committee for the Protection of the Rights of the Public in the Transportation of Goods, which was formed during the period of congestion on the coastwise steamship piers during the longshoremen's strike in 1920. The site has been leased from the New York Central by a syndicate headed by S. Fullerton Weaver.

With pyramided rents and cost of construction the actual cost of the operation will be in the neighborhood of $11,000,000. Schultz & Weaver are the architects and the George A. Fuller Co. the builders. The Guaranty Trust Co. will issue $2,000,000 par value 5 per cent. gold bonds maturing in 1927 and 1936 to cover the loan.

The plot has a frontage on Park av of 100.8½ feet and on the street of 133.4 feet. Work of demolishing the present old buildings will start at once. The loan was negotiated by Lawrence, Blake & Jewell. It is estimated the total operation will involve about $2,000,000.

William A. White & Sons placed since January 1 $23,118,500 in mortgages, of which approximately $8,000,000 has been placed recently. BUILDING SECTION

Classes Forming to Train Building Trades Apprentices

Board of Education Co-Operating with New York Building Congress in Preparing Young for the Construction Industry

THE first classes for the training of apprentices in the building trades will be started early next month through the co-operation of the New York City Board of Education with the New York Building Congress. The plans for undertaking the training of hundreds of apprentices in the building trades, not only in their chosen lines but also in the ideals of good citizenship, have been going ahead for several months past. The Congress Committee on Apprenticeship, headed by Burt L. Fenner, has been disbanded and the work of supervising the training of the apprentices has been turned over to a joint commission which includes employers, union officials, noted educators and representatives of interests allied with construction but which are not directly employers of building labor.

Evening classes for apprentices in the various trades represented by the New York Building Congress will be provided in the evening trade schools conducted by the Board of Education as rapidly as the employers and trade unions are able to come to definite agreements on the subjects. Classes for apprentices in the carpentry trade are to be established in three schools in October. An agreement has been reached also between the Employers' Association and the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, District Council No. 9, which includes Manhattan, the Bronx and Richmond, for classes in the painting and decorating industry. Others will be started as the industries are ready for them. Herman Weinberger, who has been actively in charge of the classes for sheet metal workers, has been made supervisor of vocational training for the Joint Commission on Apprenticeship in the Building Industry and will work under the general direction of Frank L. Glynn, who is largely responsible for plans as finally approved by both employers and unions.

The agreement between the employers and union regarding apprentices in the painting and decorating industry is the latest and is expected to be the model after which future agreements adopted by other trades will be designed. It includes not only evening classes but also gives credit for attendance at day vocation and continuation schools. The rules and regulations governing apprenticeships were adopted by a joint apprenticeship committee composed of three employers and three members of the union.

Rule 1 relates to the recruiting of apprentices and is as follows:

"(a) in recruiting apprentices for the painting and decorating trade the employers guarantee to take all of the graduates from the painting and decorating classes established in the day vocational schools. Such graduates will be allowed one year of the regular apprentice period by the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, District Council No. 9.

"(b) Next preference will be given to boys who are attending continuation school. Selected boys can be secured from these schools through the secretary of the advisory board on industrial education."

The allowance of one year in the apprenticeship period for graduation from a vocational school reduces the apprenticeship to three years.

"During the term of apprenticeship," the rules provide, "the employer shall allow the apprentice one-half the regular hourly wage rate in addition to his time at work for the time spent in school as approved by the joint committee of the painting and decorating industry."

The rules state that "not less than four hours a week attendance at a school approved by the joint apprenticeship committee of the painting and decorating industry" shall be required of apprentices. "Attendance at school shall be during the regularly established evening school session."

The rules for the enforcement of attendance are as follows.

"By employer—Employers shall discontinue the employment of the apprentice who does not fulfill his obligations so far as school attendance is concerned, as determined on review by the joint apprenticeship committee of the painting and decorating industry.

"By unions—The unions shall exclude from membership the apprentice who does not fulfill his obligations so far as school attendance is concerned, as determined on review by the joint apprenticeship committee of the painting and decorating industry."

Carpentry classes are to be established in the Brooklyn Evening Trade and Technical School, Seventh avenue and Fourth street, Brooklyn; Stuyvesant Evening Trade and Technical School, Sixteenth street near First avenue, and the Harlem Trade School, 138th near Fifth avenue. One hundred apprentices have registered, and Director Siegel expects that the number will be increased to 600 by the time the classes are started. Some of the apprentices have had a high school education, and others gave up study before completing the elementary school course, so that the group of students will be a diverse one, requiring almost individual attention.

Except for the granting of credit for graduation from day vocational schools and attendance at continuation schools the agreement between the boss carpenters and unions is substantially the same as for the painters and decorators.

The proposed course of study is as follows:

"1. Shop practice—Proper use and care of hand and machine tools, fundamental trade principles and practices, including framing (balloon and braced), trimming (exterior and interior), erecting scaffolding and staging, form building and the specialized branches of the carpentry trade.

"2. Trade sketching and drawing—Interpretation of plans and specifications—freehand sketches of construction details to reasonable scale, laying out full sized details.

"3. Trade mathematics—Addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of fractions and decimals, with special application to the practical problems relating to the trade. Geometrical problems involving angles, rectilinear figures, arcs and circles relating to the trade. Theory of the steel square.

"4—Trade science—Elementary mechanics, involving the fundamental laws of machines, properties and characteristics of materials used in building construction, shrinking and warping of lumber, atmospheric action on exposed and unexposed surfaces, treatment of materials for preserving and fireproofing.

"5—General information—Trade terms, study of tools and materials, building code, hygiene and safety, and training for citizenship to include industrial history, history of occupation, civics and economics from the industrial relations point of view."

Weekly Building Statistics Tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company Indicate New York City Will Be Center of Activity During Autumn Months

CONSIDERABLE improvement in the volume of active construction in the Metropolitan district was noted last week. There was a decided increase in both newly contemplated projects and the award of building contracts. According to figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, for the week of September 15 to 22, inclusive, architects and engineers reported work on plans for 566 new building and engineering operations in New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, which will require a total outlay of approximately $18,957,900. During the same week the contracts awarded in this territory represented 356 separate structural projects valued at more than $16,876,400.

The reports for New York City are also favorable as to the amount of new construction in prospect for the coming months. According to the figures tabulated for this city there were announcements of plans for 273 new building and engineering operations at an estimated total valuation of $8,940,600 and 121 contracts awarded which will require an outlay of more than $10,531,600.

Among the newly contemplated operations were 29 commercial buildings such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $1,025,500; 6 educational buildings, $1,159,200; 4 hospitals and institutions, $410,000; 7 factories and other industrial buildings, $413,100; 1 public building, $36,500; 7 public works and public utilities, $644,800; 215 residential projects including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $5,056,000 and 4 social and recreational operations, $205,500.

The list of 121 buildings for which contracts were announced during the week of September 15 to 22 inclusive comprised 14 business buildings of various types, $1,140,600; 4 educational buildings, $672,600; 1 hospital, $30,000; 4 factories and industrial projects, $156,000; 5 public works and public utilities, $171,900; 92 residential operations including multi-family and one- and two-family dwellings, $7,860,500 and 1 recreational project, $500,000.

Another Long Island City Plant Started

The Walworth Realty Co., a subsidiary of the Walworth Manufacturing Company of Boston, manufacturers of the well-known Stilson wrench, the Walmanco joint and other steam and gas fittings, tubes, etc., have awarded to Dwight P. Robinson & Company, Inc., the contract for the design and construction of a ware-house, pipe shop and garage to be located on Jackson avenue, Long Island City. The scope of the work includes the design and construction of a 3-story and basement concrete building designed to permit the addition of three floors later on, a garage to accommodate eight trucks, a pipe storage building and a pipe shop extension at the rear of the main building; also necessary retaining walls, platforms, paving and railroad siding.

The main building will contain the offices, city sales department, shipping room and space for the storage of fittings and material. The pipe storage building is to be 60x214 feet, and will be served by a crane running out over the railroad siding. Construction has already begun.

Standardization of Lumber

Following conferences initiated by the U. S. Department of Commerce and held at Washington, Chicago and Portland, Ore., it is announced that there is every prospect that a standardization of lumber trade practices will come about in a fairly short time. There is now working a central committee on lumber standards, comprising representatives of the lumber manufacturers, the retail lumber dealers, the lumber wholesalers, the architects and the engineers.

The committee will develop a program of lumber standardization among the following lines: First, lumber grades and grade names; second, lumber sizes; third, guarantees for the protection of the public. It is working in cooperation with the Department of Commerce in the same manner as the paving brick manufacturers worked in producing their recent standards of sizes. The committee is made up of John W. Blodgett, of the Blodgett Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., chairman; John H. Kirby and Charles A. Goodman, representing manufacturers; Dwight Hinckley, representing the wholesalers; John E. Lloyd, representing retailers; W. E. Hawley, of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Ry., representing railways and engineers, and E. S. Hall, representing the architects.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

CURRENT reports from architects and builders throughout the Metropolitan district are all indicative of an enlivened interest in industrial and commercial construction. The outlook for many new projects of these types is better at present than it has been for many months past. Several large operations were recently placed under contract, and quite a volume of new work is now being planned, and it is anticipated that the major portion will be released for estimates within the next week or so.

Although the season for residential construction, particularly the speculative operations, is rapidly drawing to a close, the local industry has not shown any effects from the decline noticeable in this type of project. The increase in the amount of active commercial and industrial building operations has more than offset the loss, and there is every anticipation that the next few weeks will show a steady and consistent gain in the volume of active work throughout the local territory, despite the approach of autumn, which is usually accompanied by a seasonal decline.

There has been considerable new business booked by building material and supply dealers during the past week or so, and according to the amount of inquiry the next few months will be an extremely active period. The supply of essential building commodities is greatly improved as compared with the shortages that existed only a short time ago, and although prices are generally stiff, the tone of the market is excellent.

Common Brick—The demand for common brick is holding well, despite the lateness of the building season, and from the amount of inquiry an unusually active fall and winter season is being predicted by both dealers and manufacturers. The demand from Brooklyn is the outstanding feature of the common brick market situation at this time, and the sales record of last week shows that one-half of all the brick sold during the week was destined for that borough. Prices are somewhat weaker than they were, but no definite change in quotations has been announced. Prices in the wholesale market range from $15 to $18 a thousand, but the top figure is difficult to obtain and only for brick of the highest quality. The majority of sales have been around $17 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots. The excellent weather of the past two weeks has permitted very active progress in the manufacturing branch of the brick industry. Coal is still very scarce and producers are not burning as rapidly as they would like to. The cold weather of the past few days has brought an additional difficulty to the brick makers, because it has started the Southern drift of its colored labor, which always begins to get homesick as the winter approaches.

Summary—Transactions in North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, September 28, 1922. Condition of market: Demand steady; prices somewhat weaker but unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $15 to $18 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 33; sales, 30. Distribution: Manhattan, 9; Brooklyn, 15; New Jersey points, 5; Astoria, 2; Yonkers, 1. Remaining unsold in the New York wholesale market, 17.

Lumber—The scarcity of freight cars and the slow forwarding of those loaded is at present a most serious problem to local lumber interests. The demand for lumber is holding up very strong, with the retail movement likely to continue for some time to come. The maximum of progress, however, is not possible because of the delayed shipments from production centers. Reports from mills indicate that production is gaining on accumulated orders, which is regarded as an important factor in stabilizing the market for this material. Prices are fairly steady, and no changes of consequence have been announced during the past week.

Electrical Supplies—Local selling interests have little to complain of as far as the demand is concerned. The past week shows a steady and consistent increase in the volume of business reported, and new inquiry denotes an active season ahead. Stocks of conduit are increased to some extent, and the improvement in the railroad freight situation has improved supplies of other items which have been in popular demand. The steady improvement in the commercial and industrial building outlook has created an atmosphere of confidence in the electrical trade. Prices are very firm and unchanged.

Cast Iron Pipe—New demand has slowed down to some extent during the past week or so because the season for purchasing this commodity is drawing to a close. Manufacturers are operating their plants on full time, however, and they have business on their books that will take some time to deliver. The supply of raw materials is greatly improved and pipe producers are quite optimistic. Prices are very strong but unchanged. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton, in carload lots, f. o. b. New York; 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with Class A and gas pipe, $4 extra per ton.

Structural Steel—The local market for fabricated steel is not particularly active at present, but there is every likelihood of considerable improvement within the next few weeks at most, because there is a large amount of high-class new construction now being planned by architects and engineers. The projects for a large amount of new commercial and industrial construction soon to be started in the Metropolitan district are excellent, and these projects are the most important factors in the use of fabricated material. Prices seem to be settling to some extent, and, although no decline is looked for, there is no doubt the market will be more stable very soon.

Window Glass—There is a consistent demand for both plate and window glass in the Metropolitan district, and while the conclusion of the apartment house building season will naturally be reflected in a drop in the volume of purchases for the cheaper grades of glass, the market is most likely to maintain an excellent rate of activity for the next few months. Stocks are not as complete as they should be and some difficulty has been experienced in certain quarters on large orders. Prices are very strong and advances in the near future are anticipated.

Roofing Papers—The demand for roofing and building papers continues keen, due to the extensive building operations still active in the outlying sections of the city and in the near-by suburbs. Manufacturers and dealers anticipate excellent business throughout the fall months. Stocks are said to be adequate, but prices are advancing slightly.

Nails—Buying is light at present, but the general trend of business is indicative of improved demand very soon, particularly as the building situation is steadily gaining strength. Nail prices are practically unchanged.

Builders' Hardware—The demand has not fallen off to any extent and, although shortages have developed in some lines, local dealers are confident that the next few weeks will witness a marked change for the better. Prices are very firm and no reductions are anticipated.

BLACKMAR'S ASBESTOS LIQUID ROOFING

Standard Leak-proof Roof Covering of the World. Not a roof paint. It is a new roof. One application will make old leaky roofs just like new at a cost of about 1½c. sq. ft. Prepared in containers ready for use. WE CHALLENGE any manufacturer to a comparison of materials by analysis, test of durability and process of manufacturing. There is not a better Asbestos Liquid or Plastic Cement Roofing at any price. Not affected by the coldest winter weather or the hottest blazing sun; resilient, elastic, expands and contracts with the surface on which it is applied. Will never crack. Air, rain or moisture cannot penetrate the material, absolutely impervious to water, nonporous, permitting no passage of moisture in any degree into or through the material.

Big Jump in Tentative Assessments

Comparison of the tentative assessments on real and personal property should only be made with the tentative figures of other years. The amounts on the rolls just made public by the Department of Taxes and Assessments will be materially altered before the books are closed, as they have been at each similar period. The tentative realty assessments for 1923 are $10,466,121,527, as against $9,947,323,092 for 1922, an increase of $518,798,435.

If this increase had been made wholly on property included in last year's rolls it would merit serious criticism. But when the lists of hundreds of the principal buildings in the city, prepared by the Tax Department and printed in this issue of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, are examined it is apparent that comparatively few changes from the tentative figures of last year have been made. The large increase in the total tentative realty assessments must, therefore, represent in large measure new construction and additions and improvements to old buildings. If this view is borne out by a more extensive examination than has yet been possible, it will indicate a remarkable growth in the taxable wealth of this city as represented in real property, which continues to be the city's greatest asset. There is, however, another phase of the matter which should receive consideration. The increase in taxables of something like half a billion is in line with the increases in tentative assessments in the last five years. Between 1918, when the tentative figures were $7,930,351,113, and 1922 there has been an increase of $2,016,971,979, or an average yearly increase for the five-year period of $403,394,396 in the tentative assessments. During the five years from 1913 to 1918 the average increase per year was only $56,775,873.

War and its aftermath undoubtedly may be charged with a considerable portion of this huge annual increase during the last five years of the assessments levied on the realty. The natural growth of the city also is partly responsible. But it is doubtful if New York's expansion was at so rapid a rate during the war and reconstruction period as in the five years just preceding. The census figures are proof that it was not. Prices of no other commodity stimulated by war and post-war conditions have had any such relative advance as is indicated by the comparison of the average realty assessments from 1913 to 1918, and those from 1918 to 1923, after making due allowance for natural growth and the inflation due to war.

How to Get More Subways Promptly

It may be a bit too early to assume that the Dove of Peace feels justified in roosting with one foot on the shoulder of Mayor Hylan and the other on the shoulder of Chairman McAneny of the Transit Commission. It is true, of course, that these two leaders in the great metropolitan subway fight are now leavening their asperities with an occasional retort courteous, and that Mayor Hylan, after asking Chairman McAneny to look squarely into his blue eyes, has shown an inclination toward thawing around the edges the frozen face which His Honor hitherto has presented to Chairman McAneny and the Transit Commission.

This is an encouraging sign—in fact, a very encouraging sign. So long as the Hylan Administration and the Transit Commission remain deadlocked, there can be little hope for the construction of new subways in this great city. It is just as vital to the Hylan Administration as it is to the Transit Commission that the people of the metropolis should be provided with increased transportation facilities at the earliest possible moment. The Transit Commission is vested by law with the handling of certain phases of the problem, and the Hylan Administration has its other responsibilities in regard to subways. New York's requirements will not be met until friction between these two agencies is removed. There must be co-operation on both sides.

Developments at the recent hearings on Mayor Hylan's subway plan show that the people in different sections of the city find good and bad points in the Hylan program as well as in the Transit Commission program. There is public approval of various features of both plans. In some important respects, it also has been shown, there seems little choice between the two plans.

Under all these circumstances, therefore, the breaking of the transit ice between Mayor Hylan and Chairman McAneny may prove a happy augury. What is needed is intelligent and hearty co-operation between all officials sharing authority and responsibility in transit matters. There has been altogether too much playing of politics heretofore, with resultant confusion and inexcusable delay.

The way to build subways is to build them, and this can be done if the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on the one hand and the Transit Commission on the other will devote themselves earnestly and patiently to their appointed task.

Seasonal Decline in Construction

It is axiomatic in the building industry that with the approach of winter there is almost invariably a seasonal decline in construction activity. As a general rule the major portion of the residential construction, which annually amounts to a large percentage of the total volume of active work, is substantially completed by October 1, or shortly thereafter, and from this point the industry settles down to its program of commercial and industrial operations and the considerable number of important alteration jobs which frequently are held in abeyance during the earlier part of the season.

Although 1922 will be granted first place in national construction annals as a record year for the number and value of the new building and engineering operations originated and completed, its final quarter will prove no exception to the rule that the intensity of building activity materially slows down as the autumn matures.

Construction statistics for September, 1922, as tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company and portraying the active building and engineering operations in the twenty-seven Northeastern States—a territory including approximately seventy-five per cent. of all the construction projects in the country—show that despite the great progress of the industry throughout the current year a seasonal decline already has commenced which will undoubtedly grow more apparent as the year draws to its close.

The total of building contract commitments for September amounted to $271,493,000. Although this figure is nearly 11 per cent. greater than that for the corresponding month of the previous year, and is by far the highest September total on record, the seasonal decline is quite noticeable, as the figure for the month is approximately 16 per cent. under the August total. This apparent seasonal decline, however, carries with it no menace to the building industry. Architects, engineers, contractors, material dealers and manufacturers are practically all engaged to the full capacity of their facilities. The tremendous building movement of the past nine months has piled up contracts and orders which will require many months still to fulfill. The newly-projected construction, while lighter than during the earlier months of this year, still bulks into a total considerably in excess of the volume of contemplated construction at this period in previous years and, as a result, the building industry of the nation looks forward to an autumn and winter building season of unusual activity and promise.

During the past week or so there has been a decided improvement in the railroad freight situation. Essential building commodities, which for some weeks past have been seriously delayed by congested freight conditions, are now arriving at distribution points in better shipping time and as a result the supply stringency is considerably relieved. In addition the past week or so has witnessed a marked softening in material prices from the high levels which were brought about by the transportation delays and consequent shortages, and both of these changes are important factors in stabilizing the national building situation and making possible predictions of maximum business for all concerned in the industry.

Moving Day Jam Starts Movement to Extend Rental Period Over Three Months

ALL records for October 1 moving were broken this year, it being estimated that never before had so many families planned to change their living quarters on that date. The usual expense and annoyance of moving was greatly increased this year owing to the fact that October 1 fell on Sunday and by the further fact that Monday was a Jewish holiday. Some of the families who were moving arranged for the change during the closing days of last week, but the great majority were compelled by circumstances to get from their old homes into their new ones on Sunday and Monday. The result was unprecedented confusion.

Some tenants could not move into their new quarters because they had waited until the last minute before engaging a moving van and, consequently, they had to move their furniture to the hallways of the houses they were leaving in order to enable the newly-arriving tenants to occupy under leases which began on the first of the month. Then, too, numerous tenants looking for new living quarters expected a reduction in rents and waited until close to October 1 before making new leases. When these tenants did decide to move they found van men swamped with demands.

As a result of the congestion and the trouble it has caused to landlord, warehouseman and tenant, a movement is on foot among the warehousemen and the real estate brokers and managers to co-operate in the fixing of a rental period extending over three months, the lighting and telephone companies, painters, decorators and plumbers being expected also to join the movement. Such a plan, if carried out, would solve for warehouseman and broker alike many problems that are complex and annoying. It would prevent the heavy congestion of moving at one time. It would relieve brokers from many harassing details pertaining to the repairing, decorating and general overhauling of apartments. It would simplify the leasing business, expedite it and cause a better understanding between landlord and tenant. And it would enable painters, decorators and general repairers, and the telephone and gas companies, to do what they have to do in newly-occupied apartments and dwellings more easily and satisfactorily.

Numerous apartment-house managers and brokers are receptive to the proposition. They agree that what is of advantage to the van owners and movers of household furniture generally is of advantage to managers and brokers. The latter are dependent on the former for the quick despatch of departing tenants' furniture and that of the incoming tenants. There has long been complaint among the trades overhauling apartments and dwellings for incoming tenants that they are rushed beyond reason to get living spaces ready for occupancy in time. If the various classes of apartments were vacated and newly tenanted at different months of the year, it is felt, the work would be more widely distributed and more satisfactorily done.

The van and warehouse men state that with the moving period centering around October 1 the congestion is so great they are compelled to hire careless and inexperienced hands to help them expedite business, with resultant damage to household effects. Besides the one rental period enables itinerant moving men, who lack proper vehicles for moving furniture, to do a big business. Tenants become desperate to be moved at given dates and if they cannot hire the right kind of van to be moved with they will take anything they can get from an express wagon to an ordinary open truck. Added to all this it cramps the warehouses beyond capacity. The storage warehouses on October 1 were swamped with demands for space, according to statements made by the warehouse and moving van managers.

The plan is to subdivide the moving period into three dates, namely: September 1, October 1 and November 1. Tenants occupying houses or apartments renting up to $2,000 a year would move on the first date; those paying between $2,000 and $5,000 a year would move on the second date, and those paying from $5,000 upwards would move on the third date. This plan also would do away with excessive moving charges caused by the overwhelming demand for vans. Telephone and gas companies could rearrange their service more easily, and there would be little, if any, friction between managers and tenants. The great growth of New York is reflected in the mixed situation on October 1.

Neither van owners, warehousemen nor brokers and managers expect to cause this transition next year nor the year after, for the reason that it is an adjustment which must take place gradually in the nature of the situation. Tenants, it is pointed out, would certainly welcome the change. In Chicago there are eight moving seasons, four in the spring and four in the fall. It is felt that New York can get along with three if the situation is handled properly, even though New York is larger than Chicago.

The proposals that have been made to the various lines of business interested will be threshed out during the next few weeks. Aside from the comfort to thousands of tenants and property-owners it means doing business in the right way for two hundred or more warehouse and van owners having more than one thousand vans and employing 5,000 men, and it means correct handling of the leasing and management of properties to hundreds of brokers throughout all the boroughs of the city.

Total on Realty Is $10,466,121,520, an Increase of $518,798,435 Over Last Year, with 2,244 New Taxpayers, President Goldfogle Announces

THE Department of Taxes and assessments made public last Monday, Oct. 3, the tentative real and personal assessments for 1923. The realty assessments including real estate corporations for the five boroughs aggregate $10,466,121,520, which figure compares with $9,947,323,092 for last year, and with $7,930,351,113 for 1918 and $7,646,471,746 for 1913. The increase in the realty assessments for 1923 over 1922 is $518,798,435. Tentative assessments of personal property of all classes in the five boroughs aggregate $796,050,-

Tax only $14,818,588.39. What the City will receive for the last six months of this year is problematical but basing our estimates on previous experience it will be very small. Thus the receipts this year from State Income and Corporation Tax will be millions of dollars less than what the City received last year from that source.

The assessments for Special Franchises will not be made up until early next year. tract over last year is $3,715,255.

"In Queens the largest district is District 1, known as the Long Island City section. The increase in that district over last year is $2,922,835. The smallest district in Queens is District 17, known as the South Jamaica section. The increase in that district over last year is $2,265,545.

"In Richmond the largest district is District 1, running along New York Bay. The assessment in that district over last year is $10,551,840. The smallest district in Richmond is District 5, running along Staten Island and Raritan Bays. The increase in that district over last year is $5,117,500.

"The Corporation Council has decided that under the law providing for partial exemption of new dwelling houses the State tax must be paid by the individual taxpayers on amounts allowed for such exemptions. The law prescribes the exemption only from taxes leviable for local purposes. Both the title and body of the law carry explicitly this construction. The State tax rate for 1923 has not yet been fixed. Assuming however that it will be as it was for 1922, approximately one and three-eighths mills, each $5,000 exemption would be chargeable with $6.87 of the direct State tax. For instance a $10,000 exemption on a two-family house would be chargeable with $13.75 of the State tax. The State tax on a multi-family house exemption would, of course, be proportionately greater. Last year the largest exemption for a multi-family house in Manhattan was $719,000, so that allowance would be chargeable with a State tax of $990.78.

"The total exemptions to be allowed for new buildings for 1923 under the tax exemption ordinances are not ascertainable but it is estimated roughly that the total will reach $183,000,000. In other words it is anticipated that in addition to $83,000,000 exempted for 1922 there will be another $100,000,000 for additional new dwellings. Upon this estimate there would be collectable approximately $252,174 on the exempted buildings to cover State tax which otherwise would have to be borne by the City and paid by us into the State Treasury. The State tax, at the rates annually fixed, will be payable each year while the exemption continues under the law."

Personal assessments of all classes in the five boroughs, with the increases over last year, are shown in the following table:

Corporation Counsel Construes Tax Exemption Ordinance

PRESIDENT GOLDFOGLE, of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, in making public the tentative assessments for 1923 has announced a new policy with respect to the inclusion of State taxes in exemptions granted by the Department on new buildings for housing purposes. Last year no line was drawn between taxes for State purposes and those for local expenditures on buildings coming within the provisions of the ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen. Exemptions can only cover local taxes as is clearly established in the following communication to President Goldfogle from George P. Nicholson, Acting Corporation Counsel, in reply to a request for a ruling on the matter:

This department is in receipt of a communication from you dated August 16, 1922, requesting advice as to the construction to be given to the ordinance of The City of New York granting exemption from local taxation to new buildings planned for dwelling purposes and to the provisions of Section 4-B of the Tax Law added by Chapter 949 of the laws of 1920 as amended by Chapter 281 of the Laws of 1922, pursuant to which the ordinance was adopted, and as to the appropriate entries to be made on the assessment or tax roll in instances where the exemption applies. Your communication, so far as material, reads as follows:

"The Commissioners of the Department of Taxes and Assessments submit for your consideration and advice the following inquiries:

"FIRST—Is the amount allowed for tax on buildings coming within the provisions of the Aldermanic ordinances above referred to having reference to the exemption from local taxation of new buildings planned for dwelling purposes in the City of New York and entitled under the aforesaid laws and ordinances to exemption, chargeable nevertheless with tax for State purposes, commonly called State tax?

"SECOND—If so chargeable, may the amount of such State tax be placed as a separate figure on the books to be delivered to the Receiver of Taxes and two separate items of tax charged on such books, namely: one for tax on land and improvements calculated on the assessed valuation, less the amount of the exemption allowed, and one for the State tax, calculated on the amount allowed for such exemption."

That portion of Section 4-B of the Tax Law material to the questions under consideration reads as follows:

"Sec. 4-b. Exemption of new buildings from local taxation. The legislative body of a county or the legislative body of a city with the approval of the board of estimate and apportionment * * * may determine that * * * new buildings therein, planned for dwelling purposes exclusively, except hotels, shall be exempt from taxation for local purposes other than for assessments for local improvements. * * *

And the material portion of the ordinance adopted pursuant to section 4-b of the Tax Law reads as follows:

"Section 1. Pursuant to and in accordance with the provisions of Section 4-B of the Tax Law * * * it is hereby determined that * * * new buildings in the City of New York planned for dwelling purposes exclusively, except hotels, shall be exempt from taxation as herein provided, for local purposes other than for assessments for local improvements. * * *

Thus, the statute and ordinance explicitly state that the buildings affected shall, in the manner therein provided, be exempt from taxation "for local purposes." The limitation so placed upon the exemption necessarily excludes exemption from taxation imposed for state purposes.

Moreover, there are several instances of exemption in the Tax Law wherein it is expressly stated whether the exemption relates to taxes for state or local purposes or both. Section 4-A immediately preceding the section in question provides that intangible personal property shall be exempt from taxation locally for "state or local purposes"; section 205 exempts from taxation for "state purposes" the personal property of corporations taxable under Article 9, and by Section 24-C the tax of one per cent. against bank shares is declared to be in lieu of all other taxes whatsoever, for "state, county or local purposes." Accordingly, it must be assumed that in using the words "local purposes" when enacting section 4-B of the Tax Law and the ordinance adopted pursuant thereto, it was intended that the buildings affected, to the full value thereof, should be subject to taxation for state purposes.

It is the well settled law of this state that statutes exempting property from taxation must be strictly construed, and that an exemption will not be presumed in the absence of language plainly conferring the exemption. As the statute and ordinance in question are expressly limited to exemption from taxation for local purposes, I advise you that the buildings affected are not exempt from taxes imposed for state purposes.

As thus construed, the effect will be to subject to taxation for state and local purposes the value of the land exclusive of the building and the value of the building in excess of the amount of exemption stated in the ordinance, and to subject to taxation for state purposes only, so much of the building value as is stated in the ordinance to be exempt from taxation for local purposes.

President Goldfogle says that the total amount involved in the 1923 taxes, provided the State tax rate is the same as last year, will be approximately $252,174, collectable under the new ruling, which otherwise would have to be paid by the City to the State. The estimated amount of State taxes exempted last year is about $150,000. No decision has been reached as to what action will be taken respecting the exemptions of State taxes erroneously allowed last year.

Another Apartment House Planned at Bronxville, N. Y.

Sagamore Realty Co., George Howe, President, Will Erect Modern Structure from Designs by George Fred Pelham, Inc.

NOTABLE progress has been made in the development of high class suburban apartment houses during the past few years and there are strong indications that this type of habitation will continue to grow in popularity as architects improve in their design and plans.

A new suburban multi-family house project is now being planned by George Fred Pelham, Inc., 200 West Seventy-second Street, for the Sagamore Realty Co., George Howe, president, 527 Fifth Avenue. The building will be located on the crest of Sagamore Hill, Bronxville, N. Y., overlooking Lawrence Park and the Gramatan Hotel. The site was formerly the estate of Henry W. Smith who recently sold it to the new owners for improvement with one of the finest apartment houses that has yet been planned for New York's suburbs.

The site has a large frontage on Sagamore Road and as the plot is approximately 300 feet deep the building will be set well back from the road. The proposed structure has been designed in the style of Elizabethan period of English architecture and its facades will be of Tudor brick, rubble stone and over-hanging half-timbered bays. The roof will be of Tudor slate. The building will contain forty-eight living units in suites of four to seven rooms exclusive of baths. The larger units will contain maids' rooms. In all of the living rooms there will be log-burning open fire places. The kitchens will be equipped with white steel fixtures and will be entered from a service hall.

This building, which will be six stories in height, will have both passenger and service elevators and among the special features for the comfort and convenience of the tenants will be garbage incinerators, laundries, large storage rooms in the basement and a special room for the storage of baby carriages.

The architects estimate this project will cost approximately $500,000. Construction will be started immediately and the building will be completed and ready for occupancy by May 1,

Not So Far Apart on Subway Plans, Say Hylan and McAneny

AT the Board of Estimate and Appointment hearings on last Monday and Tuesday the proposed Brooklyn crosstown subway and the lines in Queens were taken up. George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, explained the necessity of the proposed plan which extends from the Queensboro Bridge Plaza in Long Island City to the Brighton Beach line near Franklin Street, Brooklyn, connecting with existing lines at each end. Mayor Hylan asked if the line would be operated by a private company or by the City. Mr. McAneny replied that it was unnecessary to go into that phase of the matter now. The hearing, he said, was in compliance with the law to determine the route only.

Mayor Hylan insisted that the city will have to pay the bills, if there is a loss, and therefore if there is a profit, should get it. Mr. McAneny said if it had not been for the war the subways would have been able to pay interest on the City's investments in them.

"You might tell that to some people and get away with it," the Mayor rejoined. "You can't tell it to me. We know that the directors of the Interborough cleaned up all along the line, and so do you. You remember the 187 per cent. profit they made in the fat years? Why didn't they lay something aside for a rainy day? If they had, there would have been a different situation."

"I am sorry to be obliged to correct the Mayor," Mr. McAneny replied. "If your statement implies that the dual subway contracts had anything to do with the payment of the dividends you refer to, it hasn't a word of truth in it. The dividends were paid before the dual contracts took effect on January 1, 1919. The Interborough has not paid one dollar in dividends since that time."

"I want to wipe out the past, Mr. McAneny," the Mayor said.

"You've simply got to, whether you want to or not," replied Mr. McAneny.

"Look me in the eye while I am talking to you," the Mayor continued. "Let us work together so that the city will get the benefit of this new plan."

"As that is the intention of the Transit Commission, we are not so very far apart," Mr. McAneny replied.

"I don't think we are so very far apart," said the Mayor. "All we have to do to agree is to turn this stream of nickels into the pockets of the taxpayers."

"We prefer giving it to the fare payers," said Mr. McAneny.

Mr. McAneny declared that the Transit Commission's engineers estimated the cost of Mayor Hylan's proposed subways at $860,000,000, instead of $600,000,000 as estimated by the city's engineers. The crosstown plan will be taken up again at an adjourned hearing on October 16 next.

When the Queens lines were taken up Borough President Maurice E. Connolly and other speakers insisted that the routes proposed by Mayor Hylan should be built in the first five-year period instead of the third. Mr. Connolly objected to the proposed tri-borough bridge and the proposed bridge from Clason Point, the Bronx, to College Point Queens.

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Numerous Small Investors Added Volume to a Market That Lacked Big Transactions, Dealing Being Well Distributed

THE real estate business was wider in scope and slightly heavier in volume than it was last week, but it lacked numerous large transactions such as characterized the previous week. There was a remarkable number of sales of medium sized buildings, mostly old ones, in downtown thoroughfares, both on the East and West sides. They were well divided between business buildings and ancient tenement houses. The biggest transaction among them was a 6-story warehouse on Greenwich street. The large sales were at Fifth Avenue corner, the Evanston apartment house, a Riverside Drive corner building and some Heights apartment houses.

Here and there, throughout the city, old buildings were bought for the purpose of reimproving their sites. Among them was a building on West Broadway. Corner tenement houses with stores in the ground floors were numerous among the sales in East side avenues. Some of them were acquired by tenants of the stores, while operators were the buyers of others from old estates. The operators have awakened the investing public to the possibilities of the East side within recent months.

Numerous medium sized apartment houses as well as 4-story single flats throughout Harlem and Yorkville changed hands.

Some of them will be remodeled and made better revenue producers. The first apartment house erected in the tract of land that was sold by the estate of James Gordon Bennett at auction, on Fort Washington avenue, Washington Heights, was sold this week. A group of old buildings on an Amsterdam avenue corner on the Heights was sold and the buyer will supplant them with modern apartment houses. The plot is 100x100.

Dwellings came in for a good share of attention also. The dealing embraced all kinds, from 2½ story old brick dwellings in Greenwich Village to the varied types that are sprinkled through the upper reaches of town. A few costly residences were bought in the Fifth avenue region. Numerous small investors was the feature of the week.

Eugene Higgins leased for 99 years twelve old dwellings at the northeast corner of Seventh avenue and 130th street. The character of the district has been changed by the negro invasion of it. Houses there, that some years ago were suitable for private use, are now available for apartment houses containing small suites. The buildings will be remodeled. Several large commercial leases were negotiated in the upper and lower parts of the city.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 79, as against 77 last week and 77 a year ago. The number of sales south of 59th st was 25, as compared with 35 last week and 14 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 54, as compared with 42 last week and 63 a year ago.

From the Bronx 35 sales at private contract were reported, as against 37 last week and 26 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 468.

City to Sell Tax Liens

All the properties in Manhattan against which there are unpaid taxes, water rents and assessments will be sold by the city in the Municipal Building on November 9. Many property owners' associations have examined the list of properties to be sold and have warned those of their members whose land or buildings are included therein.

A Real Estate Course

That real estate is a subject worthy of scientific investigation has been recognized by New York University, which has established a course for the training of young men in real estate procedure and practice. The course is primarily for college graduates, but is intended also to meet needs of men and women in real estate or insurance fields. It will be given in 90 Trinity pl.

The West Side Y. M. C. A. has for some years maintained a lecture course on real estate subjects during the winter months. It has been well attended.

Exercises Option to Buy

Oceanic Investing Co. purchased from Mrs. Ophelia A. Byrnes the 6-story brick store and office building at the southeast corner of Fifth av and 46th st, on a lot 25.5x100. The buyers, among whom is A. G. Milbank, are the present lessees of the property.

The corner was recently involved in a deal whereby John F. Galvin, Inc., Boston florists, sold their lease contract, thereby obtaining $100,000 in cash and a store on the 46th st side of the property at a nominal rental for 10 years. This amount was given by the buyers, Lieberman Bros., who wanted the site for the business of John Forsythe & Co.

The Byrnes corner originally passed from the control of the family in December, 1911, when Klein & Jackson leased it and then built a 6-story store and office building. Their contract was for 21 years with renewals and option to purchase. Upon completing the building they leased it to the Galvin interests. In 1916 the Oceanic Investing Co. secured the property from Klein & Jackson, and has now exercised the purchase option.

Adjourn Morgenthau Sale to October 10

The big fall auction sale of the M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co., at which George Fryhofer will make his initial bow in the Vesey st. auction room, has been adjourned to Tuesday, Oct. 10. This adjournment will give the prospective purchasers a further opportunity to inspect the numerous offerings included in the sale.

These range from home sites and business lots in the Jamaica section of Queens, in building plots in Manhattan and Bronx, and the city of Mt. Vernon. In the Jamaica section all of the remaining business lots on Merrick rd in the Country Club District which adjoins the St Albans Golf and Country Club, will be sold. Most of these lots have been disposed of during the last few months but several choice corners still remain and will be disposed of at this auction sale.

Apartments on Bennett Tract Sold

Nehring Bros. sold for M. Solomon & Son to the Murray & Hill Co., 540-550 Fort Washington av, two 5-story and basement brick walk-up apartment houses, each on a plot 75x105. The buildings were recently completed and they contain a total of 62 apartments of from 3 to 5 rooms each. They were held at $300,000. It was a cash sale.

The houses from their rear command an unobstructed view of Washington Heights and the Bronx. The sellers who built the houses bought the lots at the James Gordon Bennett estate sale and were the first builders to build apartment houses on Bennett estate lots. The purchasers will hold the properties as a permanent investment.

Evanston in New Hands

Jerome C. and Mortimer G. Mayer sold through Mark Rafalsky & Co., to Edward Ellinger the southeast corner of West End av and 90th st, a 12-story and basement elevator apartment house, known as the Evanston, on a plot 100.8x162.6. The suites vary from 8 to 10 rooms in size and 4 suites to a floor. The building is fully tenanted. About 2 years ago Mr. Ellinger purchased the plot adjoining on the south, 100x100, from Messrs. Mayer. His recent purchase gives him control of the entire easterly block front on West End av, between 89th and 90th sts.

A New Co-operative Deal

The Mont Cenis Apartments, Inc., a corporation consisting of 24 tenants, has purchased 54 Morningside drive, southwest corner of 116th st., a 6-story elevator apartment on a plot 100.11x90. The house has 4 apartments on a floor, from 5 to 8 rooms each, and the 24 tenants bought stock according to the size and location of their apartments. The house has an uninterrupted view of Morningside and Central parks.

The officers of the new corporation are: Alexander J. Field, of the law firm of Davies, Auerbach & Cornell, president; Maynard W. Hamblin, renting agent of the Western Union Telegraph Co., vice-president; Prof. Clinton Walker Keyes of Columbia University, secretary and treasurer. Spotts & Starr Inc. were the brokers.

Buy Co-operative Apartments

Edward H. Hart, vice-president of the United States Rubber Co., purchased a large apartment from plans in the new 100 per cent joint ownership apartment building to be erected by the Joint Ownership Construction Co., Inc. Frederic Culver, president, at the northeast corner of 69th st and Lexington av.

Douglas L. Elliman & Company sold an apartment in the new building 485 Park av. northeast corner of 58th st. on the 100 per cent tenant-owned plan, to Charles B. Barkley.

Amsterdam Avenue Corner Sold

Thomas & Plannacher, Inc., sold for Louis Old 1948-1954 Amsterdam av. southwest corner of 157th st. 1948-50 being old frame buildings, 1952 a 2-story brick store building, and 1954 the immediate corner—a 5-story brick flat with store. They all occupy a plot 99.11x100.

The parcels were held at $175,000. When the present leases expire the new owners will make substantial improvements.

Sell West Broadway Holdings

The Rowatree Schley Co. sold for Henry W. Faulkner 221 West Broadway, and for his brother, William D. Faulkner, 223 West Broadway, two 4-story brick buildings to Henry Link. The combined plot is 30x100 and will be redeveloped for business purposes. The property at one time belonged to the Eno family who it is said, did not collect as much money from the elevated railroad which failed to pay a quit claim.

Subsequently when a cousin of the present sellers bought the property and put in a claim for damages to the railroad company, it paid him an agreed sum. Later it was found that the claim had been paid twice and the road sued in the three highest courts to recover, but it was held that the error was the company's and the money could not be recovered.

Sells Riverside Drive Corner

Joseph Shenk resold the south corner of Riverside dr and 139th st., a 7-story elevator apartment house, known as the Linlithgow, on a plot 100.8x157.6x99.11x145. The longest measurement is on the street. The building contains 60 apartments. It was held at $450,000.

Movie Producer Buys Island

J. P. & L. A. Kissling sold for Robert Spindler Hardenbergh Island, consisting of 10 acres in Roundout Creek, near Kingston, N. Y. The purchaser is a moving picture producer, who will use it in connection with the moving picture industry.

Small Suites in Brooklyn Overdone

George S. Horton, of Buikley & Horton Company, calls attention to the revival of interest in the basement house, of which there were 40,000 in Brooklyn prior to 1905, but which became unpopular owing to servant difficulties. Prices of private houses, even of American basement design, slid down until the stopping of building during the war gave them a new lease of life.

"Many owners welcomed this recovery," said Mr. Horton, "because, from 1910 up to the Armistice in 1918, they were absolutely a drag on the market and their value pressed down and down with the changing of former good class neighborhoods."

"Owing to the housing shortage these houses were eagerly sought, and the reaction reached its peak in 1920, at which time basement houses were worth 40 per cent more than in 1914. During the last five years upward of five thousand of these houses have been rebuilt into apartment houses, with two-room and bath suites, at a cost of $6,000 to $12,000, and have been renting at from $29 to $30 per room. But there was an overdoing of this, and today rents are breaking in this style of housing, as the supply exceeds the demand. The two-room and bath apartment has surely been overdone in this borough."

"The demand for the old-style dwelling is growing less each year as a unit dwelling, and many are renting as furnished room houses or are salvaged for conversion into two- and three-family houses, making especial appeal to the foreign-born who are not averse to mixing their families."

Nassau County Sales

L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co. sold for Charles A. Bishop a plot 140x280, on Brookside dr. Plandome, to Paul B. Williams. Mr. Williams, who is field secretary of the United States Tennis Association, is building a colonial home for spring occupancy.

R. O. Haythe, of the Haythe Mercantile Agency, purchased at Plandome the Isabel Varden property, consisting of large grounds and fireproof house and garage. L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co. were the brokers.

L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co. sold for Francis Grace, of Warrenton, Va., his property at Pladome, Nassau county, with a frontage of 172 feet on Manhasset Bay, to adjoining owners for improvement.

Mr. Brett has specialized in the management of business buildings and Mr. Wyckoff in the management of apartment houses, many of which are conducted on the co-operative plan. The business will be consolidated at the present office of Mr. Wyckoff, 403 Madison av., which has been enlarged to accommodate the force of both of the former firms. The salesmen and management force include Walter C. Lusher, Samuel F. Adams, Jr., Harry H. Albertson, Arthur E. Fuss, George W. Inge, Louis Kohnow, John F. McKee, John J. Mirovich, J. RECENT LEASES.

Another Profit on Herald Square Corner

Instead of being given over to the cotton-tionary business of Loft, Inc., the building at the northwest corner of Broadway and 34th st. has been subleased by Loft to Irving Fain, of the Fain Knitting Mills, for a term of 63 years from December 31, 1923, at an aggregate rental of $6,500,000. The Loft interests make 100 per cent profit on the lease. The sub-lessee, who runs a chain of silk and worsted stores throughout the city, plans to raze the 6-story building now on the site and replace it with a taller and more modern structure.

Loft's lease was to begin on the date mentioned.

The rise in value of this corner property during the last 19 years is so remarkable as to be almost uncanny. It outdoes the great profit that was taken on the sale by the Silliman estate of No. 1 Wall st., southeast corner of Broadway, and the resale of it. It all shows the great commercial prestige of the Herald Square district.

In 1921 George Loft leased the building from Mr. Smith for 63 years at an aggregate rental of $3,500,000. That was an increase of 100 per cent over the rental income of the property 15 years ago. Mr. Fain's lease for 63 years brings the total rental up to $6,500,000. As the ground space contains about 1,000 square feet the new rental is about $100 a square foot. The site is 31.10x50.61x45.7 feet in size.

The ground and building is the only space on the west side of Broadway between 32d and 35th sts. that can be used for retail business, as the balance of the space is controlled by Gimbel Brothers, Saks & Co. and R. H. Macy & Co. Gimbel's are to take over the Saks & Co. store when that firm moves up to upper Fifth av.

Mr. Fain, who conducts his own factories and retails their products, opened his first store in Brooklyn 10 years ago. Today, it is said, his business has grown to $6,000,000 a year.

Gilbert & Gilbert, attorneys, represented Mr. Loft and Dawson, Merrill & Dawson represented Mr. Fain in the transaction.

Higgins Leases Harlem Corner

Eugene Higgins leased for a term of ninety-nine years the twelve 3 and 4-story and basement brick dwellings, 149 to 171 West 130th st., northeast corner of Seventh av. for an aggregate rental which will exceed $900,000, to the Sogard Realty Co., S. Goldman, president, and including Messrs. Wiener and Shapiro. They plan to renovate the dwellings, the corner to be rebuilt into stores and offices. The combined plot is 225.8x99.11.

Lease in Grand Central Zone

The Submarine Boat Corporation leased from Robert M. Catts the 1-story extension of the Park Lexington building which extends from the present Grand Central Palace through to the new Park-Lexington structure. The lease is for 5 years with a 5 year option at a yearly rental of $16,500. The structure is 27 feet high. There will be entrances on Depew pl. and through the lobby of the new building on Park av.

Butterick Leases Space

Brett & Wyckoff leased to the Butterick Publishing Co., in 316-322 Hudson st. owned by Trinity Church, the entire lower two floors comprising about 25,000 square feet. The lease is for a term of years and the premises were held at $17,500 per annum.

Secure Lease and Extension

S. Osgood Peil & Co. sold to a client the lease of a store in the Hotel Lorraine, Fifth av. and 45th st., for the La Camille Corset Co., and also secured an extension of the present lease from the United Cigars Stores Co., which leased the building about two years ago from the Matthew Byrnes estate.

Leases with Options to Buy

The lease of the property, 98.9x244, at the northeast corner of Seventh av. and 37th st. to Joseph E. Gilbert and associates, just recorded, shows that the lessees have an option of buying the property within a year for $1,000,000 from Francis Bannerman and others, owners. The rental is $90,000 net per year. The lease is for three 21-year periods. An 18-story mercantile building will be erected.

George H. Storm and associates, lumber dealers, leased from George Ehret, with an option to purchase within 10 years at $200,000, the half block of 22 lots comprising the entire frontage of 550 feet on the south side of 60th st. from Avenue A to Exterior st. The lease is for 21 years from next January at from $5,500 to $11,000 net per annum, with privilege of renewing for a similar term on a 5 per cent reappraisal basis. The lessees have a yard at 71st and Exterior sts.

Horoscope Realty Co. leased to Joseph S. Klein, for a term of 21 years from October 1, with an option to purchase within 6 months for $102,500, the 5-story stone loft building, 22 Warren st. on lot 25x100, between Broadway and Church st. The rental is from $7,500 to $9,000 net per annum.

Fifth Ave. Firm Goes to Madison Ave.

Butler & Baldwin, Inc., leased for the Madison Avenue and 50th Street Corporation the entire store and basement at 448 Madison av. to Alfred Smiles, Inc., for a term of years, who will occupy the store as soon as extensive interior alterations are completed.

Other Leases on Madison Avenue

Pease & Elliman leased for the Holman Donley Co. to Joseph G. Abramson for a term of 21 years, the 5-story apartment house with stores, at 759 Madison av., at an aggregate rental of $250,000.

The same brokers leased for Julius Tischman & Sons to the Jar Realty Corporation, Dr. Philip Mirowski, president, a large suite of offices in 280 Madison av., southwest corner of 40th st., for a term of years, from October 1.

Cushman & Wakefield, Inc., leased for Mrs. Mary Clark Thompson the Billings mansion, a 4-story and basement dwelling, on plot 34.8x100, at 279 Madison av., northeast corner of 40th st., to Mrs. Maud Ames, who will remodel the premises for bachelor apartments and a tea room.

Harlem Block Front Leased

The remodeled Parkview apartments, nine 5-story houses, occupying the block front on Central Park West, between 103d and 104th sts. have been leased by the Acme Realty and Improvement Co. to the newly formed 432 Central Park West Corporation for 21 years at an annual rental of $60,000. The company has as directors B. and F. Reichson and C. Klein. The houses were recently converted into 3 and 4-room suites.

Large Lease on the Heights

A large plot on Washington Heights will be developed for business purposes as a result of the proposed leasing by the Westcott estate of the triangular block bounded by Broadway, St. Nicholas av., 170th and 171st sts. for nearly 21 years with renewal privileges to the newly formed Broadway & St. Nicholas Avenue Realty Co., having for its directors Gertrude Henry, Walter H. Steiner and Samuel and Freda Stern. As the property is held in trust it will be necessary to obtain permission from the Supreme Court before the leases are signed.

The lease is being arranged on a graduating rental for the first period at an average of about $25,000 per year. For the renewal the rental will be fixed on a 6 per cent basis of a reappraisal of the property.

Mr. Westcott completed his ownership of the block 12 years ago by the purchase of a couple of lots. The property fronts about 216 feet on Broadway, 195 feet on St. Nicholas av., 29.10 feet on 170th st. and 123.8 feet on 171st st.

Building Outlook Bright for Autumn and Winter Months

F. W. Dodge Company's September Construction Statistics, Covering Twenty-Seven States, Show Many Large Operations Placed on Active Schedule

CONTRACT commitments for new construction projects, which were announced during the month of September in the twenty-seven northeastern states, and which include approximately 75 per cent. of all the construction in the United States, amounted to a total of $271,493,000, according to statistics tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company. This total is approximately 11 per cent. greater than that for the corresponding month last year and is the highest September total on record. The seasonal decline is still apparent, with its vast total of contracts awarded about 16 per cent. under the amount recorded for the preceding month.

The year to date has established a number of new records in construction annals. The total amount of new construction started during the first nine months of the current year, which has amounted approximately to $2,634,365,000, is greater than the total for any entire year previous to 1922. On the basis of the total contract commitments for the first nine months this year is 51 per cent. ahead of 1921.

According to the tabulated figures residential construction shows a slight increase in September, the total for this class of project amounting to $101,428,000, or 37 per cent. of the month's total. Public buildings and public utilities represented an outlay of $50,379,000, or 19 per cent.; commercial projects of various types, $45,907,000, or 17 per cent., both of these classifications showing slight increases over the preceding month. Industrial building operations—factories, shops, warehouses, etc.—amounted to a total of $26,384,000, or 10 per cent. of the total; and educational operations, $21,213,000, or 8 per cent. of the grand total for the month.

Contemplated new construction reported by architects and engineers will involve a total expenditure of more than $330,801,000 for September, and is indicative of an unusually active autumn and winter building season throughout the country.

New England building contracts in September amounted to $30,368,000, an increase of 8 per cent. over the preceding month and of 89 per cent. over the corresponding month of last year.

Construction started during the first nine months of this year has amounted to $259,552,000, an increase of 87 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year. This nine months' total is 26 per cent. greater than the amount for the entire year of 1921.

The September figures included: $12,125,000, or 40 per cent., for residential buildings; $9,100,000, or 30 per cent., for business buildings, and a little over two million each, or 7 per cent. each, for industrial buildings, hospitals and institutions, and public works and utilities.

Contemplated new work reported in this territory during the month amounted to $29,890,000.

September building contracts in New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, amounted to $62,982,000, a decrease of 22 per cent. from August and of 29 per cent. from September, 1921.

The total amount of construction started during the first nine months of this year has been $700,516,000, an increase of 56 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year. This nine months' total is greater than the total for any entire year previous to 1922.

Last month's figures included: $33,720,000, or 53 per cent., for residential buildings; $10,873,000, or 17 per cent., for business buildings; $6,075,000, or 10 per cent., for educational buildings, and $4,681,000, or 7 per cent., for public works and utilities.

Contemplated new work reported in the New York territory during the month amounted to $83,169,000.

Total building contracts awarded during September in the Middle Atlantic States (southern New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and the Carolinas) amounted to $39,752,000. This was an increase of 10 per cent. over August and of 17 per cent. over September, 1921.

During the first nine months of this year the total amount of construction started in this district has been $386,921,000, an increase of 50 per cent. over the first nine months of last year, and an increase of 9 per cent. over last year's total construction.

Included in last month's figures were the following items: $18,017,000, or 46 per cent., for residential buildings; $7,471,000, or 19 per cent., for public works and utilities; $5,355,000, or 13 per cent., for business buildings, and $3,750,000, or 9 per cent., for educational buildings.

Contemplated new work reported during the month amounted to $38,008,000.

September building contracts in western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee amounted to $48,141,000. Although this is 44 per cent. under the exceptionally high figure of the preceding month, it is an increase of 18 per cent. over September, 1921.

During the first nine months of this year construction started in this district has amounted to $454,634,000, an increase of 37 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year, and of 8 per cent. over the entire year 1921.

Contemplated new work reported during the month amounted to $51,181,000.

September building contracts in the Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, eastern Kansas and a small portion of Nebraska) amounted to $85,290,000, an increase of 1 per cent. over August and of 47 per cent. over September, 1921.

The September figure brought the total for the first nine months of this year up to $765,340,000, an increase of 53 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year. Construction started up to October 1st of this year has amounted to 19 per cent. more than all the construction started in the year 1921.

Included in last month's figures were: $24,469,000, or 29 per cent., for public works and utilities; $22,136,000, or 26 per cent., for residential buildings; $12,378,000, or 14 per cent., for business buildings, and $8,702,000, or 10 per cent., for industrial buildings of various types.

Contemplated new work reported during the month amounted to $115,822,000.

September building contracts in Minnesota and the Dakotas amounted to $4,960,000, which is 29 per cent. under the previous month's total, and the same percentage under September, 1921.

The total construction investment in the first nine months of this year has been $67,401,000, which is 4 per cent. ahead of the corresponding period of last year.

Seasonal Decline Indicated by Weekly Building Figures

Statistical Tabulations of F. W. Dodge Company Show Slight Drop in Commitments But Healthy Gain in Contemplated Operations

CONSTRUCTION statistics for the local territory for the thirty-ninth week of this year shows a slight decline when compared with previous weeks but the totals are still considerably higher than those for the corresponding week of last year. Although the figures showing the number and value of contracts placed for new building and engineering projects are lower than usual, the totals for newly contemplated construction shows a healthy gain, which is indicative of unusual building activity throughout the autumn and winter months.

The weekly figures of the F. W. Dodge Company, for the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, for the thirty-ninth week of this year, show that plans were reported by architects and engineers for 568 new structural projects which will require a total outlay of more than $22,579,300. In this territory 396 contracts were placed during the week at an estimated total value of $12,208,800.

New York City maintains a high rate of activity when newly proposed construction is considered and local architects reported work on plans for 267 new operations during this week which will involve an outlay of more than $13,714,900. The contracts awarded, however, show a slight decline by comparison with the totals for previous weeks, there being 144 announced awards at a total valuation of $6,193,600.

The list of 267 new building and engineering operations for which plans were reported during the thirty-ninth week including 36 stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages and other business buildings, $2,133,500; 5 schools and colleges, etc., $457,000; 4 hospitals and institutions, $2,310,000; 5 industrial projects of various types, $240,000; 3 public buildings, $113,000; 8 public works and public utilities, $437,000; 4 religious and memorial buildings, $48,400; 201 residential projects including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $7,925,000 and 1 recreational project, $50,000.

Among the 144 operations for which contracts were awarded in New York City during the thirty-ninth week of this year were 19 business buildings of various types, $977,000; 2 educational projects, $44,300; 2 hospitals, $16,000; 5 factories and industrial buildings, $310,000; 5 public works, $66,000; 4 religious and memorial buildings, $323,400; 106 residential projects including multi-family dwellings and one- and two-family dwellings, $4,451,500 and 1 recreational project, $5,400.

North Eastern Lumber Co., Inc., announces its removal from 200 Siegel street to the corner of Morgan avenue and Sharon street, Brooklyn.

Eugene J. Grant, real estate broker and builder, has been selected by the nominating committee of the Brooklyn Real Estate Board as the president of the board for 1923.

George A. Bahr has been appointed secretary of the Long Island Dealers' Association composed of dealers in lumber, coal and building materials. Mr. Bahr will maintain a headquarters at Valley Stream and he will devote his entire time to the affairs of the organization, which has grown rapidly in membership and influence during the past few years.

Greenpoint Moulding Co., manufacturers of mouldings for the retail trade with plant at the corner of Greenpoint avenue, Diamond and Jewell streets, Brooklyn, announces the addition of another manufacturing department, which will further increase their facilities for prompt service to the trade. This firm also makes a specialty of planing work and kiln drying for the retail trade.

The Brooklyn Edison Company has commenced the construction of a 400,000 k.w. steam-turbine station, which will require an outlay of approximately $8,000,000. A plot of two blocks on Hudson avenue, adjoining the Brooklyn Navy Yard, has been acquired by this company and is being made ready for the power-house structure, the completion of the first section of which is scheduled for November, 1923.

Large Apartment for New Rochelle

avenue, New Rochelle, will begin at once. The building will contain fifty-eight apartments, arranged in suites of 3, 4 and 5 rooms, in addition to which there will be 10 rooms arranged in doctor's suites on the ground floor. The corner apartments facing south will have sun parlors.

S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten a first mortgage 6½ per cent. serial bond issue of $300,000 on the land and building, constituting a first lien on net annual earnings. The term of the loan is two to twelve years. Thomas J. Steen is the builder and Electus T. Litchfield & Rogers are the architects. A number of prominent citizens of New Rochelle have subscribed for stock in the company and the enterprise is looked upon as more or less of a public-spirited one. The bonds are the direct obligation of the Pintard Apartments, Inc., of which the following prominent New Rochelle citizens are officers: Pres., Edward Reynolds; vice-president, Daniel W. Tierney; secretary, Allen J. Steen; treasurer, Martin Tierney. In connection with their first mortgage loan S. W. Straus & Co. said:

"There is an unusual demand for this type of improvement in New Rochelle, and the indications are that the Pintard Apartments will be fully rented upon completion. The building is advantageously located near a restricted residential park which has been developed with very beautiful private homes. Due to the steady concentration of building activity in the Grand Central Zone, there is an insistent demand from business men of that district, who prefer suburban life, for living accommodations within easy commuting distance such as New Rochelle offers."

Noted Theatre Architect Dies

William H. McElfattrick, one of the most prominent theatre architects in the United States, died at his home, 309 Sterling place, Brooklyn, Thursday, September 28. Mr. McElfattrick was formerly in partnership with his father, who also specialized in the design of theatres. During his years of active practice he planned hundreds of playhouses in this country and Canada, among which are the Manhattan and Lexington Opera houses, Fordham and Columbia theatres and the Bushwick, Prospect and Madison theatres in Brooklyn. He was sixty-eight years of age and was born in Fort Wayne, Ind., coming to New York in 1887. Mr. McElfattrick was a member of many professional societies and civic organizations. He is survived by his widow.

National Association of Electrical Contractors and Dealers will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Sinton, Cincinnati, O., October 18 to 20 inclusive.

New York State Retail Hardware Association will hold its annual convention and exposition at Rochester, February 20 to 23, inclusive, next year.

This lecture will include 125 artistic stereopticon slides, colored by a famous artist, showing the complete method and process of mining anthracite coal, thousands of feet under the surface of the earth. The miners are seen actually at work in the chamber and incidents of their daily life are depicted and described. The problem of underground transportation, including mule, electric and compressed air engines, is treated.

"Own-Your-Home" Exposition—The fifth annual "Own-Your-Home" Exposition will be held in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, April 21 to 28, 1923, and will be conducted by the real estate boards of the Metropolitan district, according to Robert H. Sexton, managing director. The Administration Committee, which will be in charge of the plans for this exposition, is as follows: Charles G. Edwards and William C. Demorest, Real Estate Board of New York; James B. Fisher and William H. Cary, Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers; Stephen Yates and Granville H. Rome, Long Island Real Estate Board; Stephen L. Angell and Edward R. Fiske, Westchester County Realty Board; Theodore Van Winkle, Northern New Jersey Realtors; Arthur S. Hughes, Passaic Board of Realtors. Charles G. Edwards is the chairman of this committee.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

CONSIDERABLE recent improvement in the railroad freight shipments, which has increased local supplies of essential building commodities, coupled with the extremely favorable weather conditions, make possible that the coming months will be an unusually busy period for the building industry in the Metropolitan district. During the past week a large number of important contracts for new construction have been recorded and the major portion of this work is scheduled for an immediate start. Furthermore, architects and engineers are working actively on plans for many new structural operations which undoubtedly will be immediately released for bids.

Local building material dealers, while not quite so active as they have been during the past few months, are generally satisfied with current trade conditions, and the tone of the market is optimistic. Recently there has been a softening of prices which will undoubtedly stimulate buying as considerable work was being held in abeyance on account of high material costs.

Common Brick—Business in the New York wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has slowed down to some extent during the past week. Although sales have been fairly satisfactory the amount as a whole is somewhat lethargic. Prices have receded and quotations generally range from $14 to $16 a thousand, but the higher figure is only being obtained for the very best quality of brick and some loads of off-grade brick have been offered under $14. For some reason or other the common brick demand is much lighter than anticipated, but both manufacturers and dealers are inclined to feel that the prevailing market condition is only temporary and that business will pick up sharply in the near future, as there is a vast amount of new construction in early prospect and all signs point to an unusually active autumn and winter building season. Manufacturers will continue brick production while the favorable weather lasts, and although they are still being hindered by the scarcity of hard coal, there is sufficient burned brick at the up-river plants to supply all of the requirements of the Metropolitan district.

Summary Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, October 5, 1922. Condition of market: Demand slightly easier; prices lower and unsettled. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $14 to $16 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 31; sales, 35. Distribution: Manhattan, 11; Bronx, 4; Brooklyn, 14; New Jersey points, 5; Astoria, 1. Remaining unsold in the New York wholesale market, 15.

Face Brick—Both manufacturers and dealers are being offered more business than they are able to handle, and there is no sign of a let-up in the demand for this commodity. The scarcity of hard coal and the congested railroad freight situation has added to the difficulties of the face brick interests. The vast amount of high class construction now underway in the Metropolitan district is making heavy inroads on available face brick stocks and the local dealers are doing their best to keep all active operations supplied. Prices are very firm and likely to hold at current levels for some time to come.

Structural Steel—The local market for fabricated steel has improved to some extent during the past week. Considerable new inquiry has developed and the bookings of the past few days have amounted to a substantial total tonnage. Quite a large amount of new construction is planned and there is every likelihood that the major portion of this work will be placed under contract within the next few weeks. Although several important projects have been figured recently, no contracts have been awarded as yet and there is a probability that they may be held in abeyance until deliveries and prices are more certain than they are today. Prices are firm but there are rumors of a downward trend soon.

Reinforcing Bars—There has been a fairly heavy demand for concrete reinforcing bars during the past week and deliveries are more certain than they have been for some time past. The steady increase in the volume of active commercial and industrial construction has been the reason for the improvement. Prices are somewhat easier than they have been for the last month.

Lumber Business in the local lumber market is excellent and both the wholesale and retail departments of trade have all the orders on hand they are able to fill. The heavy demands made upon available supplies at mill points plus the transportation difficulties are creating a very firm market for this commodity and as a result prices are exceptionally firm. At the present time manufacturers of lumber are unable to take all of the business that is being offered. Bookings are being limited to the ability of individual manufacturers to ship. The car shortage is being felt very keenly in the South, with many of the mills only getting about twenty per cent. of their car requirements. Some of the Southern pine producers who never before have shipped by water are now planning to do so.

Cast Iron Pipe Buying activity has slowed down perceptibly, but the mills are all working at capacity in order to deliver the vast amount of business which was booked during the past few months. Pipe manufacturers are well satisfied with the outlook for the fall and winter months, as they have sufficient work ahead to keep their plants active for several months to come and the prospects for early spring orders are excellent. Prices are firm and unchanged, with New York quotations as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton in carload lots, f. o. b.; 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Window Glass Business in this line is fairly active, although the demand for the better grades has slowed down to some extent during the past few weeks. The large amount of apartment house building and the vast number of small dwellings nearing completion in the outlying districts of the city and the nearby suburbs is keeping the demand for the cheaper grades of window glass up to its mid-season rate, and there has been some recent complaint of developing shortages. Prices are very firm and rumors of advances are heard.

Roofing Papers There has been practically no change in the market for roofing and building papers during the past month or so. Demand continues strong and prices are very firm. Stocks, while not plentiful, are said to be adequate to the current demand. Local dealers anticipate excellent business during the autumn months if the recent reports of plans for new houses are any indication of the strength of the market situation.

Linseed Oil—The local market for linseed oil has been exceptionally quiet. Demand is negligible and confined to small lots for immediate requirements. Stocks are good and prices unchanged, but there is a marked tendency toward lower levels.

Up, Up, Up the Budget Goes

Little comfort is to be found by New York City taxpayers in the tentative budget for 1923 any way they may look at it. The total continues to go up, just as it has year after year in the past. Once again, as has happened so many times before, hope of a dawning era of economy in municipal expenses evaporates for at least another twelve months. Between now and October 31, when the final figures must be adopted, the disappointment of metropolitan taxpayers may be tempered by the hope that the city budget-makers will be able to reduce substantially the tentative total; but, from past experience, it seems idle to expect any very material reduction.

As matters stand now the heads of the various city and county departments have had their requests honored up to a total of $359,040,318, an increase of $8,802,748 over the final budget for 1922, and an increase of $13,874,279 over the final budget for 1921. In view of these increases it is quite apparent that such reductions as may be made in the final budget for 1923 will not bring the total down to that of 1922, and much less down to that for 1921. Through increased assessments the city authorities managed to make a slight reduction in the tax rate for 1922 as compared with the rate for 1921, and the recent tentative increase of $518,798,435 in the city's realty assessments for last year may make possible a tax rate for 1923 no higher than the 1922 rate, or possibly a rate slightly lower. But, even so, reductions in the tax rate accomplished by such methods are more misleading than real. Discerning taxpayers, no matter what the rate, know from the budget that it is costing a great deal more each year to pay the city's bills, and that therein lies the real test.

For several years past the officials responsible for the great increases in the city budget have placed the blame largely on "mandatory legislation at Albany." This shifting of part of the blame has been justifiable. But it is a poor rule which does not work both ways, and the municipal authorities thus far have been eloquently silent on the bearing of the state tax on the 1923 budget. It will be recalled that New York City was required to provide for state tax purposes in the 1921 budget a total of $22,041,183, and in the 1922 budget a total of $14,430,513. The state tax provided in the 1923 budget amounts to only $12,595,623, this total being $1,834,890 less than was mandatory for this purpose in the 1922 budget. In this item alone, therefore, there is a gain of nearly $2,000,000 this year, which should reduce the total by that amount. But it seems that this gain has been absorbed by the other increases which the tentative budget carries.

Going back to the budget for 1918 it is seen that there has been an increase, even in that short time, of more than $21,000,000 in the city's annual expenditures, if the tentative budget for 1923 stands without material reduction. There has been an increase of several million dollars in the total for each succeeding year, this fact merely emphasizing the tendency of officials to keep piling up the burdens on the taxpayers. THE RECORD AND GUIDE is prompted once again to observe that the taxpayers of New York City cannot be convinced it should cost so much each year to take care of the city's obligations. It is notorious, as was pointed out in these columns a year ago, that public officials have acquired the habit of spending the taxpayers' money with a reckless hand, and the tentative budget for 1923 shows that this profligate policy is still in force here in the metropolis.

There can be no question but that the staggering total which New York taxpayers have to provide each year for municipal purposes is due largely to the lack of a cohesive form of local government. Too many of the old county offices have been continued and there is too much duplication in the official machinery. The only permanent remedy is to be found in a thorough revision of the city charter, through which a consolidation of many departments could be effected and many useless offices and positions abolished. It is unfortunate that so little progress in the matter of charter revision has been made during the past year.

To Lessen Difficulties of Moving Day

There are plenty of brokers actively engaged in the real estate business today who can remember when May 1 was the only general moving day in the year. Practically all leases of apartments and office space for terms of one year up ran from that date. The migration of numerous city dwellers from one sheltering roof to another while the birds in Central Park were warbling the Spring Song was considered as much of a fixture as Fourth of July, Christmas or New Years.

How May 1 originally came to be Moving Day does not matter. What does concern real estate men is that a discerning member of the fraternity discovered that tenants in increasing numbers were giving up their places of abode on May 1, storing their furniture and hieing themselves to the country for the summer months, leaving to chance the finding of domiciles on their return in the fall. This practice, which spread alarmingly, resulted in too large a percentage of vacancies during June, July and August, and a gradually lessening number of leases by the year or multiples of one. To offset this movement the Discerning Realtor hit on the plan of dating his leases for one year or more from October 1, thereby scoring on the Elusive Tenant, who thus was obliged, and properly so, to pay rent for his city home throughout the sultry summer even if he was at the seaside or in the mountains. There were a good many owners and agents who thought and argued that Moving Day could not be moved ahead five months without throwing the whole real estate business into confusion, maybe causing an unwelcome fall in realty values.

New York real estate is valued tentatively this year by the assessors at the huge sum of $10,466,121,527. It is imperative, then, that in all matters relating to the handling of this enormous aggregation of wealth the utmost conservatism should obtain consistent with the necessity for making use of every new, constructive idea that will maintain realty values or materially increase them. The old-fashioned real estate men who protested against changing Moving Day from May 1 to October 1 have had to admit that they were wrong in holding to the old date merely because "We have always done it so." The success of October 1 as Moving Day has been so great that not only has it silenced its old-time critics, but it has raised up a considerable number of new, intrepid and determined advocates of a further change in the realtors' calendar which will split the fall hegira from flat to flat into successive waves of vans loaded with furniture instead of continuing the present system of having everybody who gets the wanderlust swamping the lifts, the stairs and hallways, the sidewalks and streets, with a deluge of household goods for one period of twenty-four hours out of a possible 365.

Wise van men, alert realty agents and judicious building superintendents are getting together, with the adventitious aid of overworked decorators, the inadequate number of telephone repairers, gas meter men, rug renovators, piano movers, electric service operators, scrub women, janitors and other human equations of Moving Day, in an effort to have leases run from September 1 and November 1 as well as from October 1, thereby relieving the pressure on everybody engaged in the mad Moving Day scramble as at present conducted. The advantages of the proposal are obvious, the drawbacks apparently easily overcome. If Moving Day could be advanced without injury to real estate from May 1 to October 1 it may be presumed that the fall moving season may be spread over a three months' period without disaster as soon as the plan has been promulgated and thoroughly understood.

Thirty Days' Supply of Coal Now Permitted

WILLIAM H. WOODIN, State Fuel Administrator, announced that hereafter domestic sizes of anthracite may be delivered to consumers in quantities of thirty days' supply at a time. The modifications of the previous order, Mr. Woodin said, was because the emergency had been met and fairly good supplies of anthracite were now coming into the State. The order follows:

GENERAL ORDER NO. 2. Effective October 11, 1922.

1. General order No. 1, which was made effective Sept. 18, 1922, is hereby revoked.

2. It is directed that no dealer or distributor within the confines of New York State shall deliver a greater quantity than thirty days' supply of the domestic sizes of anthracite coal, known as egg, stove, chestnut and range, for any one householder or other consumer of such sizes.

3. No dealer or distributor shall deliver said thirty days' supply, or any part thereof, while there is already on the premises or within the possession of the householder or other consumer a quantity equal to or in excess of said thirty days' supply.

4. The term "thirty days' supply" shall be interpreted for the purpose of this order to be one-sixth of the average consumption from Oct. 1, 1922, to April 1, 1923.

5. The thirty days' supply shall be considered within the meaning of Section 8 of the Fuel Administration act to be a reasonable requirement for use and consumption of a householder or other consumer for a reasonable time.

6. If the dealer or distributor is not in possession of the facts necessary to enable him to carry out the foregoing, it is then a further part of the order that he can require the consumer to furnish him with
(a) A statement of his actual requirements to April 1, 1923.
(b) Size and tonnage of coal which he now has on hand.
(c) That no order is on file with any other source of supply.

President Harding announced last Tuesday the appointment of the Fact Finding Coal Commission of seven men to study the coal industry and the problems developed by the recent strikes and to make recommendations to Congress which may serve to bring about legislation to prevent recurrent labor troubles in the coal fields. The appointment of the commission was authorized by Congress. The commission consists of:

John Hays Hammond, engineer; Thomas Riley Marshall, former Vice-President of the United States; Judge Samuel Alschuler of Chicago, a United States Circuit Judge, who has acted as an arbitrator in recent labor disputes; Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution; George Otis Smith, Director of the United States Geological Survey, regarded as an authority on the economic and labor problems connected with the coal industry; Dr. Edward T. Devine of New York, a writer on social and economic questions; Charles P. Neill of Illinois, former Commissioner of Labor. Three of these are Democrats.

Perfects Plan for Widening Park Avenue

BOROUGH PRESIDENT JULIUS MILLER has sent a communication to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment with reference to the widening of Park Avenue, the cost of which is estimated by the borough engineers at about $443,600.

"The Corporation Counsel," says Borough President Miller's communication, "has rendered an opinion to the effect that the part of the roadways which have not heretofore been paved at the expense of the property owners in the locality may now be assessed upon a local area. The Park Commissioner has consented to the transfer of that portion of the park strips (in the center of Park Avenue) under his jurisdiction which will be needed for additional roadway space, and he has prepared plans of the treatment he desires to have made of the remaining portion of those spaces.

"I also have been in negotiation with the New York Central Railroad Company as to the method of performing the work. The railroad company believes that the necessary changes in the steel work must be done largely by its own force, due to the fact that railroad operation has to be maintained while the structural changes are under way. The estimated cost of the work is as follows:

"Reducing the width of the center spaces between Forty-sixth and Fifty-sixth Streets from fifty-six feet to thirty-eight feet and widening the roadways from twenty-seven feet to thirty-six feet, including the paving of the widened portion, $394,600; widening the roadway from Fifty-sixth to Fifty-seventh Street from twenty-eight to thirty-five feet and reducing the sidewalks from twenty-two to fifteen feet, exclusive of pavement, $5,200; paving widened area, $1,800; restoring the center strips from Fiftieth Street to Fifty-sixth Street, $42,000; total, $443,600."

The Borough President recommends that the Board of Estimate set aside the money required so that there may be no further delay and that the Corporation Counsel be instructed to co-operate with counsel for the New York Central Railroad Company in preparing necessary enabling legislation.

Tentative Budget for 1923 Aggregates $359,404,318

Board of Estimate Has Until October 31 for Final Revision of Figures, Which Then Go to Board of Aldermen

THE Board of Estimate and Apportionment last Monday took up the tentative budget for 1923 on which there will be several public hearings before its final adoption on October 31. Although the departmental requests for appropriations had been scaled down nearly $20,000,000 before the tentative budget was made up, the aggregate figures for 1923 of $359,404,318.47 are $8,802,748.40 in excess of the record-breaking budget for 1922, which totaled $350,601,570.07. It will be remembered that considerable difficulty was experienced last year in reducing the budget to within the constitutional tax limit of two per cent. for local purposes. With an increase of $518,798,435 in the tentative assessments on real estate for this year there is room for an increase in the final budget over that of last year provided the final assessments are not materially reduced from the tentative figures. Conservative estimates indicate that about $400,000,000 of the increase in tentative assessments will be retained in the final figures, after all protests have been passed on. But even with this increase the tentative budget now under consideration will have to be materially reduced to conform to the constitutional requirements. The amount that it is estimated must still be sliced from the tentative budget is between one and two millions. It is also probable that a number of large items have been left out of the budget, one of these being provisions for educational purposes not included in the figures presented for budget purposes by the Board of Education. These additional amounts, which are mandatory, may aggregate from four to five millions, making further deductions in the tentative budget necessary before it can be adopted.

Further steps in the routine of budget making are the requirements for public hearings and the final adoption of the budget by the Board of Estimate and apportionment not later than October 31. Within five days after adoption, the budget must be transmitted to the Board of Aldermen for their approval. The Board of Aldermen have twenty days for its consideration, and if they do not concur in the items of appropriation they may reduce or eliminate the amounts (except those fixed by mandatory legislation, those made for state taxes, and those for interest or principal of the city debt). Their reductions may be vetoed by the Mayor, but his veto may be overridden by a subsequent three-fourths vote. If, at the end of twenty days, the Board of Aldermen have not acted upon the budget, it becomes effective as passed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Examination of the tentative budget descloses some interest-

Robert E. Livingston of Consolidated Gas Company Gives Figures on Locking of Meters Which Accurately Gages Changes Tenants Make

THAT the Manhattanite and the Bronxite, with their families, were pretty generally on the move during the last few days of September and the first three days of this month is shown by the phenomenally large number of gas meters that were requested to be locked and unlocked by the Consolidated Gas Company and its affiliated gas companies which supply the two boroughs—Manhattan and the Bronx. Many interesting details of this feature of "Moving Day" are given in a statement issued by Robert E. Livingston, of the Consolidated Gas Company.

During the last days of September and including the first three days of October, there were requests made by users of gas in Manhattan and the Bronx for the locking and unlocking of 46,725 gas meters. The ordinary number of meters locked and unlocked each month averages between 650 and 750. This enormous increase on the last "Moving Day," of approximately 46,000 gas meters, confirms the belief that there was an abnormal number of families changing its living quarters this year.

It required the day and night and Sunday services of 387 trained gas company men to read these 46,725 meters and lock and unlock them, as that figure was an increase of 15,483 over the "moving time" figure of 1921, when the gas meters read, locked and unlocked totalled 31,242.

The meters that had to be given attention during the "moving" period, it is estimated, involved the comfort of at least a quarter of a million individuals. During the moving days in the Fall of 1920 the total number of gas meters involved was only 23,951, or 22,774 less than required attention this Fall.

A further analysis of the gas companies' figures makes it possible to see in what parts of the city the greatest amount of "moving" agitation was felt. Between 110th street and the Harlem River, west of Fifth avenue, the Consolidated Gas Company's office at Amsterdam avenue and 154th street, read, locked and unlocked no less than 6,941 gas meters, as against 3,267 meters a year ago. The next largest removal center was in the territory between 23d and 110th streets, west of Fifth avenue. The Consolidated Gas Company's office at No. 212 West 57th street, covering that territory, read, locked and unlocked 6,746 meters this year as against 4,563 last year.

Between 14th and 79th streets, on the east side of the Consolidated Gas Company's office in Irving Place, read, locked and unlocked 5,692 meters this year as compared with 3,096 last year. North of 79th street, east of Fifth avenue to the Harlem River, the gas office at 114th street and Third avenue read, locked and unlocked 5,283 gas meters as compared with 4,074 last Fall. The Consolidated Gas Company's office at No. 157 Hester street, covering the territory below 14th street to the Battery, handled 2,386 meters this year as compared with 1,837 in 1921.

In the Bronx (23d Ward) the Central Union Gas Company in that territory read, locked and unlocked 3,437 meters this season as against 2,585 a year ago, while the Northern Union Gas Company, which covers the remainder of the Borough of the Bronx, handled 7,249 meters this year as compared with 3,595 in 1921.

A further analysis of the figures would indicate that Manhattan and the Bronx lost none of their population to any of the suburbs, but that the families moving this year either shifted from one part to another of Manhattan or the Bronx or moved from one section to another in the two boroughs mentioned, or perhaps simply changed apartments in the building in which they had been living.

In 5,017 cases it was found unnecessary to either lock or unlock the gas meters as the new tenants had already moved in, so that it was only necessary for the gas company's representative to read the meter and have the new customer sign an application for gas supply and the new customer's account opened.

ing variations from the figures for similar expenditures in the budget for 1922. The most notable difference is in the debt service, which last year was $104,406,257 and this year is only $84,785,641, a reduction of $19,620,616. This must not be construed as a measure of economic administration. Last year the debt service was unusually heavy.

Among the items in which there are large increases is that for public markets which, although it is not one of the big features of the budget, is practically doubled over last year, when the figures were $176,811 in the final budget to $391,505 in the tentative budget for 1923.

All of the Borough Presidents asked for big increases in their appropriations, Brooklyn and Queens being the leaders. While their requests were scaled down considerably these amounts are in excess of those made last year.

The various park departments all get larger appropriations in the tentative budget than in the final figures last year, but there is one notable exception. Last year $120,000 was allotted to the Bronx Parkway Commission which this year gets nothing because of the practical completion of the project.

The Police and Fire Departments present interesting phases of the budget-making. Police Commissioner Enright asked for $34,323,705, an increase of $4,952,952 over last year's appropriation, for the purpose of enlarging the force. In the tentative budget the Police Department requests are reduced to $32,786,416, about half way between the Commissioner's requests and the 1922 figures. There is likely to be further consideration of these figures with a view to cutting them down still further. In the Fire Department a somewhat similar condition obtains. Fire Commissioner Brennan asked for $18,835,471, an increase of $1,951,173 over what he received last year. The tentative budget figures are $17,958,667. The increased appropriations are desired for completing the motorization of the fire-fighting apparatus, which it is conceded must be done. But when the change from horse-drawn to motor vehicles was instituted one of the arguments advanced was that when the department was motorized each unit would be able to cover a greater area and that consequently some of the houses in the more settled portions of the city could be dispensed with and the men and apparatus transferred to the fast-growing outlying sections of Brooklyn and Queens. This has not been done and the question of whether it should be done in the interests of economy may come up during the public hearings.

All of the figures in the tentative budget for the Health Department, Public Welfare, Industrial Aid, Child Welfare, Hospitals and the Tenement House Department show considerable increases over last year's appropriations and are likely to come in for criticism at the hearings. Street cleaning, also, is going to be more expensive, although the motor is superseding the horse in this department also. But the spread of the populated areas in Brooklyn and Queens is responsible for a large part of the increase of $1,988,501 allowed in the tentative budget over the 1922 figures.

One of the largest increases is that for the Department of Plant and Structures, of which Grover Whalen is Commissioner. He asked for $2,450,213 more than was allotted to him last year and is down for $1,793,400 increase. There is an increase of $4,613,000 in the item for tax deficiency.

J. Romaine Brown at 89 an Optimist on New York Realty

Oldest Broker Still in Business Has Watched Development of City from Early Days and Warns Against Pessimism on Future Values

J. ROMAINE BROWN, who probably more than any other living man has witnessed the amazing growth of New York real estate values for three generations and the shifting of centers of business in the Metropolis, reached his eighty-ninth birthday October 1. He is probably the oldest real estate broker in New York in point of years in the business and is affectionately referred to as the Dean of Brokers by many of his contemporaries.

Mr. Brown made little ado about his latest birthday. He is still actively engaged in business and goes to the offices of J. Romaine Brown Company, at 10 East Forty-third street, almost daily. His recent birthday he regarded as no excuse for staying away from his office, but in the evening there was a quiet family celebration at his home in Yonkers, his family and grandchildren dining with him. Mr. Brown removed to Yonkers some years ago, having previously resided in a stately old house with large grounds on Washington Heights, where he went to live when a comparatively young man. As the suburban environment of the northern part of the city began to vanish, and as fee values there grew largely, Mr. Brown went farther north and over the city line into the Caryl section of Yonkers. He still prides himself, however, on being a New Yorker, and was born at the corner of Hudson and Charles streets, when Greenwich Village was in its original residential condition and when the Ninth Ward of the old city held its first families. He harks back to the days when his father, Abraham Brown, owned the first stage line in New York and carried the mails on his stages. And yet he lives to ride on rapid transit routes that link nearly all the boroughs. His grandfather, James Brown, was secretary to Robert Fulton, who first successfully operated a steamboat and made it a commercial asset, and he has heard his forbear tell about it. Consequently there is probably no other man in this city who so closely links the past with the present and who is more a part of the present than is Mr. Brown.

When a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called one day this week, he found Mr. Brown busily engaged in his office on matters pertaining to a real estate transaction. After being interviewed Mr. Brown attended a meeting of a board of directors of which he is a member. His figure is fairly erect and he has the bearing and manner of a man many years younger.

When a statement was requested about his career, Mr. Brown said: "Don't try to write an obituary about me, because I am still here on the job. I am feeling very well considering my years. In fact, I am a well and contented man, happy in my business and I think optimistic in my outlook on life and the world. I have never been ready to retire. What is the use? There is more fun going along and keeping in touch with all that is doing. This is a beautiful world if one will only look at it that way, and it is the right way.

"I think I started in the real estate business in 1854, when I opened an office in a small 3-story building at 1235 Broadway, adjoining the northwest corner of Thirtieth Street. I rented it from a Philadelphia family that owned it and I paid the munificent rent of $30 a month for the entire building. Many persons at that time said that there was no future to Broadway and that it would continue to be a country road lined with old residences. I did not believe them. Somehow or other I was a bull on the future of this town. Every idea I then entertained about the future growth of this city I have seen more than realized. When I began business there were no real estate organizations of any kind. There was no cohesion among the real estate fraternity. It is wonderful what a change has come to pass in that regard alone.

"There was not even a horse car line in this city when I started in the real-estate business. We could not at that time brag about the quick transit facilities of New York. I myself owned the old Red Bird Stage line that ran from Third Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street down Third Avenue to Fourteenth Street and through the East Side by a devious route to Grand Street Ferry. So you can see where traffic abounded at the time. When I sold the stage line I took payment half in cash and the rest in Manhattan real estate. Probably it would have been as well if I had taken payment all in real estate, for I have lived to see all that I took in real estate appreciate much in value. I own some of it yet, and I am well satisfied with it.

"In my early days there was an organization known as the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange. Its meeting place was the rendezvous for everybody in the building material and real estate lines. There was no RECORD AND GUIDE then to give us building material quotations. We had to go to the Exchange to find out all we wanted to know. A weekly was finally started known as the Real Estate Journal. I have copies of it yet somewhere. But it did not pretend to give the news of the material and real estate markets as completely as THE RECORD AND GUIDE does now or has given it these many years. Come to think of it, the latter paper began its career by absorbing the Real Estate Journal. I knew quite intimately Mr. Clinton W. Sweet, who founded THE RECORD AND GUIDE. He was a man of vision and of courage.

"While I was a member of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange I met the late Peter A. Lehman, who was one of the most intelligent and able men I ever met. We went into the real estate business together under the firm name of Lehman & Brown, at Eighth Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street. We did wonderfully well. Then came a tragedy in Lehman's life. He went insane. He gradually improved, and later operated a farm up the State for ten years. After that he returned to New York, again embarked in the real estate business, made a great success and died sane and well off. I cannot fully express how much I admired the courage, the fortitude and the success of Mr. Lehman. His career is one of the rarest I know of.

"One of the best friends I had as a young man was the late Richard F. Carman, after whom the Carmansville section of Washington Heights was named. He was a close friend of Commodore Vanderbilt. Mr. Carman was a very keen man and one of strong individuality. For some reason or other he took a liking to me, probably because I did as he told me to do. My relations with him were always pleasant and satisfactory. He owned practically all the land on Washington Heights that bore his name. It covered what are now many square blocks. The station on the railroad was named Carmansville and the old gentleman was proud of it. Some of his own and numerous other tenants there were involved in a scheme to have the name of Carmansville changed to Audubon, in honor of the great naturalist who resided on Washington Heights. Mr. Carman was very wrathful about it and gave me orders to oust every tenant of his who had favored the change of name. He had seen the petition with their names on it and he copied them. Well, it was not a very pleasant job for me to tell them to vacate, but I had his orders to evict them all and I did. It was through Mr. Carman that I went to Washington Heights to reside and finally acquired property there. Through him, also, I met Madame Jumel, who many years before had married Aaron Burr and who forsook him because he sought to capture her fortune. She may have been charmed with Burr, but she had no good opinion of his business ability. Madame was a sharp, shrewd business woman and she needed no one to run her affairs for her. I often transacted real estate business for her and went to the old mansion, now owned by the city, to see her. She was the height of courtesy and caution. She was well along in the eighties when I first met her and I can see her in my mind's eye now with her plain white cot-

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Large Sales on the West Side and a Sale in Battery Zone Emphasized an Investment Movement That Prevailed Throughout the City

WHILE the week was not distinguished for many large transactions it was nevertheless an interesting one.

The diversity of the dealing was so marked that it indicated public interest in real estate. Both large and small investors took a hand and numerous operators turned quick profits on a variety of parcels. An investment that means much for the structural rehabilitation of the West side was the purchase by the New York Times of an Eleventh avenue block front for the purpose of improving it with a modern storage house and press room that will be an adjunct to its large building in West 43d street, just west of Broadway. The total investment of The Times on Eleventh avenue, including the new building, will be about $2,000,000. Aside from marking an innovation in newspaperdom, it emphasizes the growing prestige of the West side since the vehicular tunnel at Canal street was begun and since the Seventh avenue rapid transit road was operated. The other conspicuous sale of the week was that of the 10-story office building at 68 Broad street to the Radio Corporation of America for about $1,000,000. This property was long known as the Morris building and was built by the family of which Dave Hennen Morris is a member. The Morris family sold it some years ago. A 5-story building on Fifth avenue was sold as well as another Eleventh avenue block front.

A group of three old buildings on the Bowery was sold by an estate that had held them for seventy years. The sale accentuates the steadily improving structural and business conditions in the historic old thoroughfare, as the buyer is a prominent manufacturer and dealer in lighting fixtures who will reimprove the site with a modern 8-story mercantile building for his own use. A large vacant plot in East 32d street, close to the East river, was bought by a taxi cab company for improvement with a fireproof garage; and there were other plots in the city sold for a similar purpose. This sale took place at about the same time that the Downtown League publicly urged a more extensive investment in garage buildings and a widespread construction of them. It appears that there is a shortage of garage space in the lower half of Manhattan. The demand for such space would seem to determine what to do with dilapidated tenement house sites in some of the lower sections of town. It is generally understood that modern garages accessible to wholesale districts are doing well.

Several large apartment houses on Washington Heights, a large apartment house in East 57th street owned by the Mc-Alpin estate and a group of eight apartment houses on Wales avenue, Bronx, changed hands, as did a number of miscellaneous large and small tenement houses in all parts of the city. A fine American basement dwelling on West 74th street, opposite the side of the Schwab mansion, found a new owner. Other good dwellings in other sections were also sold.

There were two deals in Queens borough acreage that are significant. One was a large tract in Glendale, to be improved for manufacturing purposes. The other was a big tract in old Queens village, to be improved with one and two-family houses. The dealing in the Bronx and in Brooklyn was varied and well distributed.

The leasing of a store, 10x20 feet in size, on Park Row, at the rate of $45 a square foot a year, was an interesting feature of the week. Brooklyn contributed the lease of an entire vacant block front on upper Broadway, a strong business section, as the site for a modern retail business building. This is the longest business street in Brooklyn and is steadily growing in business prestige.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 68, as against 79 last week and 39 a year ago. The number of sales south of 59th st was 41, as compared with 25 last week and 12 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 27, as compared with 54 last week and 27 a year ago.

From the Bronx 40 sales at private contract were reported, as against 35 last week and 25 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 498.

Year Book of Merchants' Association

The membership enrollment of the Merchants Association of New York was 6,174 on April 30 last, according to the Year Book for the year ending May 1, which has just been issued. The association was organized in 1897, and its membership has grown constantly during the quarter century.

A proper appreciation of the diversity of the new membership in the year can be gained from the fact that it is divided among forty different divisions of the forty-seven large divisions covering the classification of the complete enrollment.

As in the past, the preponderance of the new membership was drawn from the Borough of Manhattan. It is in large part firm or corporate support.

As in the early years of The Association's existence, the textile industry and banking still constitute the banner divisions in numbers. The membership is large and representative, in the following trades and industries: Food Products and Kindred Lines; Men's Apparel and Furnishings; Transportation and Shipping; Leather and Boots and Shoes; Paper and Paper Products; Insurance; Heavy Hardware, Machinery; Women's and Children's Wear; Drugs, Chemicals, Colors, Oils and Paints; Iron and Steel, Metals; Engineering, Building, Building Equipment; Jewelry; Stocks; and Realty.

Under the qualifications prescribed by the Board of Directors and the Membership Committee, The Association's Membership Bureau has prepared an eligible list of nearly 14,000, the largest number since the creation of The Association. It is from this source that additional effective support for the activities of The Association will be drawn.

Taxpayers Oppose Park Project

The contemplated plan of the city to take over the Berkeley Oval and Camp estate properties in the West Bronx, bounded by Sedgwick, Burnside, University and Tremont ays and 177th st. for park purposes, which came up before the Board of Estimate for hearing on October 6, was opposed by a taxpayers' organization of owners in that section. The matter was laid over until October 27.

The association, of which Herman A. Acker is secretary, has forwarded resolutions to the board in which it is held that there are enough playgrounds in the section; that the benefit derived would not be commensurate with the cost; that, owing to the fact that it has been partly improved, the cost would be great, and, lastly, that the city would lose much in taxes from not having it improved with apartment houses, for which it is adapted.

Resale on Rockefeller Block

Emma H. Ellsworth resold to A. Fillmore Hyde, president of the Hyde Real Estate Corporation, 46 West 54th st, a 5-story brick American basement dwelling, on a lot 22x100.5. The seller bought the parcel recently at the recorded price of $47,500 plus a consideration for a quit claim deed from a party in interest.

On the same block are the town residences of John D. Rockefeller and Chauncey M. Depew. Numerous other dwellings on the block are owned by Mr. Rockefeller for the purpose of controlling the character of it. They are leased for fine dwelling purposes.

Extra Building for New York Times

The New York Times has assembled under its ownership all of the parcels of real estate comprising the block front on the east side of Eleventh av. from 44th to 45th st, a plot with 201.2 feet frontage on the avenue. The parcels are nine old brick tenement houses known as 592-608 Eleventh av.

In addition The Times has bought, in order to square the plot, 545-559 West 44th st and 548-554 West 45th st, all old 4-story brick tenement houses. The total frontage on 44th st is 225 feet and on 45th st 175 feet.

The names of the sellers on Eleventh av and the avenue number of the parcels follow:

592, sold by Mary Connor and others; 594, by the Rapp estate; 596, by Annie C. Mehtens; 598, by Joseph Wolf; 600, by the Home and Rapp estates; 602-608, by John M. Lechich.

In West 45th st, 554 was sold by Charles Levy; 550-552, by John W. Knugel; and 548, by Joseph Mensing. In West 44th st, 559 was sold by Alice A. Farley; 557, by Andrew Whelan; 555, by William Henry Freund; 553, by D. H. McGinty; 551, by F. M. O'Rourke; and 549, by Mary Kiernan.

On the combined plot The Times will erect a large warehouse for the storage of printing material and paper and provide room for a larger printing plant.

The Times a year ago bought some old apartment houses on West 43d st, adjoining its home there on the west, as the site for a 100 foot front addition to it. Before the plans were completed it was estimated that a tremendous saving could be effected by providing facilities for the storage of paper and the garaging of trucks in the same building with the press rooms. With this in mind a search was made for available sites within convenient distance of the editorial quarters which will remain in the "Times Annex" Building on 43d st, near Times sq.

The site on Eleventh av, just acquired, offered solution not only because of lower ground values but because of the railroad facilities afforded by the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, which has tracks on Eleventh av. It will thus be possible to deliver paper to the new plant in carload lots. Another influence in the selection of the site was the nearness to the new dock improvements on Twelfth av.

Metropolitan to Continue Lending

Seventy-five bankers who attended the American Bankers' Association convention, and who represent banks in 20 States which have been making housing loans for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., conferred on October 6 with the company's officers at 1 Madison av on the housing program.

The continued need of mortgage money for residences was the topic of Frederick H. Ecker, vice-president of the company, and Walter Stabler, the comptroller, who said the company intended to continue making loans as long as there is a demand.

Mr. Stabler showed that since the housing operations of the Metropolitan were started at the beginning of 1920, commitments have been made for 9,750 dwellings which would accommodate 10,823 families, at a cost of $37,308,932, and for 1,037 apartment houses to house 27,660 families, or counting five to a family, nearly 140,000 persons.

DeLafield Buys at Auction

Richard DeLafield, president of the National Park Bank, bought the American basement 5-story brick dwelling of Frederick Sterner, architect and builder, at 16 East 64th st, on a lot 20x100.5, which was sold at auction in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza. Mr. DeLafield, through W. Gordon Crawford, a broker of Washington, D. C., obtained the property on a bid of $115,000. Mr. DeLafield, whose country home is at Tuxedo, will occupy the residence.

The property faces the large residence of M. Orme Wilson. It was held at $100,000, the price at which it is assessed by the city for taxation purposes. It was designed and built by Mr. Sterner.

Radio Corporation Buys

White Oil Realty Co. sold to the Radio Corporation of America 64-68 Broad st, northwest corner of Beaver st, a 10-story and basement brick and stone office building, on a plot 98.7x69.1x101.7x66. It was built by the Morris family and long bore the name of Morris building. The selling price was about $1,000,000.

It is within two blocks of the principal cable and telegraph forwarding offices and is near the Postal Telegraph Co.'s headquarters. The name of the building will probably be changed to "Radio House."

Fine West Side Dwelling Sold

Estate of William Bradley sold to Daniel L. and James S. Reardon of the United States Trucking Corporation 305 West 74th st, a 5-story brick and stone American basement dwelling, on a lot 24x66. It is opposite the 74th st side of the Charles M. Schwab mansion.

Taxi Company Buys Plot

Garage Realty Co., in conjunction with Joseph P. Day, sold for the Standard Gas Light Co. to the American Yellow Taxi Operators, Inc., the vacant plot, 136.9x98.9x116.9x irregular, known as 411 East 32d st, on the north side of the thoroughfare, 94 feet west of the East River. The new owner will erect a fire-proof garage on the plot.

New Building on Bowery Site

Estate of John R. Dunning sold through the Lewis H. May Co. 251-255 Bowery, three 4-story brick buildings, on a plot 64.8x235x irregular. The properties are assessed at $110,000 and are free and clear. It is the first change of ownership in 70 years.

When the leases on the buildings expire the new owner, Louis Cohen, who has been in the store fixture business nearby for 40 years, will reimprove the site with an 8-story building for the use of his business.

Famous Estate Sold

S. Osgood Pell & Co. sold the famous Vermont estate of the late Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Mr. Vail only completed the estate a short time before his death at a cost of more than $2,000,000, making it the most costly country place in New England. The mansion house alone contains more than 100 rooms, many of them very spacious, for the entertainment of his friends and associates. It was here that Mr. Vail installed the pipe organ reputed to be one of the finest in the country. The mansion house was built in the center of the estate, about 6 miles north

The buyers are a group of New England business men, who plan to form a club and use it for this purpose. A private golf course is on the property, a garage which will house nearly 100 cars, and a number of modern cottages make this estate wonderfully adapted for a large club.

Operator Buys on Fifth Avenue

The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank sold the 5-story office and store building, 206 Fifth av., extending through the block to 1126 Broadway, between 25th and 26th sts. The Brensman Realty Co., Samuel Greener, president, is the new owner. The building covers a plot 28x112.4x irregular and was for many years the home of the Lincoln Trust Co. It was held at $150,000. Thomas J. O'Reilly was the broker.

The Emigrant Bank took it over about 6 years ago and modernized it at an estimated cost of $100,000. Subsequently it was leased by the bank through the same broker to Mensehel Bros. for a term of 21 years.

Armours Sell Eleventh Avenue Block

Armour & Co. sold the block front bounded by Tenth and Eleventh avs and 14th and 15th sts to the National Biscuit Co., which has recently been acquiring nearby property. The property contains accommodations for 240 families and returns an annual rental of about $81,000. It fronts 279 feet on the avenue and 195.3 feet on the street. The houses were recently acquired by the sellers from Morris Garfunkel through Loeffler, Kaplan & Schreiber, brokers, who also arranged the resale.

Columbia Oval Lots at Auction

Recently, Columbia University, through the munificence of George F. Baker, acquired Baker's field (26 acres) at 218th st and Broadway, for use as a new athletic field. The trustees of the University of Columbia in the City of New York, have therefore decided to sell the former field, in the Bronx, known for many years as Columbia Oval. Joseph P. Day has been appointed the auctioneer and the sale will be held Thursday, October 26, at 12 o'clock noon, in the Real Estate Exchange Salesrooms, 14 Vesey st. The sale will be absolute and the lots will be sold, separately, for whatever they may bring.

The direction of the sale is in the hands of a committee appointed by the trustees at Columbia University, and consisting of Alfred E. Marling and Frederick A. Goetze, the latter being treasurer of Columbia University. John B. Pine is the attorney for the trustees.

Columbia Oval, which is located close to the Oval Reservoir, comprises about 225 lots in the Gun Hill rd Rainbridge av and East 211th st section of the East Bronx. Gun Hill rd and Rainbridge av are business thoroughfares.

Amid the Wheatley Hills

Ladd & Nichols, Inc., sold for the estate of Harvey Murdock 55 acres at Mill Neck, Nassau County, known as the F. C. Jennings property. This piece of acreage is probably the best available site on Long Island, with water view. It used to be known as Sagamore Hill before the days when the name was borrowed by Theodore Roosevelt for his home in Cove Neck, the reason for the name being the Indians used to signal from this point to Greenwich, Conn., lighting their fires on the present homesite. The property was held at $5,000 per acre and was purchased by Robert L. Dodge, for a client.

Stoddard & Mark, attorneys, purchased from Harold E. Wittmann, a builder, for the Baltic Holding Co., the parcel recently acquired by the seller on the west side of

The property was held at $100,000. Charles A. O'Malley and the Charles F. Noyes Co. were the brokers. The seller recently acquired the property from the Church of our Lady of Mercy.

The plot directly adjoins the home of the Brooklyn Dime Savings Bank. Foundations are already installed for a high building.

Brooklyn Landmark Sold

The large detached 2½-story frame dwelling, on a plot 120x250, at the northwest corner of Ocean parkway and Cortelyou rd and extending back to East 5th st, Flatbush section of Brooklyn, has been sold by the estate of Peter H. McNulty to a builder for reimprovement with apartment houses with stores, all to face on Cortelyou rd, where the longest frontage is.

Long prominent in the affairs of Brooklyn, Mr. McNulty, at the time of his death, about 20 years ago, was one of its most prominent real estate operators. He had been a State Senator and a major of the Second Brigade, National Guard. He was head of the real estate firm of McNulty & Fitzgerald, the late Edward C. M. Fitzgerald being the junior partner. These two men were the pioneer operators in suburban Brooklyn acreage, now subdivided and improved. They also successfully operated in Queens, Nassau and Suffolk county acreage. Mr. Fitzgerald died less than a decade ago.

BUILDING SECTION

No Dearth of Work in Sight for Local Building Industry

Prominent New York City Builders Have Obtained Many Large Contracts Since September 1, With More in Prospect

ALTHOUGH construction activity in the local field has apparently dropped off to some extent during the past week or so there is little real necessity for a pessimistic attitude regarding the immediate future of the industry. According to authentic records and reports there is a large amount of high class construction now actually under contract, practically all of which is scheduled for an early start.

The outlook for the future of the building industry in the Metropolitan District has not been as favorable for several years past as it is at present. It is extremely doubtful if in any year since the outbreak of the World War there have been as many large building operations under contract at this period of the year as at this time. The local contracting interests, while now apparently in the doldrums because the purely speculative construction is practically at an end for this year and the large program of commercial and industrial work only starting, need only to study the accompanying table to realize that the industry has in hand a very substantial volume of high class projects, sufficiently varied as to type so that all lines may share profitably.

This table, although only indicating a relatively small percentage of the work now in prospect, shows conclusively, however, that the remainder of this year is assured as far as opportunities for the building industry in the Metropolitan district is concerned. The list of projects shown, with names of contractors, represents operations which have been placed under contract subsequent to September 1 and does not include any of the work which was awarded prior to that date. Furthermore, it only includes the representative operations which have been let during the past month. It is, however, a very satisfactory and assuring reply to those in the industry who have been complaining of a lack of opportunity.

An analysis of the table shows considerable activity in the high-class apartment house construction field. In addition to the projects of this type enumerated there are many more which will be erected by their owners without the employment of a general contractor. The activity of this character is more pronounced at present than for a long time past and although there recently has been a recession in the volume of apartment house construction in the Bronx and Brooklyn, there is every likelihood that builders will proceed with large fireproof apartment buildings in Manhattan for some time to come. This is certainly true if the plans now being prepared by prominent architects for additional operations of this type are any criterion of the future activity in this line.

For some time past there have been predictions of a decided improvement in the outlook for commercial and industrial building in this territory and, according to the number of important projects of these types which have recently been placed under contract, there is every promise that the predictions will prove well founded. In addition to the projects shown in the table the recently-awarded commercial work involves a large number of jobs for which the individual expenditures will not exceed $100,000, but they represent a total expenditure that will amount to many millions of dollars. There is also considerable alteration work now under contract.

The construction of new schools and other educational buildings must not be overlooked in a study of the immediate future of the local building industry. While a considerable percentage of the newly reported contracts for educational projects represents the working out of New York City's elaborate plans for providing additional facilities for its growing population of school age, there are a number of private and parochial schools, libraries and other projects of an educational character.

Another interesting and significant fact in connection with the new construction recently placed under contract is the relatively large amount of high-class residential work that is scheduled for the coming winter and early spring. During the past week or ten days there have been many announcements of contracts placed for handsome suburban residences, ranging in cost from $25,000 to $100,000. Not in several years, at least not since the period of inflation following the close of the war, has there been so much fine residential construction in prospect at one time. Past history of the building industry shows that increased progress in the erection of costly dwellings has almost invariably been accompanied by a noteworthy improvement in the volume of active commercial and industrial building and indicates a satisfactory economic status throughout the district in which this work is located. A large percentage of the new residential construction is scheduled for suburban and semi-rural location in the vicinity of New York City, but there is also a reassuring number of good city jobs which include several costly alteration projects.

It is very doubtful if at any previous time during the past year there has been as much new construction in the hands of contractors for estimate as at present. For several weeks the estimating forces of the large contractors' offices have been exceptionally busy preparing bids on new buildings. While there is still some hesitancy on the part of prospective builders about placing contracts as long as building material costs remain at their prevailing levels, a sufficient part of the work now out for bids will undoubtedly be awarded within a short time to assure local building contractors, material dealers and manufacturers of structural essentials an active and profitable market throughout the remainder of the current year and until the usual 1923 spring revival starts.

Citizens' Savings Bank to Have Handsome New Building

Clarence W. Brazer Designed Florentine Renaissance Structure Now Being Erected on the Bowery, Opposite Manhattan Bridge Plaza

CONTRACTORS are now setting the structural steel for the handsome new structure, at the corner of the Bowery and Canal street, for the Citizens' Savings Bank. The new building, designed in the Florentine Renaissance style of architecture, is being erected upon the site occupied by this institution for more than sixty years. It will become a distinctive landmark on the Bowery, opposite the Manhattan Bridge Plaza.

The new home of the Citizens' Savings Bank has been designed by Clarence Wilson Brazer, A. I. A., and Gunvald Aus is the structural engineer. The building is being erected under a general contract awarded to the Wm. L. Crow Construction Company. The cost of the building, exclusive of the value of the land, is placed at more than $500,000.

This bank will occupy a plot with frontages of 75 and 85 feet respectively at 54 to 58 Bowery and 150 Canal street. The facades will be constructed of light colored Barre granite and the interior executed in Travertine stone. The main feature of the large banking room will be the surmounting dome which will be approximately one hundred feet in height. The assets of the Citizens' Savings Bank now exceed $32,000,000, and the bank enjoys the services of an exceedingly strong board of trustees. Henry Saylor is president; Charles H. Smith, vice-president; James Rowland, vice-president; Edwin A. Lahm, secretary, and Carl A. Richter, assistant secretary.

Commenting upon the new banking building a recent statement issued by the trustees declares:

"This handsome structure will be dedicated to the depositors as a permanent monument and a concrete example to the power of money when accumulated. ton gloves and her simple and unaffected apparel. She wore large eyeglasses that somewhat exaggerated the size of her eyes. Nothing pertaining to her large real estate interests on the Heights or elsewhere escaped those eyes.

"During the panicky years of the middle 70's, when real estate in this city, like everything else, was hit hard, it was predicted by many that real estate especially had no come back. Think of it, New York real estate forever dead and useless as an investment! Well, it did come back splendidly, and it stayed put. This borough of Manhattan has been the impelling force to values in all other boroughs. They have all grown in power and in population because this borough, bounded by water, grew in prestige and in power by the logic of its situation. I can remember selling one of the lots on which the Metropolitan Opera House stands, at Broadway, Thirty-ninth and Fortieth Streets, for $12,000. Do you think that the price of it will ever drop back to that, panic or no panic? It would take me too long and the space required would be too much for me to recite the marvelous rises in fee values I have witnessed. I have filed away many diagrams of parcels I have sold in various parts of the city, with the figures that I sold them for many years ago. Sometimes, when I look at them and compare them with present-day values of the same parcels, I am almost mentally stunned. Let nobody belittle the power of growth of New York realty values, for he will prove a stupid prophet."

Large Number of New Building Projects on Fall Schedule

Statistical Report of F. W. Dodge Company Indicates Little Reason for Pessimism Over Construction Outlook for Metropolis

DESPITE the fact that there has been a decided falling off in local building activity during the past week or so the outlook for the future is excellent. There is a vast amount of new construction already under contract and architects and engineers report considerable new work in prospect. The contract commitments for building and engineering projects, scheduled for New York City, which were reported during the month of September, show conclusively that the building industry of the Metropolitan district needs a serious decline in the volume of active building operations. Figures for the month, tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, show that contracts were awarded last month for 534 new structural projects at a total estimated cost of $34,117,300.

The list of new projects placed under contract during September includes 82 business buildings such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $6,825,100; 14 educational buildings including schools, colleges, libraries, etc., $3,129,500; 5 hospitals and institutions, $176,000; 16 factories and industrial buildings, $781,500; 3 public buildings, $224,000; 23 public works and public utilities, $1,327,300; 9 religious and memorial projects, $709,400; 378 residential operations including apartments, flats and tenements and one and two-family dwellings, $20,369,100, and 4 social and recreational projects, $575,400.

The outlook for this territory is generally optimistic. Figures for the week of September 30 to October 6 inclusive show that in the district including New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, architects reported plans in progress for 669 new structural operations at an estimated total valuation of $25,322,700. In this territory 476 contracts were reported at a value of more than $17,212,900.

New projects placed under contract during the period of October 1 to 6 inclusive comprised 21 business buildings of various types, $1,141,000; 3 educational projects, $690,000; 2 hospitals and institutions, 1 factory building, $15,000; 1 public building, $70,000; 3 public works and public utilities, $417,500; 1 religious edifice, $85,000; 95 residential operations including multi-family dwellings and one and two-family houses, $4,526,500, and 1 recreational project, $100,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

The Power Specialty Company, 111 Broadway, announces the appointment of Pell W. Foster, Jr., as New England district sales manager, with offices at 50 Congress street, Boston. Mr. Foster was formerly in the New York sales office.

New York Roof Repairing Co., 100 William street, reports steadily increasing business in its line. This firm, which was established in 1899, specializes in the repair of roofs of all kinds and gives a guarantee of entire satisfaction. The firm also contracts for new roofing work and is prepared to undertake contracts of this character within a radius of seventy-five miles of New York City.

Geo. H. Storm & Co., retail lumber dealers and specialists in hardwood flooring, with plant and warehouses at the foot of East 72d street, have recently concluded negotiations which will give them one of the finest and best equipped hardwood flooring warehouses in the country. They have leased from George Ehret, with privilege to buy, the plot between 58th and 59th streets, from Avenue A to Exterior street, approximately 100 x 500 feet, upon which several new structures will be erected. The new plant will consist of a hardwood flooring mill, planing mill, steam heated warehouse, stable, garage, office building and extensive storage sheds. The plans for these buildings are being prepared by William H. Gompert who estimates the cost to be approximately $100,000.

Prominent New York Architect Dead

Dudley McGrath, a widely known member of the architectural and engineering fraternity of New York, died suddenly of ptomaine poisoning at his home, 47 East 58th street, Sunday, October 1. Mr. McGrath was a member of the firm of Davis, McGrath & Kiessling, with offices at 220 Fifth avenue. Mr. McGrath was born in Brooklyn in 1872, and after receiving his preliminary education in the public schools entered Columbia University, from which he was graduated in 1893. For the next six years he was structural engineer for the firm of J. B. Smith & Sons, architects, and in 1899 became associated with the Herbert E. Davis Company. In 1902 Mr. McGrath was admitted to membership in the firm and the name of the concern was changed to Davis, McGrath & Kiessling.

During his career as an architect and engineer Mr. McGrath designed the structural iron work for many of the leading churches in New York City as well as for large apartment house projects. Some years ago Mr. McGrath served as a member of the City Building Code Revision Committee. He was a member of the American Institute of Architects, the Columbia Society of Architects, the Manhattan Club and the New York Whist Club.

Electrical Show a Big Success

THE fifteenth annual electrical show which has been in progress during the past week at the Grand Central Palace started with an attendance of more than twenty thousand, a record for similar opening days. The large number of visitors at the show all through the week is attributed to the fact that the show this year includes not only modern electrical appliances, but also the Museum of Edisonia, comprising all the devices used by Thomas A. Edison forty years ago when he invented his central station lighting system.

At the 1922 exposition domestic and industrial exhibits played a prominent part in the multitude of electrical appliances displayed on the three floors in booths that were especially decorated in honor of the fortieth anniversary of the Edison invention. The use of new electrical devices for housekeeping was demonstrated under everyday conditions.

The industrial exhibits which were located principally on the second floor demonstrated the use of electricity in printing, candy making, soap manufacture, cigar manufacturing, the preparation of dairy products, etc. Throughout the show there was considerable interest in the exhibit of commercial telephone equipment. Many visitors have taken advantage of the demonstration by the New York Telephone Company for the purpose of showing telephone users intimate details of office and central station operations. A section of a switchboard, one of those used in a central station, was demonstrated by two operators who conveyed to the onlookers a clear idea of all the manipulation necessary to handle telephone calls. The exhibition of the Consolidated Telegraph & Electrical Subway Company, showing a cross-section of a typical street in Manhattan, required fifty men working four days to install. Here was seen the method of underground work in New York City, how electric light and power cables are carried and the manner of distributing current.

In July and 10,244,000 in August last year, the Geological Survey reports. Shipments in August totaled 14,361,000 barrels, against 13,850,000 in July and 12,340,000 in August, 1921. Stocks at the end of August amounted to 5,737,000 barrels, a sharp decrease from the 8,433,000 on hand at the end of July and 6,953,000 at the close of August, 1921.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

LOCAL building activity has slowed down to some extent during the past week or ten days. At present there is less intensity in the local field than there has been for many months past. The condition is largely due to the fact that the major part of the speculative work, originated during the early part of the year, is now completed, and the predicted revival of commercial and industrial building, while sure to come, has naturally been retarded by the coal and railroad strikes which have limited material production and seriously delayed deliveries.

One of the most significant factors in the current building situation is the growing volume of high class residential construction reported either planning or contracted for. The past week or so has witnessed the award of contracts for a large number of private dwellings, ranging in cost from $25,000 upward, mainly for suburban locations. It has been several years since there has been such a large amount of this kind of work in prospect and it usually is the forerunner of a general increase in active construction throughout the local territory.

Although the building material markets are fairly active dealers report that they could handle more business if offered. The high prices prevailing are the most potent factor in withholding new construction from an immediate start and just as soon as there is a price reaction so that levels return to where they were last spring there will be a decided improvement in the building outlook.

Common Brick—The New York wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has been rather quiet during the past week. Demand is light and new inquiry is negligible. The market seems to be practically at a standstill between the period of active apartment house construction and the revival of industrial and commercial building which, while gaining momentum, will not reach its peak for some time yet to come. There is a fair amount of new construction in prospect, but many owners are holding their contemplated improvements in abeyance in the hope of a general downward revision of material prices. Because of the lack of demand common brick prices are not strong. The ruling quotations range from $14 to $16 a thousand, with only brick of the best grades bringing the top figure. During the past week the arrivals of brick from manufacturing points have been considerably in excess of the reported sales, and as a result the market has a relatively large amount of brick on hand. Dealers are only making purchases for the fulfillment of contracts and are not starting to buy for their winter requirements as yet.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Wednesday, October 11, 1922. Condition of market: Demand lighter; prices, easy but unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $14 to $16 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 37; sales, 26. Distribution: Manhattan, 7; Bronx, 1; Brooklyn, 14; New Jersey points, 2; Astoria, 2. Remaining unsold in the New York wholesale market, Tuesday, October 10, 26.

Lumber—Business has been brisk in both wholesale and retail departments of the local lumber market and, although arrivals from production points are slow dealers have been able to fill all orders up to the present time. There is some shortage on specific items and, as a result, prices are stiff and slight increases have been reported. The increases have not been sufficient to reflect themselves upon the general market situation, however. The car shortage is the principal difficulty of the lumber dealers, and just as soon as the transportation problems are eliminated the local lumber interests will feel much safer, as there is every indication of a continued heavy demand throughout the next three or four months.

Structural Steel—New bookings for fabricated material to be used in the Metropolitan district have been relatively light during the past week and although there is a large volume of new construction in sight, there is a decided tendency to hold off commitments in the hope of obtaining a price advantage by waiting a while.

Only a few sizable orders have been booked within the past week and inquiry is lighter than it has been for some time. The structural shape market continues to hold at 2.00c to 2.10c, Pittsburgh, with premiums offered on early deliveries. As a general rule the deliveries now being offered by the fabricating mills range from ten to twelve weeks.

Reinforcing Bars—The market for concrete reinforcing bars is not particularly active at the present time, largely because of the disposition on the part of a number of prospective builders to withhold their operations until material prices are somewhat lower. There is considerable new work in prospect, much of it already planned, and there is a strong likelihood that the major portion of it will be under contract and started within the next week or so, as there is now a decided softening of material prices all along the line. Current prices on concrete reinforcing bars continue to range from 2.00c to 2.25c, base Pittsburgh, depending upon time of delivery.

Cast Iron Pipe—Although municipal purchases are extremely light at present and in all probability will not be an important factor in this market again until next spring, private buying still continues at an active rate and manufacturers anticipate several busy months ahead. There is a developing scarcity of 6 in. pipe and the smaller sizes also are greatly in demand, so that producers expect to continue in full operation for the remainder of the year at least. Prices are steady and unchanged, with New York quotations as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton, in carload lots, f.o.b.; 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Nails—Demand for nails continues very active and, as a result of the recent manufacturing difficulties and the railroad freight transportation problems, local stocks are somewhat depleted and there is a scarcity in certain sizes. Wire nails are particularly hard to obtain from the mills at present and as a result prices are very firm and subject to advances at any time. New York quotations generally range from $3.35 to $3.75 base per keg on wire nails and cut nails are offered at $4.10 base per keg.

Window Glass—Market conditions have not changed to any extent during the past week. The demand for both plate and window glass is excellent, with the cheaper grades of window glass particularly active. There is no indication of a drop in buying activity, although some sizes are broken and new supplies are difficult to get. Prices are very firm and subject to early increase.

Roofing Papers—Despite the approach of the autumn there has been no decline in buying activity, and from all accounts this line will be in excellent demand for some time to come. Stocks are plentiful and prices are very firm.

Builders' Hardware—Activity in this line is very marked with practically all jobbers moving stocks rapidly and the retail demand steady and consistent. Prices are firm.

BLACKMAR'S ASBESTOS LIQUID ROOFING

Standard Leak-proof Roof Covering of the World. Not a roof paint. It is a new roof. One application will make old leaky roofs just like new at a cost of about 1 1/4c. sq. ft. Prepared in containers ready for use. WE CHALLENGE any manufacturer to a comparison of materials by analysis, test of durability and process of manufacturing. There is not a better Asbestos Liquid or Plastic Cement Roofing at any price. Not affected by the coldest winter weather or the hottest blazing sun; resilient, elastic, expands and contracts with the surface on which it is applied. Will never crack. Transit Deadlock Must Be Broken

The week's developments tend to confirm the view recently expressed by THE RECORD AND GUIDE that it might be a bit optimistic to expect an early agreement between the Transit Commission and the Hylan Administration in the matter of subway extensions. A rosier view of the outlook was taken by many observers when at a meeting early in the month Mayor Hylan displayed ordinary courtesy toward Chairman McAneny, and the Transit Commission chairman reciprocated. It now turns out that these official amenities amounted to little, after all, being merely a sort of calm before the storm. When Chairman McAneny met Mayor Hylan and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment last Monday to resume consideration of subway extensions the storm broke, greater in fury than ever before, leaving the whole situation desperate.

It will be difficult to convince the average citizen that politics is not at the bottom of the latest developments. Mayor Hylan declares that if he and his associates can have their way the extension of the city's rapid transit system can be undertaken with little further delay. Chairman McAneny, on the contrary, holds that if the Mayor's wishes are followed there can be no further subway construction in the principal boroughs of the city for at least four years. The city authorities have now come out flat-footed in favor of the municipal operation, as well as the municipal ownership, of all important new subway lines—a policy which Chairman McAneny declares the Transit Commission will not countenance.

This stand by Mayor Hylan and his associates in favor of municipal operation of the new lines adds grave complications to a situation which was already complicated enough. A deadlock has been created between the Transit Commission and the city authorities which seems beyond solution as matters stand. Unless some method of breaking this deadlock can be found, the real interests of the people of the city must remain in jeopardy and the rapid transit tangle grow steadily worse. Instead of progress in catching up with the city's transit needs there must ensue more and more delay, with the transportation facilities all the time falling farther behind the vital requirements of the people.

There is one angle of the situation worthy of thought in view of what happened at the City Hall on Monday. The latest developments demonstrate that if ample authority for real transit progress has not yet been lodged in the Transit Commission the wisdom of giving that or some similar body additional powers will most certainly come before the new Legislature when it meets at Albany in January. It is not improbable that legislation even more drastic than the law under which the Transit Commission is now operating will be proposed, no matter what may be the results of the election next month. The demand for action in subway building has become too pronounced all over the city to be longer treated with safety as the by-play of politicians. If progressive action cannot be obtained through the division of authority existing between the present Transit Commission and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, some further law to make action possible is the obvious solution.

New York City needs additional subways and needs them badly. Extensions of existing lines and the construction of new lines have been a crying need for years. A way must be found, and undoubtedly one will be found, to break the existing deadlock.

Spreading Construction Through the Year

Recognizing the fact that construction costs have been greatly increased because of the established custom of erecting certain types of new structures only during stated periods of the year in order to complete them in time for the prevailing rental seasons, the New York Building Congress, through its Committee on Seasonal Employment, is initiating a program of reforms designed to spread new building activity throughout the year. Its proponents claim that this plan will substantially reduce building costs and also practically eliminate seasonal unemployment in the various trades affiliated with the industry.

Unquestionably this plan to stabilize building activity throughout the year by eliminating the seasonal peak demands for labor and materials and the intervening periods of low demand would prove an important forward stride toward effecting needed economies in the construction industry. The program as outlined in the report of the committee should have the endorsement and co-operation of everyone concerned in the future progress of the building business. The reforms suggested by this committee are based upon an exhaustive survey of local building conditions, which showed conclusively that the prevailing method of building certain types of structures only during well-defined seasons is both costly to the property-owners paying for the improvements and generally uneconomic as far as the best interests of the industry are concerned.

By spreading out the building activity of the year over the entire twelve-month period, instead of permitting a continuation of the seasonal rushes and slack times, it is pointed out that the industry can more readily plan ahead, that the demand for mechanics and materials can be stabilized with a resultant favorable effect upon labor and commodity costs, and that unemployment in the structural trades can be greatly relieved, if not altogether eliminated. In the past one of the serious aspects of the rush period in the building industry has been the bonus wages paid to mechanics because of the greatly stimulated demand. If this demand is spread out over the entire year wages will be stabilized and workmen may be obtained at recognized scales if they are practically assured of full working time without periods of seasonal unemployment.

In order to accomplish this result it will be necessary that some control be exercised over new buildings. It is suggested that a wider range of rental periods be established, which will materially assist in revising construction schedules. Another recommendation is the regulation of Federal, State and Municipal construction so that it will proceed at times when demand for commercial and speculative building operations is temporarily slowed down. Several other constructive ideas regarding the time to begin work on alteration and repair projects have been formulated, all of which will have a tendency to relieve the periods of peak demand and supply employment during the slack season.

A favorable result cannot be accomplished, however, unless all of the various elements concerned with the construction of new buildings and the alteration and repair of existing structures will work in complete harmony and accord toward this very desirable end. The fullest co-operation between property-owners, prospective builders, architects and engineers, contractors, material manufacturers and dealers, real estate brokers, building managers, labor leaders, Federal, State and Municipal authorities and all others who are interested in lower construction costs and the ultimate stabilization of the industry, is essential. If the program presented by the Committee on Seasonal Employment is to be successful.

National Realtors in Conference Here Discuss Housing Situation

THE sessions of the officers and directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at the Hotel Commodore ended on Saturday evening with a banquet tendered to the visitors by the Real Estate Board of New York. It was a happy climax to a conference of realtors whereat were discussed many things of interest to the real estate business at large. There were two hundred delegates to the conference who represented 460 local boards in the United States, Canada and Honolulu with a total membership of 30,000.

The prime object of this national gathering of real estate forces in New York was to survey the national situation with New York real estate men and to make salient recommendations to the Board of Directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at its annual convention to be held in Cleveland next June. Besides the general meeting here, there were meetings of the Board of Directors, the Advisory Board of the National Association and of the National Association of Realtors Secretaries. The crux of the discussion was the status of the general housing situation throughout the country. The conference considered it from the viewpoint of shortage of living space in some centers and an abundance of it in others. For the purpose of making its further researches in this regard complete, the National Association will co-operate with Herbert Hoover's Federal Housing Commission.

Distinctive among the results of the conference is the conclusion that New York has now no housing shortage and that there is in fact an oversupply of high-class apartments, while the supply of other factors is steadily increasing. It was decided that it would be a decade before the national housing shortage would be overcome. This circumstance is caused by the high cost of labor and of building materials everywhere.

Speaking of this, Nathaniel J. Upham, retiring President of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said: "Even though an enormous sum has been expended this year in building construction, far greater than in any previous year, the housing construction has been far below normal. The cubic contents have fallen far short of the normal year because of the high price of labor and materials. Due to war conditions, with the attending cessation of building construction, we are 2.44 years behind in our building construction. With this year's work falling short of normal, and even if we can overcome the shortage 25 per cent. in each succeeding year, it will take us more than ten years to overcome the housing shortage. One of the greatest difficulties is the shortage of labor and this situation has been accentuated by the immigration restrictions."

The banquet on Saturday evening was attended by more than 350 persons, some of them being prominent Manhattan and Brooklyn brokers who joined in the compliment to the out-of-town guests. The guests were Ivan O. Ackley, Chicago; Stephen L. Angell, Scarsdale; W. H. Ball, Philadelphia; E. F. Cary, Providence; Richard T. Childs, New York; Hiram S. Cody, Chicago; Raymond T. Cragin, Cleveland; Frank Craven, Philadelphia; Demmie P. Cooke, Columbus; M. A. Devine, Atlantic City; H. R. Ennis, Kansas City; L. F. Eppich, Denver; James B. Fisher, Brooklyn; H. H. Garfield, Rochester; W. H. Gardner, Winnipeg; H. P. Hass, Pittsburgh; Joseph W. Hannauer, St. Louis; Byron R. Hastings, Omaha; Irving B. Hiett, Toledo; Robert Jemison, Jr., Birmingham; William E. Lyons, Kansas City; R. Leedy Matthews, Memphis; Frank L.

McNeny, Dallas; H. U. Nelson, Minneapolis; Walter C. Piper, Detroit; D. Bradlee Rich, Boston; A. H. Schaaf, Fort Wayne; A. J. Simonson, Denver; C. L. Simpson, Kansas City; Thomas Shallcross, Jr., Philadelphia; W. E. Shanon, Washington; Paul E. Stark, Madison; F. E. Taylor, Portland; Alexander S. Taylor, Cleveland; W. C. Thompson, Hamilton; N. J. Upham, Duluth, and John L. Weaver, Washington.

Charles G. Edwards, President of the Real Estate Board of New York and also a director in the National Association, was toastmaster. Preceding his introduction of the scheduled speakers, Mr. Edwards said: "We have in New York what is known as the real estator. He will sell you anything for $100 down. Not long ago a farmer from way back bought a big Broadway parcel of real estate for $2,400 from one of the gentry. The city assesses it for $4,500,000. The real estator wears a diamond stud in summer and a fur coat in the winter, but he never wears both at one and the same time. One of the purposes of this Board, as it is also of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, is to eliminate real estators and conserve the interests of all investors through realtors. Tonight we recall the hospitality of the Western associations at San Francisco earlier in the year, when many New York realtors attended the great gathering there. I am reminded by the presence of Mr. H. U. Nelson that the National Association of Real Estate Boards had its inception in Minneapolis, his home city. It reminds me, too, that the word realtor was also coined there. We welcome you all cordially and hope that your visit here will be a pleasant social recollection as well as a professional inspiration."

Nathaniel J. Upham, retiring President of the National Board, said: "That there is nothing new under the sun applies to the real estate business. About forty years ago the first real estate board was organized. It tended to bring order out of chaos. The National Association of Real Estate Boards was formed fifteen years ago. Its progress has been rapid. The objects were to put the business on a professional basis, raise the standard of ethics and get real service. There are now within the National Association 470 boards, thirty of which have been added during the last fourteen years. There is now a total membership of 30,000 members and they represent organization that is a power for good in the real estate business. The various associations and boards are to-day among the country's greatest civic assets. They have become vital factors in legislation. They have conserved it for the rights of property, something about which there was long considerable carelessness.

"We have just succeeded in getting a new Executive Secretary to take the place of our beloved former Secretary—Tom Ingersoll—commencing the last week in September, and we are confident that we are going to get some splendid results and service under his direction and help. We are planning to work up a bureau of Information, which has been authorized by the Directors, by which we can keep all our Boards and all of our members of our Boards at least once a month advised of the main activities of what is being done by the Boards, things that may help them, and get from them things that may help others.

Officials in Deadlock on New Subway Construction

Board of Estimate and Apportionment Insists on Municipal Operation of All Lines While Transit Commission Flatly Rejects That Policy

STATEMENTS made by Mayor Hylan and George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, at the adjourned hearing last Monday by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on the proposed Brooklyn cross-town line, and prepared opinions subsequently made public by these two officials, indicate a deadlock between the Board and the Transit Commission which may result in preventing the building of new subways for several years unless some means is found by which the conflicting views of these two factors in the situation can be reconciled. At the hearing a number of representatives of Brooklyn organizations pleaded for harmony between the city administration officials and the members of the commission so that relief to citizens would be quickly afforded by the construction of the cross-town and other lines. When Chairman McAneny began explaining the advantages of carrying on the work of building new subways according to legal provisions now in force Mayor Hylan attacked him for participation in negotiating the dual subway contracts which, he declared, were costing the city $10,000,000 a year. From this point a rather heated discussion arose, participated in by Mr. McAneny, Mayor Hylan, Comptroller Craig and President Hulbert, in which the city officials declared no money would be appropriated for new subways or betterment of existing subways until operation by the city was assured, the chairman of the Transit Commission replying that the city had no practical plan for municipal operation and that the Mayor had been imposed on when somebody had handed him a map with some lines on it as a comprehensive scheme for new subways.

Comptroller Craig asked if the commission's desire to turn over the proposed Brooklyn crosstown subway to the B. R. T. was part of that company's reorganization plan.

"It has nothing to do with it," Mr. McAneny replied. You know that operation of the line will not add one cent to the profits of the company, which are fixed by the contract."

Mayor Hylan said he had opposed the dual subway contracts because all the people got out of them was a five-cent fare.

"I am afraid you will be known as the double-fare Mayor," retorted Mr. McAneny, referring to the doing away with transfers in Brooklyn and other sections of the city.

Comptroller Craig asked Mr. McAneny if it was not true that there was a provision for the recapture of the third track of the elevated lines. Mr. McAneny said there was, and Mr. Craig asked what use the third track would be if recaptured by the city. Mr. McAneny replied that it would be of no use unless the city also owned the other two tracks, but objected to Mr. Craig's characterization of this provision as "bunk." The hearing was adjourned to November 9.

Both Mayor Hylan and Chairman McAneny made statements the day following on the issues that arose at the hearing. Mayor Hylan said:

"The Board of Estimate has finished its public hearings on the plans for new city-owned and city-operated subways, which I submitted on Sept. 6 last, and it will shortly receive from me a supplemental report recommending certain modifications which were suggested by representatives of the various organizations who appeared before the board at these public hearings.

"The board will be requested to vote on the original plan with amendments, and when these routes are adopted we will immediately request the Transit Commission to prepare the detailed plans for the construction of the routes contained in our first construction group.

"The preparation of these plans for construction should be sufficiently advanced and consents of property owners along the route obtained to permit the advertising of contracts within a few months. The construction of all the routes contained in Group 1—about thirty-four linear miles—should be finished within five years.

"Chairman McAneny tried to create the impression at the Board of Estimate hearing yesterday that the construction of the subway routes proposed in my plan could not be begun until after the city recaptured the city-owned subways operated by the Interborough and B. R. T. This statement is untrue unless, through the re-election of Governor Miller, Mr. McAneny may remain as Chairman of the State Transit Commission and refuses to permit the engineers of that body, who are paid with city funds, to prepare the necessary detailed plans for the advertising of construction contracts.

"We should begin digging new subway routes within six months from the time the Board of Estimate adopts my report and pledges the money for construction. If there is any delay the people will know who is responsible. New subways should be finished and in operation, linked up with existing subway lines, before the end of five years."

Chairman McAneny, in his statement, repudiated the idea that the Transit Commission and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment were locking horns for partisan purposes. From the date of its appointment, Mr. McAneny declared, the commission has made every effort to get the Board of Estimate to work with it in those matters in which the joint action of the two bodies is necessary, but it has been rebuffed and blocked at every stage, with the result that the building of new subway lines, as well as the completion of the lines the commission found under way and unfinished, have been seriously delayed. Mr. McAneny's statement follows:

"The point that I tried to make yesterday, and the point that must be driven home with the people, is that the Mayor and his associates in declaring that they will approve no new subway routes or appropriate any funds for such routes, until they are assured in advance that they will be operated separately by the city administration itself means a veto upon even a start in new subway building for at least four years.

"The Mayor's plan for a new grouping of lines under municipal operation is built around his idea of recapturing the city owned sections of the dual subway. No decision could be made about the recapturable parts of the Interborough system until 1925, nor about the B. R. T. lines until 1926, in each case upon a year's notice to the operating company. That means that no real decision can be made in either case until the present city administration has gone out of office, and another takes its place. It would be impossible, therefore, for the Mayor or anyone else to say at this juncture which lines will hook up with the broken parts of the dual system he so lightly expects to put together, and equally impossible to lay such lines out and to declare in advance of construction that they will be operated separately by the city. The Mayor won't know until some time after his own term has expired what lines can be recaptured, or how they can be strung together, or whether the city can finance the cost of such a scheme.

"The one thing certain is that the building of new lines that will link up with the existing city-wide system should be authorized, and authorized at once. The city would retain complete control of the question as to where they should go and who should operate them when they are finished. The only immediate thing of importance is to see to it that they do connect with recapturable lines of some sort.

"The Transit Commission has been pressing a five-year plan of construction, and in that plan the Brooklyn Crosstown Line is the principal link. Not a day should be lost in proceeding with the preliminaries necessary before contracts for the building of that line can be let. The other B. R. T. lines with which it would connect, as the commission has laid it out, are all recapturable, and, under the terms of Contract 4 (Section 57), any additions or extensions that may now be built would go with them. If, therefore, the crosstown line were finished in four years—which would mean quick work—it would be operated only a year in connection with the present system before it could be taken over by the city along with the rest of that system, if the city so elected. The revenues from operation, if they show a

New Zoning District Provides for Detached Dwellings

Board of Estimate Adds District F to Map, in Which Area Houses Must Have Side and Front Yards

THE E district in zoning provides a detached house residential district for villa homes. Large E districts were placed on the area map in the original zoning. These were mainly in Flatbush, Bay Ridge and Riverdale. During the past six years these districts have been very popular and successful. Their success has prompted many other localities to petition the Board of Estimate to alter the area map so as to place their land in the E district. Great additions to the E districts were made throughout Flatbush, Flatlands, Rockaway, Manhattan Beach, New Utrecht, Richmond Hill, Glen Morris and the Bronx.

Recently the Board of Estimate made provision in the zoning resolution for a still more carefully restricted residential district. This is shown as district F on the area zoning map, says Edward M. Bassett. New houses in this kind of district must have side yards on each side of the house. Each of these side yards must be at least five feet wide. Each house must have a front yard of at least fifteen feet. The portion of the lot that can be covered with a new building in the F district is approximately 15% less than is permitted in the E district.

Although this new area district called F was designed to fill a demand felt by seashore districts that desired to prevent the congested construction of bungalows, nevertheless it is available for every suburban part of Greater New York. Six years ago when the zoning plan was adopted it was unknown how far the courts would approve its various provisions. Since then, however, zoning ordinances have met with emphatic court approval, not only in this city and state, but throughout the United States. The courts have shown that they will support reasonable zoning. The remarkable degree of approval of zoning by the people and the courts prompted the Board of Estimate to go somewhat further than was deemed prudent in the beginning, and the new F district is the result. It has become apparent that the owners of large areas in the suburbs desire to build small detached homes. What they have lacked in the past is an assurance that these homes would be permanently protected. They were afraid to build small homes if, when private restrictions expired, the neighborhood would be invaded by stores, factories and apartment houses. Much of the building since the war in the outlying boroughs has been of small detached one and two-family houses.

Sometimes even in an E district a block front is injured by some builder who does not observe the building line that has been generally adopted and who pushes his new building out to the street line. This hurts all the homes on the block. It would be well for owners of partly vacant localities to consider whether, instead of petitioning to have their areas placed in an E zone, it would not be well for them to petition for an F zone. Some of the existing E zones are well adapted to become F zones, and if the property owners in these localities desire to prevent vacant lots from building up in a way that can be a damage to the development, they would be well advised to petition to have their localities placed in the new F district. The interest of the Board of Estimate in the zoning plan and their desire to carry out its intent are shown by the amendment creating this new F district.

profit, would go automatically toward the city's side of the investment, and not to the company, as the Mayor indicated. That the existing contract definitely requires.

"The idea of holding a work of this magnitude, or of any of the other major lines within the commission's plan, as, for instance, those serving Washington Heights, until political questions of four years hence have been decided, would be an outrageous imposition upon the people of the city."

Following its action in sending to the Board of Estimate for approval the plans of the Brooklyn Crosstown line the Transit Commission on Oct. 13 submitted to the Board for approval plans for extension of the B. R. T. subway north from Fifty-ninth street, Manhattan, under Central Park to 168th street and Broadway, Washington Heights, and for a Staten Island route, which includes a tunnel under the Narrows from Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn, to Rosebank, Staten Island. This route more nearly reaches the geographical centre of the island, and is said to be approximately $3,000,000 cheaper and three minutes nearer Times Square than the more northerly route to Stapleton.

It was intimated at the offices of the commission that it was hoped that the steam railroad of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company would be acquired before the Staten Island tunnel was completed to furnish connections with the tunnel route, in which case there would be a rapid transit connection with Stapleton and St. George. In any event, it is expected that connections will be made at Rosebank with several transit lines, and that a large part of Staten Island will be almost immediately opened for development.

Under the law the Board of Estimate must first approve the route, after which the commission has to obtain the consent of abutting property owners or an order from the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. The commission must then present a detailed plan for each route and a form of contract, and after the board approves these and grants an appropriation may advertise for bids and award contracts.

The Transit Commission prepared the following descriptions of the Washington Heights and Staten Island plans:

"It is proposed to make the new line north from Fifty-ninth Street a two-track subway, with the stations located at points yet to be designated. At Columbus Circle, where the existing subway, the new B. R. T. extension north and the Eighth Avenue trunk line extension south will meet within an area of two or three blocks, a general exchange or transfer station is within the commission's plan, making this one of the most important traffic centres in the city.

"The building of the B. R. T. extension north of Fifty-ninth Street and under Central Park West will also pave the way for the permanent removal of the surface railroad tracks through this section. There has been, for some time, a persistent and actively waged campaign either for the relocation or the removal of these surface tracks in order that Central Park West may be developed into a thoroughly modern boulevard free for vehicular traffic. By providing subway transportation for the present surface passengers, the way naturally will be eased for taking up the surface tracks.

"In the $218,000,000 five-year construction plan presented by the commission in May, the B. R. T. extension north was included at an estimated cost of $26,500,000. This figure will remain unchanged as far as the building of the line to 155th Street is concerned. No estimates have been made for the new Washington Heights portion, the cost depending to a considerable extent upon the exact nature of the connections made; but the commission anticipates that it will be comparatively slight.

"The question of the selection of the best route to Staten Island has had the attention of the commission for several months. Plans for the extension of the Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn from its present terminus at Eighty-sixth Street to Ninety-fifth Street, Fort Hamilton, have already been authorized. This is a link in what will become the main Staten Island line.

"The new route, beginning at the terminus of the Fort Hamilton extension, will extend as a two-track subway or tunnel southeasterly and westerly, under private property and streets, to the Shore Road at Ninety-seventh Street. It will then cross the Narrows with a curve toward the Staten Island shore, turning under Pennsylvania Avenue to a point in the existing right of way of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad. Provision is also made in the route description for two branches in the Borough of Richmond, both leaving Pennsylvania Avenue at a point near New York Avenue, and turning north and south, respectively, to points at which connection can conveniently be made at the north with the tracks in the South Beach branch of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad and at the south at or near Belair Road with the tracks of the same system."

Charles G. Edwards Reelected President of Realty Board

Douglas L. Elliman Becomes Vice-President at Annual Meeting of Governors, William H. Dolson, Secretary, and J. Irving Walsh, Treasurer

THE Real Estate Board of New York held its annual meeting of Active, Sustaining, Contributing and Active-Associate Members, Tuesday, October 17th, for the election of Directors and Active-Associate Governors, and for other business.

The four candidates for Directors to act on the Board of Governors were Charles G. Edwards, J. Irving Walsh, Walter Stabler and Irving S. Whiting, who were re-elected, each for a term of three years.

Following the general election a meeting of Directors was held at which Charles G. Edwards was elected President, Douglas L. Elliman, Vice-President, Wm. H. Dolson, Secretary and J. Irving Walsh, Treasurer. Mr. Edwards and Mr. Dolson had each served one year as President and Secretary respectively and Mr. Walsh three years as Treasurer.

Election was also held for Active-Associate Governors to represent the Sustaining, Contributing, Active-Associate and Associate members on the Board of Governors, and the following were re-elected, each to serve for a term of three years: William C. Demorest, John M. Stoddard and Clarke G. Dailey.

In connection with the annual report, President Edwards referred briefly to certain special activities with which the Board had been engaged during the year. He referred particularly to closer contact with the National Association of Real Estate Boards, as evidenced by the meeting of the Directors, Advisory Board and National Committeemen at the Hotel Commodore October 13th and 14th. He laid emphasis on the cooperation of the members and the staff.

At the meeting the members voted that in place of the existing rates of commissions fixed by the Board on Staten Island sales there should be substituted the rates recently adopted by the newly organized Staten Island Real Estate Board. They also adopted the following as part of the Code of Ethics:

"The attention of members is called to the provisions of Sec. 442 and 442-B of Chapter 672 of the Laws of 1922, licensing Real Estate Brokers and Salesmen, which forbids the splitting of commissions by a real estate broker or a real estate salesman with a person not duly licensed as such broker or salesman."

"The Real Estate Board of New York is opposed to the publication, on the part of its members, of a sale or lease, or of any real estate transaction, whether concluded privately or by auction, at any price other than the correct price."

There was an unusually large attendance of members at the rooms of the Real Estate Board, No. 5 Dey street, while the election was being held.

National Realtors in Conference Discuss Housing Situation

Directors, one of the first duties that I have had to do is to appoint committees on the matter of divisions. I have appointed committees for building management, a division for sub-divisions, one for mortgage and finance, one for industrial property, one for appraisals, and one or two other divisions that are under consideration.

"The general plan is, as you know, under the Constitution that they shall have power to gather together, in these divisions, those men especially interested in those topics and under the general charter of a brief constitution furnished them by the National Association have them form their own by-laws and regulations. If they choose, they may have special dues for their own purposes and they may conduct their corporations under their own Executive Committee and Officers, as they desire. Our convention has grown so large that it has become practically impossible, in general sessions, to do anything but hit the high spots and a few general subjects of interest. We hope, under this system which has been adopted, as you know by other large organizations—the bankers, the medical profession and others—that we will be able to furnish to every Realtor the exact service that he wants. These divisions will form their own programme. In all probability, the general sessions of the convention will be confined to one session a day on general topics.

"We hope in that way that our conventions will be of greater benefit to those attending."

L. F. Eppich, of Denver, President-elect of the National Association, said: "We took pleasure, at the last national convention, in choosing President Edwards, of the New York Board, a member of the Executive Committee of the National Association. I know that he will be, ay, he has already proven to be, a big aid. His counsel, his knowledge and his judgment are invaluable."

Burtis L. Hampton, a director in the Seaboard Air Line and a prominent factor in the development of Florida lands, said: "Service is the rule of life and the rule of success. In selling real estate there are five motives to appeal to: pleasure, profit, utility, pride and caution. The faculty of vision is the greatest for a real-estate man to employ. Many well-known New Yorkers have exercised their vision as regards Florida. August Heckscher has bought 1,000 acres of Florida lands and planted an orange grove so large that the income from it will be the endowment fund for the hospital he is building on upper Fifth avenue in this city. Thomas A. Edison, Edward W. Bok, Dupont and others have discovered the practicability of Florida crops as well as the sunshine of the winter there. You have long heard about the sunshine and the climate, but those elements alone do not produce crops. Capital is a necessary factor and that for many years was lacking in Florida.

"The Seaboard Air Line is giving service as well as transit. We take care of the small farmer until he is well on his feet. It is business and it results in the enhancement of farm values and the growth of the state. We have built houses for the small farmer, put cows, chickens and other essentials on his farm, so that he can eventually realize his dream instead of forever chasing Florida sunshine and rainbows. I mention all this to emphasize service. It applies to city real estate as it does to rural and suburban property."

James R. Murphy, Vice-President of Joseph P. Day, Inc., said: "I want to emphasize the spirit of service that the real estate men of the nation displayed during the World War. I happen to know something about it through contact. The Alien Property Custodian had under his jurisdiction throughout the United States 9,000 men expert in the appraising of real estate in their respective localities. They appraised millions of dollars' worth of alien-owned property for the government and they gave their services as freely as water flows. There was not a single flaw in the work done by them. That was real constructive work for America."

Walter Stabler, Comptroller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, advised New York real-estate men to become better acquainted with the real-estate men of the country at large. He said that they would then escape from the reputation for provincialism that they had long had. He closed with a tribute to the real-estate men of the nation.

Joseph P. Day, who came in late, said: "Whether you like it or not, we are the biggest city in the world. We have the biggest life insurance company in the world. You have just heard the Comptroller of it speak. You might as well get to know us well as we must get to know you well. The greatest salesman is the one who sells by the power of suggestion." Mr. Day told numerous personal experiences in negotiating large transactions that bore out his statement.

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

All Parts of Town Felt the Impulse of Activity, While Large Vacant Tracts and Water Front Plots Found New Owners

THERE was good tone to the real estate market this week, with elements that indicated great underlying strength. Immense sales were not a part of it, although there were transactions that show the interest of the big fellows in the market. The latter part of last week brought to light the sale of the Braender building, a loft structure, in East 25th street, covering a plot 100 x 98.9. Two large deals in corner apartment houses in the Dyckman section, early in the week, indicate strong investment and operative interest there. A builder bought the north corner of Riverside Drive and 145th street, so as to improve it with an apartment house that will not interfere with the light of an adjoining building which he also erected. In fact, the upper reaches of the city were big contributors to the week's business. For example, a square block and some block fronts in the Bronx changed hands for improvement with various kinds of residential and business structures. The growth of the Bronx is shown in the steadily augmenting number of new taxpayers containing stores.

Downtown the market tone was well sustained in the sale of two 5-story loft and store buildings in Warren street, the sale of a property on West street, two good parcels in Dey street and a factory building at the beginning of Ninth avenue, as well as a block front on Tenth avenue to an adjoining owner. Some old East side tenement houses changed hands. A transaction that shows the steady trend of persons of wealth to the new Sutton Square social center was the purchase, by William A. Larned, of some old dwellings in that district which is fast undergoing social and structural change.

Farther uptown there was strong dealing in elevator apartment houses, divers kinds of non-elevator apartment buildings and in good dwellings, as well as some business parcels. The Hotel Joyce, in West 71st street, was sold. George Ehret sold an upper East side block with a frontage on the East river. It is timely to note in this connection that two large water front tracts on Newtown Creek, in Brooklyn, changed hands for industrial purposes. This creek has the reputation of being the busiest waterway in the world, its tonnage being stupendous. These water front sales in Manhattan and in Brooklyn would seem to indicate a revival of demand for large manufacturing and shipping sites.

General dealing in the Bronx and in Brooklyn was well sustained. Notable among the Manhattan leases was that of large space in the 34th street side of the Marbridge building, the leasing of much of the old Polyclinic Hospital building in East 34th street and the leasing of the Tribune building all for long terms, and the leasing of some entire buildings to one tenant in each case. A suburban deal that attracted attention was that of the purchase of 25 acres of choice land in the Wheatley Hills region of Nassau county, as the site for an exclusive private school.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 87, as against 68 last week and 71 a year ago. The number of sales south of 59th st was 28, as compared with 41 last week and 34 a year ago.

To Help Sell and Rent BUSINESS PROPERTY

TO assist owners, brokers and agents in selling and renting Business Properties of every description, The New York Herald now publishes a Business Property Guide. This Guide is the only feature of its kind published by a New York newspaper, and together with the publicity given it, marks a degree of cooperation with Business Property advertisers unequalled in the New York field.

If there is a market anywhere for your property it should be rented or sold if listed in The Herald's

Business Property Guide

THE guide contains a list of business properties to let and for sale, including office space, desk room, show rooms, lofts, stores, factory property, studios, basements, garages and buildings. Properties are grouped under their proper headings and classified according to location, and frequently their rental, for the convenient reference of buyers and renters. The guide is published every Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday in the Real Estate Pages.

Reforms Suggested in Report on Seasonal Employment

Special Committee of New York Building Congress Outlines Program to Reduce Construction Costs and Eliminate Unemployment Periods

The success of the New York Building Congress in working out its plans for the training of building trades apprentices has decided this organization to undertake other constructive work which will also greatly benefit the construction industry as a whole. The Congress is now initiating a program by which it is hoped to reduce the cost of building through the extension of local building activity throughout the year, thereby eliminating both the rush periods, when substantial bonuses are frequently paid to workers because of the great demand for mechanics, and the intervening periods of unemployment.

A committee of the Congress has just finished an exhaustive survey which analyzes the building situation and which will provide a basis for whatever future effort is to be made by the organization for the further stabilization of the industry and the elimination of the evils of seasonal employment. This committee consists of Walter Roberts, Chairman, William Bradley & Son; Charles E. Mack, of Mack, Jenny & Tyler; Fitz-Henry Faye Tucker, of Renwick, Aspinwall & Tucker; Roswell D. Tompkins, New York Building Trades' Council; H. H. Watts, Otis Elevator Company and Frank L. Glynn, Managing Director, Apprenticeship Commission of the New York Building Congress.

The findings of this committee are such that it is believed with the co-operation of all the elements contributing to the building industry a workable program can be put in operation that will be a material benefit to every phase of society from the laborer to the investor.

For several years past it has been realized by students of construction economics that the prevailing methods of building for completion at established seasons has been responsible for much unnecessary expense and that the only way to eliminate the rush periods is through co-operation to spread the work out over a twelve-month season. This will not only reduce building costs but stabilize conditions as well.

The survey just completed was conducted over a period of four months and the findings cover twenty-nine distinct operations as affected by the average employment variations of upward of 150,000 workmen annually during the past ten years.

Recognizing that the basic factors in the seasonal demand are Winter and weather conditions, opportunity for investment, general business tendencies and emergency needs, attention is being focused on new construction subject to control. In summarizing its recent investigation the Congress finds that custom is really the outstanding influence in causing the peak loads on the demand for building labor, especially during the renting seasons. Careful business foresight is what is required more than anything else to effect lower construction costs, with less waste, higher quality of workmanship and greater production, according to the report submitted.

The report of this survey points out that investment and speculative construction on new buildings classifies itself in general into three main divisions: Apartment houses, commercial buildings and loft buildings. The periods for renting these types of structures are based largely on custom and tradition and have an important bearing on labor demand and material supply. Large apartment projects are usually commenced so as to allow twelve or fourteen months for completion, the finished buildings to be ready for occupancy by October 1, which custom has decreed as the moving season.

Under ordinary conditions commercial structures usually call for commencing work sometime during the early spring and are scheduled for completion on or before the following May. Loft buildings are frequently erected and completed in from six to nine months and have a strong demand for occupancy on February 1. Thus one of the vital factors in the construction of new buildings in this city is the established rental period. It is also important to consider that the volume of building in the three types of new construction varies considerably from year to year, due largely to the opportunity for investment and the ratio of supply to the demand for rentable space, so that one year of large development in any one particular type of project may be followed by a decline in the volume of activity in that line the next, and vice versa.

New construction, which is most subject to control aside from buildings erected for speculative and investment purposes, is the large amount of building done for the Federal Government, State and city. This public work can be made subject to regulation by the governing boards in control of their development. Religious and educational structures are also an important factor and new structures and additions that are erected for the owners' prearranged occupancy without regard for investment or speculative returns may be built at such times as to assist in stabilizing the demand for men and materials and bridging the gaps between peak load periods.

As a preface to a detailed statement of recommendations for adding more seasons to the building year, the bulletin of the New York Building Congress states:

"While the Congress feels fully aware of the fact that an entire cure for seasonal employment is impossible on account of weather conditions, opportunity for investment, emergency and the will of the owner and speculator, still the opinion is general that much can be done to adjust elements that affect peak demands and as a result decrease much of the unnecessary cost and loss to which the building industry is now subjected.

"With this understanding the following recommendations are made in hope that they will be suggestive to owners, investors, real estate brokers, architects, engineers, material manufacturers, contractors, labor leaders and others who may be interested in reducing costs and eliminating unemployment periods:

"1. Establish a wider range of rental period dates.

"2. Regulate Government, State, city, religious and educational building construction so that it will come during the low periods of employment wherever possible.

"3. Regulate the construction of new buildings and additions that are erected for owners' prearranged occupancy without regard for investment returns so that it will come during the low periods of employment.

"4. Encourage beginning work on new construction March 1 instead of the customary May 1, thereby bringing its labor demand two months ahead of the demand peak, with a greater supply available.

"5. Plan maintenance and repair work so that it will come during the season for which there is a low demand for the labor involved, subject to emergency conditions that must be considered.

"6. Wherever possible, adapt the demand for 'inside' and 'outside' work to labor available as indicated on the labor chart analysis."

G-E Wiring Devices forestall excuses

AN OWNER or a tenant, pleased with the conveniences which have been given him, is a great factor in building a reputation for the engineer or contractor.

Remember this factor of satisfaction. Build with an eye to the future. Incorporate in your plans all the little conveniences which are so easy to install but which mean so much to the man who uses them.

G-E Wiring Devices are the last word in convenience. They include every device necessary for completely wiring a building. They are good-looking, easy to install, and last as long as the structure itself.

Local Building Activity Retarded by Approaching Winter

Weekly Construction Statistics, Tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company, Shows Building Industry Confronted With Seasonal Decline

THE records of contract commitments for new building and engineering projects in the local territory show a continued seasonal decline when the totals are compared with those for several weeks back, but there is a large volume of new work being planned which assures a busy industry throughout the remaining months of this year and well along into next spring. Figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, covering the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, for the forty-first week of this year, show that architects and engineers started plans for 502 new structural projects during the week which will involve a total expenditure of more than $19,967,400. During the same period 315 contracts were awarded at an estimated total cost of $8,732,100.

Although construction activity in New York City shows a similar decline when the totals are compared with those for previous weeks there is still a vast amount of active building and the number of new operations being released under contract is indicative of a lively interest in the building field. The records for the past week show that 215 new projects were reported in the planning stage at an approximate total cost of $9,935,200 while 88 contracts were awarded at a total value of $4,461,200. The decline is quite noticeable in all types of project and is due to the approach of winter rather than an inclination to cease activity on any one particular type of operation. Residential building continues a very important factor at the present time and commercial and industrial work is also fairly active.

The list of 215 new projects for which plans were announced during the week of October 7 to 13 inclusive comprises 29 business buildings such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $1,100,500; 2 educational buildings, $65,000; 1 hospital, $50,000; 9 factories and industrial plants, $205,200; 5 public utilities, $333,000; 2 religious and memorial buildings, $278,000; 165 residential operations including apartments, flats and tenements and one and two-family dwellings, $7,752,000 and 2 social and recreational projects, $151,500.

Among the 88 projects for which contracts were awarded in New York City during the forty-first week of this year, were 16 business and commercial jobs of various types, $1,000,000; 1 educational building, $150,000; 2 hospitals and institutions, $380,000; 1 factory, $50,000; 1 public building, $2,200; 1 public utility project, $40,000; 2 religious edifices, $330,000; and 64 residential buildings, $2,509,000.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Edward C. Dean, architect, 2 West 47th street, has bought a trace, representing a subdivision of the old Lyon farm on North street, Greenwich, Conn., and will improve it with the construction of a residence for his own occupancy.

George Acker, who for several years has been inspector of material with the Submarine Boat Corporation, of Port Newark, N. J., has been appointed engineering inspector for the New York & New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission on the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River.

Weston E. Fuller has withdrawn from the partnership of Hazen, Whipple & Fuller, consulting hydraulic and sanitary engineers, to become professor of civil engineering at Swarthmore College. The firm will revert to the name of Hazen & Whipple, by which it was known during the period from 1904 to 1914.

Alfred C. Bosson has returned from his trip to England and Scotland. While in London Mr. Bosson, on behalf of the Architectural League of New York, invited the Royal Institute of British Architects to send an exhibition of their work to New York for the annual exhibition of the league early next spring. While abroad Mr. Bosson was also the judge for a competition for a large commercial building in London, for which a gold medal was awarded.

Harvey W. Corbett, of Helmle & Corbett, architects, who recently returned from England, where he went in connection with the construction of two large wings for the Bush Building, says that building conditions in London are greatly improved. He stated that prices for building work are coming down, which has influenced considerable new construction activity in the British metropolis, since materials for construction are also getting close to normal.

Dr. Samuel W. Stratton, for more than twenty years the director of the Federal Bureau of Standards at Washington, was recently elected president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He will assume the position on January 1, 1923. Dr. Stratton has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering from the University of Illinois and that of Doctor of Science from the Western University of Pennsylvania, the University of Cambridge and Yale. He was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor in 1909.

New Firm of Starrett Brothers, Inc.

Paul Starrett, who recently resigned as president of the George A. Fuller Company, and W. A. Starrett, formerly a vice-president of that company, announce the formation of Starrett Brothers, Inc., builders, with offices in the Architects' Building, 101 Park avenue. The new firm will specialize in the construction of large office buildings, hotels and other modern building projects.

The name of Starrett has been closely identified with the construction industry nationally as well as locally for more than a score of years. The principals of the new firm are members of the family of five brothers, all of whom became distinguished in the construction field as designers, engineers and constructors. As president of the George A. Fuller Company for twenty-one years Paul Starrett occupied a prominent position in the development of the modern type of skyscraper office buildings in New York City and other commercial centers of the United States and Canada. Many of the hotels of national reputation were constructed by this firm, and it was during Paul Starrett's administration as head of the Fuller company organization that the firm began the construction of the first group of modern skyscrapers in Japan.

National Retail Lumber Dealers' Association will hold its annual meeting at Cleveland, Ohio, October 25 to 27 inclusive. The plans for this meeting are now in preparation and will be announced later.

"Own-Your-Home" Exposition—The fifth annual "Own-Your-Home" Exposition will be held in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, April 21 to 28, 1923, and will be conducted by the real estate boards of the Metropolitan district, according to Robert H. Sexton, managing director. The Administration Committee, which will be in charge of the plans for this exposition, is as follows: Charles G. Edwards and William C. Demorest, Real Estate Board of New York; James B. Fisher and William H. Cary, Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers; Stephen Yates and Granville H. Rome, Long Island Real Estate Board; Stephen L. Angell and Edward R. Fiske, Westchester County Realty Board; Theodore Van Winkle, Northern New Jersey Realtors; Arthur S. Hughes, Passaic Board of Realtors. Charles G. Edwards is the chairman of this committee.

W. A. Starrett, prior to his appointment during the World War as Colonel of Engineers, Construction, Quartermasters' Department, U. S. A., in charge of the construction of cantonments and army base depots in this country and abroad, was associated with the firm of Starrett & Van Vleck, architects, of which the late Goldwin Starrett was senior partner.

Upon concluding his association with the George A. Fuller Company Paul Starrett left the following message with his old associates in that organization: "In severing my business relations with the George A. Fuller Company I desire to record my affection for, and confidence in, my former associates in that company who will carry on its work."

ASIDE from a normal seasonal decline in the volume of active building the local construction industry has excellent prospects for the coming months. There is sufficient work now under way to provide employment for practically all available mechanics, and, as the contracts recently awarded represent some large and important jobs, the outlook for the winter and early spring of next year is far better than it was at this time a year ago. Considerable new prospective work is reported from the offices of architects and engineers, and although a large percentage of this work will undoubtedly not be released until next spring there is every indication that 1923 will be as active for all of the building industry as has been the past season.

Demand for building materials remains very heavy, which is the best possible indication of the future. The railroad embargoes and congestion have been responsible for a developing shortage in several important materials—namely, face brick, Portland cement and lime—but this situation seems to be clearing up rapidly, and no particular anxiety is being expressed over the outlook. Building material prices are generally very firm, and, with the exception of Hudson River common brick, for which prices are somewhat weaker than they were, the local material market is fairly well stabilized.

Common Brick—Although business in the New York wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has been fair during the past week, the demand is not what it should be for this time of the year. Buying is not particularly brisk, and there is an apparent tendency to hold off purchases for lower prices. At present the wholesale prices range from $14 to $16 a thousand, but only brick of the best grades are bringing the top figure. There is not a large volume of first-quality brick now available in the New York market as the kiln run is considerably below the average in quality because of the scarcity of hard coal and the difficulties manufacturers have experienced in obtaining fuel of any kind. Although the autumn is well advanced brick-making is still in progress in practically all of the plants along the river, but a large number of the men have left for the season, and production is going on at a greatly reduced rate. There is every indication that within the next few weeks at most the majority of the Hudson River yards, except those equipped with dryers, will have shut down for the season.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending

Thursday, October 19, 1922. Condition of market: Demand, fair; prices, weak but unchanged. Quotations: Hudson River, $14 to $16 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 35, sales, 35. Distribution: Manhattan, 8; Bronx, 1; Brooklyn, 18; New Jersey points, 4; Astoria, 2; Flushing, 1; Roslyn, 1. Remaining unsold in the New York wholesale market, 26.

Lumber—Market conditions have remained practically unchanged during the past week. Demand continues strong and prices are firm, but the embargoes on lumber-carrying railroads have shortened the supply in the wholesale market, and as a consequence there is a developing scarcity among retailers for certain popular lines of stock. The outlook for the remaining fall and winter months is particularly bright, and lumber dealers, both wholesale and retail, are generally optimistic.

Structural Steel—A slight improvement in the demand for fabricated structural steel has been noticeable during the past week. Several important projects have been released for bids within the past few days, and some interesting work has been placed under contract. Although the recent contract commitments for structural steel have been somewhat below normal for this time of the year, the total tonnage booked in the metropolitan district amounts to a fair amount. Prices are steady and unchanged. A report issued by the Department of Commerce announces that a slight decline occurred in the sales of fabricated structural steel in September, according to reports made to the Bureau of the Census. September sales amounted to 61.9 per cent. of shop capacity compared with 64.9 per cent. in August. Reports received from 137 firms from April through September with a shop capacity of 23,156 tons per month, show a steady decline in percentage of shop capacity booked.

Cast Iron Pipe—The market for this commodity is very active considering the lateness of the season. Private buying dominates the market at present, but there is a smattering of new municipal business coming out occasionally. The majority of the manufacturers are well satisfied with the demand, and their plants are booked solid for several months ahead. The supplies of pig iron are more plentiful than they have been, and, as a result, the manufacturing situation is on a better basis than it has been for some time past. Prices are firm, and no changes or important have been announced by the producers.

Electrical Supplies Demand for all items in this line continues to increase steadily and both manufacturers and dealers are optimistic. The large amount of local construction coupled with a good volume of profitable repair work is keeping the electrical contractors busy and jobbers have no complaint about stock movements. Prices are well sustained, and although there are some reports of low stocks the supplies are adequate to the current demand.

Builders' Hardware—There has been no drop in the demand during the past week or so and local dealers are having difficulty in keeping their stocks in any kind of shape. Deliveries from manufacturers are badly delayed on account of the railroad strike. Prices are holding firmly to established levels.

Roofing Papers There is no apparent decrease in the demand for these materials, but as the winter approaches and suburban construction falls off the market is likely to lose some of its intensity. Stocks are adequate for all current demands and prices are steady and practically unchanged.

Linseed Oil—The market for this commodity has not been very active during the past week. Buying is negligible and inquiries are frequent. Although prices are practically unchanged, there is a downward tendency and there is every indication of a lower level in the near future. Local stocks are ample for the current light demand.

Window Glass—Business in this line continues fairly active, and although the demand is slightly under its rate of a few weeks ago the prospects for the next few months are generally considered bright and favorable. The only anxiety expressed by local jobbers is about the growing scarcity of glass. Jobbers generally report light stocks, and some sizes are practically out. Prices are strong and unchanged.

Face Brick—Demand for face brick is very strong and dealers are being offered more business than they are able to handle. The shortage of cars for the transportation of this material is the principal difficulty at present and several jobs have been held up on account of the delays. Prices are very firm.

BLACKMAR'S ASBESTOS LIQUID ROOFING

Standard Leak-proof Roof Covering of the World. Not a roof paint. It is a new roof. One application will make old leaky roofs just like new at a cost of about 14¢ sq ft. Prepared in container ready for use. WE CHALLENGE any manufacturer to a comparison of materials by analysis, test of durability and process of manufacturing. There is not a better Asbestos Liquid or Plastic Cement Roofing at any price. Not affected by the coldest winter weather or the hottest blazing sun, resilient, elastic, expands and contracts with the surface on which it is applied. Will never crack. Air, rain or moisture cannot penetrate the material, absolutely impervious to water, nonporous, permitting no passage of moisture in any degree into or through the material.

Where $19,287,039 Should Have Been Saved

How those responsible for it can hope to justify the proposed budget for 1923 is past understanding. Even though the total be reduced by a few millions before the new budget is finally adopted, and even though the tax rate for next year be no higher than the 1922 rate, the budget-makers still will have a great deal to explain.

Some of the criticism now levelled at the city authorities may be attributed to political motives, and should be taken for what it is worth and no more. Every city administration has its political critics—individuals and organizations whose chief mission is to find fault with the action of those in power. Mayor Hylan's administration has its share of these critics, and some of their attacks on the 1923 budget should be subjected to reasonable discount for bias. But a study of the budget as proposed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment reveals certain facts so startling as to rank outside the established sphere for political sharpshooting.

Take, for instance, the Debt Service. In the budget each year the authorities have to make provision for the Debt Service. This item varies from year to year. In the 1922 budget it amounted to $102,237,790.85. In the 1923 budget it amounts to only $84,785,641.83. These figures mean that for 1923 the budget-makers have to provide $17,452,149.02 less than for the preceding year to meet this feature of the city's obligations. Is this saving reflected in the 1923 budget? It is not!

Again, take the matter of the Direct State Tax. In the 1922 budget the city authorities had to provide $14,430,513 to meet this item. In the 1923 budget the Direct State Tax totals only $12,595,623. Here is another saving, which amounts to $1,834,890. Is this saving reflected in the 1923 budget? Again, it is not!

Here are two items by which the task of the budget-makers was lessened a total of $19,287,039, and yet the taxpayers of the city will not benefit a single penny through what should be a fortunate circumstance. Instead of placing this great saving to the credit of the taxpayers, the entire $19,287,039 has been appropriated for other purposes, with some ten millions more added on top of it.

Salary increases and new jobs and other items have absorbed all of the millions which might have been saved. In years when mandatory charges boost the budget our city officials blame circumstances, but in years when these mandatory charges decrease and make possible and logical a sharp reduction in the budget, the authorities invariably find a way to spend the money and deprive the taxpayers of the benefit.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment still has a few days left in which to cut the proposed budget for 1923. It is probable some reductions will be made, possibly totalling several millions of dollars. But if the new budget had been prepared in the interest of the taxpayers, as should have been the case, the total would be at the highest more than $19,000,000 under the total of the 1922 budget.

Builders Should Conserve Lumber

A recent report of a survey made by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, shows that during the past two decades, because of the rapidly decreasing supply, the per capita consumption of lumber has dropped one-third. This fact carries with it a serious warning of the extremely grave outlook for the forest resources of this country and is a strong appeal for conservation and re-forestation on an elaborate scale if total depletion within a relatively short period is to be averted.

The decrease in the per capita consumption of lumber has not been caused by a declining use for this basic commodity. Rather, it is a direct result of a steady depletion of the supply through the exhaustion of the forests, which once were though inexhaustible. Herein lies the great lesson to be learned at once by the American people if the United States is not in the near future to be forced into foreign markets for its lumber requirements and forced to pay whatever prices may be demanded for a commodity absolutely essential to our economic life.

Federal and state authorities are very active in their conservation and re-forestation efforts, seeking thereby to assure a future supply of lumber and timber so necessary to the industrial life of the nation. The plans for re-forestation are extensive and will greatly assist in assuring a future supply, but as at least twenty years must elapse before these new forests can produce marketable lumber, conservation stands out now as the prime essential if lumber supplies are to be assured in adequate amounts.

Governmental efforts toward lumber conservation will be of little avail unless all interested in the supply and use of this commodity co-operate to the extent of their abilities. Lumber, one of the most important of the basic building materials, has been subject to enormous waste in the construction industry.

The lumber waste in the construction industry, in addition to depleting the available supply for future use, is an item of no small cost to the property owner. While attempts to conserve lumber should be of prime interest to manufacturing consumers and others who daily require it in some form or other, the construction industry, because of its widespread use of this material and its prominence as one of the nation's most active and progressive elements, should lead in earnest efforts to save and extend the lumber resources of the United States.

New York's Greatness Shown in Novel Way

New York City is not always fortunate in its critics, who occasionally draw odious comparisons with other cities and point out the disadvantages the cave-dwellers and subway-travellers of the metropolis have to contend with. Even its boosters become on occasion obnoxiously vainglorious and rant about its attractions as if there was nothing good to be said of other centres of population through the country. But recently a new protagonist of the wonders of this marvellous city has appeared and acclaimed its greatness in so novel a way as to disarm those who carp at the boastfulness of New Yorkers generally. Curiously enough, this new champion of New York as a place worth telling about is a man of science and addicted to statistics, yet he has vision and imagination. Major Joseph Caccavajo, consulting engineer and expert on the population of and statistics relating to New York, advances the engaging statement that if all the streets in the five boroughs of this city were placed end to end and joined to Broadway they would extend to Los Angeles, Cal. Having laid out this elongated boulevard across the continent from Atlantic to Pacific there would be street mileage enough left to equal all the streets in Boston or Washington. There are 3,750 miles of streets in New York and it is only 3,149 miles from New York to Los Angeles.

Major Caccavajo is not content to rest with this unusual and striking exemplification of the magnitude of the first city in the land, but goes on piling up a statistical array of facts about what might be developed out of New York's great physical resources along this mythical street from ocean to ocean. Two-thirds of the distance, he finds, could be furnished with a single track made up of the "L," Interboro and B. R. T. systems. Every mile of the way there could be ten manufactories, thirty-five apartment houses and 100 one- and two-family houses, if these buildings were transferred from within the limits of this city and scattered along the transcontinental way. Every two miles there could be a church and a hotel, and every three miles a school-house, not to speak of fourteen colleges and universities and hundreds of special schools. There are nearly enough miles of sewers in New York City to supply drainage the full length of this cross-country roadway, and more than enough water mains. Stretched along every mile of this road there might be nearly 2,000 miles of telephone wires if subscribers in the New York exchanges were deprived of them.

These are only a very few of the marvels of New York which this statistical expert strings along the visionary way from coast to coast. There is the assessed value of New York realty, fixed this year at $10,466,121,527, which if changed into money would capitalize each mile of the road to Los Angeles at $3,323,633. If this money, representing the value of New York's realty, were invested in farm land at $100 an acre it would buy a strip of land fifty miles wide, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

These figures and others that this engineer with romanticist's wand has conjured up betoken the greatness of New York. They are convincing as well as interesting and should determine the captious and envious citizen of lesser, but still attractive cities, that New York is supreme—and why it is.

Democratic Club Property Bought by Frederick Brown

AFTER being the subject of discussion in the real estate market for more than a year, the home of the National Democratic Club, at 617 Fifth Avenue, has been bought from that organization by Frederick Brown, well-known real estate operator. The reported price is $1,010,000.

At a largely-attended meeting of the club on Monday evening it was voted—63 to 30—to sell the property to Mr. Brown at the price stated. The buyer denies a report that he is to pay to the club 50 per cent. of any net profit that may accrue to him if he should resell the parcel within one year.

The building is a modern 5-story brick and stone club-house, covering a plot 42x100, adjoining the southeast corner of Fiftieth street. It is assessed for $550,000 with improvements. The plot alone is assessed for $500,000.

About a year ago Saks & Company, now at Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street, bought all of the plot comprising the east block front from Forty-ninth to Fiftieth Streets excepting the Democratic Club-house, which the club declined to sell at the price offered. Saks & Company needed it to complete their holdings before erecting a large store building on the block. Since then there have been several reports that the club-house had been sold, but they proved unfounded.

The Buckingham and Belgravia hotels cover the rest of the block front. The size of the combined plots, including the club-house, is 200.10x200. The estate of George Kemp was the owner of the entire block front except the club-house. It is presumed that Mr. Brown will resell the club-house and site to Saks & Company, but this is not known.

Many years ago the fee to the club-house was the site of the home of the late Cord Meyer, sugar refiner, manufacturer, banker and Democratic politician, who was long treasurer of the Democratic State Committee. Less than thirty years ago he sold the property to the National Democratic Club for $175,000 and thought he obtained all that it was worth at that time, the price being much more than he had paid for the property. The latest sale demonstrates the vast increases in fee values in Fifth Avenue south of the Plaza at Fifty-Ninth Street.

New York University Establishes Realty Lecture Course

THAT real estate is a subject worthy of scientific investigation has been recognized by New York University which has established a course for the training of young men and women in real estate procedure and practice. The course is primarily for college graduates but is intended also to meet the needs of men and women in the real estate or the insurance field who have the personal quality to convince the instructor that they can pursue the course with profit to themselves and to their fellow students. It includes the elementary principles of the law of real estate and a consideration of most of the legal forms used in real estate practice. It covers the work of the broker, operator and manager, methods of financing and acquiring property and methods of financing and acquiring buildings.

The insurance subjects include fire and casualty insurance, as well as life and workmen's compensation. A feature of the course will be the submission of actual problems arising in practice.

The real estate instruction is to be given by Mr. Nelson L. North, jr., a real estate lawyer of Brooklyn. Mr. Saul B. Ackerman, lately with the New York Insurance Department and now lecturer on insurance at New York University, will give the insurance work. The course will be given at the Wall Street Division of New York University, 90 Trinity Place.

Total of Budget for 1923 Increased to $361,768,981.59

Board of Estimate and Apportionment Fixes High Aggregate, But Has Until October 31 to Make Reductions Before Aldermen Take Action

THE Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Friday, Oct. 20th, adopted the proposed budget for 1923, totalling $361,768,981.59, which is an increase over the 1922 budget of $11,252,457. No further increases in the budget may be made but the Board may cut items from it up to midnight, October 31, when the final budget must be adopted. Public hearings were held on Wednesday and Thursday last in the chamber of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

In comparisons of the tentative budget of 1923 with the final budget of 1922 attention has been called to the difference in the amounts paid for debt service. In 1922 the final budget included $102,237,790.85 for this item while the 1923 budget calls for only $84,785,641.83, a decrease of $17,452,149.02. When this amount is added to the increase in 1923 of $11,252,457 over the final budget of 1922 the total increase of all other items except debt services in the 1923 budget as it now stands is $28,704,606.02.

When the Board of Estimate and Apportionment completes its work on the budget on Oct. 23 it must within five days go to the Board of Aldermen for consideration. That body will have twenty days for discussion and may cut the budget but not increase it. The budget must finally be adopted and certified and filed with the city clerk by December 25.

During the period in which increases in the tentative budget could be made by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment it was proposed to increase the salaries of the Commissioners of Departments from $7,500 to $10,000 each. The increases were allowed and then cut out and the Mayor explained this action as follows: "There was a desire to give sincere and earnest men and women who never watch the clock some increases, also to heads of big departments. Men in other departments of the city like the Board of Education receive larger salaries than commissioners of our city departments. In the Department of Education a man in charge of the supplies receives $9,000 a year, and all he has to do is to look after the purchases of supplies. The president of the City College receives $12,000 a year, in addition to which he has a beautiful residence. This residence is worth probably $10,000 a year to him, for it is supplied with light and heat. This man has been here only seven years from the State of Texas. There are many positions held by men who do practically little work."

It was pointed out by Borough President Maurice E. Connelly of Queens that the thirteen heads of city departments had not received any advance in salaries for twenty-five years, having received $7,500 all that time. The Mayor replied that after consideration it was thought best not to allow these increases, as the budget was getting bigger and bigger each year.

"This is due," the Mayor declared, "to a great extent to the mandatory salaries of judges and those in county offices. For that reason we were obliged to forego giving any consideration to persons who work night and day in the service of the city."

"While considering increases for the commissioners and other city employes it was natural that we had to talk it over in committee, and some people feel much perturbed because they were not let in on it, and concluded things were done behind closed doors. We consider many matters in executive sessions."

"As far as I can see it will be necessary to prune and reduce until Oct. 31. We have until that time to make reductions, and I am going to ask examiners and members of the executive staff and the Commissioner of Accounts and his staff to begin tomorrow to make a survey of the proposed budget, looking toward a material reduction.

"I regret exceedingly that we could not give deserving city employes some increases. There are two classes of employes, those who have their hats on ready to quit at quitting time and those who are ready to work overtime into the night."

Mayor Hylan said that had it not been for mandatory increases which amount to about $3,000,000 the budget for 1923 would not have exceeded this year's.

"The proposed budget," he added, "does not give any salary increases, unless an error has crept in, except mandatory increases. This is true of my own departments, the offices of the borough presidents and Controller Craig. There are some men who claim they are entitled under military law to increases in salary and these have been allowed tentatively and can be eliminated before the end of the year if necessary."

Comparison of the budget as it now stands with the tentative budget shows that while the Board of Estimate and Apportionment cut out the proposed increases to commissioners the personal service items include increases of $5,838,855.85. As the mandatory increases made by the Legislature amount to $2,390,781.39 the salary increases adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment aggregate $3,448,062.46. These increases are as follows:

Police Department	$1,912,576.56
Fire	478,201.83
Public Welfare	555,470.58
Health	11,617.00
Correction	20,961.00
Plants and Structures	916,678.81
Docks	58,950.75
Water, Gas and Electricity	617,321.50
Street Cleaning	1,060,341.09
Tenement House	29,486.00
Accounts	17,486.00
Licenses	2,427.90
Public Markets	129,093.73

In a statement issued by the Citizens' Union the increase in the personal service items is said to be due to the fact that there has been provided a number of new jobs including the following: Assistant to the Mayor, $9,000; assistant to the Commissioner of Accounts, $5,500; examiner of accounts, $5,000; two examining inspectors, $1,800 each.

"President Hulbert of the Board of Aldermen," the Citizens' Union points out, "is to have a new position of chief examiner at $5,000 per annum in addition to new confidential stenographer at $2,520 per annum. Controller Craig is to have two new deputy receivers of taxes at $3,500 per annum each, six new deputy collectors of assessments and arrears at $3,500 each, a new deputy collector of city revenue at $3,500 per annum, two new expert accountants at $5,500 per annum each, one expert accountant at $3,600 per annum—all in addition to three new assistant deputy controllers at $6,500 per annum each, provided for the first time in the tentative budget. Commissioner Whalen, as chairman of the Board of Purchase, is to have a new director of purchases at $6,000 per annum, and a secretary to the chairman at $3,500 per annum. As Commissioner of Plant and Structures, Mr. Whalen is to have a secretary to the Department of Plant and Structures at $6,000 per annum, pro-

Queens Borough Needs One Billion Mortgage Money

Chamber of Commerce Takes Manhattan and Brooklyn Bankers on Tour of Inspection to Prove Value as Basis for Loans on Realty

QUEENS BOROUGH needs one billion dollars—$100,000,000 annually for the next ten years—invested in its real estate mortgages, so that it may fulfill its destiny as the great 'Home Borough' of New York City," was the statement made by P. A. Rowley, Treasurer of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce and Vice President of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, to a number of executives of the largest savings banks in Manhattan and Brooklyn who were guests of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce on a trip of inspection through the borough last week.

The Board of Directors of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce recently appointed the following special committee to entertain executives of banking and loaning institutions of New York City, to convince them of the great opportunities which exist in Queens for real estate mortgage investment: P. A. Rowley, Chairman; Ray Palmer, President, New York & Queens Electric Light & Power Company; F. Ray Howe, Vice President of the Queensboro Corporation; Jarvis S. Hicks, Secretary of the Long Island City Savings Bank; Robert W. Higbie, President of the Long Island Finance Corporation; and H. Pushae Williams, President of the First Mortgage Guarantee Company.

On the first trip of inspection, which was made last week, there were present the following representatives of savings institutions whose aggregate resources total more than a half billion dollars: James A. Stenhouse, Comptroller of The Bowery Savings Bank; John S. Daly, Comptroller of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank; P. A. Benson, Secretary of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn, and Laurus E. Sutton, Comptroller of the Brooklyn Savings Bank.

"Queens borough," said Mr. Rowley, "possessing as it does every economic advantage that comes by reason of its being an integral part of the biggest city in the world, together with its excellent rapid transit facilities enabling the residents to reach conveniently and quickly every part of the city, and with a building construction now under way which exceeds that in every city, except two or three, in the United States, is, nevertheless, being handicapped in its development through a lack of knowledge of these important facts by the officers of some of the larger savings institutions in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

"To realize its fullest development, Queens borough needs a wider and ever broadening market for the sale of mortgages loaned on property in its many rapidly growing residential and industrial communities by the various mortgage institutions now operating in the borough. It needs a market annually for the sale of at least 15,000 mortgages, ranging from $3,000 to $10,000 each, on detached and semi-detached dwellings. Here is where the great savings institutions of Manhattan and Brooklyn can help the residents of the congested sections of the city to gratify their desires to own their own homes in the attractive communities throughout Queens borough. Queens also needs millions of dollars annually in mortgages to finance the thousands of multi-family buildings and apartment houses which are to be erected.

"The following tabulation gives the amount of real estate and trust mortgages recorded in Queens Borough during the past eleven years:

	Real Estate Mortgages.	Trust Mortgages.
July 1, 1912	$25,493,973	$13,534,750
July 1, 1913	23,798,190	309,168,532
July 1, 1914	18,870,093	45,008,457
July 1, 1915	19,371,757	52,287,042
December 31, 1915 (6 months)	12,493,901	132,000
December 31, 1916	21,519,811	30,519,811
December 31, 1917	16,326,260	272,300
December 31, 1918	10,052,067	796,799
December 31, 1919	26,656,020	1,114,600
December 31, 1920	34,706,663	842,000
December 31, 1921	50,329,292	75,699,250
July 31, 1922 (7 months)	47,131,262	12,755,262
Total	$306,719,289	$512,190,863

"The above figures do not include mortgages taken by assignment, nor the large amounts invested by several banks on mortgages purchased through and guaranteed by other financial institutions. It is an interesting fact that of the 21 savings banks in Brooklyn, 15 loaned more than $5,000,000 on Queens mortgages during 1921, while of the 30 savings banks in Manhattan and the Bronx, only two invested the small sum of $33,500 in Queens mortgages for that year.

"The life insurance companies during the past two years have loaned more than $5,000,000 in Queens mortgages, as compared with $9,700 for the twelve months ending July 1, 1914. This indicates the opinion which the officers of these great financial institutions, such as the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, now have of the value of Queens mortgages from the investment standpoint.

$150,000 Collected Thus Far from Realty Brokers' Licenses

Albany, Oct. 25.

SEVEN thousand real estate brokers' licenses, 3,000 salesmen's licenses and 300 branch real estate office licences have been issued up to date by the State Tax Commission, Frank S. McCaffrey, Deputy Commissioner, announced this week. Of these licenses about 70 per cent. have been issued to real estate operators in New York City.

Applications for brokers' licenses already filed with the commission total over 10,000, and for salesmen's licenses 4,500. The Bureau of Stamps and Licenses, which supervises the issuance of these licenses, is busily engaged in the task of checking up the applications and filling out license blanks.

Deputy McCaffrey said that the collections in fees to date total about $150,000, half of which will be paid back to the cities in which the realtors operate. There has been very little difficulty in putting the new law into effect.

vided in the tentative budget, and a new motion picture operator at $2,700 per annum."

In the Police Department, the Citizens' Union says, the proposed budget retains the additional salary allowances for five captains detailed as deputy chief inspectors, fifteen captains detailed as deputy inspectors and twenty lieutenants detailed as acting captains—all in addition to a new assistant secretary to the Police Commissioner at $3,000 per annum and two new police surgeons at $4,400 per annum.

The United Real Estate Owners' Association after an examination of the proposed budget for 1923, declares that "the 1923 budget is minus the tell-tale parallel columns of the 1922 budget figures and which the 1922 budget possessed. It is therefore impossible to compare either the itemized or total figures of 1922 with 1923 without hunting up the 1922 budget figures and entering them against the 1923 figures, which is impossible to do, so far as the itemized figures are concerned, in time for the budget public hearings. The 1923 proposed budget is therefore a step backward."

State Realty Boards Establish Headquarters at Albany

Albany, October 24.

DeLANCEY M. ELLIS, President of the Albany Realty Board, was elected President of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards at the nineteenth annual convention held here last week. Other officers elected were: A. L. Kinsey of Buffalo, Howard Rupert of Rochester, Hiram Goldsmith of Binghamton, Edwin E. Becker of Schenectady, and Stephen Yates of Long Island City, Regional Vice-Presidents; Charles A. Miller of Utica, Treasurer, and Stephen L. Angell of Scarsdale, Secretary. Meade C. Dobson of Albany was renamed Executive Secretary.

The convention voted to establish permanent headquarters in Albany and subsequently directed President Ellis and Secretary Dobson to open offices here. In the past headquarters of the association have been located in Rochester. The necessity of having a representative in Albany to maintain a check upon legislation affecting realty was responsible for the transfer of the headquarters of the organization.

Some of the most important resolutions passed by the convention urged a reduction of the present large list of exemptions from taxation, particularly securities; the adoption of the full assessment rule with respect to real property; the mandatory preparation of tax maps in every tax district and the adoption of the so-called block and lot system of assessment. The association also went on record as favoring the enactment of legislation requiring all counties, cities, towns and villages to prepare plans showing streets and highway improvements in future development projects. This requirement is designed to compel the adoption of the zoning system in municipal improvement extensions.

On the closing day the convention was addressed by Commissioner Walter W. Law, Jr., of the State Tax Department. He advocated the pay-as-you-go policy as a substitute for the long term bond scheme which, he said, had been thoroughly "abused" by municipalities, particularly New York City. He declared that New York City has made it a practice to issue fifty-year bonds for music, recreation fields and brooms to be used in the Street Cleaning Department and he decried the too free use of municipal credit which the flotation of such bonds represented.

"We have nothing to boast of in the distribution of wealth in this country," he declared. "The differences are enormous.

I don't mean by this that I am of a Socialistic turn of mind or believe in radical measures, but I do assert that in taxation it should be done in proportion to the ability of the people to bear it. A more equitable distribution of the burden should be the aim of everyone interested in the problems of taxation and real estate."

Commissioner Law suggested a tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline as a means of increasing state revenues.

Charles L. Woody, representing the New York State Tax Title Association, asserted that the tax laws of this State were a crude makeshift and declared that in this respect "they were not unlike the Volstead Act in that it seems it is perfectly right to violate them as long as you are not put in jail for doing so."

"National banks in this state are an example," he continued. "While they are trying to legally evade the payment of any taxes, at the same time they are willing to face the moral ignominy of shirking their duty of bearing their proportionate part of the state government's burdens. It is regrettable that these great financial institutions which have enjoyed such prosperity under our state government should set the example of evading the payment of a just tax through the subterfuge of legal technicality."

The annual dinner of the association was attended by over 300 persons, including members and their relatives and friends. One of the features of the dinner was the presentation of a silver cup to the Long Island delegation for having the best-decorated table. This table showed a miniature geographical representation of Long Island.

Judge Frederick E. Crane of the Court of Appeals delivered an interesting address, declaring that the wealthy man no longer lived in his castle, but that he was residing in a $25,000 apartment on Park Avenue, while the man in the tenement house was moving out to the suburbs and paying for a home of his own.

John M. Gries, director of the division of housing of the United States Department of Commerce, declared that the housing situation was vastly improved and that at the present time housing shortage was "spotted." Here and there, he added, there was a shortage of housing, but for the most part the supply of buildings for dwelling purposes was up to normal or a little above. He was optimistic about the housing outlook.

National Tax Association Warns Against Municipal Ownership

AT the tax conference, held by the National Tax Association at Minneapolis, September 18th to 22nd, forty-one States, the Territory of Alaska, and five provinces of the Dominion of Canada were represented officially. A representative of the Real Estate Board of New York was present and the board makes the following statement.

"The universal opinion was that the present burden of taxation is intolerable as to amount and unequally levied. Estimates as to the total burden of taxation differed but it was agreed that Federal, State and local taxes amount to at least $6,000,000,000 yearly, or $50 per individual.

"Since the war, there has been tremendous municipal and local extravagance. Attention was called to numerous local tax districts in the several states where the tax rate on full valuation was more than 5%. In one incorporated village in Minnesota, where only 2% of the citizens are taxpayers, the rate this year is 7½% on the full valuation.

"Every delegate, including those from Canada, ascribed the increase to the spread of State socialism and the growing tendency for the State to support the people and not the people the State.

"Estimates of the total amount of tax exempt securities varied, but Prof. Seligman's estimate of $30,000,000,000 was believed to be fairly accurate. If public utilities are municipalized and transportation lines and mines nationalized, $41,000,000,000 more would have to be issued and this would mean $71,000,000,000 of tax exempt securities, at least $50,000,000,000 of property withdrawn from local taxation and enormous deficits in operating expenses to be met by taxpayers.

"The Real Estate Board of New York has no accurate figures but in all probability more than fifty thousand new property-owners have been added to the list of taxpayers since 1918 in Greater New York.

"Thousands of these have small equities. Many of these equities are in homes, of which probably a majority were bought on the installment plan. Any additional tax burden would bring disaster upon these owners. Men in authority should hesitate a long time before imposing any further obligation on these home owners and prospective home owners, who are among the best of our people, and who are making every sacrifice to preserve their equities and keep possession of their holdings."

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Purchase of National Democratic Club House on Fifth Avenue, Extensive Dealing on Washington Heights and Sales of Fine Dwellings the Features

THIS week has been the busiest one of the Fall season in real estate. There have been weeks when individual transactions were larger than some of those closed this week, but none where the scope, volume and general trend of market was better. The transaction of the week that attracted most attention was the sale of the home of the National Democratic Club, at 617 Fifth avenue, adjoining the southeast corner of Fiftieth street, to Frederick Brown, well known operator, for more than $1,000,000. Mr. Brown states that he bought the property without "any ifs ands." It seems likely that it will eventually pass into the hands of Saks & Company, who control the rest of the block front from Forty-ninth to Fiftieth street and upon which they plan to erect a large store building for their business purposes. The club house has been a bone of contention ever since Saks & Company began to acquire the rest of the block front. Another transaction by Mr. Brown worth mentioning was the resale by him of the old Grace Reformed Dutch Church property at the northeast corner of Seventh avenue and Fifty-fourth street.

Washington Heights loomed large, this week, as a theatre of operation and investment in large apartment houses and dwellings. One transaction there involved more than $1,000,000 and numerous others ran into the hundreds of thousands each. A few vacant plots there also changed hands for improvement.

The sale of numerous fine dwellings in the Fifth avenue, Park avenue and upper West side districts was a strong feature of the dealing, also. Speculation is rife as to whether Marshall Field bought two dwellings in East Seventieth street, near Fifth avenue and adjoining the site of his projected new mansion which he bought a year or more ago. The two dwellings were sold without the name of the buyer being made public. One of the houses was worth $125,000. There were other dwellings sold that were worth almost as much.

In the Harlem section of Broadway two large elevator apartment houses were bought by operators for about $350,000. A 40-year-old holding on a Lexington avenue corner in Yorkville changed hands. Several apartments in the Park avenue neighborhood were sold on the co-operative plan. A group of elevator apartment houses, forming a Columbus avenue corner, were bought. Elevator apartment houses in divers parts of town found new owners. The Dyckman district abounded in good sales. Eighth avenue showed well in the dealing. Third avenue contributed some good corner sales. Rockefeller interests acquired the dwelling at 20 West Fifty-fourth street. A fine dwelling on Riverside Drive and another one adjacent to it were bought. Several good sized loft buildings in the downtown region and various parcels in the lower East and West sides figured in the dealing. A large garage on Washington Heights was sold and leased for a long term of years.

The Bronx was active in all kinds of property. An outstanding sale was that of an old church edifice on a large plot which will be reimproved with a modern building. Numerous vacant and improved corners were bought. Brooklyn and Queens loomed large in the market as well. A large long-time lease was closed in the Pennsylvania section of Manhattan.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 131, as against 87 last week and 71 a year ago. The number of sales south of 59th st was 42, as compared with 28 last week and 34 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 89, as compared with 59 last week and 27 a year ago.

From the Bronx 61 sales at private contract were reported, as against 35 last week and 65 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 562.

Acquire Heights Block Front

B. M. House Construction Co., Inc., which purchased last July the plot, 99.49x125, at the northwest corner of Amsterdam av and 181st st from the estate of Frederick Hunter, has acquired the entire block front on the west side of Amsterdam av, between 181st and 182d sts by purchasing the plot, 70.7x125, at the southwest corner of Amsterdam av and 182d st from the estate of Henry Fattou. John M. Thompson & Co., Inc., were the brokers. The old frame landmarks now on the property will be removed soon and the buyers will probably erect either a 2-sty store and office building with a theatre and roof garden on 182d st or an apartment house facing Washington Bridge and overlooking Harlem River.

Brown Resells Seventh Ave. Corner

The site of the Grace Reformed Dutch Church, at the northeast corner of Seventh av and 54th st, has been purchased from Frederick Brown, the operator, by Marcus Brown, the builder, who announces that he will improve the plot with a 14-sty apartment house, arranged in suites of from 3 to 5 rooms. Electus T. Backus was the broker. Mr. Brown bought the property from the church last January. It was held at $540,000, and the cost of the land and apartment house it is expected will amount to about $1,500,000.

The plot measures 75.5x100, and on the north of it are the Wyoming apartments and opposite is the New Commonwealth Hotel, which is being erected. Mr. Brown says the house will be ready for occupancy in October, 1923.

Madison Ave. Corner Sold

The northwest corner of Madison av and 89th st, consisting of five 5-sty apartment houses, has been purchased by H. S. Sonn. Inc. (Hyman and Sidney Sonn), from the M. R. W. Construction Co., Dr. Philip Meirowitz, president, through Pease & Elliman. The sellers acquired the property about a year ago through the same brokers.

The corner includes 1238-1242 Madison av and 17-23 East 89th st and fronts 100 feet on the avenue and 164 feet on the street. It is assessed at $365,000. The buyers announce through the brokers that their plans for improving the property are not definite at present.

Big Deal in Long Island City

Louis Gold & Co., Inc., sold to Hyams & Strominger, of Brooklyn, comprising the H. & S. Construction Co., the 20 lots forming the southerly block front of Ditmars av, between Fourth and Sixth avs, together with the northerly block of Ditmars av, between Sixth and Seventh avs, in the Astoria section of Long Island City.

This property was purchased through Samuel Cohen and Henry Gold as brokers, for immediate development with 20 stores and apartment buildings. The combined investment is $600,000.

Through the same brokers the H. & S. Co. sold from the plans four of the projected buildings. Both of the block fronts are opposite the block now being improved by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and are part of the tract acquired by the sellers from the receivers of the American Real Estate Co.

A. will be held at 6:30 o'clock p. m., on Monday evening, October 30, at the Association Building, West 57th st. Herman D. Wyckoff, of Pease & Elliman, will give a short talk on "The qualifications of a Real Estate Broker," and Harry Hall, vice-president of William A. White & Sons, will conduct a forum on "How to Sell Real Estate."

New Branch of United States Mortgage and Trust Company

The United States Mortgage and Trust Co. recently announced the opening of its new Madison Av. and 74th St. branch, in charge of John A. Hopper, vice-president.

The building housing the new uptown branch is considered one of the finest and most modern banking structures in the country. It was designed by Henry Otis Chapman, architect, and much of the work of supervising the construction was in charge of Henry L. Servoss, vice-president of the trust company. The cornerstone of the building was laid early last January. As a complete banking unit the new building contains practically everything needed in the way of comfort, convenience and safety. Modern devices have been installed throughout. The United States Safe Deposit Co.'s vaults, which occupy a part of the basement, embody all of the latest features, such as combination emergency door and forced air ventilation in the main vault.

To meet the needs of women clients of the trust company, the new branch is equipped with a special ladies' department in charge of Mrs. William Lambner, assistant secretary of the company. This department is provided with a special section of the main banking floor, which contains a rest room, retiring room, in fact, a whole suite, done in the most attractive manner. One striking feature of the decorations of the department is the Adam mantel forming the center around which the ladies' room is furnished. This mantel came from an old house in St. James st near the Palace in London. The officers' desks are located at the southern end of the main banking room, looking out upon 74th st. The rest of this floor is given over to the tellers' cages, which are all finished in solid bronze. On the mezzanine floor are the accommodations for the girl employees.

The second floor is divided into several parts, one of which contains the kitchen and lunch room to be used by the employees. The main working space for bookkeeping is located on the second floor and is extremely well lighted and ventilated. It is connected with other parts of the building with telephone, telautograph, and pneumatic tube system.

Bounded on the north by Houston st and on the west by Essex st and East Broadway, extending south as far as Oliver st, with the East River for the eastern boundary.

Landlords owning property in this vicinity should have the plumbing examined to ascertain whether the same will withstand the additional pressure, so that leaks and water-bursts, with the consequent water waste, will be averted.

The two new 6-sty elevator apartment houses occupying the block front on the west side of Broadway, between 170th and 171st sts. have been purchased by Samuel Waacht, Jr., from the Broadway and 170th Street Holding Corporation. They accommodate 116 families and contain 15 stores. The annual rental is about $200,000 and the properties were held at $1,500,000. Golf Club Buys Its Course

The Saint Albans Golf & Country Club of Long Island has purchased the tract of 122 acres, at Saint Albans, Queens borough, that it has long leased for its club purposes. It immediately adjoins the Saint Albans station of the Long Island Railroad. It runs west to Montauk highway and south to Locust av and also has a frontage on Central av. E. H. Brown, one of the organizers of the club and developer of Addisleigh, nearby, is the seller of the property. The purchase price is understood to be $108,563.

The club plans to make extensive improvements that will bring the total cost up to $500,000. There is already a finely equipped club house of colonial design on the property.

The purchase will be financed through an unique plan, under which the seller will take back two purchase money mortgages for the full purchase price, running with interest at 6 per cent per annum to 1948 and payable in annual installments, which will entirely liquidate the mortgages in 24 years. The members have agreed to increase the annual dues sufficiently to cover the amount necessary to amortize these mortgages, so that at the end of the term, in 1948, the Club will own these magnificent private links free and clear of mortgages.

The St. Albans Golf and Country Club is one of the finest golf links in the metropolitan section, only 26 minutes out on the Long Island Railroad, surrounded by home developments which are rapidly building up with the best type of suburban homes. Numerous new homes are in course of construction.

In this connection, M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co. has announced that they will open up an addition immediately adjoining the St. Albans Golf Links on Central av. to be known as Golf Court Addition. Home sites have been purchased in this Golf Court Addition during the last week as follows: M. R. & J. A. Coles, of Jamaica, 3 lots on 175th st, runs them to the Golf Club property; Thomas M. Harvey, Jr., of Brooklyn, 5 lots on 175th st, facing the golf links; M. Voecks, of Philadelphia, Pa., 3 lots on 174th st, just off Central av; A. J. & E. Lee, of Rockville Center, corner of Central av and 174th st, a plot of 3 lots.

At the annual meeting of the St. Albans Club, William L. Tomlins, Jr., was re-elected president, and eleven of the old board of governors were renamed. Four new governors were also elected, as follows: John Curtin, George Edwards, Victor Lersner and Frederick Keindl.

Queens Acreage Resold

Syndicate Land and Improvement Co., Paul M. Herzog, president, which recently acquired 50 acres on the west side of Grand av., north of Union Turnpike, Jamaica, Queens, in part payment for the 12-sty loft building 44-50 East 32d st., Manhattan, has resold the tract to the Jamaica Rialto Holding Co. through Spotts & Starr. The property is opposite the site for the proposed Hillcrest Hotel and Country Club, plans for which are being prepared by McKim, Mead & White, at an estimated cost of $1,500,000. The property just sold was held at $165,000.

Big Queens Tract Bought

R. E. Pendergrast purchased for development from the Elmohar Realty Co. a tract of 100 acres on Broadway, between Flushing and Bayside Borough of Queens, formerly known as the William M. Thomas property.

The tract, which will be known as Bayside Manor, is in the Third Ward of the borough, and in addition to its lengthy frontage on Broadway (Northern Boulevard) from a point west of Whitestone av., almost to Highland av. on the east, has an extensive frontage on both sides of the new Cross Island Boulevard (Whitestone av.), which extends to Whitestone on the north.

Another Queens Auction Sale

A lot sale, by absolute public auction, that promises to change the map of the Elmhurst-Queens district of the borough of Queens, is to be held by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, on Election Day, Tuesday, November 7, at 2 o'clock P. M., in Dutch Hall, 16th av. and 48th st., Elmhurst, two blocks from the Alburts av. station of the Corona division of the Queensboro railway, about 20 minutes from East 34th st., Manhattan, for a five-cent fare.

The 478 lots to be sold run south from Corona av. along Junction av. almost to Queens rd. They form practically the only large tract of land remaining available for home building between Corona and Junction avs. and Corona Heights.

The Corona station on the Long Island Railroad is about two blocks east of the property, which is passed by the Corona av. trolley line operating between the Wyckoff av. station on the Ridgewood "L" and the Main st. station, in Flushing, on the Long Island Railroad.

Junction av. is the main connecting thoroughfare between Queens Blvd. and the North Beach and Flushing Bay section of the north shore of Long Island. The Junction av. trolley car line connects with the Junction av. station on the Corona division of the Queensboro subway, also with the Corona av. trolley line at a point directly in front of the lots to be sold.

This is the last piece of unimproved acreage, with shore rights, for sale in Glen Cove today. The purchaser was George P. Black, of Pittsburgh. This property was held at $10,000 an acre.

Engineer Buys at Riverdale

The residence of Mr. Perkins, nearby, and known as Stonehurst, is still owned and occupied by his family.

Dwindling Forests Are Forcing a Decreased Use of Lumber

Forest Service Survey Shows Per Capita Consumption Has Declined About Thirty-Three and One-Third Per Cent. in Past Two Decades

DURING the past two decades the consumption of lumber in the United States has dropped one-third with the per capita consumption declining from 500 board feet in 1900 to 316 board feet in 1920, according to statistics recently tabulated by the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

This decreasing use of a fundamental commodity, according to forest experts, is not a result of decreasing needs but a result of forest exhaustion. It is not being accomplished without economic hardship or without curtailment of industrial expansion. It is not a temporary condition that will automatically adjust itself, for even at this reduced rate of consumption we are still cutting our forests more than 4 times as fast as they grow. The situation proclaims, according to the Forest Service, that if we are to remain a nation of timber users, we must become a nation of timber growers.

In 1906, when American lumber production reached its highest point, the average per capita consumption of lumber in the United States was approximately 500 board feet. Since that time the per capita consumption has rapidly and consistently decreased until in 1920 the average citizen used approximately 316 board feet. This is a reduction of 37 per cent in 13 years, or nearly 3 per cent a year. Should this decrease continue at its present rate, by 1940 the downward sweep of consumption would approach zero. This, of course, will not happen. The average consumption will ultimately reach a fairly stable level, which will depend mainly upon the extent to which our devastated forests are made again productive.

The consumption of lumber is not evenly distributed. Previous studies indicated that the States of the Pacific Northwest, now the last great stronghold of big lumbering operations, had a much higher per capita consumption than those of other regions, but the present figures are the first to give information for all States upon the same basis. Naturally the greatest per capita consumption occurs where wood is plentiful and the population is relatively small. In Washington and Oregon the consumption appears to be between 900 and 1,000 board feet annually per person.

Next come California, Montana, Idaho, and Wyoming, where the rate of consumption is from 500 to 800 feet per person annually. In these States timber is relatively plentiful as compared with the density of the population, and a very considerable expansion has been taking place in the development of farms and other natural resources.

The group next lower in per capita consumption includes the Lake States, and sweeps southwesterly across the prairie States through Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. In this group the annual consumption is between 300 and 500 feet board measure.

Practically all the remaining States fall into a class in which the annual consumption is 200 to 300 feet. This group extends in a broad belt from Texas along the southern and eastern Atlantic Coast to Cape Cod, Mass. It also includes North Dakota, Iowa, Utah and Nevada.

The lowest consumption of all is in Rhode Island, the District of Columbia, South Carolina, and Georgia, in which the average consumption is rated between 100 and 200 feet per year. In the District of Columbia there is an extreme situation in density of population. No lumber is produced, there is little farming or manufacturing, and the entire population consists of urban dwellers in the city of Washington, who live mainly in houses of brick and stone and require relatively little lumber. All the lumber used in the District of Columbia is imported from other States, just as it is in some of the non-timbered prairie States.

In general, the older and more densely settled States show the lowest average consumption. The States characterized by heavy agricultural operations come next, and the greatest use per individual is indicated in those States where there is still considerable timber and where the extension of home building is proceeding at a rapid rate, using the abundant material provided by the forests. The States are going through an evolutionary process, building first of lumber and later of more costly materials as the forests recede before fire and axe.

Considerable interest is attached to the recent composite report of 375 of the largest lumber mills in America, as compiled by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, from reports from eight regional associations. This report tells of immense production in the lumber industry and of the intense activity in the lumber mills and logging camps of the nation.

Of the mills in the report all but one have an established normal rate of production and their present output is approximately 99 per cent. of that. But this "normal" is a peculiar one; for some mills it is the rated capacity of the mill under ordinary conditions and running full time. For other mills it is the average production of a specific period. Consequently, the present rate of production for some mills and regions is vastly more than normal and for others far below it. On the whole, however, if normal production were taken to represent the average production during the past five years, the prevailing rate of output would be considerably more than 100 per cent. of normal.

The production of lumber by all of the reporting mills for the week ending October 14 was 236,958,030 board feet, which is about 3,000,000 feet more than the record for the preceding week and about 40,000,000 more than the average weekly production for 1919, 1920 and 1921. On the other hand, lumber shipments declined a negligible amount to 17,172,466 and have now fallen to about the average level of weekly shipments in the three years before 1922, and are about 22,000,000 feet below the average during the first seven months of this year.

Orders continue to register decreases, the falling off a week ago amounting to more than 4,000,000 feet, and orders are now almost down to the weekly average of the past three years and about 35,000,000 below the weekly level of the first seven months of this year.

In consequence of this situation the surplus of accumulated orders over shipments, which has hitherto been a source of anxiety, is decreasing and the mills are beginning to stock up. This is very interesting to the lumber buying public but not particularly attractive to the manufacturers who find themselves compelled to reject orders in a year which is extremely favorable to their business from a selling standpoint but now become normal from a shipping point of view. Shipments are only 72 per cent. of normal and orders but 74 per cent. With respect to current production of all the reporting mills shipments are 74 per cent. and orders 76 per cent. of normal.

Large Mid-Town Commercial Project Nearly Completed

Modern Office and Showroom Building, Near Garment Center, Erected by Julius Tishman & Sons from Plans by Schwartz & Gross

AS a reflection of the continued demand for showrooms and executive offices in the mid-town section of Manhattan, Julius Tishman & Sons, builders and owners of the sixteen-story commercial building at 142 to 146 West Thirty-sixth street, report that approximately fifty per cent. of the space in this structure was rented before the brick work was completed. The building is now nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by November 1. Its occupancy will be restricted to showrooms, executive offices and light manufacturing.

Having been constructed in accordance with the Zoning Law the front wall of this building extends, unbroken, to the twelfth floor, where the first setback occurs. An additional setback occurs at the fifteenth floor level. The building is strictly fireproof throughout and the various floors contain approximately 4,500 to 6,600 square feet of rentable area. The first floor is of sufficient height to permit of a large mezzanine floor.

The structure occupies a plot 75x98 feet and the building is being completely equipped to comply with all regulations of the Building Bureau, Department of Labor and Board of Fire Underwriters. A smoke-proof fire tower and a fire-proof stairway provide a quick and safe exit in case of fire. Ample lavatory facilities are provided for employees.

The elevator equipment of this building will consist of four high speed electric traction machines with special elevator signals and safety devices, a vacuum steam heating system and a sprinkler system of 100 per cent. efficiency.

The facade of the building has been constructed of granite and face brick, with trimmings of limestone and terra cotta. The entrance and show windows will be of bronze, which has been carried up to a height of three stories above the sidewalk level. Above this point large window space is provided, in addition to protected light on the East and West. The structure was designed by Schwartz & Gross.

The owners of this commercial building are also very active in apartment house construction. The New York Title & Mortgage Company recently made a loan of $550,000 on the project scheduled for 146 to 152 West Fifty-fifth street, where they will shortly start the construction of a modern nine-story apartment house which will be similar in many respects to the one recently completed by them at 110 West Fifty-fifth street.

These owners have also started work on a fourteen-story fireproof apartment house project at the northeast corner of Park avenue and Eighty-sixth street. This structure will be built according to plans prepared by Schwartz & Gross and will provide accommodations for thirty-seven families. Its cost is estimated to be approximately $1,500,000.

Conference Planned to Standardize Metal Lath

FOLLOWING the reduction in standard sizes of paving brick and lumber initiated by the Department of Commerce, work is now under way in the standardization of metal lath. A reduction from seventy-one to nine in the number of weights and styles of lath was recommended at a preliminary conference held at the Department of Commerce October 2. The manufacturers have worked out a plan for this reduction which they believe will be acceptable to contractors and other consumers.

A general conference will be held December 12 to which manufacturers, distributors and consumers will be invited. At that conference, it is expected that a definite conclusion will be reached which will benefit not only the producers but the consumers as well.

Significant Improvement Noted in Building Outlook

Construction Statistics, Tabulated by F. W. Dodge Company, Indicates Increasing Activity Among Architects and Contractors in New York

CONSIDERABLE new construction is being released for an immediate start at various locations in this territory.

According to tabulated statistics, gathered by the F. W. Dodge Company, the forty-second week of this year was a period of intense activity in the building industry in New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton. This report shows that 792 new building and engineering projects were being planned by architects and engineers at an estimated total valuation of $23,266,500. During the same week contract commitments in this territory numbered 540 and represented an outlay of more than $19,028,000. These totals are considerably above those for the previous two or three weeks and indicates a very active winter building season this year.

Construction records for New York City for the past week also show a decided improvement when compared with the preceding week's totals. The new work reported planning involves 305 construction projects at an estimated total cost of $12,640,800 and 127 projects placed under contract at a total valuation of $9,284,200. There is a decided improvement in the amount of commercial and industrial work in immediate prospect which is a most gratifying feature to the local construction industry.

Included in the 305 projects for which plans were reported during the forty-second week of this year were 44 business buildings including stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $2,221,500; 2 educational buildings, $110,000; 10 industrial projects $209,000; 1 military building, $3,000; 2 public buildings, $250,000; 7 public works and public utilities, $527,600; 238 residential operations including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $9,313,700 and 1 recreational building, $6,000.

Among the 127 operations for which contracts were awarded in New York City during the week were 24 commercial projects of various types, $1,060,500; 7 educational buildings, $108,300; 2 hospitals and institutions, $1,010,000; 6 industrial projects, $361,500; 2 public buildings, $325,000; 7 public works and public utilities, $1,218,100; 3 religious and memorial buildings, $195,000; 75 residential operations, $4,975,800 and 1 recreational project, $30,000.

Panels and Supporting Framework

"Switchboard Panels and Supporting Framework" is the title of an informative bulletin issued by the General Electric Company. The number assigned to the Bulletin is 47002 and groups Switchboard panels under two general classifications, the vertical type and the bench type.

Slate and marble are the two materials mentioned as being universally used for switchboard panels. The standard heights vary from 16-in. single section panels mounted on supports 48-in. to 99-in. high; panels in three sections on support 99-in. high. All panels have $\frac{3}{8}$ -in. bevel.

To obtain sufficient mechanical strength, it is suggested, panels should be at least $1\frac{1}{2}$ -in. thick with the exception that isolated panels not over 24 by 16-in. mounted on wall brackets and containing light equipment may be made of $1\frac{1}{4}$ -in. slate.

The standard supporting framework for panels adopted by the company consists of $1\frac{1}{4}$ -in. wrought iron pipe for the up-rights and $\frac{3}{4}$ or $1\frac{1}{4}$ -in. pipe for tie rods bracing the panel to the floor. For very small isolated panels containing light weight equipment, wall brackets in place of pipe supports are sometimes used to advantage.

The grille work supplied for panels is of the "basket weave," square mesh, welded to an angle iron frame. A hinged grille door with lock and key is provided at one or both ends of the board.

The bulletin contains much useful information for prospective buyers of switchboards.

Contract Awarded for Large Building

Harby, Abrons & Mellus, Inc., who recently completed the fourteen-story apartment house at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and 9th street, have obtained a general contract from the 33 West 60th Street Corporation for the construction of an eleven-story business building, containing stores, offices and showrooms, at 27 to 37 West 60th street, on a plot 109 x 100 feet. The plans for this project have been prepared by Rouse & Goldstone, and call for a structure that will be modern in every respect. A building and permanent loan for \$150,000 at 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ % has been made by the Prudential Life Insurance Company. The Cross & Brown Co. has been appointed renting agent for this building, and it is reported that negotiations are

Lumber Standardization Program

Agreement has been reached by the central committee on lumber standards, which was appointed by the several branches of the industry last July, to formulate a program for simplification of the industry. It is planned (1) to collect and analyze all information that will aid in the simplification of sizes, grades, and names of lumber products; (2) to submit these findings to the producers, distributors, and consumers by means of the associations in these fields; (3) to promote discussion of the questions involved and to harmonize differences of opinion; (4) to establish a grade-marking and inspection service that will guarantee to the consumer the quality and quantity of his lumber purchases; and (5) to arrange a national conference of representatives of all branches of the industry which would finally adopt specific practices in these fields that will conform to the requirements of the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Commerce.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

CONDITIONS in the local building field have not changed to any appreciable extent during the past week. There is a large amount of active work and some interesting jobs are being planned, and in all likelihood will be released for estimates within a short time. The prospects for the coming months are generally considered good, and the entire industry is optimistic about the outlook for next year.

Although it is doubtful if next season there will be as much residential construction as there was during the past year, it is almost certain that the industry will be offered as much new construction of a widely varied type as it can possibly absorb. According to those in close touch with the situation, the volume of building during 1923 will only be limited by the number of men and material stocks available for the work.

Building material dealers in the Metropolitan District all report extremely active business with orders of good size and a considerable number of new inquiries. There is some scarcity developing but not sufficient to warrant any anxiety on the part of prospective builders. Prices are very firm and, with the exception of Hudson River common brick, the local market is exhibiting a marked tendency toward stiffer price levels.

Common Brick—Demand for Hudson River common brick was more active this week than it has been for the past month or more. The sales of the week numbered 46 and, as a fair amount of new inquiry has developed, the brick producers are more hopeful than they have been. Prices are somewhat easier than they were, however, with a range from $11 to $15.50 a thousand to dealers for top grades. The manufacturing season is now practically ended and, although some of the open yards are still in operation, they will undoubtedly suspend production for the current year in a few days at most. Coal remains difficult to obtain, and a large amount of green brick is being held over for burning during the winter months.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, October 26, 1922. Conditions of market: Demand improved, prices slightly easier. Quotations: Hudson Rivers $14 to $15.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 39; sales, 46. Distribution: Manhattan, 15; Bronx, 2; Brooklyn, 17; New Jersey points, 7; Astoria, 2; Yonkers, 1; Mt. Vernon, 1.

Portland Cement—The demand for this material is exceedingly active and, according to the amount of new construction in early prospect, there is every probability of a sharp increase very soon. Prices are very firm and quotations for delivery in New York reflect the recent advance announced by the manufacturers. A recent statement issued by the U. S. Geological Survey states that the production of Portland cement in the United States in September totaled 11,424,000 barrels compared with 11,664,000 barrels in August and 10,027,000 barrels in September, 1921. Shipments reached 12,444,000 barrels in September, against 14,361,000 in August and 11,329,000 in September a year ago. Stocks on hand at the end of September amounted to 4,726,000 barrels as compared with 6,953,000 at the same time last year.

Reinforcing Bars—The demand for concrete reinforcing bars is not quite as active as it was several weeks ago, but there are some large projects now being planned for release at an early date which will involve heavy bar requirements. Although there is a decided improvement in the outlook for commercial and industrial construction next year, the remaining months of 1922 are likely to be quiet as far as new work of this type is concerned.

Structural Steel—Structural awards of outstanding importance have been negligible during the past week and new inquiry has been light, but there is a confident tone to the market and, with the large amount of new construction being planned for the Metropolitan District, there is every likelihood that business in this line will materially improve within a short time. Prices on structural steel range upward from 2.00c Pittsburgh, depending entirely upon time of delivery, which generally ranges from two to three months. Fabricated prices are practically unchanged. A feature of the local steel market has been the recent sharp improvement in the outlook for industrial building. Several important contracts for industrial jobs have been awarded within the past month or so and others are pending.

Electrical Supplies—There has been a steady improvement in the demand for electrical materials and supplies for the past two months or more and both manufacturers and dealers are looking toward the future with considerable optimism because of the amount of new business in sight. Conduit stocks have been increased and, as a result, the market situation for this commodity is much better than it was. There is quite some activity in wiring materials and the demand for lighting fixtures is brisk on account of the large amount of residential construction now in progress. Prices are very firm all along the line.

Cast Iron Pipe—Market conditions remain substantially unchanged with demand heavy and prices very firm. Although there is a decided let-up to municipal demand, private buying continues strong and is maintaining the market on a firm basis. As a general thing, the manufacturers are booked up for nearly three months in advance and deliveries on orders for 6 in. and smaller sizes are still extended. Recent improvement in the fuel situation and in railroad transportation has greatly assisted the manufacturers of this commodity. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton, f. o. b., New York in carload lots; 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with $4 extra per ton for Class A and gas pipe.

Nails—The demand for nails has been very heavy and at present exceeds the supply. Local stocks are quite low and assortments are badly broken. Jobbers have been actually forced to decline business because of the shortage and their inability to obtain shipments from the manufacturers. There is every prospect that the demand for nails will hold strong throughout the next three or four months, and there is every likelihood that deliveries will be slow during this period. Prices are very firm and range considerably with base quotations as follows: Wire nails, $3.75 to $3.90 base per keg, and cut nails, $1.10 to $1.20 base per keg.

Window Glass—Business in this line has been fairly active and is likely to continue so for some time to come, as there is still a large volume of building in the final stages of construction and the total glass requirements of this work will be heavy. Stocks are very light and some sizes are entirely out. Prices are stiff and subject to advance at almost any time.

Linseed Oil—The market for this commodity is exceedingly dull. Orders have been very light during the past week or so and new inquiry is negligible.

BLACKMAR'S ASBESTOS LIQUID ROOFING

Standard Black-pet Roof covering of the World. Not a roof paint. It is a new roof. One application will make old leaky roofs just like new at cost of about 11 c. sq. ft. — Put on in containers ready for use. WE CHALLENGE any new method to a comparison of materials by analysis, test of durability and process of manufacture. There is not a better Asbestos Liquid or Plaster Cement Roofing at any price. Not affected by the roughest weather, or the hottest blazing sun, resistant to acids, alkalis and corrosives and the surface on which it is applied. Will never crack. Air, rain or gases cannot penetrate the material, absolutely impervious to water, permitting no passage of moisture in any degree into or through the material.

New Budget Breaks All Records

The city budget for 1923, as finally adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, totals $353,-351,812. These figures probably will stand, as it is not expected that the Board of Aldermen will exercise its privilege of reducing the appropriations proposed.

After pushing the figures up and then cutting them down, the budget-makers have increased the total over the 1922 budget by about $2,750,000. This, of course, is a modest increase in comparison with the annual boosts in the budget with which Father Knickerbocker has been confronted for a number of years past. But the extent of the increase does not alter the fact that it is still costing more than $350,000,000 a year to pay the running expenses of the city government. New Yorkers ought not to have to pay anything like such a staggering sum each year for this purpose.

Mayor Hylan maintains that any increase in the 1923 budget is mandatory and that, had it not been for mandatory items, the new budget would have been lower, instead of higher, than the 1922 budget. The Mayor must be mistaken in this statement, however, or else he must base it on information not generally known. In the new budget there has been absorbed for other purposes the $19,287,039 saved for 1923 through the reduction in appropriations for the Debt Service and to meet the Direct State Tax. As THE RECORD AND GUIDE pointed out last week, the budget-makers should have been able to save these two items entirely. Instead of doing so they have made the new budget exhaust this total of $19,287,039, and have added on top of it the increase of about $2,750,000 over the 1922 budget. If Mayor Hylan is logical, and if his facts will stand analysis, then the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has had to provide for more than $22,000,000 of added mandatory appropriations. Nothing has been made public thus far to show that the budget-makers had to provide any such amount to take care of new mandatory expenditures, and it would be highly interesting if the Mayor or some other official would tell the taxpayers just what these items are.

In announcing the new budget, Mayor Hylan holds out some hope for the taxpayers by predicting that the tax rate for 1923 will be lower than the 1922 rate. A similar prediction was made several weeks ago by Comptroller Craig. It seems reasonable to expect that this prediction will come true, but the reason for the lower tax rate cannot be obscured. Obviously it will be due, not to the fact that economies have been effected in the city government but solely to the increases made in the assessments of real estate through the city. Welcome as will be whatever reduction may come in the tax rate, any such reduction cannot camouflage the fact that about $2,750,000 more will be required to meet the city's bills in 1923 than the taxpayers have had to shell out this year.

The 1923 budget ought not to have exceeded $331,- 314,531. Even that total would have provided for the extra items, amounting to $2,750,000, which have been added. The result is the establishment of a new high mark in New York budgets.

To Speed Up School Construction

The action taken by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, authorizing the Board of Education to employ outside architects in an effort to speed up the city's program of school construction, is a favorable sign that the municipal authorities intend to make every possible effort to provide adequate educational facilities for the children of New York City at the earliest possible date.

There was no opposition at the meeting to the plan suggested by Dr. George J. Ryan, President of the Board of Education, to retain outside architects on this work. All of the comment was favorable, and showed that Mayor Hylan, Comptroller Craig and their associates on the Board were alive to the problem.

Since 1853 the construction of new schools has been under the complete control of the Board of Education, and for more than twenty years the work has been under the direction of C. B. J. Snyder, Superintendent of Buildings for the Board, who has been assisted by a staff of expert designers and inspectors. During this period Superintendent Snyder has developed a series of standardized plans and designs upon which all new structures erected by the Board have been based. As long as the rate of new construction remained normal this designing and superintending staff was adequate.

At present, however, with a greatly-enlarged program of building urgently required because there are more than 150,000 children in part-time classes in the public schools, the regular designing staff is inadequate. The Board of Education has about $89,000,000 in funds available for its 1923 building program. Part of this all of its schedule. The money available for the coming amount is the sum remaining from the appropriations for 1922, which have not been expended because the Construction Department of the Board of Education was unable to prepare plans and award contracts for year's construction is sufficient to complete nearly one hundred new schools, and this will be possible under the new plan.

There are many different ways of viewing the retention of outside architects by the Board of Education, but most important of all is the fact that the plan will undoubtedly result in speeding up school construction and promptly providing seats for the large number of scholars now in part-time classes.

Welcome to Our Fair City

Most of the hundred millions of people who live in this country outside the limits of New York City are strangers here as well as unlearned in the manifold activities of the metropolis. Generally speaking, The Outlander does not know very much about the inhabitants of this city and cares less. Also it seems to be rather universally believed that New Yorkers are provincial in that they have no very accurate information about the wonders and allurements of the great outdoors west of the Hudson River and do not warm up with any prodigality when the men and women of the, to them, outside world invade the streets and public buildings of this city. There is a well-defined suspicion on the part of Westerners that handshaking and hospitality are unknown in New York and a strongly held opinion among Broadwayites that the people of the wild and woolly regions believe that those who live within a stone's throw of the Great White Way ape the frigid social customs of the ermine-clad stand-patters of Europe.

Both parties to this misunderstanding are right in a way, but both are wrong to hold it against each other. Extending the glad hand and turning a cold shoulder are accomplishments embellishing the day's routine or easing its difficulties. There are occasions for the exercise of both, and there are times when if one method of greeting unexpected guests is adopted the other might have been more happy.

Whatever feeling of antagonism and criticism of New York and its people exists outside its immediate environs, it is certain that the typical New Yorker prefers the good-will rather than the enmity of those without its gates. This is manifest in a variety of ways, although there is much to confirm the general belief that New York is cold and indifferent to the casual visitor or to any newcomer seeking enrollment in its citizenship. That this is so is proved in the enthusiasm with which the Welcome Stranger movement has taken hold of the community. In its ranks are some of the most important organizations in the city, and its list of official and individual members is both numerous and noteworthy. The Welcome Stranger movement is not merely "glad hand" propaganda—it aims to bring about a better understanding between those who are not New Yorkers and those who are, which is worth while undertaking.

Governmental Expenditures Must Be

FRANK BAILEY, Vice-President of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, makes some timely comment on the increasing Federal and municipal taxes, in a statement just issued.

"It would be astounding, if it were not portentous," Mr. Bailey says, "to hear the universal cry of the people for relief from taxation. As someone has very tersely put it, the Government of the United States has taken one-half of the property of the rich and left it with the owners to manage in behalf of the Government.

"The principle—demonstrated by the Soviet administration of Russia—that capital is necessary for civilization as it now exists, seems not yet to have permeated the public mind in its entirety.

"The universal demand for relief from taxation can be well illustrated from the reports coming from various governments of the world. France, which is probably rich as a people and bankrupt as a nation, presents a budget with 1,000,000,000 francs deficit, a deficit, at the normal value of the franc, larger than the total expense of our government prior to the war. In the meantime, their income tax has increased in three years from 892,000,000 francs to 2,197,000,000 francs. Their total revenue from all taxes has increased in the same time from 11,500,000,000 francs to 24,000,000,000 francs, estimated for the year 1922.

"Even over twice as much taxes in three years makes no difference in the amount of money spent by the government, for the budgets still increase.

"Then, let us look at the annual report of another very forward state, dear to the heart of Wisconsin, New Zealand. The financial budget of the State of New Zealand for the year shows that its expenditures have increased from 11,000,000 pounds in 1913 to 28,000,000 pounds in 1921. In the meantime, the public debt has grown from 100,000,000 to 219,000,000 pounds. As they have decreased taxes, the revenue has decreased, and they are merrily borrowing.

"Suppose we come back to the Continent and look at the new budget of Ireland. There they start off with an estimated budget of 37,000,000 pounds and a revenue of 27,000,000 pounds, so they must borrow right away. In this estimate is included the sum of 7,000,000 pounds for the army. That is a pretty good start.

"Then, we look to New South Wales and we find that they have been guaranteeing the price of wheat and have got to add about $3,000,000 to their budget because the price of wheat did not come up to their expectations. In other words, they take from the taxpayer, who has, to give to the wheat grower.

"Then, look at New York City. A house on the Park Slope, Brooklyn, assessed uniformly from 1913 to 1922, paid a tax of $351 in 1913 and in 1922, $524. A house in the Bedford section, where the assessment has been increased $1,800, and occupied by the owner, paid taxes of $157 in 1913 and $270 in 1922 and 1923 will be still more.

"Our own Government faces a deficit of $650,000,000. and, instead of reducing expenses, is now groping for more taxes. Is all this money well spent? Taxpayers are asking this and also demanding where is the burden to end. Must a citizen work for the State entirely, reserving enough only for a living for himself and family? If capital cannot be increased in the hands of the individual, then the advancement of the world is going to be retarded and civilization, as we have known it, will go 'bolo.' Perhaps the new civilization will be better than ours; those who are living in Russia do not think so.

"In any event, it can but be apparent even to the unthoughtful that it is extremely important for the governmental expenditures to stop and stop quick. This is the cry of the citizens of every land. People, some time or other, will be tired of being sacrificed for votes. It is all right to render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, but Caesar is now taking more than his right."

Inspect Smoke and Furnace Pipes

IN the fall and winter special attention should be paid to stove pipes, furnace pipes, smoke vents and flues. Where these are of metal they frequently rust, come apart or deteriorate during the summer, and when fires are started up in the fall, or they are put to a severe test during the first very cold weather, a blaze is likely to result. Now that fire prevention and safety first have become national slogans, the importance of careful supervision of heating apparatus and flues should be recognized by every good citizen, and a thorough inspection should always precede the first use of heating apparatus.

There is special need of unusually careful attention to flues, smoke-pipes and heating apparatus generally this season, because of the abnormal fuel conditions. Millions of householders will be compelled to use soft coal who have heretofore used hard coal, and the change will necessarily introduce many serious fire hazards, unless great care is taken to see that flues and smoke pipes are kept clear.

Final Budget Is $353,351,812 but Tax Rate May Be Lower

Although Aggregate Is $2,750,000 Over Last Year, Increased Assessments Probably Will More Than Offset Greater Appropriations for 1923

THE Board of Estimate and Apportionment last Tuesday adopted the budget for 1923, which aggregates $353,351,812.67. The budget now goes to the Board of Aldermen, which has twenty days for its consideration and may cut but not increase it. As it now stands it is the largest budget in the history of this city, being $2,750,000 over last year and $6,897,934 more than for 1921.

The 1923 budget was adopted at a special meeting of the Board, which did not complete the work of reducing the tentative figures of $361,768,981.59 to an amount within the constitutional limit until nearly midnight. It was necessary to eliminate items aggregating $8,417,168.82 to accomplish this result, and the cuts were made "all along the line," according to Mayor Hylan and Comptroller Craig. The Mayor insisted that if had not been for "mandatory" legislation the budget would have shown a reduction of about $2,000,000.

Comptroller Craig declared that the new budget was well within the constitutional debt limit. In this connection the Mayor made a forecast of the tax-rate, and predicted that it would drop three points below last year's rate of 2.73 in Manhattan. But while the tax-rate for 1923 may be lower than for the current year the addition of $770,000,000 to the tentative assessments, a large part of which the city officials expect to hold, the administration hopes for additional revenue of several millions.

In a statement issued after the budget had been adopted Comptroller Craig said:

"Of the total budget of $353,351,812.67 more than one-half is required for education, debt service, State tax and county governments, as follows:

Education	$83,835,480.88
Debt service.....	84,935,641.83
State tax.....	12,595,623.67
County governments.....	10,582,834.62

Total$191,949,581.00

"More than one-fourth of the total budget is required for the Police, Fire and Street Cleaning Departments, Child Welfare and support of dependents.

"The increase in the appropriation for the Board of Education alone is $5,606,334.55 over that of 1922. Had it not been for this increase the budget for 1923 would have shown a reduction of about $2,500,000.00.

"The budget is well within the constitutional tax limit, and the indications point to a material reduction in the tax rate for next year."

Comptroller Craig declared that approximately two-thirds of the increases asked by Commissioner Grover Whalen of the Department of Plants and Structures, had been eliminated. The appropriation for a radio department under his control was allowed.

The new budget gives Police Commissioner Enright the new men he requested, as well as four additional deputy chiefs.

In a statement explaining the increase over this year's budget the Mayor said:

"The budget for the year 1923, as finally adopted by the Board of Estimate, amounts to $353,351,812.67. This is only $2,750,000 more than the budget for 1922, notwithstanding the large mandatory burdens imposed by the State over which the city has absolutely no control. While there is a slight increase in the budget, the tax rate for 1923 will be about 2.70, or about three points less than this year. This decrease in the tax rate is due mainly to the increase in land values in outlying sections, and to the large volume of new building construction, not to any increase in the assessed values of buildings other than those recently constructed.

"The tax rate for 1923 would be at least ten points less if there were no direct State tax of $12,595,623 imposed upon the city and included in the budget. In addition to this direct State tax the people of New York City are compelled to pay about 70 per cent. of the total cost of State Government. Besides this, the city pays out of its own treasury direct several million dollars a year for State activities imposed by law.

"In the preparation of the 1923 budget there were reductions effected which were offset by the cost of extension of other necessary activities, due to increased population and to the development of outlying districts—such activities as police protection, street cleaning, increased ferry service, increased hospital facilities, etc.

"There is an increase of about $6,000,000 in the appropriation to the Department of Education alone, to meet increases in salaries imposed by law and for other expenses due to the expansion of the school system. The total school budget for next year is $83,835,480, the largest sum ever appropriated, and this does not include the building program, which is financed by long-term bonds.

"Included in the debt service is an item of $8,380,000 for interest charges under the terms of the dual subway contracts signed by Mc. McNeny when he was Chairman of the Transit Committee of the Board of Estimate. The taxpayers pay this $8,380,000 interest on the bonds which the city issued for the construction of the subways, while the profits from the city-owned subways go into the pockets of the traction ring. This item accounts for eight points in the tax rate, and it will grow to ten points, or $10,000,000, in a year or two.

"The debt service also includes $2,500,000 for the redemption of special revenue bonds issued to meet the expenses of the State Transit Commission this year, which is a mandatory charge upon the city. The scheme of the public utilities corporations is to load the city budget with mandatory payments in order to prevent the city from being able to take over the subways for city operation, so that the taxpayers would get the profits.

"Outside of a few salary increases to World War veterans, made necessary under the military law, there are no salary increases under the direct control of the Board of Estimate. There are many mandatory salary increases, but the City Government is not responsible for any of them. Some of these mandatory increases range from $2,000 to $3,500 each. While the board recognized the claims of city employees for salary increases, we were forced to eliminate consideration of them because of the increases imposed by the Legislature. This imposition prevented any discretionary increases on our part to deserving city employees."

The Citizens Union analyzed the budget as follows:

"The final figure is $2,750,242 above this year's budget. This the Mayor attempts to explain by pointing to an increase of $5,606,334.55 in the appropriation for the Department of Education. That, however, does not excuse a dollar's increase in the 1923 budget total, which the taxpayers and ratepayers were justified in expecting to find below the 1922 budget. State taxes for 1923 will be $1,834,889.57 below 1922, and the city debt service for 1923 is $17,302,149.52 below 1922. This total decrease, amounting to $19,137,039.09, less the increase in the appropriation for education, or a net decrease of at

Apply Emergency Rent Laws to New Tenants as Well as Old

Brooklyn Appellate Term Justices in Supreme Court Hand Down Decision
Contrary to Interpretation of Appellate Division, First Department

THAT the emergency rent laws passed by the Legislature last year afforded protection only to tenants who had signed leases prior to their enactment, thus creating a class of preferred tenants, was denied by Justice James C. Cropsey in a decision handed down last Saturday in the Appellate Term, Supreme Court, Brooklyn. Tenants who moved into apartments after the laws went into effect, Justice Cropsey holds, are entitled to the same protection from extortion as those who were in possession of living quarters when the laws became operative. In a recent decision by the Appellate Division, First Department, it was held that tenants who signed leases subsequent to the enactment of the emergency laws did so of their own volition and were not entitled to relief from profiteering. Having agreed with a landlord on the terms of a lease, however exorbitant the rental might be, it was held that the provisions of the document must be met without appeal to the courts for determining whether the rental was "reasonable" or not.

The decision of Justice Cropsey was in the case of Samuel Marion, an agent for an apartment house at 1600 Bedford Avenue, who rented an apartment to Irving L. Weiser in March, 1921, for $75 per month. In May Weiser refused to pay this sum any longer, holding that under the Emergency Rent laws the amount asked for was "unreasonable." The case was taken to the Fourth District Municipal Court, where Justice Carroll upheld the contention of Weiser and fixed the amount of rent at $68.33 per month. This decision was affirmed by the Appellate Term as follows:

"In each of the cited opinions it was stated that the purpose of the statutes was to protect tenants who were in possession at the time of their enactment—that those tenants were constituted a preferred class. Inferentially the language used means that the statutes had no reference to persons who were not tenants in possession at the time of their enactment.

"But, of course, the question is one of legislative intent. The questions presented for decision in the cases referred to, with the exception of the Farnham case, however, were as to the constitutionality of those statutes, not as to their construction. Of course their construction might enter into the consideration of their constitutionality. For instance, had the courts held that they would be constitutional if they meant one thing and unconstitutional if they meant another, the courts necessarily would be required to determine which construction was the proper one to be given. But as we read those decisions they do not seem to hold that the statutes would be unconstitutional unless they were construed to mean that they applied only to tenants in possession at the time of their passage. We think their constitutionality would have been upheld even if they had been given a much broader construction. And we find nothing in the decisions which is to the contrary. In fact one of the attacks upon their constitutionality seems to have been based upon the contention that they were what are sometimes called class legislation. In other words, the constitutionality of the laws was proclaimed even if they did create such a preferred class, not because they created it. Therefore while the language used may be significant, it does not seem to have been necessary for the rendering of the decisions in question, and so may not be held to judicially determine what the true construction of those statutes is.

"If we are to consider what the Legislature meant, so far as that is revealed by the language of the statutes themselves, and by the explanatory matter accompanying their introduction and by the subsequent enactments, we do not see how we can reach the conclusion that was arrived at in the Farnham case. It is true that in one portion of the committee's explanatory matter it is stated that the object of the legislation was to 'do away with the anxiety of the many people in New York who are now holding their premises under short stays or have been served with notices to move on Oct. 1.' And if that was all there was either in the explanatory matter or in the statutes themselves to show the intent of the Legislature, the conclusion which has been mentioned might well be justified. But there is much more which affects this question.

"At an extraordinary session of the Legislature, held in September, 1920, legislation was enacted on this general subject. That became law Sept. 27. Chapter 942, which was part of that legislation, added subdivision 1 to section 2231 of the Civil Code. It affected all summary proceedings based on the claim of a holding over and prohibited the institution of such proceedings, except in the cases specified in the act. But this statute expressly provided that it 'shall not apply to a new building in course of construction at the time this subdivision takes effect or commenced thereafter.' Chapter 944, enacted at the same time, treats of actions for rent and damages thereon. Section 10 thereof contains a provision similar to that just quoted from chapter 942. And chapter 945 likewise contains similar provisions. That chapter amended subdivision 2A of section 2231 of the Civil Code, which had been added by chapter 139 of the laws of 1920. The amendment was a material one and this subdivision was very generally changed. The provision contained in chapter 139, that the enactment was to apply to 'any lease or tenancy commencing after this subdivision takes effect' was not carried in the amendment. But this is not indicative of an intention to restrict the application of the amended subdivision. The language of the amendment is broad, and is to the effect that no proceeding based upon the non-payment of rent can be maintained in a city of the first class or in a city in a county adjoining a city of the first class where property is occupied for dwelling purposes, except in certain specified cases. And the fact that this amendment was not intended to limit the scope of the enactment was further shown by the provision that it did not apply to new buildings then in course of construction or commenced thereafter. If the Legislature intended this chapter, or any of the others, constituting the housing statutes, to apply only to tenants then in possession, it was wholly unnecessary and very misleading to insert the provisions that the various acts did not apply to new buildings. The fact that these provisions are contained in the statutes indicates conclusively that the Legislature did intend their enactments to apply to tenants who became such after the statutes were passed, as well as to those who were in possession at that time, with the exception of tenants who should become such in new buildings then in course of construction or thereafter commenced. Chapter 139, which expressly covered tenancies thereafter commencing, did not contain any exception of new buildings.

"But there is still further legislation upon this subject which has a direct and important bearing upon the point under consideration. That is found in the statutes of the current year (1922). Chapter 663 of the laws of 1922 expressly extended the time of application of the principal housing laws. This statute provides: 'The public emergency which existed at the time of the enactment of the statutes below enumerated, having continued, in the judgment of the Legislature, to the present time and still existing,' certain specified chapters of the laws of 1920 and 1921, dealing with the housing situation, 'shall, notwithstanding any provisions in any such chapters, sections or subdivisions, remain and be in full force and effect until the 15th day of February, 1924.' This enactment was the equivalent of the passage of a new statute declaring the emergency to exist and prescribing all the provisions contained in the statutes passed in the prior years. Taken in conjunction with all the prior enactments, we think, it cannot be said that the Legislature did not intend the housing laws to apply to a tenancy created after September, 1920.

"Still further support to this contention is found in the provisions of chapter 664 of the Laws of 1922. That amended a prior chapter dealing with defenses to actions for rent. A portion of the latest amendment reads: 'If it appear that the defendant pursuant to the terms of a written or oral agreement for the term of one year or more has paid after the commencement of the term and after April 13, 1921, three monthly installments of rent in successive months, which accrued under such agreement, such defense shall not be allowed.' This chapter became a law April 13, 1922. It applies to a letting for 'one year or more.' It seems to indicate that it is intended to apply to new lettings as well as to old. The date mentioned, namely, April 13, 1921, was the date of enactment of chapter 434 of the laws of 1921, which it amended. The letting might commence either before or after that date. And this same chapter (664) provides that it shall not apply to new buildings (Sec. 12). These statutes of 1922 (chapters 663 and 664) became laws only a few days before the Farnham decision was handed down, and apparently they were not before the court, as they are not mentioned in the opinion.

"As the legislative enactments do not seem to indicate the intention which has been given to them in the Farnham case, we feel constrained to differ with the conclusion there reached. It may be that the greatest need of the statutes originally was to protect tenants who were in possession. But if they needed protection there was then and is now need of protecting tenants who were not and are not in possession. Especially is there need of protecting those many thousands of whom there must be who were then in possession, but who have since been obliged to vacate for one of the reasons which the housing laws make the basis of a dispossession at the end of a term. Those tenants have been compelled to give up possession and to seek new quarters under new landlords. There is no reason why they should not be protected the same as tenants who were more fortunate and who were not required to leave their old dwellings."

The decision was concurred in by Justices Leander B. Faber and Edward Lazansky.

least $13,590,704.54, should have characterized the 1923 budget instead of the two and three-quarter million increase which still appears therein. The presence of that increase means that the savings in City Debt Service and State taxes have been diverted for the most part to increase the administration expense of the city government. Nor has there been any mandatory legislation which accounts for a single dollar's increase in the 1923 budget over that for this year."

Apprenticeship Program Discussed at Building Congress

Dr. Ettinger Promises Co-operation and Support of Board of Education After Frank L. Glynn Outlined Progress in Training Mechanics for the Construction Industry

EVIDENCE of a greatly increased interest in the progress of the New York Building Congress and its constantly broadening sphere of influence in the construction industry was manifest at the luncheon meeting of this organization which was held at the Hotel Commodore on Tuesday, October 31. The luncheon was attended by more than one hundred and fifty members who heard President Stephen F. Voorhees give a brief resume of the recent activities of the Congress and later to short addresses upon subjects of vital interest to the construction industry.

At the speakers' table with President Voorhees were: Dr. William L. Ettinger, Superintendent of Schools, New York City Board of Education; Charles Brady, Superintendent of the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings; Albert E. Kleinert, Superintendent of the Brooklyn Bureau of Buildings and Frank L. Glynn, Managing Director of the Apprenticeship Training Commission of the New York Building Congress.

After a short business session called for the purpose of voting upon several important amendments to the constitution and by-laws of the Congress, President Voorhees gave a brief history of the work accomplished by the organization during the past months and also outlined the plans for future activities. He described the recent gain in the membership resulting from the intensive campaign which brought the enrollment up to more than 300 members. In describing the efforts of the Congress to alleviate some of the outstanding ills of the construction industry President Voorhees stressed the work of the Committee on Apprenticeship Training, told of the intense interest this work has awakened among the employers and labor groups and how all of the elements comprising the congress had supported the work by supplying funds for its educational program. In closing his remarks he called upon Mr. Glynn to tell the members what is now actually being done to train apprentices in the building trades and the ideals of citizenship.

Mr. Glynn briefly sketched the organization of the Apprenticeship Training Commission and then told of the progress already made in organizing the apprentice classes in the carpentry, parquet flooring, cabinet making and allied trades, giving the number of boys already enrolled in the evening trade school classes and at work in the shops and further outlined the efforts being made to establish similar classes in the painting and decorating, iron working, electrical and other trades. He described the great interest the labor and employer elements are taking in fostering vocational education and also of the inquiries which come into his office daily from American boys who are seeking a real training which will turn them into skilled mechanics assured of steady work at good wages.

Dr. Ettinger had as his subject "Education of Apprentices" and in his address, after complimenting the New York Building Congress upon its efforts to train apprentices for the building trades, described the development of vocational training in the public schools of New York City and promised the full support and co-operation of the Board of Education in the great work the Congress has undertaken and which gives such splendid promise of success.

"The New York City Board of Education feels that the apprenticeship training program of the New York Building Congress will be productive of excellent results," said Dr. Ettinger, "and we heartily endorse the work and will give it our fullest co-operation and support. We know the idea is fundamentally correct and the proposed method of procedure based upon sound knowledge of trade conditions and requirements. In order that this work may go forward with all possible speed the Board of Education has appropriated $20,000 for the work in addition to supplying instructors and classrooms and we will undoubtedly devote greater sums to this work as your program of training expands and develops.

Charles Brady, speaking on "Problems in Plan Approval by the Building Department," said that at first his idea of the New York Building Congress was just another of those organizations to tell city departments and bureaus how to do their work.

"Having become familiar with what the Congress stands for and what it has already accomplished," said Mr. Brady, "I am sure I speak for the building superintendents in all boroughs of New York City when I say that the suggestions of the Congress for revising or improving the conditions in our respective offices will be most welcome and we endorse and will support the organization in its efforts for the good of the industry."

The luncheon adjourned promptly at 2 p. m.

Effect of Shifts in Business and Amusement Centers on Broadway Property Values

IN the current issue of "Broadway," the organ of the Broadway Association, attention is called to the effect on property values in the lower midtown section of the street by shifts in business and entertainment centres.

"It will be interesting and perhaps impressive to give a thought to Broadway on that angle," says the writer in "Broadway," "and consider some actual figures. Limiting our attention, for the moment, to just the few blocks between 8th and 30th streets, let us see what the records show as to changes in the assessed land values that have occurred since 1910.

"The result is a general depreciation, by blocks (with one exception) ranging from eight to one hundred and twenty-five per cent. The exception noted is the block on the west side, between 24th and 25th streets, where there was an increase of thirty-nine per cent.

"But, taken as a whole, the depreciation in assessed land values for this small section of twenty-two blocks, and including only the property on the west side of Union and Madison Squares, of course, totals nearly eighteen millions of dollars. There is a very marked shrinkage also in the values of the buildings, running into millions, but consideration of the land values alone is sufficiently impressive to stimulate thinking, and that is the purpose of this article.

"Presenting the above information more in detail, the following table shows the shrinkage in land values as it has occurred by blocks, moving north and dealing with Broadway frontage only:

Review of Real Estate Market for the Current Week

Numerous Quick Turnovers in Various Kinds of Properties, Apartment Houses and Good Business Properties Forming Bulk of the Dealing

THE outstanding feature of the real estate market this week was the large number of resales of properties, thereby giving quick profits to the original buyers. Aside from several large deals, some of which were above the half million dollar mark, another feature was the purchase by investing estates of corner parcels in Third avenue, for reimprovement or remodeling. For example the estate of Woodbury Langdon bought the northwest corner of Third avenue and 44th street. The avenue is a steady field of activity and 44th street is about to be connected by bridge across the New York Central yard with Depew place. The fact that an estate like the Langdon estate is buying in the avenue when numerous old estates that have long owned there are selling, is of more than passing interest. This estate is doing what old owning estates there are not doing in most cases: it is renovating and modernizing an old property and making it a modern income producer worth while.

The National Democratic Club has ratified the sale of its property at 617 Fifth avenue to Frederick Brown. The formality of a Supreme Court order is all that is now necessary to confirm the sale. Mr. Brown continues to be busy in the Fifth avenue zone, having bought during the week a large loft building in East 30th street, fairly close to the avenue. The Abbottsford apartment house, on a West End avenue corner, was sold for about $600,000. A Harlem plot a block deep and adjacent to the East river was sold by the Standard Gas Light Company. Numerous elevator and non-elevator apartment houses on Washington Heights and in the Bronx changed hands, as did a few in the upper West side and central Harlem. Some of the quick turns in the market were made with these kinds of properties. A notable sale in Harlem was that of the edifice and site of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church to a colored congregation of the same denomination, to be used by the latter as a place of worship. The influx of a large negro population to the central part of Harlem makes this sale worth while. The property is at the northwest corner of Seventh avenue and 129th street and it forms a good sized plot. The Community Church, at Park avenue and 34th street, bought 40 East 35th street, a dwelling abutting its edifice. Numerous fine dwellings in the upper reaches of the city changed hands, some for occupancy and some for the purpose of being remodeled for business and apartment uses. Some apartment houses in the Washington Square neighborhood also found new owners. Upper Lexington avenue parcels were active, too.

The West side and the lower West side contributed some good transactions. A plot of three lots in West 40th street, near Seventh avenue, was bought as a site for a large printing crafts building. It is not so long ago that The New York Tribune bought a site for a new building nearby in this street. The cash sale of a modern loft building in Mercer street, the sale of a coal yard site in upper Greenwich street and the sale of some Greenwich Village parcels give a good idea of the activity.

A factory building covering a square block in Long Island City was bought by the tenant, a block front in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn was bought for improvement with large apartment houses, as were numerous plots in the Bronx for the same purpose. Some interesting long-term leases throughout the city were negotiated. Marshall Field proved to be the buyer of 8 East 70th street, which adjoins the site of his projected mansion, plans for which are under way.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 122, as against 131 last week and 75 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 42, as compared with 42 last week and 17 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 80, as compared with 89 last week and 58 a year ago.

From the Bronx 55 sales at private contract were reported, as against 61 last week and 71 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 594.

United States Title Guaranty Company Expanding Its Activities

With the announcement that the United States Title Guaranty Company had issued a call for a special meeting of stockholders on November 2 to vote on increasing the capital stock of the company from $625,000 to $1,000,000 came the news that the Prudential Insurance Company of America has chosen that company to pass upon all of its mortgage loans on real estate in Kings, Queens and Nassau counties. This inaugurates the new policy of the Prudential in entering the Long Island field for large mortgage loans. All applications for mortgage money from this district heretofore have been passed upon at the main office of the Prudential in Newark. For several years past the United States Title Guaranty Company has been extending its activities into Queens, Nassau and Suffolk counties, and it has at the same time steadily enlarged its operations in Brooklyn. Some of the largest building loans made in Long Island boroughs during the building movement of the last eighteen months, as well as medium-sized ones, have been made by this company.

Discussing the proposed increase of the capital stock of the company as well as the handling by it of the mortgage loan business in its Long Island territory of the Prudential, Charles E. Covert, President of the United States Title Guaranty Company, said: "With an increased capital of $1,000,000 the company will be better able to meet the heavy demand for mortgage investments and also be better equipped to provide mortgage money for builders and for home owners. There seems to be little let-up in the demand for mortgage investments for some time to come, as the increased price of bonds and the uncertainty of stock values make the guaranteed mortgage a most attractive proposition for those who wish a safe and sound investment in which is provided an assured income from a capital investment that cannot be impaired by business depressions. This is recognized more and more by the careful investor, and so the demand continues; but, when the supply of mortgage money diminishes, as it will do with the falling off of new building operations, then the mortgage rate will fall. There is a general feeling that the time is not far distant when mortgage money will be loaned in Brooklyn at 5½ per cent. per annum. The volume of our business, both in title insurance and in mortgage loans, has grown to such an extent as to make the proposed increase of capital stock both wise and necessary. For many months we have been unable to supply the demand for mortgages from both institutions and individuals.

"The coming of the Prudential into this field, with its huge resources, undoubtedly will mark a great stride in improving housing conditions by making available to home builders one of the largest funds of its kind in the country. The assets of the Prudential are $850,000,000, the second largest of all the insurance companies of America. The company of which I am the head is naturally gratified that it has been selected by such a strong company as the Prudential to act as its agent in handling its loans on Long Island, including Brooklyn."

The United States Title Guaranty Company was organized in 1902 by a merger of the Long Island Title Guaranty Company and the Peoples Indemnity Company. In March, 1911, the company was reorganized under the leadership of the late George A. Fleury, and from that time its advance has been rapid and consistent. The total number of new loans made by the company this year in Brooklyn has been $5,498,750, and in addition it has taken by assignment mortgages aggregating $2,797,800.

Rockefeller Adds to Heights Tract

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has added a plot of 100 lots to his holdings on Washington Heights, between Riverside Drive and Broadway, in the vicinity of 192d st. His latest acquisitions were purchased from the estate of Jonas M. Libbey. Title to the property was taken on October 26 by the Empire Mortgage Co., representing Mr. Rockefeller. William A. White & Sons were the brokers.

The original purchase of Mr. Rockefeller was made in 1916 and comprised all the property between Broadway and Riverside Drive, from Dyckman st south to and including the C. K. G. Billings place—about 900 lots in all. The present purchase extends the southern boundary of the Rockefeller holdings to a point about 250 feet south of the Billings estate line.

Tryon Hall, the former home of Mr. Billings, is included in the Rockefeller holdings. Mr. Billings is said to have expended about $2,000,000 in the land, houses and the surrounding grounds. At the time of the original purchase it was said that it was Mr. Rockefeller's intention eventually to present the entire tract to the city for park purposes. It is valued at more than $5,000,000.

New Building Sold for Cash

George H. Chivvis and the John B. Hibbard Co., Inc., representing Isaac B. Hopper's Sons, Inc., sold the brand new 5-story brick elevator left building, 45 Mercer st, 25x100.

The Crescent Towel Supply Co. is the purchaser, who will occupy the entire building for their towel supply business. Extensive alterations will be made to the building, included in which will be shower baths and ideal rest and recreation rooms for the help of the company. It was an all cash transaction.

Sell West End Ave. Corners

Samuel Kaplan sold for Eugene J. Schwabach to Paul M. Gomborg 411 West End av, southwest corner of 80th st, a 10-story elevator apartment house, known as the Abbottsford, on a plot 102.2x100. Each suite contains 10 rooms. It was held at $600,000. Jacob Gomborg was associate broker.

P. S. Tracy sold for Charles de Casanova the 5-story stone flat with stores, on a lot 25.5 x100, at 140 West End av, northeast corner of 66th st. The buyer will renovate and offer for resale.

To Reimprove Madison Ave. Corner

The V. Green Construction Co. purchased from Samuel Brenner the southeast corner of Madison av and 85th st, 62.2x75, and from the County Holding Co., William C. Adams president, the plot in the rear, 40 feet on Madison av and 25 feet on 85th st, making a total plot of 100x102 feet, covered by five 5-story old fashioned brick apartment houses held at $350,000. Hendrik Suydam and Gaines, Van Nostrand & Morrison were the brokers in both deals. The buyers announce that they will demolish the present structures and erect a modern tail apartment house on the site.

The Fifth Avenue Hospital occupies the block between 105th and 106th sts, and the Heckscher Foundation owns the block between 104th and 105th sts. Estate Sells on Mosholu Parkway

As trustees under the will of James Everard and Olga J. Hilliard, the Farmers Loan and Trust Co. closed a contract for the sale of the vacant block front on the west side of Mosholu Parkway, between Marion and Decatur avs., 246.8x122.6x irregular, through A. A. Hageman & Co. and Mortimer G. Green.

Sales of Bronx Corners

Mandelbaum & Lewine sold to Ruth Moscovitz the southwest corner of Featherbed la and Plimpton av., fronting 173.3 feet on the former and 133.8 on the latter thoroughfare.

The old August Koelsch residence, northeast corner of Morris av and 176th st., one of the landmarks of the Bronx, has been sold and is to be converted into a maternity hospital, according to Dr. Nathan Kraemer, the purchaser. The property occupies a plot 100 x125. The buyer intends to expend about $80,000 in remodeling the property and will have it ready for use in December.

Harry Cahn, operator and builder, sold the new business building, containing 7 stores, at 1870 Crotona av., northeast corner of 176th st., on a plot 50.5x70.5, to Masha Broido, an investor.

Louis Gold & Co. sold to an investor the northeast corner of Third av and 163d st., a 2-story business taxpayer, on a plot 50x77. The sellers built the structure a year ago.

Brooklyn Site for Synagogue

Realty Associates sold to Union Temple, of Brooklyn, the northeast corner of Eastern Parkway and Plaza st., a vacant plot 58.63 x 125x irregular; also a vacant plot on the north side of Eastern Parkway, 84 feet east of Plaza st., 130.5x55.13x irregular. The purchasers recently acquired at an auction sale held by the City of New York the vacant lot lying between the two parcels purchased from the Realty Associates.

This choice site will shortly be improved by the erection of a handsome synagogue.

Tenant Purchases L. I. City Factory

Roman Callman Co. sold for the estate of Mathilda Stevenson to E. Virgil Neal, president of the E. Virgil Neal Chemical Works, the 3-story brick factory building covering the entire block bounded by Van Dam st., Borden av and Gale st., Long Island City. The purchaser leased the building 5 years ago through the same brokers, and made extensive additions during occupancy.

Auction Sale of Bronx Acreage

The Particeps Realty Co., which was organized about 10 years ago, to purchase 31 acres of vacant land with a frontage on Pelham Parkway running through to Eastchester Road sold its holdings Monday, at absolute auction, through the M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co. and Joseph P. Day, as agents and auctioneers, in the Vesey Street salesroom. The property is located directly opposite the Benjamin Stern property and just north of the Pearsall and Morris tracts. The tract is used as a farm and is suitable for institutional use or for development into home sites. The Particeps Realty Co. acquired the property, at public auction, for a little more than $100,000. They have held the property free and clear of mortgage but have issued notes to cover the payment of taxes and assessments.

The auction sale was held to satisfy the note holders and was absolute. Although the property is assessed by the city for taxation at $144,000, or a little less than $5,000 per acre it was sold to Cook Nathan & Lehman, attorneys for the note holders, for $58,000, or less than $2,000 per acre.

This sale bears out the contention of M. Morgenthau, Jr., who has maintained that vacant land in the outlying sections of Greater New York is selling in acreage plots at less today than at any time during the last 15 years. It is due to the fact, in Mr. Morgenthau's judgment, that holders of such acreage have grown tired of paying taxes and assessments, and are prepared to sell at a great sacrifice in order to realize on their holdings. The Particeps property will be immediately developed with streets and placed on the market for home seekers as quickly as possible by the present purchasers. It is understood that the M. Morgenthau, Jr., Co. and Joseph P. Day will represent the new syndicate in the re-sale of this property to home builders and lot buyers.

Old Paint Firm in 42d Street

Toch Bros., Inc., established since 1848, have taken a 10-year lease for a large part of the 14th floor in the Bowery Savings Bank Building, 110 East 42d st., at Pershing sq. This firm started in business at 35 Bowery in 1848, and remained there for nearly 50 years. Their next move was to 48-472 West Broadway, where they were located for 10 years, and for the past 17 years have been at 320 Fifth av.

Toch Bros., Inc., is one of the oldest technical paint, varnish, chemical and color houses in the United States, and has been conducted under the one name since its inception, and is headed today by sons of the founder.

An added advantage for this concern is that their plant, which comprises 32 city lots, is in Long Island City, directly across from their new office. With the Queensboro subway station in the building at 110 East 42d st., they will be within a few minutes from their plant. This may be a forerunner of the establishment of a paint, chemical and drug center at Pershing sq. Brown, Wheelock Co., in conjunction with George G. Murray & Mayo H. Barber, Inc., were the brokers.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

G. B. COIT has been elected assistant treasurer of the United States Mortgage & Trust Company of New York.

ERSKINE BEVERIDGE & CO., LTD., a tenant for 30 years in the building, is the purchaser of 20 White st., sold by Charles F. Noyes Co. recently.

THE PURCHASER of 677 Lexington av., northeast corner of 56th st., and the adjoining parcel at 130 East 56th st., recently sold by Maurice Wertheim for the Markham Realty Corp., is William Van Alen, of the firm of Severance & Van Alen, architects. This is one of several investment purchases recently made by Mr. Van Alen on Lexington av through the same broker.

SMITH & SCHWARTZ, INC., have moved their office to larger quarters in the Earle building, 1674 Broadway, where they will specialize in management of estates, real estate insurance, mortgages and appraisals. Mr. Schwartz has been actively engaged in banking and real estate for a number of years. Mr. Smith was connected with the bond and mortgage department of a New York bank.

New Plan to Speed Up $89,000,000 School Building Program

Board of Estimate and Apportionment Authorizes Employment of Outside Architects and Money Is Available for 100 New Buildings Within the Next Year

THE Board of Estimate and Apportionment at its regular meeting, October 27, formally approved a plan presented by George J. Ryan, President of the Board of Education, whereby the lagging program of school building construction may be greatly accelerated. The city authorities already have appropriated a total of $89,000,000 for an extensive building program in order to provide adequate school facilities for the vast number of children who are now in part-time classes. Although at best several years will be required for the city's educational authorities to catch up with the actual school building requirements, the way is now clear for more rapid progress in the construction of additional schools than has been possible under the system in force.

The new plan suggested by President Ryan as a measure of relief for the over-burdened Construction Department of the Board of Education provides for the employment of a number of architects of recognized standing who will prepare the plans for the new schools scheduled for construction. These plans will conform to the standard designs and specifications which have been adopted by the Board of Education and which have the approval of the Municipal Art Commission.

Should the plan to retain outside architects for school building construction actually be made effective it will be a decided departure from the methods now prevailing. At the present time all of the new schools for this city are being designed by the Construction Department of the Board of Education. C. B. J. Snyder, as Superintendent of Buildings for the Board, has evolved standardized plans, designs and specifications which are the basis of all new projects, and all that is required is to make these standardized plans conform to the sites selected for the proposed new buildings.

The Board of Education has exercised complete control over the design and construction of the city's schools since 1853, New York City being the first municipality in the United States to organize a department of expert architects, engineers, draftsmen, construction superintendents and trained inspectors for this purpose.

The present emergency, however, with its tremendous demands for additional educational facilities in practically every section of the city, has been more than the Construction Department of the Board of Education has been able to meet. The output of the department has been limited and its personnel is not sufficient to handle the greatly expanded program of construction which has been authorized and for which funds have been provided.

In presenting his request for authority to retain outside architects to speed up the school building program President Ryan told the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment that favorable action undoubtedly would make it possible to complete at least eighty new school buildings in about eight months.

The suggestion to retain additional architects to assist in speeding up school building construction was made by Henry Crosby, an architect, who recently completed a survey of the school building program for the Board of Education. President Ryan asked that a joint meeting be held by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Board of Education to consider the report of Mr. Crosby and also to devise ways and means of carrying it into effect. Mayor Hylan thereupon desired to know how many new schools the report recommended.

"If we had the help of outside architects," replied President Ryan, "we could build one hundred schools in a short time, while the best we have been able to do up to now is to get forty in a year under way and the average number has been about ten. We desire to provide enough schools to allow a seat for every child, but we can't do so unless we enlarge the program of procedure that has been in force for twenty years or more."

The budget of the Board of Education for 1923 calls for an expenditure of $64,000,000 for school construction. There will also remain at the close of this year about $25,000,000 from funds authorized for 1922 building operations which will be available for the coming year if the proposed plan is put into effect. It was found impossible to utilize all the money provided for buildings during the current year because the Construction Department of the Board of Education could not turn out plans and specifications with sufficient speed. President Ryan stated that with the assistance of outside architects the Board of Education will be in a position to complete its entire program within two years.

The employment of outside architects by the Board of Education will not change the prevailing designs in any material respect. The standardized type, which has been developed by Mr. Snyder and which is now followed on all buildings erected, with only incidental changes of plan to fit the particular needs of each individual site probably will be followed. What will be gained will be the services of a number of high-class designers and, what is of even greater importance in speeding up the work of the Board, a multiplicity of drafting rooms and draftsmen to handle the greatly expanded program of school construction.

President Ryan told the Board of Estimate and Apportionment that in his opinion four or five reliable architects should be employed at the start for this work but that, if occasion demanded, others should be added to the list. In discussing the additional cost of designing according to this plan he stated that if the standardized plans and specifications now in use are continued the fees for the necessary architectural advice and labor might be held down considerably.

If this plan goes into effect, as soon as the working drawings for new schools are ready the contracts for ten or twelve new structures could be let at one time and the work could be finished in from eight to twelve months, according to the size of the building.

Dr. James A. Ferguson, chairman of the Board of Education's Committee on New Buildings, said that contracts for twenty schools could be awarded to each of four contractors and that eighty schools could be completed within eight months.

The suggestion to retain outside architects to carry out the school building program will not alter in any respect the prevailing procedure of awarding contracts or supervising work. The only difference will be the addition of the Board's staff of superintendents and inspectors. At present the school construction in the various boroughs of New York City is under the direction of a Deputy Superintendent of Buildings, who has a local inspector on each active project and one or two traveling inspectors who report personally to the Deputy Superintendent. Any increase in the school building program will be handled by the Board of Education through its inspection staff, which will be increased for the purpose.

Builders and Trade Unions to Negotiate New Agreements

Union Officials Accept Amended Fourteen Principles of Employers' Association, Practically Assuring Harmony in Labor Situation for 1923

BUILDING construction work in the Metropolis has gone ahead during the year 1922 without an agreement between the labor unions and the employers' associations, with the exception of the verbal one which only covered the question of wage scales. All agreements, including that with the Building Trades' Council, expired on December 31, 1921, and although since that time there has been repeated attempts to arrive at a definite understanding with the union, it has not been until the past week that this has seemed possible. Within the past few days the situation has changed and it now seems quite probable that the unions and employers' associations will enter into agreements.

In December, 1921, the Building Trades Employers' Association refused to make a blanket agreement with the Building Trades' Council for 1922 and announced that individual agreements would be made between the several employers' associations and the unions of each craft; provided, the unions would agree that such agreements should be based upon Fourteen Principles adopted by the Employers' Association. The Council ordered the unions not to make individual agreements with their employers and demanded a blanket agreement with the Employers' Association. The Council also refused to accept the Fourteen Principles.

Walter Stabler, Robert D. Kohn and Robert E. Simon, representing a citizens' conference and acting as mediators, endeavored to bring about an agreement between the Building Trades' Council and the Building Trades Employers' Association during the months of March and April. Several meetings were held at which representatives of the unions and officials of the employers' association were present, but nothing definite was accomplished at these conferences despite the earnest efforts of the mediators. They were not successful, due mainly to the fact that the Council refused to discuss a basis for future trade agreements unless the Employers' Association first entered into a blanket agreement with the Council fixing the wage scales for all of the trades.

In September, the Council made a request to the Employers' Association for a conference at which new trade agreements could again be discussed. Since then several important meetings have been held and it has been announced that an understanding has been reached between the unions and the employers regarding the basis of the proposed new trade agreements.

The Employers' Association consented to the amendment of a number of the Fourteen Principles. The Council then approved of the Principles as revised and amended and has instructed the several unions, members of that body, to proceed with the negotiations of trade agreements with the trade associations of employers for the year 1923. The Principles are as follows:

Principles Upon Which Trade Agreements Should Be Based

1. There shall be no strikes or lockouts or stoppage of work, neither shall members of a union collectively leave the work of a member of the Building Trades Employers' Association. Trade agreements made by the employers' associations, members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and trade unions shall provide that all disputes arising in the trades shall be settled by trade boards of arbitration, with an umpire if necessary, and the decisions of trade boards and umpires shall be final and binding.

2. There shall be no agreement providing for discrimination against building materials, raw or manufactured.

3. The amount of work a man may perform shall not be restricted by a union nor by the representatives, officers or members of a union; and the use of machinery, tools, appliances or methods shall not be restricted or interfered with.

4. The employer shall be at liberty to employ and discharge whomsoever he sees fit; and the members of the union shall be at liberty to work for whomsoever they shall see fit.

5. The foreman shall be the agent of the employer and shall not be tried for any of his acts as foreman without due notice of the trial, accompanied by a written statement of the charges against him, being given to the Joint Trade Board.

6. The trade associations and unions shall jointly maintain a system which will provide an adequate force of skilled mechanics. The Apprenticeship Plan of the New York Building Congress is endorsed.

7. The members of the unions shall not refuse to work with men who are not members of their organizations when the unions have failed to supply a sufficient number of mechanics.

8. Overtime shall not be worked, except when unavoidable.

9. There shall be no provision, in any trade agreement, having for its object the collection of debts.

10. There shall be no provision, in any trade agreement, which will prevent the doing of cutting by the trade which installs the work for which the cutting is done.

11. Unskilled work, as defined in the trade agreements, may be performed by laborers or helpers. The work that has been heretofore recognized to be in the possession of a trade shall not be submitted to arbitration, unless possession is claimed by a party or parties to a jurisdiction of trade dispute.

12. All trade agreements shall provide that disputes between trades and disputes relative to questions of jurisdiction of trade shall be adjusted in accordance with the method set forth in the Joint Arbitration Plan of the New York Building Trades as adopted on July 9, 1903, and amended on April 22, 1905, and that all decisions rendered thereunder determining disputes arising out of the conflicting jurisdictional claims of the various trades shall be recognized by and be binding upon the parties thereto.

The Employers' Association and the Council have also arrived at an understanding which provides that, should the employers and the union in any trade fail to agree upon the terms and provisions of a trade agreement, a joint committee of the Council and the Building Trades Employers' Association will act as mediators, and, should the mediators fail to bring about an agreement, the question or questions in dispute shall be submitted to arbitration by the Employers' Association and the union having an interest in the case.

In substance, the unions affiliated with the Building Trades Council have declared that there shall be no strikes in the future, and that all questions and disputes which arise in the industry shall be decided by mediation and arbitration.

The unions not affiliated with the Council, and to which the understanding does not apply, are the bricklayers, plasterers, plumbers and painters. The bricklayers, plumbers and painters have said that they want an agreement with their employers for 1923. This leaves only the plasterers in doubt.

Taxpayers Have Until Nov. 15 to Protest High Tentative Assessments

THE Real Estate Board of New York in an analysis of the assessment rolls for 1923 opened for public inspection October 1, says: "Real estate interests expected an increased assessment, although not as great as it turned out to be. It is true that 29,359 new buildings were erected at a cost of $360,827,015, but many old buildings had been demolished and a great deal of valuable land, including water fronts, had been taken for city purposes.

"The Real Estate Board in a recent statement estimated $200,000,000 as the probable increase, or total assessment roll of about $10,023,494,720, for all kinds of real property.

"The assessment of $10,466,121,527 is too high, and very large reduction must be made by the Commissioners during the hearings on protest or will be made by the courts through writs of certiorari.

"The attention of property-owners is called to the advisability of examining the assessment rolls and ascertaining the values placed on their holdings. Protests and requests, to obtain a hearing, must be filed before November 15. A personal hearing should be requested, and at the hearing the evidence presented should be such as would be accepted in a court. The evidence offered the Commissioners is that upon which a writ of certiorari could be based.

"A temporary raise of rents based upon artificial and temporary conditions or temporary replacement value in a time of shortage of material and labor, are not evidences of value."

Many Projects Announced for Winter Building Schedule

Weekly Statistical Report of F. W. Dodge Company Gives Promise of Variety of Opportunities for Metropolitan District Contractors

RECENT reports of new construction scheduled for an early start in this territory are indicative of a winter building season of more than usual activity and intensity. Architects have been especially busy on plans for new building projects and a large amount of work has been in the hands of contractors for estimates during the past week. Commitments have also held up so that local contractors and material dealers have quite a volume of work actually on their books and considerably more in early prospect.

Construction statistics tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, covering the territory including all of New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, show that during the forty-third week of this year plans were reported for 660 new buildings and engineering operations at an estimated total cost of $21,769,100. The contract commitments in this territory for the same week involved 416 separate operations at a total cost of approximately $18,676,100.

The records for the week in New York City, while indicating a slight decline as compared with the week previous, are holding up well and are an assurance that local building interests will have plenty of work on hand during the usually dull winter months. During the week past architects and engineers reported work on plans for 285 new structural projects at a total cost of $10,280,700 and the 107 projects for which contracts were awarded in Greater New York during the same period will involve a total outlay of $5,081,600.

The 285 operations for which plans were announced in this city during the forty-third week of 1922 include 40 business buildings such as stores, lofts, offices, commercial garages, etc., $1,131,600; 2 educational projects, $103,000; 2 hospitals and institutions, $55,000; 7 factories and other industrial buildings, $494,300; 2 public buildings, $460,000; 7 public works and public utilities, $145,000; 224 residential operations including apartments, flats and tenements and one- and two-family dwellings, $7,841,800 and 1 recreational project, $50,000.

The group of 107 projects for which contracts were awarded in New York City during the forty-third week of this year included 19 business buildings of various types, $916,600; 4 educational projects, $305,000; 1 hospital, $40,000; 6 industrial projects, $108,500; 1 public building, $90,000; 3 public works and public utilities, $134,000; 1 religious edifice, $50,000; 70 residential operations, $3,407,500 and 2 recreational buildings, $30,000.

It was decided at the meeting to hold quarterly meetings at the Elks' Club and to invite speakers from the building departments in the various municipalities to address the members. The chapter will interest itself in all enterprises which may be classed in their particular line and will pay particular attention to building code amendments and zoning laws.

Cement Production in 1921.

Final figures on the output of Portland cement during 1921, compiled by the United States Geological Survey from reports of all producers, show that production was a little less than 99 per cent. of that in 1920, the record year. Statistics for the year 1921, up to the present time, were based mainly on reports of producers but in part on estimates. These estimates, however, were found to be only about 0.6 per cent. lower than the final production figures.

Department of Commerce statistics show exports of hydraulic cement from the United States in 1921, at 1,181,014 bbls., valued at $4,276,986, or $3.62 per bbl., as compared with 2,985,807 bbls., valued at $10,045,369, or $3.36 per bbl., in 1920. The exports went principally to the West Indies, South America, Mexico and Central America. Imports in 1921 were 122,322 bbls., valued at $388,842, or $3.18 per bbl., as compared with 524,604 bbls., valued at $1,254,729, or $2.39 per bbl., in 1920.

Total production for the entire country during 1921 reached 98,842,049 bbls., 81.5 per cent. of which were burned with coal as fuel; 10.2 per cent. using crude oil; 5.0 per cent. with both coal and crude oil, and 2.7 using oil, coal and gas.

Pennsylvania held the lead, during 1921, with a total output of 27,628,598 bbls., from twenty-two mills.

Metal Lath To Be Standardized

Following the reduction in standard sizes of paving brick and lumber initiated by the Department of Commerce, work is now under way in the standardization of metal lath. A reduction from seventy-one to nine in the number of weights and styles of lath was recommended at a preliminary conference held at the Department of Commerce October 2. The manufacturers have worked out a plan for this reduction which they believe will be acceptable to contractors and other consumers.

A general conference will be held December 12 to which manufacturers, distributors and consumers will be invited. At that conference, it is expected that a definite conclusion will be reached.

New York State Retail Hardware Association will hold its annual convention and exposition at Rochester, February 20 to 23, inclusive, next year.

American Association of Engineers will hold its annual convention at Norfolk, Va., May 7 to 9, 1923. Details of this meeting will not be decided for some time.

National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association, Inc., will hold its thirty-fifth annual convention at Atlantic City, November 15 to 17 inclusive. Headquarters will be at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Building Managers' and Owners' Association of New York will hold its regular monthly dinner and meeting at the Advertising Club, 47 East 25th street, Tuesday evening, November 14, at 6.30 p. m. The name of the speaker will be announced later.

The outstanding feature will be the session to be held Wednesday evening, December 6, with a program presented jointly by the American Economic Association and the management division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Joint sessions will be held also with the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers, the American Society of Safety Engineers and the Stoker Manufacturers' Association.

Copper and Brass Research Association, will be approximately 150,000,000 pounds, including the metal in form of bronze and brass sheets, piping, hardware, lighting fixtures, wire, and the like. This will be an increase of about 100,000,000 pounds as compared with 1921, 96,000,000 above 1920 and 73,000,000 above 1919. It is estimated that 118,000,000 pounds will be used in roofing and sheet metal work, 17,000,000 in plumbing, 11,000,000 pounds for lighting fixtures, and about 4,000,000 pounds in hardware manufacturing. On the basis of the total volume of construction for the current year, the Copper and Brass Association estimates the potential market for copper and brass in the building industry to be 650,000,000 pounds a year.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

CONSTRUCTION activity in the Metropolitan District is being hampered to some extent by the shortage of essential building materials that has resulted from the railroad freight congestion. Recently several lines have placed embargoes on incoming building materials, and as a consequence the available supplies of some of the most important commodities are getting down to a dangerously low point.

Considering the lateness of the season there is a large amount of active building in this district. The construction now in progress is more than it has been for a number of years at this period, and according to the number of new projects being planned by architects and engineers and the large volume of work being placed under contract each week, the local industry will be fully occupied throughout the remainder of the year and well into 1923 with the operations now actually in hand. The only adverse condition at present is the unsatisfactory outlook for adequate supplies of building materials. While at present there is no great amount of construction actually being held up on account of the lack of materials, there is danger that a continuation of the prevailing conditions will cause a lot of hardship to the building industry in the near future.

With the remarkably strong demand for building materials of practically every type and description and the gradually depleting supplies in the local markets, it is but natural that prices should be very firm and with a marked trend toward higher levels. While the supply situation remains as uncertain as it is at present, there is little likelihood of a downward turn to prices.

Common Brick—A fair demand for Hudson River common brick continued this week, although the market was not quite as active as it was a week ago. There is some new inquiry, but brick sales are slower because of the decreasing supplies of other essential building materials holding back construction to a considerable degree. Common brick prices are easier than they were and although the range is about the same as it was last week, the top price is only being obtained for the selected brick. The majority of sales recorded have been at $15 a thousand with lower prices for bricks of inferior quality. Reports from the up-river manufacturing district show that practically all of the open yards have suspended manufacturing operations until next spring, but the dryer yards are still in production and probably will continue throughout the winter. There is a large amount of green brick still to be burned, but as there has been no change of consequence in the fuel situation, it is likely that the firing of these brick will be spread over the next three or four months or more.

Summary—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Thursday, November 2, 1922. Condition of market: Demand fair; prices easy, but practically unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $14 to $15.50 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 33; sales, 35. Distribution: Manhattan, 8; Bronx, 3; Brooklyn, 18; New Jersey points, 4; Astoria, 1; Flushing, 1.

Lumber—Demand for lumber continues strong, and both wholesale and retail dealers report satisfactory prospects for the remainder of the year. Although orders from building sources have declined to some extent, there is a better demand from manufacturing consumers, and the general tone of the market is good. Lumber production has now caught up with the orders, but rail shipments are slow and uncertain. Lumber prices are very firm and slight advances are anticipated.

Structural Steel—A decided change for the better has taken place in the New York market for structural steel. Demand has improved greatly and new inquiries denote a large volume of business in the near future. Although the bookings of the past week or so have been for small lots the total amounted to a substantial tonnage. Several large projects have been released for bids and some important contracts are pending.

Prices are steady and are practically unchanged, with deliveries somewhat easier than they were a few weeks ago.

Reinforcing Bars—Concrete bars are in fairly active demand, and although the orders are not quite as heavy as predicted the market has a good tone and there is every indication of steadily increasing business. There is considerable new work coming out in which reinforced concrete will be used extensively, and with the early award of pending contracts the market will take on a far more lively aspect. Prices are steady.

Builders' Hardware—A slight drop in the demand for builders' hardware has been noticeable during the past few weeks owing to the fact that speculative construction has practically stopped for the season. Jobbers are making an effort to get their stocks in shape as the heavy demand of the past few months made heavy inroads upon local supplies, and there was considerable scarcity in some lines. Prices are firm and no changes of importance have been reported.

Electrical Supplies—Business in this line is steady and, generally speaking, satisfactory to both manufacturers and jobbers. Demand for wiring materials holds well despite the seasonal decline in construction activity, and there is a steady improvement in the amount of business being recorded for alteration and repair work throughout the Metropolitan District. Lighting fixture sales are unusually heavy and denote a large amount of new construction nearing completion. Prices are strong and likely to hold for some time to come, as stocks are adequate but not top-heavy.

Window Glass—The demand for both plate and window glass continues fairly active, and although sales have not been as heavy during the past week or so as they were a while previous business is generally considered good. Local stocks are somewhat broken and prices are very firm.

Nails—But slight change has occurred in the nail situation during the week. Demand continues to exceed the supply, and the scarcity seems to be growing. Jobbers' stocks are very light and assortments are badly broken, and according to the best informed the prospects of early improvement are not bright. Prices are very firm and indicate considerable speculation. New York quotations are ranging between $3.75 to $3.90 base per keg for wire nails, and $4.10 to $4.20 base per keg for cut nails.

Cast Iron Pipe—Market conditions remain substantially unchanged with a strong demand and prices very firm. Although the major portion of the orders being booked are coming from private sources, there is a smattering of municipal business, and the mills are still booked from four to twelve weeks ahead. New York quotations are as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton in cartons, lots, f. o. b. New York; 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Linseed Oil—The market for this material is very sluggish and recent sales have been light. Prices are firm.

Permit us to estimate.

BLACKMAR'S ASBESTOS LIQUID ROOFING

Standard Leak-proof Roof Covering of the World. Not a roof paint. It is a new roof. One application will make old leaky roofs just like new at a cost of about 1 1/2 c. sq. ft. Prepared in containers ready for use. WE CHALLENGE any manufacturer to a comparison of materials by analysis, test of durability and process of manufacturing. There is not a better Asbestos Liquid or Plastic Cement Roofing at any price. Not affected by the coldest winter weather or the hottest blazing sun, resilient, elastic, expands and contracts with the surface on which it is applied. Will never crack. Air, rain or moisture cannot penetrate the material, absolutely impervious to water, nonporous, permitting no passage of moisture in any degree into or through the material.

Big Problems for the New Governor

New York City's most vital interest in the result of Tuesday's election lies in the effect of the voting on two great municipal problems—development of the port and extension of the rapid-transit system. The future welfare of the metropolis is bound up in these two problems, and New York's natural expansion will be curtailed until each is solved wisely.

The sweeping victory gained by Governor-elect Smith voices a demand by New Yorkers that Mr. Smith take up again the burden of these problems. As to port development there has been only one point of difference between the policy of Governor Miller and the Governor-elect. In fact, Mr. Smith has been serving as a member of the Port Development Commission by appointment of Governor Miller, and they have been co-operating to splendid effect. Mr. Smith has made but one important criticism of the Miller plan, namely, that it did not give the municipal authorities sufficient voice in the matter. In the other broad phases of port development, however, the retiring Governor and the incoming Governor have been in general accord, and it may be assumed that port development will proceed quite as satisfactorily after January 1 as heretofore.

In the matter of rapid-transit extensions there is a wide divergence in the views of Mr. Miller and Mr. Smith. Mr. Miller has contended that the state should exercise a large, if not a controlling, influence in ending the traction muddle here in the metropolis. Mr. Smith, on the other hand, has held that the municipal authorities should have a larger voice in the matter, and he pledged himself in the closing days of the campaign to do away with the Transit Commission appointed by Governor Miller and headed by George McAneny. Now that Mr. Smith has been elected as Governor again, it is a question as to just how he can redeem this campaign pledge. The co-operation of the Legislature apparently will be necessary, and it is too early to tell whether the Governor-elect can count on that co-operation.

It is reasonable to expect, however, that Governor Smith will find a way to break the existing traction deadlock. This should not be done, of course, on any basis involving municipal operation of present or new transit routes. But through the exercise of the good common sense which he is known to possess Mr. Smith is likely to find a satisfactory basis for action between Albany and the City Hall, and his tact and patience may enable him to get the traction problem solved.

On the question of municipal operation of rapid-transit lines in this city public sentiment is clear. Only the more radical of our population favors that principle. It is opposed by the far-sighted, conservative elements of the city, and for reasons which are logical and convincing.

The new Governor must assume heavy responsibilities when he returns to Albany on New Year's Day.

Finding the correct solution of the traction problem is the most important of these, especially to the people of the metropolis. This problem cannot be beyond solution, nor can it be impossible to solve it rightly. A great community, especially one which rallied so overwhelmingly behind Mr. Smith's candidacy last Tuesday, has a right to expect that he will give to the traction problem his most earnest thought and his unflagging energy, in an effort to compose the conflicting interests and to bring about the adoption of a policy and a plan which will assure in the near future transit facilities adequate for present requirements, with comprehensive provision for the future.

Coming Back Into Its Own

New York, the nation's biggest city, has the biggest of almost everything, and properly so. But in the matter of the biggest stadium in the land the metropolis has been outdistanced recently, though the Big Town promises to go to the head of this list once again when the new Yankee baseball stadium on the Harlem River is completed early next year.

The metropolis has been playing second fiddle in the matter of stadiums because of the recent rivalry shown by other cities in the building of amphitheatres with great seating capacities. Most of these are associated with college activities. The idea for the construction of these huge out-doors colosseums, was, of course, derived from the Romans, the largest of the hundred or more structures in the Empire being the Colosseum, with a capacity of 50,000 people, which Emperor Titus threw open in 80 A. D. with a series of games lasting many months. Syracuse University built the first big amphitheatre in this country, seating 40,000. The idea caught on and there are now many of these great structures scattered over the land and a number of others planned. Of those already built the Yale Bowl and the Stadium of the Ohio State University at Columbus each seats 75,000. The University of California plans to build one seating 75,000. Los Angeles has started work on a colosseum with seating capacity of 75,000, in which its community projectors hope to hold the next Olympic games, while Chicago is "planning" to add to the attractions along its Lake Shore Drive a stadium holding 125,000 people. There are other large structures of this character, either completed, under way, or planned, including the unique one at Quantico, Va., which the Marine Corps is fashioning out of discarded war materials and which now seats 10,000 but may be enlarged to hold 100,000.

What is noticeable about most of these big structures is that their size measured by seating capacity is not relative to the population of the cities in which they are located. The Yale Bowl is a good example of a structure out of all proportion to the size of New Haven. But those in charge of the distribution of tickets for this year's games of the Big Three could easily handle 100,000 of these greatly-desired pasteboards if the Bowl could be enlarged twenty-five per cent. above its present capacity.

The size of a city has little to do with the bigness of its amphitheatres. Therefore the 85,000 seating capacity of the new American League Park cannot be taken as a measurement of New York's ability to erect a great amusement centre, nor its capacity to fill it when it is completed. New York enters into no rivalry with other cities in building. It builds because it has need of a certain type of building or feels the inspiration to embody in stone and marble, carved wood and ornamental metal the beautiful or serviceable design of a great architect. New York clings to one of the smallest City Halls of any large city in the land, because both in design and in historical associations the present building could not be replaced. But it has the biggest Municipal Building in the world and the biggest Town Hall, because they were necessary to its municipal undertakings.

New York is building a baseball park with a seating capacity of 85,000 because frequently there are about that number of its citizens who can safely take an afternoon off from business to size up the judicial fairness of a couple of umpires presiding at the trial of eighteen athletes. If there arises in the history of the city such an occasion as confronted Emperor Titus in 80 B. C., when he had to provide seats for about one-tenth of the population in and near Rome, New York will rise to it and build a bowl or stadium or amphitheatre that will seat proportionately as many of its citizens, namely, a million out of the ten millions within its limits and immediate environment.

Bright Spots in Building Situation

Regardless of the fact that the construction statistics for October 1922, as tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, show a seasonal decline of seven per cent. when compared with the total for the preceding month, there is little prospect that the building industry will find its opportunities curtailed to any serious extent, because the volume of active and potential work is greater at present than it ever has been at this period of the year.

Records of construction commitments announced during the past month in the twenty-seven Northeastern States, a territory including approximately seventy-five per cent. of all the building in the United States, show that $253,137,000 was devoted to new building and engineering construction projects. This total is about fourteen per cent. greater than the corresponding total for last year and more than offsets the loss through the seasonal decline. A further indication that the seasonal decline is not likely to affect the construction industry to any appreciable extent is the fact that newly-contemplated construction projects reported during the month amounted to $416,164,000, a total twenty-six per cent. greater than that reported in the previous month.

At present the most serious retardant to a continuation of construction activity at the rate which has made the past year a notable epoch in building history is the congested freight situation which is responsible for a developing shortage of building materials. Although the entire country is more or less affected by the conditions resulting from the freight congestion and embargoes to expedite the transportation of coal and foodstuffs, the Metropolitan District, with its abnormal amount of active building, is hampered to an unusual degree.

Winter building prospects are exceedingly bright, provided the railroads can promptly relieve the freight-car shortage. This is the outstanding factor at present and the only real problem the construction industry is confronted with. There is a vast amount of construction on the schedule; there is adequate labor available in practically all trades and funds to finance new operations are readily obtainable.

Violations of Zoning Resolution Should Be Reported to Fire Department

NEARLY every one knows that the zoning resolution prevents the invasion of residence streets by business, but often residents do not know how to bring about the enforcement of the law. In the first place a business that was located before July 25, 1916, when the zoning resolution went into effect, is permitted to stay. If, however, the objectionable business is started after that date, the objecting residents should mail their complaint to the Fire Department, Municipal Building, Manhattan," cautions E. M. Bassett. "The complaint can be signed by a single person or better yet by a considerable number of the surrounding residents or owners. It should state that the business was started after July 25, 1916, and also state what the offending business is. The reason why the duty of enforcing the law against non-conforming uses was placed upon the fire department was because the fire department covers the entire city, has outside men and has long carried on a system of inspection and notices for various purposes. It was not because these violations have anything to do with fire. It would have been natural to place this duty on the building department, but as there are five building departments (one in each borough) it was thought that five different methods of enforcing the law might gradually grow up.

"The next question is what uses in a residence district are not violations. Boarding houses, hotels having more than thirty rooms, clubs, churches, schools, libraries, asylums and hospitals are not violations. Accessory uses customarily incident to using a house as a home are not violations. A doctor, dentist, notary, lawyer, music teacher, artist or sculptor can, if he resides on the premises, pursue his calling and put out a small sign. He cannot put out a display sign. A garage for not over five cars accessory to a residence is not a violation. It would have been much too drastic to try to prevent ordinary home pursuits. The test should be whether the pursuit is incidental to actual residence, whether it has been customary in homes, whether it needs a display sign or whether a considerable number of people other than the resident are employed. If the business becomes the main thing and residence only an incident, then it is not allowed. The business must be customary and also incidental to the residence. For instance, a restaurant, a store, a group of offices, storage of articles for sale, or industry of any kind requiring a number of employees is not allowable. It may be said that no signs can be displayed excepting those of professional people.

"It is difficult for the fire department to know what business was located before July 25, 1916, but owners and residents in the locality always know. On this account the fire department is not to be blamed if it sometimes awaits complaints."

Realty Market This Fall Notable for Breadth and Activity

Transactions Throughout Five Boroughs Diversified, with Investment Prices Well Sustained and Operators' Profits on Re-Sales Substantial

SINCE the advent of Autumn this year activity in the New York real estate market has been well sustained. The Spring of the year probably witnessed more large transactions than has the present season, but lately there has been a diversity of dealing not experienced in a long time before in this city. In Brooklyn and Queens, as well as Manhattan and the Bronx, the number and importance of operations has increased remarkably. Every kind of property is changing hands, from a one-story garage in a remote part of town to a large office or loft building on or near Fifth avenue. Investment interest is indicated by the large number of dwellings and medium sized apartment houses that figure in the dealing. They comprise everything from old brick dwellings and old fashioned tenement houses in the lower East and West sides to the most modern brick and stone fireproof walk-up apartment houses on Washington Heights and Harlem and the Bronx. The strong investment interest is laid primarily to the fact that real estate is now yielding a safer and larger return than the majority of securities. Another phase of the market is that more tenants are buying the houses they live in than there were some time back. Many of the small merchant tenants on thoroughfares of the East and West sides are buying the medium sized apartment houses on the ground floor of which their store is located. High rents on fairly long leases have convinced many of them that it is wiser to buy the particular building part of which they occupy, thereby insuring permanency of location and a good return on money invested through the income from the upper floors. This condition prevails throughout Eighth, Ninth and Tenth avenues and somewhat on Sixth avenue and on First, Second and Third avenues, on the Bowery, Avenue A and Avenue B. In the business districts of Harlem and Washington Heights there has been a limited amount of buying of property by tenants. Throughout the lower reaches of the city there has been scattered buying of this character. The aggregate of this kind of investment, however, has added greatly to the dealing in real estate and it has given prospective investors larger confidence in the utility of ownership. Some leases have also been effected this Autumn that demonstrate the growing earning power of properties in various neighborhoods.

Probably the best evidence of the strength of real estate in the northern parts of the city is afforded by the frequent purchase and quick resale of good apartment houses. After the operators take their profits they pass into the hands of investors who make a good return on the price paid. The same is true of many office and loft buildings in other parts of town. Late in September the 4-story brick mercantile building 152-154 William street, southeast corner of Ann street, was bought by an old firm that owns adjoining property. This owner bought 144 William street, in 1897, for $100,000, the property being an old 4-story brick building. It brought at the time $100 a square foot and it was considered to be a record price for the locality. In 1907, a decade later, the same company bought 146-150 William street, at proportionately a much higher figure. The latest purchase, at William and Ann streets, revealed the fact that the rentals on the property had increased during the last ten years from $4,800 per annum to $17,000 per annum for old buildings with few modern improvements. These are situated, too, in a district that has witnessed the shifting of tenants farther northward and to a degree a change in trade character.

Another salient instance of increment is the 16-story loft building at the northwest corner of Fourth avenue and 29th street. Max Natanson, operator, sold the property to Col. Jacob Ruppert, an investor who usually holds fast to property. The latter paid for the property about $1,500,000 and he gave in part payment numerous scattered small tenement house and store properties in Yorkville and in the West side. Mr. Natanson has practically resold all of the parcels taken in part payment at a substantial profit and all within about two months. The growing value of the Fourth avenue property that Col. Ruppert bought is reflected in the fact that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has increased the mortgage on it from $600,000 to $725,000.

Marking great increment was the recent sale of the home of the National Democratic Club, at 617 Fifth avenue to a prominent operator. The present structure was originally an old fashioned brick and stone double mansion. It was sold to the Club, who remodeled the structure for its purposes, for $175,000. That was about thirty years ago. The operator who bought the property paid more than $1,000,000 for it and he will undoubtedly take a handsome profit when he resells it. Eventually it is likely to be merged into the site for a large new block front department store building.

Recently Marshall Field bought several dwellings in East 69th and 70th streets, close to Fifth avenue and adjoining a plot on which he will build himself a mansion. The additional properties were sold at from $100,000 to $125,000 each and these prices represent far more than their selling price when they were built not so many years ago.

The Saint Albans Golf and Country Club recently bought the 122 acres forming its course, which it had long leased. The purchase price is about $500,000, practically for the bare land. Less than a decade ago this tract was farm land worth only a few hundred dollars an acre. It is in the borough of Queens and removed from immediate rapid transit connections, although it is close to a well developed suburban home area.

The William Waldorf Astor estate sold this Fall numerous old tenement houses with stores, on the West side of town, to an operator who has since resold all of them separately at a quick profit. Some of the buyers were merchant tenants of the parcels they bought. The rentals of practically all of the parcels have been increased over what the Astor estate obtained for them. The tenants who bought have an income from the upper parts of the buildings that is higher, too, than obtained by the Astor estate. Five years ago, or less, profit taking on properties in this part of town did not seem possible. Very little, if anything in the way of modernization, has been done to these buildings. Demand for living space and the reserve power of New York real estate tells the story.

The estate of Henry Clausen, brewer, recently sold four old brick tenement houses with stores on the southwest corner of Second avenue and 35th street to an operator. They had been owned by Clausen since 1858. He paid comparatively little for the parcels at the time, as that section of the city then had more or less the status of a village. The operator who took them paid about $100,000 for the group. He will undoubtedly

Builders Buy 1,000 Bronx Lots for Housing Development

Louis Gold & Co., Inc., Intend Construction of 800 Two-Family Dwellings on Property Purchased from Receivers of American Real Estate Company

UNUSUAL interest is attached to the announcement that Louis Gold & Co., Inc., real estate operators and builders, have bought more than a thousand lots in the Bronx from the receivers of the American Real Estate Company. In addition to gaining prominence as one of the largest and most important real estate deals of the current year the transaction is responsible for a considerable amount of comment in building circles as the purchasers intend to immediately commence the development of this property on a large scale by the erection of hundreds of modern two-family dwelling.

Mr. Gold and his associates have been able to work out a plan which will make it possible for prospective home buyers to purchase moderate-priced dwellings in the Bronx. In the past this has been impossible in the majority of instances largely because of the high level at which lot prices have been held. The plans of the buyers of these lots propose to place those desiring to locate in the Bronx in the same advantageous position that buyers have been in, so far as the cost of dwelling accommodations is concerned, in the suburban sections of Queens and Richmond, and the additional advantage of residence in the Bronx.

The property acquired by Louis Gold & Co., Inc., borders for more than half a mile on Westchester avenue, which is the route of the Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway, extending from the Bronx River avenue on the west to Morrison avenue on the east; Westchester avenue on the south to East 173d street and East 174th street on the north. The lots front also on Stratford, Manor, Ward, Boynton, Elder, Wheeler, Evergreen and Colgate avenues and East 172d street. All of these streets have been asphalted and all local improvements have been installed throughout.

The property is within walking distance of both Bronx and Crotona Parks. The Clason Point trolley line touches the property, and this line gives direct access to Clason's Park and the shores of Long Island Sound. The West Farms Station of the New Haven Railroad is practically on the property. At Elder and Morrison avenues will be stations of the Broadway-Lexington avenue subway.

In discussing the plans of himself and his associates Mr. Gold said: "We propose to carry out here on this property plans we have put into effect in other sections of the city in providing two-family homes that are within the reach of all.

"We will erect 800 dwellings that will accommodate two families and which will sell for not over $16,000. This will be at a cost of not over $10 a room and the owner by renting one apartment will be to an expense of less than $7 a room.

"No such proposition has been possible in a generation for any location north of Times Square, either in Manhattan or the Bronx. This has been due to the cost of land. Those who are familiar with the cost of land in the Bronx are aware that lots of any value whatever have for years past cost from $6,000 upward, and in most cases the purchaser, after paying this price, has been compelled to remove rock in order to build.

"The property which we have acquired has no rock on it and is ready for immediate development. We have secured such advantageous terms in buying that we can figure in the price of the lots and the cost of construction and make our plans for selling at not over $16,000.

"This land that we have acquired is the last and only tract of its kind to be had north of Times Square. It is certain, therefore, that the offer we intend making will never again be duplicated. Our plans for building are now practically completed and will be announced within a week or so. We can say now that we will put into this proposition within the next six months more than $3,000,000. The houses that we will erect will come under tax exemption and they will be ready for occupancy by the end of the Spring of 1923."

Forest Products Tests Reach Half Million

MORE than half a million tests of the mechanical properties of native wood have been carried out at the Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis., in the twelve years since the work was initiated. Specimen 500,000 was of white ash grown in Bennington County, Vermont, and it was broken by impact with a 100-lb. hammer. The insert shows the felling of the white ash tree from which the specimen was taken with other test pieces needed in a study of the influence of growth conditions on the properties of wood, now in progress at the laboratory. The markings of the particular specimen shown indicate that it came from the south side of the tree, at a distance of 2 in. from the center and, between 12 and 16 ft. above the stump. The care used in marking this piece is typical of the care with which all specimens are marked in order to relate test data with growth conditions.

After owning the site of its edifice at the southeast corner of Broadway and 71st street for 40 years, the Church of the Blessed Sacrament last winter sold the property to a builder at an enormous advance over what it had paid for it. Added to that was the circumstance that the property had been exempt from taxation for church purposes for 40 years which gave the Church a handsomer profit than a lay owner could have taken. The buyer recently sold, on the plans, a 19-story hotel which he is building on this corner, for $3,500,000.

Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, in Harlem, recently sold its edifice and site at the northwest corner of Seventh avenue and 129th street, to a negro Methodist congregation known as the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church. In spite of the fact that the invasion of central Harlem by negroes is presumed to have a depreciating effect on property values there the property brought $258,500, which is far and away more than the seller paid for the land and building about a generation ago. This property is at the centre of the negro settlement.

George Ehret, last month, sold for close to $1,000,000 the block bounded by Avenue A, East river, 63rd and 64th streets, with buildings on the site that were long used for brewery purposes and which will either have to be remodeled or replaced with other structures. Buildings and land together cost far less than the selling price when Mr. Ehret acquired them.

A recent sale that attracted wide attention from the viewpoint of increment of West side real estate was that of the Eleventh avenue block front from 44th to 45th street to the New York Times, as a site for a large storage warehouse and mechanical plant. If any one had dared to predict, a decade ago, that a daily newspaper would make the improvement in this neighborhood contemplated by The Times, he would have been set down as a wild dreamer. This sale together with several other large ones adjacent to the North river, this Autumn, is destined to revolutionize fee values thereabouts.

Real estate in every part of the city is witnessing increment to a greater or lesser degree and the sales made since the end of the summer season emphasize the fact.

Obsolescence of Office Buildings Analyzed by Expert

Earl Schultz, in Report Following Exhaustive Survey, Gives Outstanding Factors which Limit Profitable Life and Use of Commercial Structures

PROPERTY owners, building managers and others concerned with the operation of modern office buildings are certain to find much of interest in the exhaustive survey and report recently completed by Earl Schultz, President of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. The report is on the "Effect of Obsolescence on the Useful and Profitable Life of Office Buildings" and although it is semi-technical in character, and illustrated by a series of charts, it answers a number of questions that have confronted realty interests for some time. This report was presented by Mr. Schultz as an address before the annual convention of the Ohio Association of Building Owners and Managers last April and is in fact a report of the Taxation Committee of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers.

The report on the effect of the obsolescence in office buildings is based upon data obtained from one hundred and fifty-five office buildings in forty different cities of the United States. This information was secured by means of a questionnaire sent out to the members of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, which asked for information as to the age, land value, building value, gross income, net income, expenses, increase or decrease in land value, etc., as well as for all concrete evidences of obsolescence apparent in each building. These buildings constitute a total value of nearly $200,000,000.

In addition to the data obtained through the questionnaire many valuable statistics were provided by reports of the Taxation Committees of the Local Building Managers' Associations. These reports covered the effects of shifts in and growth of business centers, and gave lists of office buildings torn down and replaced because of obsolescence or inadequacy as well as information concerning the sale of old buildings. Such reports were received from New York, Chicago, Omaha, Spokane, Seattle, Portland and San Francisco.

The Century Dictionary defines obsolescence as "a going out of use." This meaning is commonly expressed as "a going out of style." It represents a falling off in the value or usefulness of a thing from causes outside of the thing itself as distinguished from the effects of wear or physical deterioration. A piece of machinery in a factory is obsolete and useless as soon as a new kind of machine is made which can perform the same work cheaper or more efficiently, even though the first machine is still in good physical working condition. A woman's dress is obsolete as soon as a new style is put on the market. The sailing vessel was rendered obsolete by the steamboat. Hydraulic elevators in buildings are becoming obsolete through the greater economy, comfort and speed of the electric elevators. In other words, obsolescence is that which causes the useful and profitable life of anything to be shorter than its possible physical existence.

The purpose of the investigation was to determine whether obsolescence affects the imposing and massive office building structures of our modern cities. Perhaps none of the edifices erected by man so well compares in size and physical stability with the palaces and cathedrals of Europe or the pyramids of Egypt as do the American steel constructed skyscrapers. But will they be of use as long as the cathedrals, or will they like the pyramids, become monuments of uselessness long before they are worn out?

What is the measure of the effect of obsolescence on an office building? What determines the value of its use and the period of its profitable existence? Fortunately for this purpose, office buildings are, or should be, investments of large amounts of capital upon which a return is expected and to which the investor in an office building is entitled. As long, therefore, as the capital invested in an office building earns a return equal to even the lowest return on the most conservative investment in other fields, it is enjoying a useful and profitable existence. One of the most definite and exact measures of the effects of obsolescence on an office building is the effect of age on its net income, or the return on the capital represented by it.

There are several causes which bring about obsolescence in an office building with the consequent impairment of its useful and profitable life. Some of these are:

- (1) The normal growth of the business district of a city.
- (2) The shifting in location of the business district of a city.
- (3) Erection of newer buildings of a different type and style.

(4) The greater efficiency in the layout and operation of newer types of buildings.

(5) The more modern and complete service which the newer buildings give their tenants.

(6) Damage caused by new buildings adjacent to an old building so cutting off the light and air of the older building as to diminish the value of its space and consequent earning power.

Half of our population now lives in urban centers, and a large percentage of the nation's business is carried on in or from the cities. The bank clearings of New York City alone were for 1920, 86% of the total clearings of all the rest of the country. The necessity of providing places for the transaction of this enormously concentrated business gave rise to the tall office building. Without the office building the city, as we know it today, would be impossible.

The value of land is determined by its use. The most intensely used land in the world is that in the business districts of our modern cities. This ever increasing increase in the volume of business that must be handled by the cities is directly responsible for a corresponding growth in land values that is greatest in the business centers. Since 1880, the land tax values of Chicago have increased 1235% with an increase in population of 437%. In Omaha, land values grew in thirty years, 538%, for a growth in population of 135%. In the past decade Omaha land values grew 136% with only a 27% increase in population.

The growth of business in a city not only increases the value of the land in the business district, but also necessitates the continued increase in amount of office space in which the increasing business can be carried on. The older office buildings were considerably smaller in size than the present structures, because the amount of tenants available to fill them did not justify the greater size. With the growth of the cities, however, it has been necessary to build office buildings of ever increasing dimensions. It was shown in the Experience Exchange of the National Association for the year, 1920, that to be an adequate improvement of a business lot, a building must have a value equal to or greater than the value of its lot. It follows, therefore, that as the value of a lot increases, the ratio between the value of the lot and the value of the building increases. A study, therefore, of the present ratio between land and building for buildings of different ages will indicate the effect which the growth of the business district of a city has in rendering buildings inadequate improvements of the land.

The increase in land value also materially affects the investment value of the building situated thereon. At the time a building is built, it must earn a return not only on the investment in the building, but also upon the value of the land. This is true even if the land is not owned by the same owners as the building, because of the fact that all ground leases provide that the lessee must pay the taxes. As the value of the land increases, the amount of taxes increases in proportion. It follows, therefore, that as the value of the land increases through the growth of a city, the amount of capital on which the building must earn a proper return continuously increases, with the result that either the gross income of the building must increase correspondingly or the net return of the property will decrease, so that the building will, in the course of time, lose a great part of its value as an investment.

The increase of land values under office buildings is due to two causes. First and most largely to the general increase in the land value caused by the increase in population and amount of business of the city. This increase applies equally to all buildings. The second cause affects the individual building and is due to the shifting of business centers. When a business center shifts to a new locality, it causes a very large increase in land values in that locality. As soon as this locality is developed, the increase in value stops, and when the center again shifts to a new locality, a decline occurs.

It must not be concluded that such a decline in land values is in any way beneficial to the building through reducing the total investment on which an earning must be made or through making the building more nearly an adequate improvement on the lower value of the land. Such a decline in values is due to the fact that the business center has moved away and consequently the demand for office space in the old locality has decreased much more than the falling off in land values.

All the buildings upon which this report was based were modern in all essential details, including a pleasing and still modern exterior. It is true that the walls are of solid masonry instead of steel and a curtain of brick, but that is an item that is directly measurable since the added thickness of the walls affects the rentable area and cost of construction. In fact, a strict analysis from the tenants' viewpoint would show but very little to choose between them and the latest buildings; however, they do not draw as evidenced by a difference in the square foot rentals of an average of $2.25 to $2.50 compared with $2.75 to $3.50 for the newer buildings.

Similar conditions of obsolescence to those portrayed in the four cities examined in detail exist in every growing city in the United States. The following is a list of some of the once prominent buildings in Chicago and New York that have been torn down and replaced because they had become obsolete and were no longer adequate developments of the ground on which they stood:

CHICAGO BUILDINGS

Champlain Building, 15 stories, north-west corner Madison and State Streets. Erected, 1894. Demolished in 1915 (21 years).

Continental Bank Building, 10 stories, LaSalle and Adams Streets. Erected, 1884. Demolished, 1912 (28 years).

Rand-McNally Building, 10 stories, Adams Street near LaSalle Street. Erected, 1884. Demolished, 1912 (28 years).

Trude Building, 14 stories, south-west corner Wabash Avenue and Randolph Street. Erected, 1897. Demolished, 1912 (15 years).

Royal Insurance Building, 15 stories, 160 West Jackson Boulevard. Erected, 1885. Demolished, 1920 (35 years).

Montauk Building, 9 stories, Monroe Street near Dearborn Street. Erected, 1883. Demolished, 1902 (19 years).

Mallers Building, 12 stories, southwest corner Quincy and LaSalle Streets. Erected, 1886. Demolished, May 1, 1920 (34 years).

NEW YORK BUILDINGS

Western Union Building, Dey Street and Broadway, erected, 1875. Typical fire-proof construction of the period. Became wholly obsolete and was torn down in 1914. Life, 39 years.

Manhattan Trust (Gillender) Building, north-west corner Nassau and Wall Streets, erected 1894. Typical fire-proof, steel construction of the period, became obsolete in respect to requirements of location and was torn down and replaced by a new building in 1912. Life, 18 years.

Wilks Building, south-west corner Wall and Broad Streets, erected, 1889. Typical fire-proof construction office building of the period. Became obsolete and was torn down in 1920 and is being replaced by a new building. Life, 31 years.

Hotel Manhattan, north-west corner Madison Avenue and 42nd Street, erected in 1895. First class hotel, typical fire-proof construction of the period. Became obsolete for the original purpose, and the interior practically rebuilt in 1920. Life, 25 years.

Washington Building, Broadway at Bowling Green, erected in 1885. Typical fire-proof construction office building. Outer walls removed and rebuilt, and whole of interior except steel frame and floors rebuilt in 1920. Life, 35 years.

It would be but repetition to recite all the statements contained in the questionnaires returned. There are two points to be emphasized.

First, it is not only impossible but absurd even to suppose that the shifting of business centers can be stopped, or that the swelling flood of city business can be dammed up and contained in one spot. It no sooner fills up the locality than it must needs flow on into the next. If it is dammed up in one direction, it will flow in another and the greater the torrent, the faster it will flow.

Second. The immediate cause and the guide to the shifting of business centers is the retail district of the city. It is the retail district that brings the greatest amount of people and business is most profitable where the traffic is greatest. Office building rents are, in the last analysis, determined by the building's strategic location with regard to the center of traffic. As the number of people passing the doors of a building increase or decrease, so fluctuates the earning power and hence the useful life of that building.

It is generally believed that the present type of office building represents the highest possible development of these structures and consequently they will not suffer from obsolescence in type as have the older buildings. A study of the growth of the office building and of the purpose and plan of its design will easily convince anyone that it has by no means arrived at a state of perfection.

Office buildings, past, present and future may be divided into four types. The first type of office building which is now entirely obsolete, was designed primarily for the housing of individual tenants. Its rooms were of fixed size and arrangement, of large dimensions, high ceilings and large windows. Practically no service was given by the building other than janitor service. The elevator equipment, according to modern standards, was very inadequate and consisted of slow speed, rope control, hydraulic machines with light cabs and a wire mesh enclosure. There were no lavatories or running water in each office, but only a general washroom and toilet for the entire building. In the early forms of this type, there was no provision for first floor tenants, while in the later form half basement stores were provided. The corridors of the buildings were unduly spacious, with wooden floors and plaster wainscoting, and the light and air shafts occupied valuable space, oftentimes in the front of the building. The general layout of the office space in the building was entirely subordinated to the architectural design of the exterior. The building was of slow-burning or semi fireproof construction on floating foundations. It was very massive in design, with curved or recessed windows, heavy projecting cornices and belt courses, and often had a mansard or gable roof.

The second type of office building is the so-called modern building of most cities. It developed as a result of the great increase in the clerical forces of modern business. It was necessary to provide a type of structure that would permit of continuous change in its interior layout to accommodate the different requirements of the changing tenancy, as well as to permit of the expansion of the tenants already in the building. This meant that the general structure of the building must be so planned that the interior partitions can be knocked out and rebuilt without affecting the supporting parts of the building. The steel skeleton type of building erected on caisson foundations makes this possible. The interior partitions are of plastered tile, which is easily broken down and removed. This necessity for continual changes and alterations in layout has, however, proven a very expensive item of operating cost. This excessive cost is due not only to the waste involved, but also to the changes in the lighting circuits, plumbing supply, and heating system which are required for each alteration.

This type of building is much more fireproof in its construction, the steel work being thoroughly protected with concrete or tile. The interior layout has been allowed to affect, to some extent, the exterior design of the building. The corridors are smaller, while the rooms themselves are not so deep. The windows are narrower, spaced closer and with more regularity, thus permitting the subdivision of the offices into smaller units. The trim is of hard woods, usually mahogany. The corridor floors are tile or marble with marble wainscoting. Running water and lavatories are provided in every office and many operating services, such as vacuum cleaning, furniture polishing, and the supplying of ice, water and towels are provided for the tenants. The elevator service is high speed electric or hydraulic, with heavy cabs in enclosures of iron grill work. This type of building has reached an enormous size, and in most cases the greater portion of the ground floor space has been utilized for retail stores. Little real thought, however, has been given to the proper design of these stores, as is evidenced by the extremely large sums which a great number of buildings have been forced to spend in remodeling their first and second floors. Building after building testifies to the expenditures of from $50,000 to as high as $100,000 for this purpose at ages ranging

Some Good Sized Transactions Were Closed in Manhattan Along with General Dealing, While the Bronx and Queens Reported Big Tract Sales

THE real estate market, this week, showed a slight slackening in comparison with the two preceding weeks, probably as a result of Election Day dulling the beginning of it. Nevertheless, there was a strength shown, not only in Manhattan but elsewhere in the city, that shows the trend of population and of lot buying for improvement that spells increased fee values. A tract of 567 lots in a suburban section of Nassau county was bought for immediate improvement with homes. Two large transactions in lots in the Astoria section of Queens and another one in the Woodside section of the same borough mean structural improvements on a large scale in the near future. A firm of builders bought a tract of 1,000 lots in the Westchester avenue section of the Bronx that will be improved in the immediate future with two-family houses. Another Bronx plot, of 50 lots, was sold. In Brooklyn a large water front industrial site, on Gowanus Canal, found a new owner.

In Manhattan the outstanding sales were the 12-story loft building in East 40th street, near Fifth avenue, that was built a decade or more ago by the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company; a block front on the east side of Park avenue, from 63d to 64th street, as the site for a large cooperative apartment house. There was some cooperative apartment selling besides. Frederick Brown bought two dwellings in East 49th street, near Fifth avenue and a Fifth avenue corner building and an upper Broadway corner were sold. The Placid Hall elevator apartment house, on a Riverside drive corner, was resold at a profit. Two apartment houses at Broadway and 125th street found a new owner. Marshall Field is apparently still adding to his holdings in 69th and 70th streets, close to Fifth avenue.

Washington Heights was not only in the limelight with good sales of various kinds of improved properties, especially apartment houses, but it also contributed many sales of good sized vacant plots that will be improved. Dwellings and medium sized apartment houses in other parts of the city were bought. Third avenue was an active centre of trading in its northerly part. The upper West side was fairly active. Downtown there was a fair quota of medium sized business buildings sold, some of them to tenants. Altogether it was a week that gives promise of better things soon to come.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported, but not recorded in Manhattan this week, was 93, as against 122 last week and 74 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th st was 22, as compared with 42 last week and 27 a year ago.

The number of sales north of 59th st was 71, as compared with 80 last week and 47 a year ago.

From the Bronx 35 sales at private contract were reported, as against 55 last week and 87 a year ago.

Statistical tables, including the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 626.

R. E. Board's Monthly Dinner

The first monthly dinner of the Real Estate Board of New York to be held since last Spring will take place on Wednesday evening, November 22, at Delmonico's, Fifth avenue and 44th street, at 6:30 o'clock. Reservations must be in the office of the Board, 7 Day street, by noon of Tuesday, November 21. Tickets are $2.50 a plate. Speaking will be begun at 7:30 o'clock.

This occasion will be of more than usual interest to realtors, because of the presence of Deputy Commissioner Frank S. McCaffrey, of the New York State Tax Commission, who has charge of the issuance of licenses to brokers, and the presence, also, of Commissioner Vincent P. Bradley, of the New Jersey Real Estate Commission. Each commissioner will speak of the workings of the license law in his respective state.

The title of Mr. McCaffrey's address is: "Progress to date in New York City and State."

Mr. Bradley will discuss "The Licensing of Real Estate Brokers and Salesmen. How the License Law is working in New Jersey."

National Association Meeting

The National Committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, made up of one representative of each of the 472 member real estate boards of the United States and Canada, will meet at Jacksonville, Fla., the latter part of January. The exact date will be announced later. This meeting is second in importance only to the national convention, which takes place at Cleveland June 27-30. Much of the business usually transacted at the annual convention will be taken care of at the Jacksonville meeting, at which time also the new officers and directors of the Association will be installed.

Another Metropolitan Deal in Queens

As a site for another apartment house project the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. has purchased 53 lots at Woodside, Queens, from the Queensboro Corporation, on which it plans to erect ten 5-story apartment houses, to accommodate about 400 families. The houses will be similar to those now being built by the Metropolitan in Long Island City. The newest site fronts on Rowan av, Hicks pl, Polk av and Broadway.

The houses will be within a few minutes' walk to two stations on the Corona subway extension and to the Woodside station of the Long Island Railroad. The subway trip to the Grand Central Terminal requires about 20 minutes and the run to the Pennsylvania Terminal in Manhattan takes about ten minutes. A surface car line runs through the industrial district of Long Island.

Premier Lot Deal in Bronx

American Real Estate Co. sold to Louis Gold & Co. a tract of 1,000 lots in the Westchester av. section of the Bronx. They will be improved with 800 2-family houses.

The lots border for more than a mile on Westchester av., which is the route of the Broadway Lexington av subway and extend from Bronx River av on the west to Morrison av on the east. The northern boundaries are formed by East 173d and 174th sts. The lots front also on Stratford, Manor, Ward, Boynton, Elder, Wheeler, Evergreen and Colgate avs and on East 172d st. All these streets have been asphalted and local improvements installed.

The property is within walking distance of both Bronx and Crotona Parks. The Clason Point trolley line touches the property, giving direct access to Clason's Point and the shores of Long Island Sound while the West Farms station of the New Haven railroad is at the property.

Discussing the building project, Louis Gold said: "We plan to erect 800 2-family houses on this tract, which will sell for not more than $16,000, or at a cost of not more than $10 a room rent. The owner by renting one of the floors will be practically able to meet all the carrying charges."

"No similar project north of Times Square has been possible for the last generation, owing to the high cost of land. Those who are familiar with the cost of land in the Bronx know that after paying the required price and removing the rock the construction of modern 2-family houses will cost more than $16,000."

"This land which we have acquired is the last tract of its kind north of Times Square. It is certain therefore, that the offer we are making will never be duplicated. Our plans for building are practically completed and will be announced soon. We can say now that we will put into this operation within the next six months more than $3,000,000. The houses will be tax exempt and will be ready for occupancy by the spring of 1923."

The new owners resold 134 of the lots to Philip and Max Kaye, Brooklyn builders.

Bronx Plot of 50 Lots Sold

Approximately 50 lots on the west side of Jerome av. extending to the east and west sides of Anderson av. between 166th and 177th sts. have been sold by the William N. Clark estate to the Carlow Realty Co. The sale includes the old Clark mansion. Charles Lowe was the broker.

Lofts Near Fifth Avenue Sold

J. B. Thill sold for the Metropolitan Finance Corporation (Leroy Sargent, president) to Louis Kramer 9-11 East 40th st. a 12-story and sub-basement brick and stone loft building, on a plot 50x95.6.

The sellers purchased the property in 1920 for their own occupancy from Yale & Towne, who erected the building in 1913 for their city show and sales rooms and it was considered the finest constructed building in the Grand Central zone.

The present rental is more than $130,000, and the purchase was made for all cash over the first mortgage. The sellers agree to vacate store and mezzanine on December 1, after spending more than $100,000 in the furnishings and fittings.

Another Co-operative Apartment House

Shelton Holding Co. (James T. Lee, president) sold through Douglas L. Elliman & Co. and Brown-Wheelock, Harris, Vought & Co. to Dwight P. Robinson & Co. the block front, 200.10x75, on the east side of Park av. from 63d to 64th sts. On the plot will be erected a 14-story co-operative apartment house. It is now covered with old brownstone suits.

The building will contain large suites and will be ready for occupancy October 1, 1923. The site was long owned by the Taylor estate. J. E. R. Carpenter will be the architect of the new building.

Brown Buys Near Fifth Ave.

Frederick Brown, operator, purchased the 4-story and basement brick and the 5-story American basement brick dwellings 8 and 10 East 49th st. on a plot 32.4x100.5, opposite the site for the new store for Saks & Co. The sellers were the Mordecai Realty Co., Inc. (Benjamin Mordecai, president). Douglas L. Elliman & Co., Inc., were the brokers.

Benjamin Sells Block Front

Henry Rogers Benjamin, grandson of the late Henry H. Rogers, of the Standard Oil Co., sold to Samuel Arons the two 6-story elevator apartment houses occupying the block front on the west side of Fort Washington av. between 177th and 178th sts. on a plot 255x100, valued at $600,000. The structures contain accommodations for 74 families and return an annual rental of about $100,000.

Ehret Sells on Cathedral Parkway

George Ehret sold through Slawson & Hobbs and Schmidt & Donahue to Samuel Rosoff, operator and builder, the partly vacant plot, 175x90.11, on the north side of Cathedral parkway 150 feet east of Broadway. The buyer will erect a 15-story apartment house on the plot. The total cost will be $2,500,000.

Mrs. Carnegie's Lenox Home Sold

Theodore A. Kavanagh of the office of John J. Kavanagh sold for Mrs. Andrew Carnegie her residence known as Shadowbrook, at Lenox, Mass., to a client for occupancy. The property consists of 35.8 acres, elevated about 1100 feet above the sea, 123 acres of which surround the house which is a 3-story and basement dwelling of rough, grey stone and reinforced concrete with a red tile roof, containing all modern improvements, including electric passenger elevator, and comprising about 60 rooms, with a lake frontage of over 600 feet. There are a number of out-buildings including boat and bathing houses, extensive gardens, including a fountain and pool garden, tennis court, etc., and the balance of 235 acres are woodland and farm land. The house was built some years ago by the late Anson Phelps Stokes, at a reported cost of considerably more than $1,000,000, for land and buildings, and is the finest private estate in the Berkshires. It was purchased by the late Andrew Carnegie in 1917, and he made extensive alterations and improvements to both land and buildings. Graham E. C. Root, of Lenox, was associated as broker.

Estate Sells Fifth Avenue Corner

Brown, Wheelock-Harris Voight & Co., Inc., sold to an investing client for the Central Union Trust Company of New York, trustees of the estates of Helen C. Juilliard, May C. Dodge and Elizabeth D. Stokes the 12-story store and left building, 27 10x160, at 140 Fifth av., southwest corner of 19th st.

The property was held at $50,000, and was acquired by the Juilliard interests from the builder, Henry Corn, in 1900. The purchaser intends to divide some of the lofts into offices and show rooms. The brokers have been appointed agents of the property.

Broadway-72nd Street Corner Sold

The former Colonial Club property at the southwest corner of Broadway and 72d st., occupied by the Lincoln Trust Co., which was recently merged with the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, has been purchased by the Friejack Realty Co., Samuel Brenner, from the estate of Archibald D. Russell and Percy R. Pyne.

The property fronts 115.9 feet on Broadway, with a combined southerly line of more than 138.9 feet and has a frontage of 99.11 feet on 72d st. It consists of a 6-story structure on the Broadway corner, covering a lot 115.3 on Broadway, with an average depth of about 67 feet. It has been in the Russell and Pyne ownership since 1906, when the sellers purchased it from Robert E. Dowling's City Investing Co. and later leased it for 21 years.

The building at 208 and 210 West 72d st., forming an additional plot, 50x102.2, were recently altered into stores and apartments by Chinitz & Levine's C. & L. Lunch Co.

Freedman 957 Third av., adjoining the northeast corner of 57th st., a 3-story bank building, on a lot 26x90. The sellers recently bought the property from Joseph C. This is part of the tract acquired by the sellers from the American Real Estate Co. Samuel Cohn and Henry Gold were the brokers.

A client of Louis Levy, attorney, purchased the ten stores with apartments which are being erected on Potter av. between Goodrich and Merchant sts., Astoria, by the Potter Avenue Realty Corporation, David W. Keen and Henry B. Saltman, directors. The brokers were William Silverman Co. and Joseph M. Tucker.

Builders Buy Astoria Corners

Jacob & Emil Leitner, Inc., resold for Julian Kovacs the northwest corner of Ditmars and Fourth ays., in the Astoria section of Long Island City, a plot 50x125, to the Rabbo Construction Co., which will erect a 3-story business building. It is opposite the block being erected by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

The buyers are building 65 houses near by. The same brokers sold the plot, 75x100, at the northeast corner of Lawrence and Potter ays., to Charles Simmonds for the erection of a 3-story business building.

Builders Still Buying in Astoria

Louis Gold & Co. sold to the Rabbo Construction Co., one of the builders now erecting 2-family houses on the part of the tract they acquired from the American Real Estate Co. in Astoria, and which is being financed by The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., 30 additional lots on Eighth av., between Ditmars and Potter av., upon which they will immediately commence the construction of 24 2-family semi-detached brick houses. George Rosen was the broker.

Placid Hall Resold

The 6-story elevator apartment, known as Placid Hall, at the south corner of Riverside drive and 151st st., 103x153, has been resold by the 170th Street Holding Corporation to Dr. Alexander Nesbarkin for investment. It contains 42 apartments, shows an annual rent of about $70,000 and was held at $100,000.

In part payment the buyer gave the 7-story apartment house with stores at the southwest corner of 116th st. and Madison av., with a yearly rent of $32,000, and held at $210,000. S. H. Shapiro negotiated the deal.

Marshall Field Still Buying

The estate of Julia Seligman sold the 4-story and basement brick dwelling on plot 32x100.5, at 11 East 69th st., held for about $150,000. According to report, it has been acquired by Marshall Field, who recently purchased the LeRoy W. Baldwin house at 8 East 70th st., to enlarge the site for a mansion he is preparing to build. No. 9 East 69th st., intervening, is owned by Edwin C. Jamison.

Activity in Heights Plots

Washington Heights is to have the benefit of two apartment operations costing about $75,000. The Sherson Realty Corporation, through M. I. Strunsky and Oscar Gotthelf, brokers, purchased 5 lots on West 176th st., 100 feet west of Broadway, having a depth of 100 feet. The S. S. & B. Building Corporation purchased the abutting five lots on West 176th st.

Queens Issues 15,000 Building Permits

Jarvis S. Hicks, Chairman of the Housing Committee of the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce, declares that within the last few years, since the extension of the rapid transit lines into Queens from Manhattan and Brooklyn, the growth of Queens has been phenomenal.

"During 1921 permits were issued by the Queens Building Bureau for more than 13,000 buildings, to cost $87,000,000," says Mr. Hicks. "This year, for the first nine months, more than 15,000 permits for buildings, to cost $95,-

000,000, have been issued. This exceeds every city in the United States, except Chicago, and emphasizes the claim repeatedly made by the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce, that Queens is the fastest growing large community in the United States.

"The borough will grow still more rapidly when more people recognize the wonderful opportunities which it offers to home seekers. With an area of 120 square miles—37 per cent. of the total area of New York City—Queens has thousands of acres of undeveloped land available to those seeking homes in the 'open,' where they may have their yards and gardens and real neighbors.

"From an industrial standpoint, Queens Borough is one of the important localities of the United States, exceeding every city of the country, except eighteen, in the annual value of its manufactured products, according to the last United States Census in 1919, when it amounted to more than $330,000,000. There are 1,500 manufacturing establishments in the borough employing 75,000 men and women. About half of these live outside of Queens, because of lack of housing and must be provided for.

"The permanency of the population of Queens Borough is assured by the fact that the percentage of home ownership exceeds that of all the other boroughs of New York City, except one, for 37 per cent. of its residents own their own homes, as compared with 19 per cent. in Brooklyn and 8 per cent. in the Bronx."

BUILDING SECTION

October Contract Commitments 14 Per Cent. Ahead of 1921

Despite Seasonal Decline in Construction Activity F. W. Dodge Company Statistics Indicate Winter Building Season of Unusual Progress

CONTRACT commitments for building and engineering construction projects reported during October in the twenty-seven Northeastern States (which include about three-fourths of the total construction in the country) amounted to $253,137,000, according to statistics tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company. This figure is 14 per cent. greater than that reported in October of last year. The progress of the seasonal decline in the national construction situation for the month is shown by the drop of 7 per cent. from the total for September. In view of the fuel and car shortage and other restrictive factors, construction activity is continuing at a most satisfactory rate.

Residential construction continues to be the predominant type of building now active with October contracts for this work amounting to $110,776,200 or 44 per cent. of the total for the month. This was an increase over the September commitments for residential construction. Other important items in the October figures were $41,477,000, or 16 per cent., for public works and utilities; $32,037,000, or 13 per cent., for business buildings such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc.; $27,640,000, or 11 per cent., for industrial buildings; and $17,437,000, or 7 per cent., for educational projects of various types.

The construction started in the twenty-seven Northeastern States during the first ten months of this year has amounted to $2,887,446,000. This is 23 per cent. greater than the total for the entire year, 1921, and 47 per cent. above the total for the first ten months of last year.

The revival of residential construction during the past year has overshadowed everything else in the building and construction field. But there has also been a revival in another important type of project that is very significant. Industrial building this year has averaged 27 millions of dollars per month, compared with 14 millions per month in 1921. This increase, although it has not yet assumed large proportions, seems to indicate a substantial revival in this class of building.

Contemplated new work reported in October amounted to $416,164,000, an increase of 26 per cent. over the contemplated work reported in September.

New England building contracts in October amounted to $26,362,000, a decline of 13 per cent. from September, but an increase of 22 per cent. over October of last year.

Included in last month's figures were the following items: $14,166,000, or 54 per cent. for residential buildings; $3,473,000, or 13 per cent., for business buildings; $2,390,000, or 9 per cent., for industrial buildings; and $2,046,000, or 8 per cent., for hospitals and institutions.

Total construction started in New England from January 1 to November 1 has amounted to $285,914,000, compared with $205,147,000 for the entire year, 1921. Contemplated new work reported during October amounted to $53,216,000, nearly double the amount of contemplated work reported in September.

October building contracts in New York State and Northern New Jersey amounted to $64,974,000, an increase of 3 per cent. over September, and a decrease of 14 per cent. from October, 1921. The increase over September was outside of New York City, which showed a decline.

Last month's figures included: $33,024,000, or 51 per cent., for residential buildings; $8,364,000, or 13 per cent., for business buildings; $6,098,000, or 9 per cent., for industrial buildings; and $5,903,000, or 9 per cent., for public works and utilities.

Total construction started during the first 10 months of this year has amounted to $765,490,000 compared with $645,418,000 for the entire year, 1921. Contemplated new work reported in October amounted to $96,963,000, an increase of 16 per cent. over the contemplated work reported in September.

Building contracts awarded in the five boroughs of New York City during the month of October amounted to $29,941,600. This was a decline of 12 per cent. from September and of 40 per cent. from October, 1921. In view of the lateness of the season and the various factors now restricting building operations, the continued decline is not surprising. Residential construction in October amounted to $17,664,500, or 59 per cent. of the month's total. Business buildings amounted to $4,331,100, or 14 per cent. During the ten months that have elapsed this year, New York City's total construction has amounted to $445,842,000. The total amount of building operations in the year, 1921, was $393,371,400.

Total building contracts awarded during October in the Middle Atlantic States (Southern New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and the Carolinas) amounted to $31,431,000. This was a decline of 21 per cent. from the previous month and of 6 per cent. from October, 1921.

The principal items in last month's total were: $11,500,000, or 37 per cent., for residential buildings; $5,571,000, or 18 per cent., for public works and utilities; $5,480,000, or 17 per cent., for business buildings; and $2,839,000, or 9 per cent., for industrial buildings.

During the first 10 months of this year contracts have been awarded in this district to the amount of $418,323,000, compared with $355,235,000 for the entire year, 1921. Contemplated new work reported during the month amounted to $52,723,000, an increase of 38 per cent. over the amount of contemplated work reported in September.

October building contracts in Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee amounted to $54,798,000, an increase of 14 per cent. over the preceding month and of 61 per cent. over the corresponding month of last year.

The principal items in last month's total were: $22,912,000, or 42 per cent. for residential buildings; $10,129,000, or 18 per cent. for public works and utilities; and $7,358,000 each, or 13 per cent. each, for business and industrial buildings.

During the first 10 months of this year construction started in this district has amounted to $509,406,000, compared with $420,349,000 for the entire twelve months of last year.

Contemplated new work reported last month amounted to $65,530,000, an increase of 28 per cent. over the amount of contemplated work reported in September.

Contracts awarded during October in the Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, Eastern Kansas and a small portion of Nebraska) amounted to $72,677,000. This was a decline of 15 per cent. from September, but an increase of 42 per cent. over October, 1921.

Last month's figures included the following: $27,390,000, or 38 per cent. for residential buildings; $18,565,000, or 25 per cent. for public works and utilities; $8,838,000, or 12 per cent. for industrial buildings; and $6,966,000, or 9 per cent. for business buildings.

from ten to twenty-five years. In fact, this feature constitutes the principal item of structural obsolescence in this type of building.

A third type of office building existing in some of the larger cities has been brought about by governmental regulations in an endeavor to provide as nearly a perfect fireproof building as possible. Its layout and construction is in every way similar to the preceding type, except that no wood is used in the building. The floors of the offices are concrete or tile, the doors and trim of steel. In addition, all elevator shafts and stairways are completely enclosed with fireproof material, thus segregating each floor as a separate fire area. While this type of building does not exist generally, except in those cities where this structure is required by ordinance, it is only a question of time when it will be required throughout the country, not only by municipal regulation but also through the demand of the tenants for the added fire protection which this type of building gives. Nearly all buildings now being built are of this type, and it will cause the present modern buildings, such as are typical of Chicago, to be very much affected by obsolescence in type of construction.

There has been very little office building construction throughout the country for the past six years due to the excessive cost of labor and material, so that the supply of office space in most cities is, at the present time, inadequate. As the cost of construction gets back to normal and as business conditions improve, there will be a revival of office building construction and out of this revival is sure to come a new type of building. If office building owners and managers have learned any one thing during the past period of inflation, it has been the necessity of economical operation. The new type of office building will, therefore, be built primarily as an investment and designed not only for efficiency of layout to produce the greatest gross income, but also for economy of operation to give the lowest operating cost. Forerunners of this type are already appearing. These newer buildings are thoroughly standardized in their layout, and their lighting, plumbing and heating arrangements are such as to permit of the moving of interior partitions without affecting any of the mechanical equipment of the offices.

In short, the newer type of building will be built upon two principal ideas. First, a design efficient in layout and economical in operation; and second, it will be built to provide not only space in which tenants can exist, but to be an integral part in the functioning of these tenants.

It is thus seen that obsolescence of type of office buildings, instead of having ceased, will probably very materially increase in the near future with the development of the new type of office building that will be not only more economical in operation, but also of much greater service to its occupants.

In addition to the general forms of obsolescence brought about by changing land values, new types of construction, etc., there are specific forms of obsolescence and depreciation which affect the several parts of an office building.

This form of obsolescence is greatest in amount as affecting equipment and arrangement of the first and second floors of buildings. The immediate cause of this form of obsolescence is the shifting in the retail centers of a city, causing a change in the character of the occupancy of the first floor of a building. Changes in methods of retailing merchandise is also responsible for it. The following are a few typical illustrations of this form of obsolescence.

One Chicago building remodeled its first and second floors at a cost of $65,000, although the assessed valuation of the building is only $35,000. Another valued at $150,000 expended approximately $100,000 in remodeling its store fronts, modernizing its bank floor and reconstructing its entrance. An Omaha building spent $25,000 in remodeling their ground floor stores; another spent $275,000 on its first floor stores and building entrance. A building in Cleveland, at seven years of age, spent $48,000 on its entrance and corridors to overcome obsolescence and to put the building on a par with surrounding office buildings operating on the same basis. In Washington, D. C., a building less than twenty years old, has spent $200,000 remodeling its first two floors, although the entire valuation of the building is only $300,000. A building in Detroit was forced to spend $400,000 in remodeling its lower floors when it was only ten years of age.

In the equipment of the buildings, the greatest amount of obsolescence and depreciation occurs in the elevator systems. Apparently, the life of an elevator system averages about twenty years. During the life of the office building, several different types of elevators have been developed. The first general type was rope control, slow speed hydraulic. This was followed by lever control hydraulic of higher speed, and this in turn by the high speed electric cars. The very latest elevator development, just now coming into use, is the new multi-voltage, micro-leveling type, which furnishes great economy in operation and more speed and safety in control. A few examples of obsolescence in elevator systems are as follows:

A building in Chicago, only sixteen years of age, equipped with hydraulic elevators, is contemplating extensive replacements within a short time. Another building in simply modernizing its elevator system, has spent $25,000. A building in Birmingham, Alabama, only eighteen years of age, has replaced its elevator system at a cost of $80,000, with an additional cost of $30,000 on the elevator enclosures. A building in Buffalo, thirteen years of age, spent $24,000 installing electrically driven elevator pumps to replace its steam power plant. One of the best buildings in Detroit, when it was only eleven years old, replaced its elevators, including construction of a pent house, at an expense of $250,000, which amount equalled the first eight years' earnings on the building, and was $90,000 in excess of the original investment in elevators. Another Detroit building, at the age of nineteen years, changed its hydraulic elevators to electric at a cost of $110,000. A building in Boston spent $12,000 on its elevators between the ages of twelve and seventeen years, and at the age of twenty-six years, was forced to discontinue them entirely and install new cars at a cost of $49,000. A building in Indianapolis, at the age of twenty-seven years, replaced its elevator system at a cost of $47,000. A building in Portland, eleven years old, states that on account of the expense of operating its hydraulic elevators, these should be replaced with electric cars at a cost of $35,000. A building torn down in Seattle last year, at an age of thirty-three years, had during its life replaced its elevators three times. A twenty-five-year-old building in St. Louis states they should, at this time, install new elevators and elevator enclosures in order to bring the building up to date at an estimated expenditure of $150,000.

Another of the major items of obsolescence and depreciation in office building equipment is that of the engine room. The replacements of boilers, stokers, engines and generators constitute a very large item of office building expense. Illustrations similar to those cited for the elevator systems could be quoted which would serve to indicate that the life of the various mechanical elements of an office building power plant ranges from ten to twenty-five years.

Some of the other forms of equipment subject to obsolescence and depreciation are the plumbing and heating systems. The piping of these systems being continually subject to the corroding effect of water has a comparatively short life. The wiring system also must be overhauled and renewed at comparatively short intervals. In the Edison Building in Chicago, the tenants of the building are now using three times the quantity of current for lighting purposes than was used ten years ago, with the result that the present electric feeders throughout the building are wholly inadequate and must be replaced at a large expense. Other parts of buildings much subject to wear are the marble floors in the corridors; the wooden floors in the offices; the marble wainscoting in corridors and toilet rooms. Sidewalks also require constant expense. Another large item of depreciation in buildings constructed of terra cotta is the deterioration of this material by weathering. After twelve to fifteen years, the terra cotta, through the action of moisture and frost, begins to break up and pieces fall into the street, constituting a great hazard of life. This necessitates a costly examination of the exterior surface of the buildings and the replacement of pieces of terra cotta.

In fact, practically all parts of an office building, except the foundations and steel frame work, are subject to a much greater amount of physical deterioration than is generally supposed.

In conclusion, what are the lessons to be learned from this study of the useful life of an office building?

In the first place, the only chance your building has of enjoying even a reasonable length of profitable existence lies in the stability of the business district in which it is located. Once the business center of a city leaves an office building behind, that building is on the downward path. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that you, as individual owners and managers, and as an association of building owners and managers, should concern yourselves with anything that affects the growth or development of your city, more especially its downtown section. City planning, zoning ordinances, railroad terminals, street car facilities, boulevards, or anything else that tends to limit, control, modify, or develop the business district is of more vital significance to the investment in your property than all of today's operating or renting problems put together. If your association is worthy of the responsibility you repose in it, it will at all times make its influence felt in these matters.

The second lesson is the importance which your retail tenants are to the preservation of the value of your locality. The most intensive merchandising use should be made of your ground floor space. You should give much thought to the success of your store tenants. In addition to being your best tenants, they are really your partners. If they cannot succeed in your building, they will take a large part of its value away with them when they leave.

The lesson of obsolescence for the prospective builder of an office building is this: You will make a much better long time investment if you erect your building on the edge of the present business center in the path of its future growth, if that can be determined, than if you pay a premium for what is now the best corner in town. That corner won't be the best for long, so that when your building reaches the age when it needs the support of a favorable location, it will be without such aid. Then too, if you build on cheap land a building of greater value than the land, it will take longer for the ratio between land and building to increase to the point where your building is no longer an adequate improvement of its lot.

And finally, no matter what percentage of obsolescence and depreciation the government will allow us to deduct from our income tax, we should as sensible, far seeing business men, set up a fund sufficient to replace our buildings in thirty years

No Dearth of Opportunity for Metropolitan Builders

Dodge Company Statistics Show Contracts Awarded During October Involve Outlay of $29,941,600 for Construction Work in New York City

LOCAL contractors have every reason to be pleased about the outlook for the construction industry during the next three or four months. Despite a seasonal decline on the volume of projected building, which has been anticipated as a matter of routine, the industry has a tremendous volume of work on its schedule, and infinitely more in prospect if the number of plans now being prepared by architects and engineers is any criterion of future activity. There are several factors that might possibly develop into serious retardants to a continuation of local building progress but it is hoped that the problems involved will shortly be solved and so assure the contracting industry of prolonged busy times.

According to figures tabulated by the F. W. Dodge Company, the month of October was a period of unusual activity in the contracting field. The report for the month shows that in New York State and New Jersey, north of Trenton, architects and engineers announced plans for 2,855 new structural projects at an estimated total cost of $96,962,800. During the same month there were 1,872 construction projects placed under contract at a total cost of approximately $64,974,100.

The contract commitments for new building and engineering projects in New York City for October, which indicating a slight seasonal decline when compared with the figures for the preceding month, are a very satisfactory indication that local contracting interests will have sufficient work to keep them fully occupied throughout the normally dull winter season. The October record for proposed building operations in Greater New York shows contracts awarded for 500 projects at an estimated total cost of more than $29,941,600.

Among the projects reported placed under in New York City during October were 87 business buildings such as stores, offices, lofts, commercial garages, etc., $4,331,100; 17 educational structures including schools, colleges, libraries, etc., $1,444,300; 8 hospitals and institutions, $1,612,900; 20 industrial buildings, $1,595,000; 5 public buildings, $487,200; 19 public works and public utilities, $1,941,600; 8 religious and memorial buildings, $690,000; 331 residential projects including apartments, flats and tenements and one and two-family dwellings, $17,664,500 and 5 social and recreational structures, $175,000.

One of the significant facts in connection with the October report for construction in the Metropolis is the steadily increasing volume of commercial and industrial building activity that is being manifest. There is a notable improvement in this line which more than offsets the decline in the amount of residential work.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Peerless Liquid Cement Company recently moved its office from 1947 Broadway to 799 Broadway.

Andrew Dunbar, formerly with the American Metal Ceiling Company, is now with the Supro Building Products Corporation, Nelson avenue and Creek street, Long Island City.

Elson Lumber Company was recently incorporated to do a general retail lumber business with headquarters at 217 West 21st street. The active head of the company is Louis Elson, who was formerly in the firm of Rosensweig & Elson on Great Jones street.

S. Weinstein, manufacturer of sash, doors and trim for new buildings, has bought the entire block bounded by Meserole avenue, Calyer, Moultrie and Jewell streets, in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, and will shortly begin the construction of one of the largest warehouses and factories of the kind in the east. The cost of this operation is estimated at approximately $500,000.

L. P. Hevenor recently joined the staff of Dwight P. Robinson & Co., Inc., engineers and contractors, New York City, as consulting engineer. Until a short time ago he was a member of the firm of Engel & Hevenor, Inc., where he specialized in track construction, taking part in numerous large projects in the East, Middle West and South. Mr. Hevenor is a member of the A. S. M. E., Brooklyn Engineers' Club, New England Street Railway Association, the A. R. E. A. and other technical organizations.

Albert E. Kleinert, Superintendent of Buildings for the Borough of Brooklyn, was the principal speaker at the recent regular meeting of the Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, held at the Crescent Club. Superintendent Kleinert spoke on the building situation in Brooklyn, and recommended that higher standards be inaugurated for practicing architects, and that all architects should be licensed as well as builders, and that architects should take a determined stand to supervise all building operations for which they prepare plans. He believes that the collapse of the American Theatre would have been prevented if the owners had retained the architect to supervise the building construction.

Prizes for Best New Buildings.

Plans have been matured for the presentation of medals and diplomas to the owners and architects of the best new and altered buildings completed in the Fifth Avenue district during the past year. The honors will be awarded by the Fifth Avenue Association, and the presentation will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria on the evening of November 14. Will H. Hays will present the medals and diplomas and will also act as toastmaster at the dinner celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the association, to be held the same evening. These awards are made annually by the Fifth Avenue Association, and the committee of judges is made up of the following architects: Eliot Cross, Robert D. Kohn, Harry C. Ingalls, and three lay members, including Douglas L. Elliman, F. B. Conover and John Sloane.

Hollow Tile to Be Standardized.

Following the lead of the paving brick manufacturers, hollow tile is now turning its attention to the matter of standardization and simplification. This important activity is being carried on through the Fabricated Production Department of the Chamber of Commerce. The Hollow Building Tile Association, through its chief engineer, Chas. C. Crockatt, is also working on this problem. When standardization and simplification of sizes, styles and type of hollow tile have been effected a service of immense value to the tile manufacturer as well as to the construction industry will be accomplished.

Bricklayers Lay 2,035 Brick Daily

A study of bricklaying efficiency was recently made in San Francisco by a member of the staff of the Industrial Association of that city. Four bricklayers, two of first-class ability and two second-class mechanics working under the American plan, were observed at regular intervals for a week, and it was found that an average of 2,035 brick were laid daily per man. Three of the most reliable contractors in San Francisco claim that in 1921 the average production on plain walls was approximately 1,700 brick per day per man, and it is contended that the increased efficiency brought out by the recent test is directly traceable to the adoption of the American plan.

Boulton of the Sangamo Electric Company, will project a motion picture entitled, "The Story of an Electric Meter," showing the complete manufacture of electric meters from raw materials to the finished product.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

A SERIOUS shortage of essential building materials at a time when the local industry stands in greatest need of speedy deliveries because of the large amount of construction under contract or actually in progress is the outstanding feature of the building situation in the Metropolitan District at the present time. Railroad embargoes on a number of the important freight-carrying lines entering the metropolis have created a condition that is daily growing more acute. Although at present a number of large building projects are being held up on account of the non-delivery of fabricated steel and face brick, there is grave danger that, unless the situation is immediately improved, conditions will grow worse.

Portland cement, while shipments are delayed, is coming into this district in sufficient volume to keep all active work supplied; but dealers are of the opinion that if all the work on the schedule could possibly become active there would be great difficulty in supplying the work with this important material. The present favorable outlook for cement is because the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has placed an embargo on building materials, and all of the cement which should go to New England is being diverted to the Metropolitan District.

Building material demand holds up well, and both manufacturers and dealers are at present more concerned with expediting shipments than they are about new orders. Prices are very strong, and there are marked indications of stiffening in some lines.

Common Brick—Considering the holiday interruption and the bad weather of the past week the market for Hudson River common brick was more than usually active. Sales were somewhat heavier than they were a week ago, and prices seem to have firmed up to some extent. As a general thing wholesale quotations range from $14 to $15 a thousand, in cargo lots, to dealers, and the top price is very strong. The wholesale market disposed of thirty-seven barge loads of brick during the past week, and this is an excellent record considering the period of the year and the fact that considerable construction is being held up on account of the car shortage and its resulting delays of steel, cement and face brick shipments and the serious aspects of the supply situation in other construction essentials. The production end of the common brick industry is very quiet. Manufacturing operations along the Hudson River are practically ended for the season, and, with the exception of several dryer yards, the plants have stopped manufacturing for this year. Burning will continue, however, for several months and probably throughout the winter as there is a large amount of green brick that cannot be fired until coal becomes available. The fuel situation is not quite as acute as it was, but it still is far from normal.

Summary—Transactions in the North River common brick market for the week ending Thursday, November 9, 1922: Condition of market: Demand, fair; prices, steady. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $14 to $15 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots ing off until the railroad freight situation improves. At the present time there is considerable dissatisfaction over the delays in steel shipments due to the railroad congestion and freight embargoes in favor of fuel shipments. Several local building projects are being held up because of the lack of steel, and the shortage is spreading to other lines. Steel prices remain practically unchanged.

Electrical Supplies—There is little to complain of in the demand for electrical materials and supplies. Both manufacturers and jobbers are satisfied with the market situation, and there is every prospect of a steady improvement for some time to come. Although wiring material demand is somewhat lighter than it was a short time ago, business in other departments has increased. Stocks are generally satisfactory considering the railroad freight situation, and, while they could be heavier than they are, all orders are being filled without difficulty. Prices are strong.

Cast Iron Pipe—The market for cast iron pipe remains quite active, and, although the majority of the orders are coming from private sources, there is still some municipal business being recorded. Manufacturers are well satisfied with the outlook for the winter months. The most of the plants are booked solid for the next three months, and, while deliveries are still extended, the situation is better than it was. The pipe producers are feeling the effects of the freight embargoes and the shortage of cars, but not quite so keenly as the steel mills and fabricators, or the face-brick manufacturers. Cast iron pipe prices are very firm, with New York quotations as follows: 6 in. and larger, $54.50 per net ton, f. o. b. New York in carload lots; 4 in. and 5 in., $59, and 3 in., $64.80, with Class A and gas pipe $4 extra per ton.

Reinforcing Bars—Demand is growing slightly as a result of the increasing volume of industrial construction that is coming out in the Metropolitan District. Some interesting work has recently been released for bids, and quite a number of large projects are being planned by architects and engineers. Prices are firm and unchanged.

Window Glass—There has been but little drop in the demand for plate and window glass, and as a result there is a developing shortage in this line that is likely to hamper local building operations to some extent. The shortage is declared to exist in practically the entire glass field, covering almost every line in which glass is used. Plate glass and mirrors are said to be especially difficult to obtain in adequate quantities to fill all current orders. There are various reasons for the shortage of glass, the chief being the scarcity of raw materials, principally coal; disturbed labor conditions, railroad embargoes and the unprecedented demand for this commodity from practically all parts of the country as a result of the tremendous national building boom of the past year. As a result of this combination of conditions glass manufacturers were without sufficient reserve stocks to meet the unusual drain, and the demand is said to be likely to continue so active for some time to come that early relief is not promised. Glass prices are very stiff and subject to advance at any time.

Linseed Oil—Interest in this commodity has improved to some extent during the past week and although the demand still is relatively light several recent inquiries denote better times ahead. Local stocks are none too plentiful and prices are quite firm with a tendency to seek higher levels. Local dealers anticipate an improved demand from manufacturing consumers in the near future.
